Men, of course, do not mind the discomforts of a journey so much as women, but the latter have the advantage in that they may, without fear of ridicule, adopt for their use the many contrivances invented for making a journey tolerable.

The woman who expects to be on the train overnight should take, besides the usual toilet utilities in the shape of brushes, combs, soap, etc., a few simple remedies that may be of use in case she is taken ill. One of the great menaces to the comfort of the feminine traveler is drafts. Quinine capsules or her favorite remedy for warding off an incipient cold may be needed. Traveling at night, especially if mountains are crossed, is apt to be chilly.

If she has a long coat to slip on over her gown it will serve to protect it from the dust and smoke during the day and to keep her warm at night. It is also convenient for slipping over her negligee when she goes to and from the dressing room. A veil to tie over the head, one of the heavy motoring veils, will keep the hair from becoming disarranged. If she does not have a sleeper she can be very comfortable if she slips on the long coat, ties the veil around her head to protect it from drafts and makes an improvised bed of the seat. Her bag may be laid at one end of the seat and a cushion or clothing folded over it to make a pillow.

Whether she travels on the coach or in the sleeper, it is wise to wear very plain and comfortable clothing. A loose shirt waist that will not wrinkle even if she sleeps in it and a skirt of serviceable material are best.

An alcohol lamp or stove on which a cupful of tea may be made in case of an emergency is often a treasure. These are made so compactly that they take up very little space, and enough alcohol for use may be carried in a small bottle. There are times and places where it is impossible to get a bite to eat, and a package of crackers and a cup of warm tea will often mean the difference between comfort and exhaustion.

For the ocean traveler the alcohol stove is a boon. There are, however, many other things which the summer vacationist will find useful. Two of these are illustrated here. One is a toilet bag. It contains powder and puff and is so neat and compact that it may be carried in the pocket. The bag is made of satin ribbon and is embroidered with a wreath of forgetmenots. The other bag, which is of canvas worked with a flower pattern in cross stitch, can be opened and laid flat by releasing the ribbons which gather it together at the sides. The handles are covered with ribbon. The bag is fitted with sewing utensils and materials needed in keeping the traveler's wardrobe in order.

For the ocean traveler there are many conveniences sold in the shops. Alcohol flatirons are appreciated by women. They have the advantage over electric flats that they can be as easily used in a little village which never heard of electricity as they can be in town. The alcohol is poured into a small tank at the broad end of the iron and supplies a perforated tube which is lighted.

Book or magazine bags which hang from the arm of the steamer chair by two straps which clasp securely shut is a novelty. They are made of heavy suede leather in a variety of colors. They are a great convenience, for they enable the traveler on deck to keep track of her reading matter without trouble. They are also used by motorists, made up to match the fittings of the car, to hang over the robe bar for holding road books and guides.

A convenient folding hat stand may be had for a dollar. It is made of two pieces of wood shaped like inverted T's, which fit together to make a firm based stand. When they are not in use they are taken apart and packed in a thin pasteboard box not much bigger than a handkerchief box. They are effectively decorated with a painted design.

The Five Senses.

Any number can take part in this game, which requires a little preparation beforehand. Pencil and paper must be given each player, and the various articles for testing the senses should be in readiness before the game begins. A card and wafers, such as are used in progressive euchre, may be given each guest to keep the record of his successes and errors. As prizes first and booby are given for the best and worst answers.

The players are blindfolded, and a tray is passed to each in turn, with a dozen or more different things to be tasted—sweet, sour, bitter, bread, cake, fruits, etc. Only a very small particle of each is given. The tray is then taken away, the eyes unblinded, and each player must write down the names of all the articles he has tasted that he can remember.

A tray is brought to the blindfolded players, with spices, medicines, flowers and perfumes, which are offered them to smell, after which, as before, they must write down the names of all the things they think they have smelled.

Again the players are blindfolded, while others of the company make various noises all at once—singing, crying, laughing, pounding, ringing bells, tearing paper, playing on musical instruments, etc.

A tray is brought to the blindfolded players with various articles to be felt by each in turn. These may be wool, cotton, cloth, marble, hair, flour, ice, china, glass or anything thought of. Then, as usual, they must write down the names of all things they can remember.

A tray is placed before the players, now unblinded, and they are to look at the group of objects displayed upon it while twenty is slowly counted; then the tray is removed, and the players must write a list of all the things they have seen, so far as they remember.

Straightening Walking Sticks.

Walking sticks as they grow are often crooked and have to be straightened. A heap of sand is provided on the top of a hot stove, into which the sticks are plunged until they become pliable. The workman takes the crooked stick while it is still hot and inserts it in a notch cut in a stout board, placed at an angle inclined from him, where he bends and straightens it. When it has become perfectly straight it is thrown down to cool, after which it becomes rigid and permanent in its lines.

Ireland's Wild Dogs.

Wild wolf-like dogs are still found in the remote parts of Ireland. They have soft, round ears, rather pleasant, broad faces, and can easily be tamed if they are caught young. They do not hunt in packs, like wolves, but usually live and hunt apart with their mates. In bodily conformation they are much like the Eskimo dog, but of slighter build.

Sun-dry Reflections.

The sun in summer has a way
Of rising in the day,
Although there need not be such haste,
For mother's son has time to waste.

In winter mother's son's awake
When morning light begins to break,
But really it is most surprising
How late the other sun is rising.

PROPOSALS FOR SCHOOL SUPPLIES

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, N. J., at a meeting held May 5, 1913, notice is hereby given that the Board of Education will meet on Tuesday evening, May 27th, 1913, at 8 o'clock, in the Board Room in the High School building, corner West Ninth street and Arlington avenue, at which time and place said Board of Education will receive sealed proposals for furnishing school supplies for the ensuing school year, commencing July 1, 1913, a list of which can be obtained at the office of the Board. All proposals to be endorsed, "Proposals for School Supplies," and addressed to the Secretary of the Board.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Secretary will immediately proceed to open the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding, or their agents, provided the parties or their agents choose to be there present, and also to make proper record of the places and terms of the estimates of the Board. No bid will be received previous to the hour designated, and none will be received thereafter. The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

By the Board of Education.

OUR MEN ARE HURT IN RUNAWAY MISHAP

inor Injuries Sustained by Occupants of Stage Which Upset on Steep Grade.

Joseph Kuntz, Thomas P. Rogers, ugustus Denlein, William Losey and eorge Reid, all employes of Bonnie urn, are suffering from more or less rious injuries and under the ysician's care as the result of a naway accident on Thursday night hen Kuntz was taking the other men their homes in his stage. He was riving a pair of horses through ainfield avenue, which runs from erkeley Heights to Scotch Plains, nd while going down a steep grade the road, one of the horses became ightened and in the wild dash down e hill, upset the stage and threw all e occupants out.

Rogers suffered a broken nose and eneral cuts and bruises about the ce and body; Denlein dislocated s shoulder; Losey received a deep alp wound, and Reed was also cut nd bruised. Kuntz held fast to the eins in his efforts to stop the horses, nd was dragged a quarter of a mile efore he was able to get control of e animals. He was seriously cut nd bruised as a result of his ex- erience. Dr. Munger, of Scotch lains, was summoned to treat all of e injured men. While the injuries re not serious it will be some time efore the victims will be able to re- urn to work.

Mr. Kuntz drives the stage between Bonnie Burn Sanitorium and the trol- ey four days a week, and it has been is custom to take the workmen from he institution to their homes every ight.

ONE HUNDRED ATTEND A DELIGHTFUL DANCE

Mr. and Mrs. Elliot T. Barrows Entertain at the Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliot T. Barrows, of West Eighth street, gave a charm- ing dance at the Plainfield Country Club, last night, entertaining about one hundred guests from the city and borough. The club house was elaborately decorated for the occa- sion, there benig a wealth of greens, peonies and other flowers which ad- ded to the attractiveness of the clubhouse.

The music for the dancing was a feature, it being furnished by Van- Eps Brothers. There were two or- chestras, which provided for contin- uous dancing throughout the eve- ning. Another delightful feature was the supper served at small tables under the direction of Superintend- ent Eke of the club. The hospitality of the host and hostess was marked and all thoroughly enjoyed their lavish entertainment. The dancing was continued until about 1 o'clock.

YOUNG BYRON FARLAND IS MISSING FROM HOME

Byron Farland, the sixteen-year-old son of Alfred A. Farland, of 358 East Second street, a musician and a clever banjo player, is thought to have run away with Krause's Greater Shows, when that organization left this city two weeks ago after a stay of one week. Young Farland disappeared immediately after the departure of the paraphernalia of the show and has not been seen since. A friend in this city has received a letter from him bearing a Peekskill, N. Y., date mark, which city was the destination of Krause's Shows after leaving Plainfield.

MRS. JOSEPH RAMSEY IS DEAD AT LEBANON

Councilman Edgar's Mother-in-law Passes Away, Aged Seventy-seven Years.

Mrs. Susan C. Ramsey, aged seventy-seven years, widow of Joseph Ramsey, and mother of Mrs. Edgar, wife of Councilman A. D. Edgar, died last night of complications of diseases at her home in Lebanon, Hunterdon county, following a long illness. During the early part of the winter she suffered an attack of the grip and since February had been confined to her bed.

Mrs. Ramsey was Miss Susan Johnson. She was born at Lebanon and always lived there, the family being one of the oldest in Hunterdon county. Her husband died in 1900. For a woman of her years Mrs. Ramsey was unusually active until her last illness. She was one of the oldest members of the Reformed church at Lebanon, being a faithful attendant at the services. She was a woman of rare Christian qualities and was highly esteemed by a large number of acquaintances.

There survives ten children as follows: Mrs. H. B. Herr, of Flemington; Mrs. Peter N. Niper, of Lebanon; Mrs. Albert Myers, of Dunellen, Mrs. George M. Clark, of Lebanon, Mrs. A. D. Edgar, of this city; James Ramsey, of Sunnyside; Mahlon Ramsey, of Annandale; John Ramsey, of Fredericksburg, Va.; Joseph Ramsey, of Lebanon, and Sandford Ramsey, of Dunellen, and one sister, Mrs. Joseph Cougle, of Flemington.

MRS. FRANK LOOMIS HAS PASSED AWAY

Octogenarian Succumbs to Complications — Burial at Kensico, N. Y.

Mrs. Caroline Loomis, aged 80 years, widow of Frank Loomis, died of a complication of diseases last night at her home, 10 Willow avenue, following a long illness. For the past eight months she was confined to her bed and was practically helpless throughout that time. Mrs. Loomis was of Dutch descent, her maiden name being Miss Caroline Shaub. She was born at Monk's Corner, near Charleston, S. C. Leaving the South during her early years, Mrs. Loomis spent the greatest part of her life in New York.

After the death of her husband, nine years ago, Mrs. Loomis removed to North Plainfield. She was a communicant of St. James' Episcopal church, New York, and during her residence in the borough she was always interested in the work of Holy Cross church

Mrs. Loomis is survived by a daughter, Mrs. A. M. Griffin, and son, Henry F. Loomis, of North Plainfield, and one granddaughter, Mrs. Edward R. Grannatt, of Atlanta, Ga., who before her marriage was Miss Adelaide Elsberg. The funeral and interment will be at Kensico cemetery, Kensico, N. Y., where Mr. Loomis is buried.

DINNER-DANCE GIVEN IN BRIDE-ELECT'S HONOR

Mr. and Mrs. Austin W. Andrews, of Washington avenue, the borough, gave a delightful dinner-dance at the Baltusrol Golf Club, last night, the affair being in honor of Miss Edna Marston and Oscar Burke, of New York, whose engagement was recently announced. There were about eighty guests, chiefly Plainfielders, who made the trip to and from Baltusrol in automobiles. After an elaborate dinner, dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

Miss Marston is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Marston, of New York, her father being a well-known banker. Mr. Burke is a graduate of Andover. The couple will be married on Wednesday, June 11, in New York, a large number of invitations having been issued for the affair.

DRUNKEN MAN ESCAPES DEATH FROM DROWNING

Lying in an intoxicated condition in a gutter at Grant avenue, near West Front street, late last night William Wilson, alias "Packer," was rescued from probable death by drowning when found by Patrolman McIntyre. He was semi-conscious when taken to police headquarters, where he was revived. Wilson is a cripple, having lost both his legs in an accident. He now "wears" two wooden stumps in place of those members.

Arraigned this morning before City Judge DeMeza on a charge of intoxication, he was released on his promise to remain west of Grant avenue and to absent himself from the "Tyler Zone."

HORSE RUNS AWAY.

A horse belonging to Charles Bonoveius, of Westfield, became frightened this morning at Watchung avenue and East Fourth street, and ran panic stricken to Park avenue where his capture was effected when he collided with the team of horses being driven by John Bowers, of Warrenville. During his mad run the horse struck an iron post near police headquarters leaving the badly damaged wagon, which he had been pulling, fastened to the pole.

START SUBSCRIPTION GETTING TODAY

See Contest Department for Liberal Preliminary Offer— 25 for One is the Value.

Can I start at once? This question was asked by several people interested in the contest, and it is safe to say that if they do start at once they will be numbered among the big winners when the final count is made.

As a preliminary offer the contest department has arranged a small book of subscription blanks which when filled will entitle the candidate to twenty-five times as many votes as will be given during the last period of the contest. Are you interested? Keep reading. Why not come to the contest department and let us explain our system in detail?

In our announcement ad we printed the complete schedule for the contest. This in itself shows that the Daily Press will give those who enter early the best chance of winning the autos. The largest offer of votes will be given at the beginning of the contest. A subscription received during the first period will equal as many votes as six received during the last period.

Don't allow the value of the prizes to give you cold feet. Remember the liberality of the Daily Press alone prompted the offering of the valuable prizes. If the grand prizes were only a trip to Europe and your mind was set on winning same what would you do? Strive your hardest of course. Well, that's all that is necessary to win the grand prize Henderson.

Nominate yourself or a friend today. We want you to call and allow us to explain our twenty to five proposition.

WORK HORSE PARADE PLANNED FOR JULY 4

The co-operation of Mrs. S. G. VanHoesen, local agent for the S. P. C. A., has been requested by Dr. F. A. Zucker, of Elizabeth, superintendent of the Elizabeth district society, in a work-horse parade to be held in Elizabeth on July 4. Entries from all parts of Union county have been invited and it is hoped to make the affair a big success. There will be money prizes and other articles useful to horsemen and horses will be offered.

There will be eleven classes in all as follows: Class 1, old horses, over twenty years of age; 2, best single horse, junk or peddler; 3, best team, contracts or builders; 4, best team, dump wagon; 5, general delivery horses; 6, best mule; 7, best saddle horse; 8, best pony, saddle or harness; 9, best team, livery or undertaker; 10, best road horse; 11, best farm team.

The idea of holding this parade is to stimulate interest in the care and treatment of horses of the above mentioned classes, and all persons desiring to enter horses from this city are requested to communicate with Mrs. VanHoesen. It is hoped that Plainfield will be well represented.

ALLEGED THIEF PLEADS NOT GUILTY, TRIAL DATE

Elizabeth, May 24.—Leon Schockley, colored, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Judge Connolly yesterday on a charge of receiving goods stolen from the tailor shop of Isaac Richards, of East Third street, Plainfield, and was held for trial on Tuesday. Bail was fixed at $500. He was represented by Francis J. Blatz of Plainfield, a member of the law firm of Codington & Blatz.

VETERANS TO HEAR TWO DISCOURSES TOMORROW

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will attend divine service at the Unitarian church on Park avenue, tomorrow morning, when Rev. Arthur E. Wilson, the pastor, will preach a sermon in the nature of a tribute to the old soldiers as nation builders, the subject being, "The Builders of Our Nation." Allied organization and the public are invited. The comrades will meet at headquarters at 10:15 and march to the church for the service which begins at 11 o'clock. In the evening the veterans will attend another service at the Temple Baptist church, where Rev. Evarts C. Conover, the pastor, will preach a special sermon.

HORSE KICKS HIM; TWO RIBS FRACTURED

Albert Burgmiller Found Unconscious in His Barn at Berkeley Heights.

Albert Burgmiller, of Berkeley Heights, while attending to his horses in the barn at his home last night was kicked in the side by a spirited animal and suffered a fracture of two ribs. The blow from the horse's foot knocked Burgmiller down and he lay in the barn in an unconscious condition for nearly a half-hour. When he revived, he had strength enough left to drag himself out of the building and summon a member of the family.

The injured man was assisted to the house and Dr. Munger, of Scotch Plains, was called. An examination showed the fracture of two ribs and the physician believes there may be other internal injuries. The young man is confined to his bed. He suffers almost constantly from pain.

FOUR MORE FIRE HYDRANTS ORDERED BY COMMITTEE

Plans for locating four additional fire hydrants in the city were discussed at a meeting of the Councilmanic fire committee last night. It was decided to recommend that one be placed on Prospect avenue, five hundred feet east of Hillside avenue, and one on West Sixth street, five hundred feet west of Lee place. The other two hydrants will be located in the West End.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR A BOBOUGH TEACHER

Miss Olive Dugan, teacher in the North Plainfield grammar school, was given a surprise at the home of Mrs. Frank Rowley, on Grove street, last night by a number of her pupils and friends. Thirty guests enjoyed the program of games and musical selections, after which refreshments were served.

James Goodwin, a pupil in the borough schools, recited several selections and Miss Maude Casselle, assisted in the musical program.

FOURI WOMAN'S BAIL FIXED; TRIAL ON JUNE 2

Elizabeth, May 24.—Mrs. Maria Foruri, of 431 West Third street, Plainfield, who on Monday, April 14, shot Mrs. Linah Murelio by mistake in an alleged attempt to kill her brother, Tony Principatti, with whom she had quarreled, pleaded not guilty before Judge Connolly in the Court of Quarter Sessions yesterday afternoon and was held in $1,500 bail for trial on Monday, June 2.

At the time of the shooting Mr. Murelio was living with Principatti as his wife, but investigation by the Plainfield police revealed the contrary. She was arrested and is now waiting the action of the grand jury on a serious charge. She received the bullet in her back while attempting to shield her supposed husband.

CIVIC ASSOCIATIONS WILL ENTER COMBINE

Board of Trade Does not Approve of the New Plan— Four Represented.

Rain caused the postponement of the meeting for the purpose of effecting the formation of a co-ordinating committee composed of members of the various civic bodies in this city, scheduled to take place in the Chamber of Commerce rooms last night, but an informal discussion of the plan was held. It is planned to form a committee consisting of three members of each of the civic bodies, the four most active organizations to be considered in the selections, and to have this group pass upon all questions taken up by any of the individual bodies. At last night's meeting the Netherwood Association and the Chamber of Commerce were represented by a committee of three active members.

P. G. Chace, of the Netherwood Association was chosen as chairman of last night's meeting but when it was found that the West End and East End civic societies' representatives would be unable to attend it was decided best to postpone the organization meeting until next Tuesday night. A proposition was discussed whereby the chamber rooms would be open at all times for the convenience of members of this committee, either for the holding of private meetings and discussions or for the transaction of association business. A number of the advertising ideas received from the recent advertising campaign were outlined by the Chamber of Commerce representatives and new suggestions were offered by the visiting civic workers which will be of material aid in boosting the city's resources. A placard bearing advertising slogans of "The-City-by-the-Hills" was displayed and will be placed in the local street cars in the near future.

A communication from the recently organized Board of Trade was read by the Chamber of Commerce member who received it in answer to an invitation extended to the former body to have delegates present at the organization meeting, and the sentiment expressed in the letter of the trade board was adverse to the forming of the proposed co-ordinating body. The president of the Board of Trade said that the organization did not wish to affiliate itself with any such scheme and would not be represented in the co-ordinating body.

Those present at last night's meeting were A. C. Wilmerding, P. G. Chace and L. L. Osborne, of the Netherwood Association; and Harry N. McMenimen, W. C. Angleman and J. J. Varley, of the Chamber of Commerce.

TELLS HOW BREWERS STOOD ON SUFFRAGE

Mrs. Louise B. Dorr Produces Testimony Contradicting Mr. Fox's Statements.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

As a reply to the communication of Hugh F. Fox, of this city, I beg to request that you publish the following excerpts from the Woman's Journal of April 19 and 26. Let me say also that the official organ of the Wisconsin liquor dealers, which bears the inappropriate title of "Progress," fought the Woman's Suffrage amendment in Wisconsin violently, and after election it boasted that "the vote on suffrage in Wisconsin tells the influence of Progress." (Woman's Journal, December 28, 1912.)

Soon after the Michigan campaign, the New York Times, an anti-suffrage paper said: "The opponents were 'backed by both Democratic and Republican political machines as well as the Brewers' Association,' and were more successful than the suffragists is getting out the vote. 'It was a case of campaign experience versus lack of it.'" "It is reported," continues the Times, "that the Brewers' Association offered cash prizes to saloon men up State for increasing the anti-suffrage vote in their counties."

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt says, according to the New York Tribune:

"About a week before election an address to the voters of Michigan was sent to many of the country papers. It was signed by the anti-suffragists, but sent out by the Liquor Dealers' Association with a request that it be printed and the bill be sent to them. Somebody made a mistake and sent the letter with the enclosed anti-suffrage appeal to a suffrage paper, whose editor at once turned it over to us.

"It doesn't follow that the women opposed to suffrage asked the liquor people to have it printed. It does show, however, beyond a doubt that the liquor interests are the best friends the antis ever had; that they

ALL FOUR HAVE NARROW ESCAPES

NONE SERIOUSLY HURT

Mrs. George Mantz Sustains Broken Right Arm and Bruises—Her Husband Receives Contusions of the Side.

Precipitated twenty feet over the wing wall of the bridge spanning the Raritan River, at Raritan, yesterday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. George Mantz, of 951 Union street, seated in a carriage, had a miraculous escape from death when a horse driven by Mr. Mantz became frightened at a steam roller and plunged panic-stricken over the wall, the wagon and its occupants following. Mrs. Mantz sustained a broken right arm and bruises about the head and body. Her husband received contusions on his left side. In the carriage with the couple were their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Sol. S. Kahn, of New York. Aside from numerous bruises the latter were unhurt. They were on a pleasure drive bound for Duke's Park.

Mr. Mantz told a Daily Press reporter this morning that he regarded their escape from death or serious injury most remarkable. He said the horse, which was under ordinary conditions a well-behaved one, became uncontrollable at the sight of the roller and made a mad dash for liberty. Evidently in a blind fright, he plunged headlong over the wall. Those in the carriage clung to their seats, a fact which undoubtedly saved them from sustaining serious hurts. When the equine reached the ground beside the stream he fell in a heap but quickly regained his feet and stood trembling in its tracks.

Mr. and Mrs. Mantz and their guests were not thrown from the vehicle until it struck the ground. The wagon was smashed beyond repair. After learning the extent of their injuries, the party hired an automobile in which to make the return trip to this city. Upon arriving here all were attended by Dr. George F. Endicott and Dr. Norman H. Probasco.

The New York papers, giving an account of the accident, mistakedly report that Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Mantz, of 732 Carlton avenue, were victims of the perilous descent. Investigation proved this to be untrue. They were, however, in a similar accident two years ago.

GUNMAN SENTENCED TO SIX MONTHS IN JAIL

Elizabeth, May 24.—Herbert Smith, colored, of Hagerstown, Md., who threatened Barney Rosenthal, a Jersey Central Railroad detective, with a loaded revolver at the Elizabethport yards and was arrested at Plainfield with two companions, pleaded guilty yesterday afternoon to a charge of carrying concealed weapons before Judge Connolly on allegation proceedings, and was sentenced to six months in the county jail.

Smith, after "pulling" a gun on Rosenthal, escaped temporarily on a fast freight bound for Allentown. By a ruse the train was stopped at Plainfield and Smith was caught by Patrolman Martin Flatley, of the police force of that city, after a chase and arraigned before City Judge DeMeza. His companions were captured by Patrolman Muir and sentenced to $50 and 50 days in the county jail on a charge of trespassing on the railroad.

MISS EWART WELCOMED HOME BY SCHOOLMATES

A "welcome home" party was given in honor of Miss Margaret Ewart by thirty of her schoolmates at her home last night, she having just returnd from a trip to Texas. The evening was spent in playing games, dancing and listening to musical numbers, after which refreshments were served. Charles Beckman assisted in the entertainment by reciting "The Face on the Bar Room Floor."

RENGO Belt Reducing Corsets

Never before have stout women found reduction of the excess flesh about the abdomen and hips so perfectly accomplished as with our new 1912 models. TELEPHONE GIRL MARRIED WHILE AT HER SWITCHBOARD

Ceremony Frequently Interrupted by "Hello" and "Number, Please."

Miss Alta F. Gum, operator in charge of the Telephone Exchange at Eaton, Colo., was married recently to H. B. Mick while wearing a receiver clamped to her head, holding switchboard plugs in her hand and putting up connections for subscribers.

Several times the ceremony was interrupted while Miss Gum answered calls. The officiating minister became somewhat embarrassed, but persisted between "hellos" and finally succeeded in making Miss Gum Mrs. Mick.

"Henry B. Mick," began the minister, "do you take this woman to be your lawful, wedded wife, to"—

"Hello! Hello! Yes, just a minute," broke in Miss Gum, in whose ear another voice than the minister's also was demanding certain information. "Sorry to interrupt you," she said, turning to the minister. "Proceed." And so it went on until the ceremony was finished.

Miss Gum had been in charge of the Eaton exchange for several years, and on the day set for the wedding she informed Mick that she could not desert her post at the switchboard. After the wedding Mick, who is a stockman, waited anxiously while the telephone company looked for a successor to Mrs. Mick.

GIRLS' HOTEL FOR CHICAGO.

Vice Commission Suggests Plan to Merchants of the City.

A plan to erect a hotel for working girls is being considered in Chicago. At a recent meeting of the state senate, the vice commission of the city and about forty of the leading merchants it was suggested that $1,000,000 be raised for the project. Such an institution, its advocates said, would effectually safeguard the morals of young women who live away from home.

Senator Beall after the meeting said: "I told the merchants that if they divert the money given to colleges and churches into a fund for the erection of a great hotel their philanthropy would do more good. Practically all the merchants agreed that the project was feasible, and practically all agreed to consider the matter.

"The hotel we contemplate erecting is to house all working girls who do not live at home. They will be given board and room, places for dances and other amusement for $2 or $3 a week. It will be run on a nonprofit basis."

The commissioners proposed that the Chicago stores take the lead by establishing a minimum wage for their women employees without waiting for legal compulsion. Eight dollars a week, set by the majority of those merchants who testified as the lowest amount on which a self supporting girl can live in Chicago, was considered the natural minimum.

GIRL WALKS AROUND WORLD.

Now on Last Lap of Her Four Year Journey.

Miss Dora Rodrigues, a nineteen-year-old girl, recently passed through Toledo, Detroit and other cities of the middle west on the last lap of a four year walking trip around the world.

The girl, whose home is in the Netherlands, started out primarily to make a study of the politics of the countries which she has visited. She has walked through Europe, Egypt, Mexico, the Central American countries and parts of the United States and Canada.

Her itinerary beyond Detroit included Toronto, Montreal and Quebec, from which city she will sail for home Aug. 16. She has already covered more than 20,000 miles on foot. Her money comes largely from the sale of postcard pictures of herself and some scenes she has taken in her travels.

She was in Tiffin, O., when the flood washed away the bridges. She immediately left her hotel and started for Toledo so that she would not be held in the flood stricken city.

Miss Rodrigues tells many interesting stories of her trip. She has visited prisons, asylums, hospitals and poorhouses, and believes she has an intimate knowledge of the affairs of every country she has visited.

BROOCH GIVEN WITH DRESS.

Young Woman Donates Garment For Flood Sufferers and Gems Are Found.

When Miss Mary Pollock, daughter of a stogy manufacturer of Wheeling, W. Va., was asked for a donation for the flood sufferers she turned over to the relief committee several of her old dresses without examining them closely.

After the clothing had been distributed one of the dresses was found to contain a diamond brooch valued at $1,000. It had been missing for six months, and Miss Pollock believed it had been lost or stolen.

Whole Town Mourns Its Dead.

The entire town of Throop, Pa., recently suspended business for a day while a general memorial for the seventy-three men killed two years ago in the Pancoast mine fire was in progress. All stores were closed, nearly every door in the town was draped with crape, and solemn services were held in all the churches.

Bars Flying Skirts.

The state legislature of California has passed a bill prohibiting exhibitors of moving pictures from showing pictures of girls with skirts flying in the wind.

NO REASON FOR IT.

When Plainfield Citizens Show a W

There can be no reason why a reader of this who suffers the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the pain and dangers of kidney ills will fail to heed the words of a neighbor who has found relief. Read what a Plainfield citizen says:

Mrs. E. Dorflinger, 400 Clinton avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "The first symptom of kidney trouble in my case was a dull, heavy pain in my back and head. This was followed by a tired, languid feeling and I knew that my kidneys were gradually giving out. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and getting a box at Randolph's drug store, I began using them. Before long I improved and I continued until I was cured. I hold just as high an opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills now as when I gave my former testimonial. The cure they made had been permanent."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.—Advertisement.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

Laurette Taylor, who has won distinction as the best comedienne of the American stage, is making a great hit in the character of Peg O'Connell in J. Hartley Manners' charming comedy, "Peg O' My Heart," at the Cort Theatre. Olive Morosco's artistic star continues to attract capacity audiences to the Cort. The excellent original cast remains intact, including H. Reeves Smith, Hassard Short, Clarence Handside, Reginald Mason, Peter Bassett, Christine Norman, Emilie Molville and Ruth Gartland. Seats are now selling for both matinee and night performances on Decoration Day.

STYLISH — RELIABLE

Norfolk Suits

Norfolk, Virginia, deserves no credit for the overwhelming popularity of the Norfolk Suit this season.

In fact, the coat of that name will put the city of that name back on the map.

"Rothberg" Norfolks

You might think it egotism for putting the word "Rothberg" in quotation marks, but when you see the coats you'll agree that it is pardonable.

GRAVE INJUSTICE HAS BEEN DONE, SAYS CORESPONDENT IN DIVORCE

CASE AGAINST FLANNERY ORDERED RE-INSTITUTED

Judge Benjamin Vail has ordered re-instituted the case of Frank Siedler against J. E. Flannery, both of this city, upon the request of Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., counsel for Mr. Flannery, after learning that an error was made by the Supreme Court clerk in certifying to the transcript. It was discovered that the clerk had made a misake in using the word "admit" for "denies."

The suit brought by Mr. Siedler was for $500, in which he seeks to recover for the loss of a horse. The animal was taken to Mr. Flannery's blacksmith's shop to be shod and met with an accident which necessitated thes hooting of the horse.

BORO ELECTION JULY 15 ON THE SEWER SCHEME

Resolutions concerning the proposed construction of the joint sewerage system in North Plainfield, the election date for the latter being fixed for Tuesday, July 15, for the purpose of securing the authorization of the voters to issue $250,000 in bonds for the construction of the sewer, were adopted last night at a meeting of the North Plainfield Council. Notices will be posted at the borough fire house and police station notifying the citizens that the election is to take place. The amount of the bonds is apportioned $150000 to be in one lot and the balance is to be $100,000.

Happenings Due Next Week

Washington, D. C., May 24.—Rumors are again prevalent that the long-expected decisions in the Minnesota and intermountain rate cases will be handed down when the Supreme Court reconvenes Monday after a two weeks' recess.

Imposing ceremonies will be witnessed in New York, Friday, at the dedication of the memorial there erected in honor of the United States sailors who met death in the explosion of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor.

On the same day there will be dedicated in the Arlington National Cemetery a monument to Major Archibald W. Butt, who was lost in the Titanic disaster.

For the first time since the Soldiers' National Cemetery at Gettysburg was dedicated fifty years ago, the Memorial Day address next Friday will be delivered by a Southerner, Congressman Heflin, of Alabama, having accepted an invitation to deliver the oration.

The civil suit instituted by Theodore Roosevelt against George A. Newett, a newspaper editor of Ishpeming, Mich., on a charge of libel will be called for trial Monday at Marquette. The publication of an editorial attack upon the former President is responsible for the litigation.

President Mellen and Vice President McHenry, of New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad are to be placed on trial at Bridgeport, Conn., Tuesday on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the wreck at Westport last October, in which several lives were lost.

The national reunion of the United Confederate Veterans will open Monday in Chattanooga and continue through the greater part of the week. The Sons of Veterans and other auxiliary bodies will hold their annual meetings at the same time.

Events of the week abroad will include the general parliamentary elections in Australia, the British amateur golf championship at St. Andrews', and the delivery of the first annual Wilbur Wright memorial address before the Royal Aeronautical Society of Great Britain.

are paying the antis' bills, and doing for them far more than they could ever do for themselves.'

Macomb County Retail Liquor Dealers' Association.
Office of the Secretary,
Mt. Clemens, Mich.,
March 31, 1913.

To the Publisher:

I enclose herewith copy for an advt. which I wish you would insert in this week's issue of your paper, making ten inches in depth double column, on your local page or front page, if possible.

I will thank you to see that this is done, and mail sttement of charges, and also marked copy to me, and we will remit for the same.

Thanking you in advance for your attention to this matter, I am, yours truly,

JOSEPH MATTHEWS,
Secretary.

AN APPEAL TO MEN!

You should vote against woman suffrage for ten thousand reasons.

We mention but six.

As women, we do not want the strife, bitterness, falsification and publicity which accompany political campaigns.

We women are not suffering at the hands of our fathers, husbands and brothers, because they protect us in our homes.

We have woman's greatest right to be free from the political medley. We do not want to lose this freedom.

We have refrained from protest heretofore, depending upon men to protect women from the ballot.

We now ask the men of Michigan to defend us and vote No on suffrage.

Don't vote for suffrage.

Don't start something which you can't finish.

You are not sorry now, but if women are given the ballot you may regret it when it's too late.

Keep mother, wife and sister in the protected home. Do not force us into partisan politics.

Put a cross before the word "No" on April 7, and win our gratitude.

VOTE NO, APRIL 7.

Issued by Michigan Association opposed to Woman Suffrage, office 1128 Majestic Building, Detroit. 'Phone Cherry 4726, president, Mrs. Henry F. Lyster, the Pasadena apartments, treasurer, Mrs. James Cosslett Smith, the Palms apartments; secretary, Miss Helen E. Keep, 753 Jefferson avenue; corresponding secretary, Mrs. William S. Jerome, 84 Prentis avenue; vice presidents, Mrs. L. E. Clark, Mrs. C. A. Kent, Mrs. Charles W. Casgrain, Miss Stella Ford.

The Brewers' and Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association of Oregon sent out to all the retail liquor dealers of the State a circular printed on its official paper, headed with the names of thirteen breweries and nineteen wholesale liquor houses. The circular read, in part:

Brewers' and Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association of Oregon,
Manager's Office,
413-4-5 McKay Bldg.,
Portland, May 21, 1906.

Dear Sir:

It will take 50,000 votes to defeat woman suffrage. There are 2,000 retailers in Oregon.

That means that every retailer must himself bring in 25 votes on election day.

Every retailer can get 25 votes. Besides his employes, he has his grocer, his butcher, his landlord, his laundryman, and every person he does business with. If every man in the business will do this, we will win.

Let us all pull together, and let us all work. Let us each get 25 votes.

Yours very respectfully,
BREWERS' AND WHOLESALE LIQUOR DEALERS' ASSOCIATION.

This circular was published in full in the Portland Oregonian of June 1, 1906, and in a number of other papers. Its authenticity has never been challenged. In fact, it was undeniable.

Thanking you for the space, I am,
LOUISE B. DORR,
Chairman Press Committee Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

Commuications in reply to Mr. Fox have also been received from Mrs. Mary D. Tomlinson, president of the Union County W. C. T. U., and Champlain Riley, of the New Jersey Men's League for Woman Suffrage. They are of like tenor. Lack of space prevents their publication today.

AVIATION ROMANCE WILL MATURE PROBABLY IN AUGUST

Announcement was made recently of the engagement of Miss Simah Stiner Freidenberg, of New York, to Baron Jacques de Braam, of Arnheim, Holland. Their wedding, which will take place in August, is the sequence of a courtship which began during the aviation meet at Belmont Park, L. I.

Miss Freidenberg, who is enthusiastic about aviation, was there as a spectator and was introduced to Baron de Braam after he had made his first flight in the competitions for the international championship. Although the Baron failed to carry off any prizes owing to mishaps to his aeroplanes, he made an excellent impression on Miss Freidenberg, and on his return to Holland their courtship by correspondence was started.

THE KID ON THE CORNER.

Look him over. The first thing you notice about him is that he has nothing to do. You also will be impressed with his general appearance of prosperity and by his Chuck Connors hair cut, artfully arranged so as to excuse the dapper set of his straw or derby of exaggerated brim. The last word in his hall mark is the cigarette that is permitted to dangle from his upper lip as he speaks. Thus he stands, equipped to sow the dangerous seeds of temptation and worse than that too often follow the supposedly harmless flirtation.

Follow him home and watch him hurl his august person into his place at the table. His mother's portion is a darksome scowl or an ill-concealed curse because his dinner is a little late; his father's, brutal insolence. Sullenly he gulps his food and as he grabs his hat, he laughs to scorn his little sister at her evening prayers and as his parent asks him whither he is bent, he yells: "Oh, down the line," the last word lost in the re-echoing clanging of the closing door.

The most dangerous "Kid on the Corner" is not always the factory worker, nor the clerk. If they have no ambition for better things in life, they realize at least that their folks have not the power or place in social life that will help them when they sooner or later become entangled in the meshes of the law. The correspondence school, the public library, the trade paper, mean greater knowledge, and that, in turn, means ultimate prosperity. The sporting page, at least, means some diversion from the common places of the day. This type of lad cannot afford to while away the evening hours, unless he lives and labors only for an inelastic daily pay.

No, the "Kid on the Corner" who is the real menace to the future citizenship of Plainfield and of the sixty-five thousand other cities and towns in the country, is the son of the father and mother who have not grown up with their boy. He is the product of lack of parental influence, that may have had a potency when he was a lad, but which may utterly fail to hold him when he reaches that stage of youth when he feels that manhood is not so far away and he begins to pattern his life after some model of man which may be either good or bad. If bad, the damage is wrought long before the parent realizes it, for the average boy naturally is secretive and The Gang often has a truer insight into his character than have the parents who raised him. Often these parents have social position and the boy is quick to know that rather than see him get into a scrape, his "Old Man" will make any kind of a sacrifice to get him out of it with little or no publicity. That makes the menace of the "Kid on the Corner" all the greater.

Right here is found the real secret of the wonderful growth of the Boy Scout movement. It began only five years ago. Today there are more than 300,000 registered boy scouts in America and more than a million in six of the leading countries in the world. There were only eight boys in Robert H. McCready's original Plainfield troop in Netherwood. Today there are more than a hundred uniformed scouts in the city, and this number could easily have been greater had not an unrelenting character sifting process been employed by co-operating scoutmasters, teachers, ministers and others, to see that contaminating influences very apt to be found in boy life, were carefully kept out.

But this does not mean that the Boy Scouts are mollycoddles. Far from it. The measure of a boy is purely that of the measure of a good citizen; his willingness to conform to the laws which govern his community. And the scout has his laws which he must obey or take the consequences. First of all, he must express a very sober willingness to live up to the twelve statutes laid down for him by the National Headquarters which compel him to be trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent. Next, he must prove that he is willing to live up to his scout oath which orally pledges him to be true to his God, his country and himself, to help other people at all times, to keep himself physically clean, mentally awake and morally straight.

While he is proving his ability to do these things he is admitted into the probationary rank of Tenderfoot, and becomes a scout only when he attains the rank of second class and not until he passes his first class examinations does he enjoy the full measure of scouteraft.

If the boy shows that he really means to be manly, by proving by his record that he is brave enough to do the right thing although his associates propose doing the wrong thing, if he shows that he has sufficient grit to give up deceitful practices, cut out swearing, play his sports without making them a pretense for gambling, in fact, to play the game of life in the square way, both to himself and to others, to be as good a scout out of his uniform as he professes to be in it, to cut out the "gang," in short, to take a good, strong grip on his moral self and a firm stand for good citizenship (for a boy can be as good a citizen as a man); then, and then only, is he eligible to become a second class scout.

Scouteraft is not like the geometrical straight line that is the shortest distance between two points. Instead, it is a line that points away. The boy scout is going to err, to waver from side to side in trying to follow the line of his endeavor to make a man of himself, but when he holds fast to his scout law and his determination to stand true to his God, his country (which means his city, ward and block, as well) and himself, he is going to get nearer to good citizenship than if he were left to shift for himself.

But we left the Kid standing on the corner.

Does the scout movement reach him?

Every boy scout must do a good turn at least once a day. Before the rank of first class can be conferred upon him he must have brought into the troop at least one Tenderfoot whom he has trained in the rudiments of scout work and who has shown by his actions that he is worthy to wear the scout badge. This enables the boy scout to act well the neblest part he ever will be called upon to take in the play of life; that of setting another human being in the way of higher things.

The scout can approach the prodigal as neither parent, pastor nor missionary can because he can talk to him as his former pal or school acquaintance, and, in the belief that he is helping his friend toward the coveted promotion, the boy who has not yet found himself consents to "come into the Scouts," while as a matter of fact, the scout is doing the biggest kind of a good turn by laying the foundations of good citizenship in a ne'er-do-well, the "Kid on the Corner."

SHOW PUPILS' WORK AT IRVING SCHOOL

Manual Training and Drawing Exhibits Reflect Credit on Teachers.

The exhibit of school work, including drawing and manual training, at the Irving School, was very largely attended by the parents and friends of the school on Thursday afternoon and evening. The work was tastefully and thoughtfully arranged so that visitors could easily trace its development from the kindergarten through the seventh grade.

Some of the leading features were the excellent free cutting of the kindergarten. Also the color and landscape work and paper cutting of the first grade. The second grade displayed excellent paper and cardboard construction which was prettily shown in completely furnished dollhouses. The third grade exhibited woven raphia frames and boxes also rugs and hammocks made on miniature looms. The fourth grade work consisted of Indian baskets in which the work and design combined to make most harmonious and beautiful effects.

The sewing by girls in the fifth and sixth grades was especially meritorious and reflects credit on the pupils and teachers.

The boys of the fifth, sixth and seventh grades completed many useful and interesting articles in wood, which were made in the special shops provided for the purpose. Some of the pieces were stools, sleeve-boards, envelope racks, hat racks, suit hangers, etc., all of which were of a useful nature and envolved some principle of construction or of the use of tools.

The girls of the seventh grade presided over a table of dainty articles of food which looked very tempting. This work was done in the special cooking room where the girls receive a complete course in Domestic Science.

Musical selections were rendered during the afternoon and evening and added to the social side while the whole exhibit was declared by those who know to be the most successful in the history of the school.

Following are the teachers of the school:

Miss Frieda Gravy and Miss Elizabeth S. White, kindergarten; Miss Georgia A. Ricker, First A; Miss Harriet Filmer, First B; Miss Marion B. Forbes, Second A; Miss Alice G. Barrett, Second B; Miss Mary J. Dennis, Third A; Miss Ada H. Clarke, Third B; Miss Alice A. Lee, Four A; Miss Mary C. Brodie, Four B; Miss Elizabeth Greenleaf, Fifth; Miss Mary M. Jones, Sixth; Miss Elizabeth Webber, Seventh; Miss Genevieve Petrie, principal.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL TO CONCLUDE CHURCH FAIR

Owing to the storm of last night, the closing night of the St. Joseph's festival [illegible] in the old church edifice. A matinee was held for the benefit of the children from 3 to 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and the committee acted as hosts at the occasion, providing the children with a number of varied amusement treats. The play "On a Strike," which was so successfully presented Tuesday evening, was repeated for the benefit of the juvenile pleasure seekers and Master Charles Pagluacci, the seven-year-old dancer, appeared in a number of his specialties.

A program of dancing was an added feature of last night's affair, the few who attended enjoying themselve to the utmost. A strawberry and ice cream festival will conclude the affair this evening, after which dancing will be held until 12 o'clock.

PHILOMENA QUARTET AT PUBLIC DANCE TONIGHT

The Philomena Quartet, comprising Mrs. Robert Moyer, Mrs. Guy Bender, Mrs. Stephen H. Tugwell and Mrs. W. A. W. Burnett will sing at the weekly gathering at the Washington School, this evening, held in connection with the social centre work being carried on by the Public Recreation Committee. Mrs. Champlain L. Riley and the members of the quartet will act as chaperones.

The Public Recreation Committee announces that it has engaged Miss Nutting, of New York, as a supervisor for the work now being conducted here and she will begin her duties on Monday. She was present at the dance for colored people in the Washington School last night and will also be at the school tonight.

Among other activities which have already grown out of the weekly dances are a debating club for night school boys, a glee club and gymnasium class for the colored people and a dancing class for beginners. Miss Nutting will have charge of this work.

There was a large attendance of colored people at the Washington School, last night. The visitors included William S. Tyler, president of the Board of Education; Mr. and Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, and Mrs. C. F. Munro from the Board of Education committee and the auxiliary committee, Mrs. James F. Lawson and Mrs. L. White. Mr. Watson, who furnished the music, will have charge of this feature in the future. The program planned for last night was postponed for one week.

TWO OF A KIND.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Dennis of Manning avenue, are parents of twin boys, born to them this morning, each one weighing six pounds. Mrs. Dennis was Miss Augusta Rilling, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Rilling, of Harrison avenue.

CLAN MACKENZIE TO MEET.

An important meeting of Clan Mackenzie, O. S. C., will be held Monday night in Firemen's Hall. At that time three candidates will be initiated.

HUGH A. TODD TO GO TO FLORIDA TO LIVE

Hugh A. Todd, who has been foreman and general manager for the Boice Runyon Company for a number of years, has resigned his position and expects to remove to Florida to engage in the fruit growing business. Owing to ill health, and upon advice from his physician that a change of climate and occupation would, in all probability, improve his condition, he decided to make this change. The severance of his relations with the Boice Runyon Company was done in a mutual and friendly spirit on the part of both.

Charles S. Rice, who, for a number of years, has been connected with the Boice Runyon Company as assistant to the general manager, has been placed at the head of the concern to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Todd's resignation.

The lumber, coal and building material business carried on by the Boice Runyon Company is one of the oldest established plants of its kind in this part of New Jersey.

Mr. Todd, while associated with the concern, made many warm and staunch friends who regret his leaving town on account of ill health and will join in wishing him the best of luck and success in his new enterprise and at the same time congratulate Mr. Rice.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. McCready and children, of Denmark road, have gone to Newport, N. Y., where they will spend the summer months.

Dr. H. V. Hubbard, of 420 Central avenue, has returned home from Rochester, Vt., where he was called by the illness of his mother, Mrs. I. T. Hubbard, of that place.

—Among the specialties at Neuman Bros." tomorrow will be fancy Maryland strawberries, unusually fine fruit.

Dunellen & Vicinity

Some time during last night the waters of Bone Gut brook, a small stream running between New Market and West Dunellen, overflowed its banks and converted the meadows in the vicinity into a veritable lake a mile in length. The waters of New Market pond, which flow into Bone Gut brook, are swelling and threaten to overflow the surrounding fields.

The monthly meeting of the directors of the Dunellen Building and Loan Association was held Thursday night in Borough Hall.

Providing the weather man permits, the Dunellen baseball team of the Central New Jersey League will oppose the Plainfield nine this afternoon in the latter city. Smalley Brothers, the Front street hardware dealers, have offered a gold watch to the Dunellen player making the first home run on the local diamond. The children of the primary grade enjoyed a May party yesterday afternoon given by their teacher, Miss Irene Duchane. Refreshments were served and games were played. Miss Duchane has in all sixty small children and great credit is due her for the manner in which she manages the affair.

Carmine Valicenti, formerly of this village, but now of New York, attended the special meeting of the board of directors of the South Plainfield Building and Loan Association last night.

Miss Nettie Smith expects to take a position with an ice cream and confectionery store on Lehigh avenue.

The double house on Maple avenue occupied by John Connors and Benjamin Randolph and recently purchased by the Twin-State Realty Company, has undergone a few coats of paint and other repairs and looks greatly improved.

Miss Elizabeth Shrope, of Railroad avenue, is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Charles Terry, of Netherwood.

Miss Elma Randolph has returned home after visiting friends in Plainfield.

FACTS AND COMMENT ON NEW YORK NEWS

New York, May 24. Commissioner Edwards, of the Street Cleaning Department, has undertaken an Herculean task in attempting to give to the city a general and thorough housecleaning. The cleaning up of the Augean stables, one of the famous stunts attributed by mythology to the overworked Greek Sandow, must have been a tame job compared with the tremendous task which confronted the New York street cleaning department when it began the spring cleaning the other day. On the opening day of the anti-filth crusade the regular force of the department disposed of 9,000 loads of rubbish and refuse and men and teams were almost exhausted at the close of the day.

The work of the department had been carefully mapped out by the commissioner. The city had been divided into districts and the residents of each district which was to be cleaned up on a certain day were requested to dump all the rubbish, dirt and trash accumulated in closets, attics and cellars upon the street in front of their houses the night before. The people seemed only to be too glad to have an opportunity to rid themselves of a lot of trash which had accumulated in years and obeyed the request with a vengeance. In many cases the rubbish was piled eight or ten feet high and included old and dilapidated furniture, mattresses, bed clothes, trunks and thousands of odds and ends to be found in the discard of every ill regulated household. The work is still being continued and although it can scarcely be hoped to transform New York into a sort of spotless Town, it is safe to say that this city is a great deal cleaner and more sanitary now than it was a month ago. The worst conditions were found in the Harlem district and next to that in the Hell's Kitchen and San Juan districts.

There seems to be no limit to the extent of the graft evil in this city. Scarcely has one investigation brought to light some big graft scandal, when another investigation is begun which brings to light conclusive evidence of graft in some other quarter or direction. The latest sensation has been furnished by the Taxicab Company and the end of the disclosures is not yet in sight. It appears that the Taxicab Company has been compelled, for business reasons, not only to pay blackmail to scores of the big hotels, but to give free taxi rides to hotel managers, their families and friends, to police officers and their friends, to aldermen, politicians and others, who were in a position to grant or refuse favors to the company.

Safety razors are growing more popular than ever in this city since the beginning of the barbers' strike. The strikers committed many acts of violence and destroyed the furniture and fixtures in a number of shops. This naturally deterred many habitual patrons from entering barber shops at this time. They considered the risk too great and preferred to shave themselves at their quiet homes rather than run the risk of having their throat cut or their skull fractured by militant strikers.

Martin Montrose Molenaor, who caused some excitement in this city in 1878 by claiming as his property several large and valuable tracts of land in the Harlem and Kingsbridge Road section, has returned to New York after many years in the West and has established himself as a squatter upon part of the land claimed by him. The land in question was only farm land and valued at $29,000 when the grandfather of the present claimant died in 1812. Now it is estimated to be worth between $300,000,000 and $500,000,000. When Molenaor first asserted his claim he did not have money enough to begin the fight in the courts. Now, however, the Molenaor Recovery Company has been formed which is issuing stock and will furnish the funds required to carry the fight for the property through the courts.

Saint Anthony Comstock, the self constituted guardian of morality in art, has once more distinguished himself by peremptorily ordering the removal from the show window of a reputable art dealer of a copy of Paul Chabas' famous painting, "September Morning." It shows a wonderful amount of patience on the part of the people that they put up so long with the stupid notions and idiosyncrasies of this "Apostle of Purity." The art house involved in the present case is one of the most prominent in the country and has its reputation at stake. It is to be hoped that it will carry this matter to the courts to determine once and for ever how far Mr. Comstock may extend his arbitrary interference and meddlesomeness. He should have been suppressed many years ago.

After pleading guilty to burglary in the first degree, Elmer Schultz, a boy of fifteen, was sent to the House of Refuge for an indefinite period the other day. In the course of the trial it was brought to light that the boy had committed more than fifty successful burglaries in Richmond Borough, Brooklyn, Flushing, Lynbrook and other places on Long Island during the last few months. The boy admitted that he was successful and said that if he could have continued his activity for another month he would have been the owner of an automobile and financially equipped to take a trip to Europe.

Suffering from toothache a little boy of about five years wandered away from his home in the lower part of Manhattan in search of a dentist the other evening after suppertime. A few hours later the suffering youngster was picked up by a policeman at a distance of more than two miles from the boy's home. The little fellow was nearly exhausted from his long trip and still suffering agonies in his tooth. The officer took the boy to the station where the lieutenant in charge pulled the offending tooth by means of a string. The boy endured the operation bravely and was then taken to his parental home.

David Belasco, the noted playwright and theatrical manager, and several noted actors and actresses had a rather unpleasant experience the other day. They were descending on Mr. Belasco's private elevator in the Balesco theatre building, from the top floor to the main floor, when something went wrong with the mechanism controlling the heavy iron doors. These doors are operated by electricity and are supposed to open by the pressing of a button when the floor of the lift is even with the sill of the floor. For three hours the party remained imprisoned in the cage until by hard work and the exercise of considerable ingenuity their release was effected. This experience may supply Mr. Belasco with a plot for a new play.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Dutch Arms of the Netherwood Reformed church will meet Monday night at the home of J. F. Hanson, 251 Jackson avenue.

Under the auspices of the women, a strawberry festival will be held Tuesday night at the Netherwood Reformed church. The Dutch Arms Concert Band of Trinity Reformed church will be present and furnish the music.

The mid-week prayer meeting at the Netherwood Reformed church on Wednesday night will be combined with the regular preparatory service after which the elders will meet to receive new members.

Martin A. Korff will conduct the service at the Salvation Army tomorrow night and give a Decoration Day talk on the subject, "General Orders for Christian Warfare." He will be assisted by an orchestra of seven pieces.

MISS RAPALJE HOSTESS FOR THE MISSION BAND

The Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church was the guest yesterday of its president, Miss Winifred Rapalje, of Carlton avenue, at a misionary tea, and despite the inclement weather about fifty members and friends were present to enjoy the affair. During the afternoon, Mrs. Daniel Rapalje exhibited a number of Chinese curious which she had collected while in China and gave an interesting talk by way of explanation. Dorothy Ross, in Chinese costume, recited, which added interest.

Miss Rapalje was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Cora Ryno and Miss Mabel Wilson. Mrs. Fred S. Cutter poured tea and Mrs. Arthur B. Cole served lemonade. Those who served were Miss Margaret Leggett, Miss Ethel VanZandt, Miss Helen Smith, Miss Edna Cole, Miss Florence Dickson, Miss Cora Gano, Mrs. Adelaide Cole.

WILL SING "DANIEL" AT MONROE AVENUE CHURCH

The cantata chorus of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, under the direction of Rev. F. J. Hubach, the pastor, will give the cantata, "Daniel," by Root, in the church Tuesday night. The chorus comprises fifty well-trained voices. The soloists will be as follows: King, Rev. F. J. Hubach; Queen, Miss Frances M. Metz; Daniel, L. V. Tallamy; Azariah, John W. Daub; sister of Azariah, Mrs. E. L. Pfaff; heralds, Oscar Moore and J. L. Osborne.

Miss Bertha Jones will be the organist and the pianists will be Mrs. F. J. Hubach and Miss E. R. Allen. Mr. Hubach will be the conductor. There will be overtures from Bellini, Rossini and Kleffel, by Mrs. Hubach and Miss Allen. The scene of the cantata is in Babylon and the time the seventy years of captivity of the Hebrews in Babylon.

Uses for Old Cake.

Stale cake is really a luxury, for it can be easily made into delicious desserts. So the small family that never is able to eat a cake before it is stale need not go cakeless; instead of that they can have one or two desserts made from the leftover scraps of each old cake.

Tipsy Cake.

Tipsy cake is one of the easiest stale cake desserts to make. The cake should be moistened with wine and covered with a sweetened meringue or whipped cream. Instead of wine, a thin, vanilla-flavored custard can be used—only then the cake will not be tipsy cake.

Cabinet Pudding.

Cabinet pudding made with stale cake is prepared as follows: Sprinkle the bottom of a buttered mould with dried fruits chopped fine—mixed currants, citron and raisins—and sprinkle over this cinnamon and ground cloves to taste. Then put in a layer of slices of stale sponge cake. Next put in a layer of fruit and then another layer of cake, and alternate layers until the mould is full. Beat four eggs and add them to a quart of milk, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter and a little salt. Pour this liquid into the mould and let it stand an hour. Then steam for an hour and a half. Serve with thin custard.

Charlottes.

Charlottes of various sorts can be made with stale cake. Any sort of cake-layer or loaf can be used in this way. It should be steamed, in neat pieces, for fifteen or twenty minutes, and then put in sherbet cups or small glass dishes and covered with whipped cream.

Trifles.

Trifles, too, can be made with stale cake and fresh fruit. One made with strawberries calls for a slice of stale cake in the bottom of each individual dish.

This is moistened with a tablespoonful or two of thin custard. Then fresh, ripe strawberries are put in the dish and these are sprinkled with crumbed macaroons. The whole is topped off with whipped cream. Another trifle is made with canned peaches, pineapple, or sweet cherries. The cake is put in the bottom of the dish and it is moistened with fruit juice. A little of the fruit is then put in, and then another layer of moistened cake is added. This is topped with more fruit and meringue, browned on a bread board in the oven, is added to top off the dessert.

Some Cookery Suggestions

SOME EVERYDAY PIES.

INEXPENSIVE pies made with fruits that are to be had at almost any time and in most neighborhoods are the ones that the housewife relies on for her ordinary fare. Pies which are characteristic of no particular fruit season are the ones mentioned here. They may be made in May or December, and if the crust is prepared with care in spite of their homely contents these desserts will be pronounced delicious.

With Popular Fruits.

Apple Pie With Cream.—Make an apple pie with rich puff paste, using a very deep pie plate and adding a little more than the customary amount of sugar, that there may be plenty of juice. Serve hot or, if cold, reheat the last thing before serving, and with it pass a bowl of cream that has been whipped until stiff, sweetened with sugar and flavored with powdered nutmeg.

Grapefruit Pie.—For this make a crust as usual and line a pie dish with it. For the filling take one cup sugar mixed with two tablespoonfuls of starch, the grated rind of one-half lemon, juice of one-half grapefruit, yolks of two eggs, one tablespoonful butter, one cup hot water. Mix ingredients, except the water, together, then gradually add hot water and stir briskly. Turn in double boiler and cook five minutes after it sets. Fill crust and cover with meringue.

Homely, but Delicious.

Prune Pie.—Take a pound of prunes and wash and soak them overnight in water to cover, and cook in the same water until tender. Line a pie plate with rich crust and fill with the prunes and the liquid, which must have been reduced at the last of the cooking to a very small amount. Sprinkle with from one-third to one-half cupful of sugar, according to the quality of the prunes, and sprinkle on also one tablespoonful of lemon juice. Cover with a top crust and bake in a fairly quick oven, as the filling is already cooked. Cool partly, then sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve fresh.

A Dainty Pastry.

Cream Pie.—Line two deep pie plates with a rich paste, prick here and there, and bake in a rather hot oven. Scald one pint of milk. Mix together one-third of a cupful of sifted flour, one scant cupful of sugar and a pinch of salt. Add two well beaten eggs, stir until smoothly mixed. Add gradually the scalded milk, return to the double boiler and cook for fifteen minutes, stirring constantly until thickened. Set aside for ten minutes, add one teaspoonful of vanilla and fill the prepared crusts. When cold dust thickly with powdered sugar.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Iduna and Her Wonderful Apple Tree.

Iduna Gave Her Apples Away.

THE apple tree had lost its blossoms, and in their places were the little round, green things that some day might be fruit.

Jack and Evelyn were wondering whether there would be many apples that year.

"Let's hope so, for apples are quite as good for boys and girls as any food I know, though perhaps they won't do so much for them as the stories say the apple tree did for the old Norse gods."

"Who were the Norse gods, daddy?" Evelyn asked.

"They were the gods of the people who long ago lived way up in northern Europe in the countries that are now Norway and Sweden and Denmark. These people had strange stories. One of them was about the apple tree.

"The story goes that there was one goddess by the name of Iduna. She had a beautiful garden, and in it grew a magic apple tree.

"The fruit on this tree was of the most wonderful kind. Whoever ate of it became young and beautiful. To stay young, though, one had to keep on eating the fruit. The gods and goddesses were all very nice indeed to Iduna, so that she would be their friend and never refuse her wonderful apples to them.

"But the dwarfs who lived in the dark, cheerless mountains on the other side of the beautiful land of the gods were always jealous of them. Iduna's father had been a dwarf, and perhaps it annoyed them that she should like to live in the lovely, sunshiny land of the gods and care more for them than for her relations, the ugly, ill tempered little dwarfs.

"So the dwarfs got Loki, one of themselves, to steal Iduna and her apple tree and hide them in a deep forest where the gods could not find them.

"After that everything went wrong with the gods and mankind, as well as with the dwarfs. The latter began to be sorry that they had meddled with the tree.

"When they no longer had the apples to eat the gods began to grow old and weak just as human folk did. They lost their interest in everything, and because they could no longer do their work well there was much trouble on earth and in the sky where the gods lived.

"Things went from bad to worse until at last Loki was sorry for having done so much mischief and took Iduna and the apple tree back to the land of the gods. Then you may be sure the gods begged for apples. Their friend Iduna gladly gave them, but it was a long time before all the harm which Loki's prank had caused could be forgotten."

Girls' Shoes.

With all street costumes the little girl wears smart buttoned boots—of white buckskin if her costume is all white, or patent leather with tops of cloth or dull calf on other occasions. Splendid boots for play hours are those of washable tan leather, which may be wiped clean with a wet sponge and which no amount of mud can stain beyond the ministrations of the same wet sponge.

Kitchen Hint.

Fill the saucepan with water, add lye and boil. This method not only removes all particles of burnt food, but also cleanses the saucepan so that no disagreeable flavor is given to other foods cooked in the dish. This is one of the most valuable uses of lye. A white enamel saucepan which seems to be ruined will come out as good as new.

HINTS ON FASHIONS IN THE METROPOLIS

Some Suggestions to the Woman Who Would Be Gowned Correctly.

New York, May 24.—The summer openings at the various fashion shops have begun but, so far, the result has not been particularly sensational or interesting. The new summer frocks show the big waist and the very short skirt. Coarse linens or crashes are trimmed in broad bands of batiste, hemstitched or put on with a head of coarse dots. Generally the ceinture of the goods itself, sometimes of silk or satin of a contrasting color, and sometimes of a swather leather belt.

In place of buttons running down the front of a dress there are small, flat bows, from three or four up to a dozen. This idea was followed many years ago in this country, the prim, stiff little bows trimming house gowns very prettily. People have not taken to the bows this season, but they relieve the plainness of the front effect, and there is nothing to do but accept them. They may be the color of the silk they trim, or they may be quite a contrasting shade. As a matter of course the bows are only put on dressy frocks of satin or silk or crepe.

Among the tailored frocks at the recent summer openings there was not a single slashed skirt. In evening dresses the skirts have the appearance of opening in front or at the side over the feet, but such is not really the case. The effect is caused by lapping the goods across. Only in a few instances on the stage have new plays shown the slashed skirt. Now, that people have become accustomed to the idea it is no longer considered particularly immodest, yet the designers of fashions have evidently abandoned the feature, which has lost the charm of novelty.

The fashions for young girls are, as a rule, quite charming at the present time. The flounced skirt is secure of its position as a leader of youthful fashions in wash materials and is being developed in constantly increasing variety. It may consist of a deep tunic, reaching to the knees, with a single flounce below that. There may be three flounces, growing deeper from the belt to the hem or reversing that order and having the shortest one at the bottom and the deepest at the top.

One charming model recently seen had an eighteen inch tunic with three six-inch ruffles below it. The next step may be the solid ruffled skirt which has always been especially attractive on slim girlish figures. There is one feature, however, that is almost essential to bring these flounced skirts up to date. The ruffle, or tunic, or whatever it is, must be caught up slightly, generally at the left knee in front, and fastened with a rose or a bunch of flowers. The same accessory is added at the belt, where it is half covered with the loose folds of the corsage.

The skirt often has a band of colored ribbon encircling it, underneath the shadow lace; for the most attractive of these frocks are of shadow lace or net flouncings and "all-overs." They can easily be made at home or by an ordinary dressmaker, which is another point very much in their favor. Of course, the big soft girdle is of wide ribbon or of silk or satin by the yard, and always in a color.

The ultra modern Balkan, Cubist and Futurist silks and ribbons are not used as trimmings on these delicate lingerie frocks. Only the most lovely shades of the simple colors are to be used on them. Balkan and Persian embroideries and trimmings are confined, in summer dresses, to the simple ones in heavy materials, such as ratine, crash and linen. Pink and pale blue, often in combination, are the colors most used with the shadow laces.

The most elaborate and expensive of the lingerie frocks for young girls are those made of hand-embroidered batiste combined with lace or net, or both. These, however, are not for possessors of limited incomes. They are very often intricately designed. The embroidered batiste appears in the form of elaborate motifs set into the lace or tucked net. Only a very clever designer could create such a costume successfully and its cost would, naturally, be quite considerable.

Many of the draped skirts shown for girls are decidedly unsuccessful. Drapery needs long lines to be successful and artistic, or else frankly short ones, such as one sees in the genuine Watteau frock. Young girls are apt to look bunchy in draped skirts. Older girls, who are taller and slender, however, look charming in draped skirts. The loose waists which sag over the belt and have no visible line of demarcation between the bodice itself and the sleeves, are often most attractive on slight and supple young figures. After all, it is a comparatively simple matter to dress a young girl of fairly good figure and not too angular, in a becoming style.

The new summer cotton blouse is very neat, but that is almost its only virtue. If there be any trimming at all, it is down the front in a straight, untrimmed piece of lace or embroidery. Nearly all these garments open in front, and that is at least something to recommend them. Often there is only a group of narrow tucks about the opening, with a ruffle that is broad at the neck but that becomes narrow as it reaches the bust, to finish in nothing at the belt line.

The dressiest of the blouses are finished with a great deal of hemstitching, the holes coarse and the thread heavy. In fact, that is about all the handwork that goes on the new blouse. If there are tucks they are put in with a hemstitch, and it is also used for the hem around the neck.

There is every indication that summer blouses will have very low necks this year. Some of the V-shaped openings are excessively wide and expose so much of the neck that only few women, with well developed and pretty necks can wear these blouses and look well in them.

The washable net petticoat is a novelty in summer lingerie. It is unlined, and is shaped in the upper body of the skirt so that it has practically no fullness. At the botom is a 12-inch flounce of the net, set on the skirt with ribbon-run beading. Underbodices to match are usually worn with these petticoats.

Shadow lace underwear and even nightgowns of that material are offered in the shops. Silk undershirts woven to imitate the shadow lace are among the novelties, and are called shadow lace shirts.

The chiffon so much used now for blouses is heavier than the flimsy fabric usually known by that name. It is very durable but very transparent. Blouses of chiffon and net are very attractive with little sleeveless bolero jackets of chiffon or lace designed with deep armholes reaching from the shoulder to the waist line. These are slipped on over the chiffon underblouse, which usually has baggy kimono sleeves and a low V neck.

Some very handsome lingerie waists are embroidered and lace inserted and finished with the broad kimono hem around the neck and down the front.

UNION COUNTY COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.

In the matter of the application of John Burke to have mortgage cancelled.) Notice to absent defendants.

To ANNA DE CAMP, her heirs, executors or assigns, or representatives.

Take notice that you are required to be and appear before our Court of Common Pleas for the County of Union at the Court House in the City of Elizabeth on the sixth day of June 1913, at 10 a. m. to show cause why a certain mortgage now outstanding against property owned by John Burke, in the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, given by Patrick Rafferty and wife to Alfred D. Cook and Robert H. Cook for $590, dated April 23, 1876, and recorded in Union County Clerk's office, May 24, 1876, in book 40 of mortgages for said county, pages 282, and assigned by said Alfred D. and Robert H. Cook to you, the said Anna De Camp, should not be cancelled of record.

The said mortgage covers property situate in said City of Plainfield, N. J., described as follows: Beginning at a point in the middle of West Sixth street, and corner of lot sold to John Keefe, thence running in a northwesterly course along his line one hundred and seventy-five feet to a stake and corner of James Keefe's line; thence running along his line in a southwesterly course parallel with West Sixth street thirty feet to a stake and making a corner in his line; thence running in a southesterly course parallel with the first line herein one hundred and seventy-five feet to a stake in the middle of West Sixth street; thence along the middle of West Sixth street northeasterly thirty feet to the beginning.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the Common Council has fixed the twenty-sixth day of May, A. D. 1913, at 8 o'clock p. m. at the Council Chamber, No. 143 North avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., as the time and place for Elliot T. Barrows, Daniel J. Courain and Frederic H. Andrews, the commissioners appointed by the Common Council pursuant to the ordinance entitled: "An Ordinance for the Laying Out and Opening of Kensington Avenue from the southerly side line of Prospect Avenue to the northeasterly side line of Park Avenue," approved November 6, 1912, and the resolutions of the Common Council in the premises adopted May 5, 1913, to meet and proceed with the discharge of their duties and hear all persons interested in the premises, and make their estimates and assessments under said ordinance and said resolutions and the statutes in such case made and provided.

The street to be laid out and opened to extend from the southerly side line of Prospect Avenue to the northeasterly side line of Park Avenue, the centre and side lines of which street, as well as the width thereof being particularly described in said ordinance, and shown on map therein referred to and on file in the office of the City Clerk, entitled "Map Showing proposed Laying Out and Opening of Kensington Avenue from Prospect Avenue to Park Avenue, City of Plainfield, N. J. September, 1912."

The lands, real estate and appurtenances intended to be taken for such purposes include all that part of the several properties now or formerly of Central Park Realty Co., Agnes R. Bird, Fred and Margaret Vail, Caro Bird, Jonathan Lawson and George E. Sovereign, which lies between two lines drawn parallel with the above mentioned centre line of Kensington Avenue as proposed to be laid out and opened and thirty feet distant therefrom, one on the easterly and one on the westerly side of said centre line, as shown on said map and said ordinance, to which reference is hereby made for a more detailed description.

By order of the Common Council.

JAMES T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.

Dated May 9, 1913.

MANY HAPPY RETURNS OF THE DAY, BOSS

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

"MAC" SAYS

Wet Gounds—Maybe.

Do not wake or call me early, let me slumber, mother dear,
If I hike to yonder ball yard, I may get drenched, I fear.

But why gloat over a few little drops of rain, when the only ones benefited by them are the baseball scribes. Rain means no box scores, but that is not finishing up those league schedules very fast.

Headline reads—"Ortlieb Was a Star!". "Was" is the right word.

We notice a Chicago boxer dubbed Kid Trouble. From experience we know that it cannot be done.

A baseball writer says that "Home-run" Wolf is more aggressive than his brother Jim who is playing short for Dunellen. What does that mean?

Even Wagner makes errors now and then. We should worry.

Every time that Barney Dreyfuss lamps Marty O'Toole in action and thinks what he paid for him, he is seized with a violent headache.

It took six athletics to pull off a double play yesterday. Neal Ball once completed one single handed. Therefore six athletics to equal one Neal Ball.—Q. E. D.

Some men have a chance to become really good ball players, while others can't control their temper. Get the drift?

The difference between skill and luck in pitching a game of baseball is generally the difference between your best efforts and those of your opponents.

There is one difference between playing golf and playing baseball—The ball player pitches to get out of a hole, the golfer to get in one. That's not the only difference, however.

The Ideal Ball Player.

1. A hopeful disposition.
2. Plays his own natural game from start to finish.
3. Never says die when called upon for a hit with two out and the bases full.
4. Not jealous of good playing or luck of his opponent.
5. Keeps control of his temper and tongue.
6. Treats umpires with the utmost kindness and consideration (Imagine it).
7. Offers suggestions, not criticisms to the captain. (Beware of the result).
8. Drinks pure water.
9. Occasionally pays the minister's street car fare.

QUERIES, COMMENT AND ANSWERS

Sporting Editor:
Query—Do the factories in this city having teams entered in the City Baseball League require their men to play on the factory aggregation in preference to outside teams or from accepting professional offers? F. B.
Answer—Of course, the factory officials want the men in their employ to support any project that will in any way prove of benefit to the company, but there is no iron clad law requiring an employe to play for his employer on the baseball diamond. A ball player is free to play where he wishes, but some employers have been known to favor a man if he performs to advantage under the factory name on the baseball diamond.

Sporting Editor:
Query—Will you please publish the name of the Dunellen baseball team's captain? W. C.
Answer—There is no such person. Brit Martin resigned and left, the position open to anyone who proves good enough. Just at present Bob Bogardus is acting as manager, first lieutenant, battalion chief and whatever else there is connectd with the "Corn Huskers" along that line.

Sporting Editor:
Query—Is Rube Waddell playing professional baseball now and if so with what team? L. C. V.
Answer—Just at present Waddell, the eccentric southpaw, is missing and none seems to know where he is. He was released to the Virginia Northern League team, but the deal dissatisfied him and he has gone into hiding.

Sporting Editor:
Query—Will you kindly tell me how many runs the Giants made during the week of April 26? G. F.
Answer—The Giants got credit for fifteen runs during the week you mention.

Sporting Editor:
Query—When did the pickerel and pike season open? A. L. C.
Answer—It opened May 20 and will close November 30.

SUNDAY BALL GAME.

A game that promises to excite more than passing comment from the many supporters of both aggregations will be played on the Lincoln field tomorrow afternoon when the Dunellen Field Club baseball players lineup against the Primrose A. C., a fast amateur nine hailing from New Market. This is the first meeting of these two combinations this season.

GOOD BALL CARD ON 'PLAINS DIAMOND

Manager Joe Alberts Has Booked the Speedy Brunswick Stars.

Providing the weather clears up by tomorrow afternoon, fans of this vicinity will be treated to another rare program of Sunday baseball at Scotch Plains, where Manager Joe Alberts has re-engaged the New Brunswick Stars to appear. Last Sunday this same aggregation played at the 'Plains and although defeated by a score of 3 to 0, they put up a stiff fight and the home team had to employ everything it had along the baseball line in order to come out on top. The second tilt gives promise of being an even more closely contested one, however, and fans who are contemplating taking in the affair will find a trip to the Plains worth while as a Sunday afternoon diversion.

Joe Alberts will have Freddy on the firing line once more tomorrow and this little Netherwood youngster who tamed the Brunswick ballists last Sunday, has high hopes of repeating the stunt on the second occasion. An experienced umpire will officiate at tomorrow's game and both managers have promised to put their best players on the field for the game. In the event of Scotch Plains winning again, thus keeping its record unblemished to date, the series will end with tomorrow's game, but if the visitors succeed in evening up matters a third and deciding contest will be necessary.

WORLD FAMOUS RIDERS ENTER LOCAL ROAD RACE

Franklin Fisher and Carl Schuster, two of the best known bicycle riders in the country, have sent in their signed entry blanks to race in the twenty-five mile road race which will be held under the auspices of the Plainfield Cycling Club Decoration Day morning over the Mountain avenue course. The entrance of this duet adds special interest to the already elaborate affair in which many famous riders have entered their John Hancocks as starters and their movements during the twenty-five miles of pedaling will bear close watching.

Fisher is a member of the Irish-American A. C. and will compete under that organization's colors, while Schuster belongs to the National A. C., which he will represent here.

HOW FROMME SHAPES UP.

Pitching records from the beginning of the season of 1907 up to the end of last year's campaign show that Arthur Fromme, who has been secured by the Giants from the Reds in exchange for Ames., Devore and Groh, took part in 124 games. He won 55 and lost 69, being unable to work because of rheumatism during the 1910 race. Fromme was a member of the St. Louis Cardinals in 1907 and 1908. In the former year he won five and lost thirteen games, with a similar record in the latter campaign. His best year was with the Reds in 1909, when he was credited with 19 victories and 13 defeats. In 1911 he won 10 and lost 11, while last year he was successful in 16 games and was beaten in 19.

PRIZES FOR ROAD RACE.

An elaborate collection of prizes, ranging from bicycles of the best make down to pedals and other accessories, has been gathered together by Jack Horner who is promoting the twenty-five mile road race here Decoration Day and will be exhibited in the show window of his store on Somerset street after next Monday.

LOCAL SCHOOLBOYS THE LAST TO FACE TRENTON

Trenton High School baseball enthusiasts have made great preparations to meet the Plainfield High School ballists at the Capitol City in their annual game this afternoon and providing the weather clears up, one of the greatest High School games of the season will probably be the issue. The local school boys will present their strongest lineup as they are out for New Jersey State championship honors and if they succeed in overcoming the Trentonians their road will be so much the clearer.

Riker, the heralded school boy heaver, will do the twirling for the home team, and he will probably be opposed by Matty Coughlin, the P. H. S. mainstay on the mound. Meredith will catch for Trenton, but it will be necessary for that team to use two substitutes, as Richardson, the regular third baseman, and Woodruff, the right fielder, are on the trip to Washington with the Trenton High School seniors. These two players are considered to be a pair of the best hitters and fielders in the State and the home nine will be considerably crippled without them in the lineup. Briggs, the substitute infielder, is also on the trip. This will be the last game of the season for the Trenton High School team.

SCARSDALE COUNTRY CLUB HOUSE IS LOST BY FIRE

(By Wireless to The Daily Press.)

Hartsdale, N. Y., May 24.—The clubhouse of the Scarsdale Golf and Country Club, near here, was destroyed by fire this morning.

MONTCLAIR CLAIMS TITLE.

Montclair High School yesterday afternoon won the New Jersey Interscholastic League baseball championship when it defeated the East Orange High nine in the deciding game by the score of 4 to 2 at Ashland Field, East Orange. Hill, a colored lad, twirled for the winners and checked East Orange whenever they threatened. He became wild in the fourth inning and hit two batsmen. Dangerfield then hurled the ball to left field in trying to get Taylor stealing third and East Orange's two runs came in. Montclair tied the score in the sixth and scored the winning tallies in the eighth on a single, an error, an infield hit and a fielder's choice. Hill fanned thirteen of the East Orange batters. Francke, of East Orange, starred at the bat, getting three hits out of four times at bat.

MOIST BALL HARMFUL.

Excessive use of the moist ball has affected Ed Walsh's digestion and has thus retarded his pitching, so that he has not yet reached his best form this year, according to Dr. James H. Blair, club physician of the Chicago Americans, in a report made today on the pitcher's condition. Walsh is quoted as saying his "arm is far from right," and attributes his success in the game with New York last Sunday to his "head work." According to the doctor, saliva needed for Walsh's digestion has been used on the ball, but with care the pitcher may be in his old-time form in a month.

ANOTHER STAGE TRIP.

Captain Dunning and his North Plainfield High School ball tossers will make a trip to Summit by stage next Monday afternoon to play the high school team of that place. A large number of N. P. H. S. supporters are expected to accompany the team on the trip over the mountains.

SHAMROCKS PLAY TOMORROW.

With a record of two wins and two defeats, the Shamrock A. C. will go to Riverside Park tomorrow afternoon, where they will lineup against the Y. M. H. A. team, of Somerville. All local players are requested to get the 1:15 trolley.

LOCAL RUNNERS TO TRY FOR FAST TEAM

Gates, Gordon and Peterson Will go to Orange Motordrome Tomorrow.

John Gates, Harry Gordon and Charles Peterson, a trio of local colored sprinters who have gained some prominence on the cinder path in various metropolitan meets, have received a special invitation from the Imperial A. C., of Orange, to enter the tryouts for positions on the club relay team which will be entered in many meets during the coming season.

The local runners will go to Orange tomorrow morning where the trials will be held at the Orange Motordrome. Preparations have been made to enter the Imperial relay in the St. Christopher Club's mammoth field day which will be held on the Lincoln Giants baseball grounds in New York city, June 7. Two of the Plainfielders, Gates and Gordon, gained State wide renown last month when they ran on the Imperial team in the Smart Set games in New York city, that team taking third prize out of a large field of contending clubs.

In this way Chance was able to make a nice appearance [illegible] for the hour was [illegible] a set of clothes [illegible]

The day arrived, however, when a large, rough looking person blew into town who didn't care if he [illegible] knew he could fight some too. He weighed 220 pounds and so [illegible] made him constable. Chance's friends were annoyed at this and [illegible] they thought Chance would make the bulky newcomer look silly. A match was arranged. At the end of the second round Frank had hung two shanties on as many eyes of his opponent and had utterly ruined one of his ears. This made the big guy sore and in the next round he tried to bring about Frank's demise. But he missed by a foot or two and Frank slammed him on the jaw for the count. He was plucky, though, a[illegible] it was two hours before he'd adm[illegible] that he was licked. EXPLAINED CREED OF HIS RELIGION

Wm. R. Rathvon Delivered Lecture on Christian Science.

J. F. ZEREGA PRESIDED

Five Hundred People Heard the Address at the Plainfield Theatre Yesterday Afternoon—Lecturer From Denver, Col.

More than 500 people gathered at the Plainfield theatre yesterday afternoon to hear William R. Rathvon, C. S. B., of Denver, Colorado, deliver a lecture on Christian Science He is a member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, Mass. John Frederick Zerega presided at the meeting and introduced the speaker, who said in part:

Christian Science has but one textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. It is not a boog to be quickly read or hastily thumbed over as one would a shallow novel. Nor is it to be approached with bias or prejudice if one would share its riches; but its truths may be proved and in turn imparted by child or sage who turns its leaves with an open mind. Only the open flower it is that catches the dew and yields its honey to the bee.

It has been asserted that Christian Scientists place their text-book above the Bible as the guide to righteousness. No one can honestly make this allegation who has read the book carefully, for on page 497 of Science and Health are printed these words, the first of a series of tenets of our religion:

"As adherents of Truth we take the inspired Word of the Bible as our sufficient guide to eternal Life."

What more emphatic and explicit negation of such a charge could be demanded?

The truths of Christian Science do not originate in the book Science and Health. They find expression there but their origin is in God. They have always existed and will forever exist. What effect, then, it may be

TWO BALL PLAYERS INJURED IN GAME

Gage and Randolph Painfully Hurt in Opening S. S. League Encounter.

Two players sustained painful injuries in the First Baptist-Park Avenue Baptist ball game of the Sunday School League opening at Probasco Field on Saturday afternoon, Dan Randolph, the First Baptist team's first baseman, breaking his collar bone, while George Gage, the Park Avenue catcher, split his thumb between the thumb and forefinger. Randolph is perhaps the more seriously injured of the two and it is probably that the break will keep him out of the game for the rest of the season. He was trying to catch a low ball, known in baseball vernacular as a "Texas leaguer," and Fred Mills started after the ball at the same time, the players colliding in the corner of the diamond. The impact was a terrific one and when Mills body hit Randolph's shoulder the latter dropped to the ground stunned.

Upon examination it was learned that his collar bone had been fractured and he was removed to his home where he is now resting comfortably. George Gage was catching for the Park team when he was hit by a foul tip which caught him on the end of the thumb. That member was forced back and split the fleshy part between the thumb and the index finger. While not serious Gage's injury was extremely painful and it will keep him from doing any catching for weeks to come.

MRS. MARY SCRIBNER.

Mrs. Mary E. Scribner, of Dunellen, widow of Nathan A. Scribner, died Saturday afternoon of a complication of diseases. She was seventy-five years old and had lived for many years in that borough. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at her late home. Interment will be made in Evergreen cemetery, in this city.

WAS STRICKEN AT DINNER TABLE

Mrs. Emily Haines, of Buffalo, Succumbs to Apoplexy at Clergyman's Home.

AGED SIXTY YEARS

Guest of Rev. and Mrs. F. L. Greene Dies at Their Home—Survived by Son and a Brother—Funeral at Buffalo.

Mrs. Emily Haines, aged about sixty years, of Buffalo, N. Y., while sitting at the dining-room table at thehome of Rev. and Mrs. Frederic L. Greene, of 822 West Fifth street, where she had been a guest for a week, was suddenly stricken with apoplexy and died within a short time. She was apparently in the best of health prior to the attack. The family first noticed that Mrs. Haines talked incoherently and before medical assistance could be summoned she lapsed into unconsciousness from which she failed to rally.

Mrs. Haines was an old friend of Mr. and Mrs. Greene, she having been a member of the Westminster Presbyterian church of Buffalo, when Mr. Greene was there prior to his coming to Plainfield. She was a member of one of the oldest and wealthiest families of Buffalo in which city she spent the greater part of her life. She is survived by a son, William Haines, of Buffalo, who is an insurance broker and a brother, Joseph Potter, of Batavia, N. Y.

The remains will be sent to Buffalo tonight where the funeral and burial will take place.

FRED'K GIBBS DEAD, APOPLEXY THE CAUSE

Former Resident of Scotch Plains Succumbs in Railroad Roundhouse.

Frederick Gibbs, aged 75 years, a resident of Scotch Plains for many years, but who has been living at Bayonne for the past five years, died suddenly of apoplexy yesterday at the roundhouse of the New Jersey Central at Bayonne, where he was employed as night watchman. Prior to going to Bayonne he was employed for thirty-seven years as foreman for Harper, Hollingsworth & Darby, manufacturers of hatter's furs, at the firm's factory at Scotch Plains. He was held in high esteem by all who knew him.

Mr. Gibbs was born in England and had lived in this country forty years. At one time he was a lay reader in the Church of England. He was a member of the Order Sons of St. George and Washington Court, No. 4, Independent Order Foresters both of Elizabeth.

A delegation from the latter organization will attend the funeral, which will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at 200 West Second street. Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, will officiate and the burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

ACCIDENT VICTIM IS REMOVED TO NEWARK HOME

Joseph Clark, brother of John C. Clark, of Liberty street, who sustained a compound fracture of the leg through falling from a fire engine in front of the local headquarters some weeks ago and who has since been confined to Muhlenberg Hospital, was taken from that institution this morning in a Newark ambulance and removed to his home on Central avenue, Newark. Mr. Clark, who is well known in this city, where he formerly lived while a member of the Plainfield fire department, has not entirely recovered from his injuries and he will be confined to his bed for some time to come as the result of the accident.

J. J. MEANY' SFUNERAL.

Funeral services for Joseph J. Meany, of 203 Stebbins place, who died Friday of a complication of diseases, were held this morning at St. Mary's church, where a high mass of requiem was celebrated. Rev. Father Sciolla officiated. The pallbearers were P. J. Neylon, Lawrence Bray, Thomas McClung, John McDonough, John Meany and John J. Neylon. Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

ITALIAN COUPLE MARRIED.

Miss Carrie Scavuzo, of Terrill road, and Salvadore Belardo, of McCrea place, were married this morning by City Judge De Meza. The ceremony was performed in the city court room.

CORNER-STONE OF STRUCTURE LAID

Ceremony at Old St. James', Piscataway, Where Parish House Will Be Built.

THE RECTOR OFFICIATES

Rev. Dr. Wm. H. Neilson Conducts the Prescribed Service—Parish an Ancient One—New Building Will Be a Memorial.

The corner-stone of the Parish House adjoining the ancient edifice of the Protestant Episcopal St. James church, at old Piscataway town, was laid on Saturday afternoon. This parish was in existence prior to 1700 as a Church of England Society. It was founded in 1666. As early as 1702 a few families of this faith had occasional preaching, sometimes in private dwellings of the parishoners, sometimes in the Dissenters' meeting house, being the "Town House" also. The controlling influence in local government up to that date and a little later, was mostly under the direction of the Baptists, who settled in Piscataway town in 1666.

To such an extent were they occupants of the land that Lewis Morris wrote in the year 1700 that "Pitcataway was settled from New England and is called the 'Anabaptist Town,' from about twenty in that town who agree in that Persuasion." They embraced the original families of the Dunns, Dunhams, Fitzrandolphs, Drakes, Martins, Bonhams, Mannings, Smalleys, Stelles, Runyons, Daytons, Smiths and others.

The "Town House" was built in 1685 as the official records recite, namely, "January 18, 1685-6, at a Towne Meetinge then agreed yt there should be a meeting house built forwith, the dimensions as followeth: 20 foot wide, 30 foot longue and 10 foot between the joynts." "Not magnicent proportions, but large enough for 'Anabaptists to swarm in," as an Amboy rector wrote to England in 1711.

Between the years 1717-1724 the Episcopalians built a church edifice when their communicants numbered less than twenty. The names of some of these families of early pioneer days were Langstaff, Walker, Arnold, Merrill, Molleson, Webster, Glover, Hull, Olden, Burroughs and Cottreal.

The parish was constituted in 1714 having John Barron and Thomas Wetherell as wardens. At first they were ministered to by missionaries from England sent by The Society for Propagating the Gospel in Foreign Parts. The neighborhood was always sparsely settled and a small congregation kept up the public services til the days of the Revolution.

The British took possession of the church building all the time their headquarters were established at New Brunswick, thus scattering the few faithful worshipper. Shortly after peace was declared in 1783 the society got together and have maintained religious services ever since and had the holy sacraments administered quite regularly by clergy from neighboring parishes.

The foundation stone was laid Saturday under the direction of the rector, Rev. Dr. William H. Neilson, of this city, with appropriate services and in accordance with the form used by the Protestant Episcopalians on such occasions. An interested congregation was in attendance under the shade of an ancient oak tree. It should be recorded that this beautiful enterprise has been made possible through the munificent provision of a legacy left by Helen Cottreal, of New York city, a descendent of one of the early members of St James' Parish.

LUNCHEON FOR MRS. WINDHAM.

Miss Windham, of Greenbrook road, gave a luncheon Saturday in honor of Mrs. Charles F. Windham and daughter of Washington, prior to their departure for home. Those present were Mrs. L. Schenck, Mrs. John Schenck, Mrs. A. Daudt and Miss L. Weigmann, Mrs. Charles F. Windham and daughter.

QUARTET TO GIVE AN ORATORIO.

The quartet choir of the First M. E. church, under the direction of Clifford A. Braider, organist, will sing the oratorio, "The Conversion of St. Paul," next Sunday evening. The assisting soloist will be Clarence Larson, of Brooklyn, violinist. This will be the last special musical service of the season.

EBENEZER BAPTISTS MOVE.

The Ebenezer Baptist church has removed from Reform Hall to the northeast corner of Third and Washington streets, the officers believing that there is a need in the east end for a colored Baptist church. Rev. G. W. Bailey is the pastor.

PRESENT YOUR BILLS.

All bills against the city must be presented to City Clerk J. T. MacMurray by tomorrow night to insure payment at the June meeting of the Common Council.

WOULD LIKE KENNEY FOR A FOREIGN POST

Friends Desire to See Him Named for Position in Diplomatic Corps.

Prominent men about the State are boohing David T. Kenney, of North Plainfield, for a place in the diplomatic corps and his name has been presented to Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan by United States Senator James E. Martine and by some in private life. It has been rumored that they would like to see him appointed as a minister plenipotentiary to some European government.

When seen today, Mr. Kenney said: "I have not made an application for a foreign post or for any other position under the Federal administration, although a number of friends have urged me to do so. A foreign diplomatic post is, of course, a great honor and no doubt there are a great many first class men available."

Mr. Kenney, who is a governor of Muhlenberg Hospital and active in other local institutions, is an inventor and manufacturer. He invented among other things the vacuum cleaner and the Flushometer and has been a very successful business man His real estate holdings in this city are quite large. He is a stanch Democrat and since Woodrow Wilson made his first appearance in public life has been one of his strongest supporters.

EFFORT ALONE WILL TELL THE STORY

Today Will Be Yesterday Tomorrow so Get in the Race While the Going's Good.

If I was sure of winning I would enter the contest. This is the thought that flashes through the minds of many people after reading over the liberal offer of prizes to be given away by The Plainfield Daily Press. Who would not devote their spare time efforts to the big contest if they were SURE to make their efforts realize them $200 per week in automobile value?

The big contest of The Daily Press is strictly a competitive proposition in which there will be no element of luck. There will be no chance for a candidate to step in at the last moment of the contest and spend money enough to defeat the early persistent worker. The vote schedule is so arranged that it will be impossible for an occurrence of this kind. Another feature is that the comparative subscription vote standing will never be known. Of course every candidate will know the number of votes they themselves are credited with, but never the amount another candidate might have.

At the beginning of the contest the number of votes on all subscriptions will be six times greater than the vote allowance during the last period. Suppose a candidate were to receive during the first period $60 in subscriptions more than their competitor and maintain this lead throughout the contest. Their competitor who did not hustle during the first period would be required to secure $360 in subscriptions during the last period to receive credit for the same number of votes. Could it be done? Now today is the harvest time for votes. Do not delay. Send in your nomination or that of a friend and get started while the going is good. Do not allow any person to tell you that a greater number of votes will be given later on. The Plainfield Daily Press guarantees that never during the contest will a greter number of votes be given than during the first period. An auto can be cinched from now until June 18. What are you going to do?

PLAINFIELD BOY DEFEATS MARSHALL, CHESS WIZARD

Joseph Tillou Sattels, the sixteen-year-old son of Mr and Mrs. Joseph Sattels, who won distinction several months ago in the world of chess by blocking Janowski, the French champion, in a game played in New York, repeated the performance on Saturday when he met Marshall, the American champion.

In his game with Janowskki, Sattels blocked his opponent in thirty-two moves and on Saturday he blocked Marshall in twenty-seven moves. The game was witnessed by a large number of interested spectators.

ARREST MACRORIE ON SAME CHARGE

TAKEN TO ELIZABETH

Although He Signed a Confession, His Clerical Brethren Did Not Find Him Guilty and the Law Now Takes its Course.

Rev. Willis S. MacRorie, the suspended pastor of the M. E. churches at Mt. Horeb, Martinsville and Springdale, who was adjudged not guilty by the recent Newark conference of the M. E. church at Newark, on charges of misconduct and grave charges preferred against him as the result of his arrest, has been indicted by the May grand jury, and is a prisoner in the county jail at Elizabeth. Gertrude Nelson is sixteen years old. The last grand jury did not find a true bill in MacRorie's case, although he had signed a confession admitting his guilt.

MacRorie was arrested at 7 o'clock this morning at his home in Mt. Horeb, by Police Chief Kiely and Roundsman Maurice Higgins, on strength of a capias issued by Judge Connolley ordering his apprehension. When responding to the knock of the officers at his home, Mr. MacRorie was just rising from bed. When told he was under arrest, his only remark was, "Oh, I expected this, I'll be with you in a moment."

Manning Coddington, of Warren township, a friend of MacRorie, went to Elizabeth this afternoon for the purpose of furnishing bail, the amount of which will be named by Judge Connolly, this afternoon.

Miss Nelson was a student at the Plainfield Business College when MacRorie began paying her his attentions. Letters found in the girl's room at a boarding house led persons interested in her welfare to communicate with the police, and a charge of a serious nature was made against the minister by Mrs. Mason. In the office of Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., who was then Assistant Prosecutor, MacRorie made a signed confession of his guilt when confronted with the damaging letter.

At the Methodist conference, MacRorie was placed on trial before a special committee of fifteen members who tried him on charges of alleged misconduct preferred by Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, and Rev. Frederick J. Hubach, pastor of the Monroe Avenue church. They returned a verdict of "not guilty" in respect to his relations with Miss Nelson, but suspended him for six months for "unministerial conduct." This decision was a great surprise.

Mac Rorie's testimony at this trial was said to be conflicting with the statements made to the local authorities. In explaining the confession he said he was forced to make this against his will and that he was dragged by the hair about a prison cell until he was irresponsible.

He pleaded not guilty when arraigned this afternoon and was held in $500 bail. Manning J. Coddington furnished the bond.

BELATED ANNOUNCEMENT OF MARRIAGE CEREMONY

Announcement was made today of the marriage of Miss May Mendell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mendell, and Walter Southard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Southard, both of this city. The ceremony was performed February 14 last by Rev. Evarts C. Conover, pastor of the Temple Baptist church, at his home on East Second street.

The couple was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Baker, of this city. Mr. Southard is a chemist employed by a local concern.

FITZ ON McCARTHY.

Robert Fitzsimmons, of Dunellen, former heavyweight boxing champion, who is writing a series of articles on the fistic game for the New York Evening World, in Saturday's contribution dwelt mainly on the bright prospects of Luther McCarthy becoming the pier of his class. While this article was being read by patrons of the paper the promising pugilist was lying dead the result of a blow struck by an opponent named Arthur Pelky, in a ring at Calgary, Alberta, Can.

COMMENCEMENT AT MT. ST. MARY

ADDRESSES GRADUATES

Diplomas to Be Given on Wednesday When Ceremony Will Be Elaborate—Celebration Will Be Concluded Friday.

Commencement week for the members of the 1913 graduating class of Mt. St. Mary College was ushered in yesterday, by "Baccalaureate Sunday," with appropriate exercises. The graduates and undergraduates marched from the campus to the college, where the Rev. William J. McConnell, of Belmar, superintendent of Parish Schools of the diocese of Trenton, delivered the baccalaureate sermon, taking for his text the words, "Thou art the Glory of Jerusalem, Thou art the Joy of Israel and the Honor of Your People." He likened the heroic work of Judith when she saved her people from the tyranny of a cruel monster by slaying him with a sword to the young women going out into the world to battle with unseen forces. The speaker referred to the ignortant man as the greatest danger of the State. He said, "Education is sometimes misunderstood. Some think it is only the intellect that needs training but the heart must likewise be trained. You have received the training here and your hearts beat in response to your intellects. Therefore let your gratitude go forth to your teachers

REV. MR. CONOVER'S 2ND YEAR AS PASTOR

Temple Baptist Church's Minister Observes an Anniversary.

Rev. Evarts C. Conover observed the second anniversary of his pastorate at the Temple Baptist church yesterday and in the morning his sermon was appropriate to that occasion. After reviewing the work of two years of which present conditions give evidence, he took his text from Gal. 6:9, "Weary Not in Well Doing."

In the course of his remarks Mr. Conover said:

"We have discouragements all the time, but we must not forget that well-doing is the evidence of our Christian calling and we follow Christ's example. He has called us for that. We are His only as we do His will. The activity of the world and the power of evil should put us on our guard.

"Christianity combines the strongest arguments for service. We must realize that our salvation is through love and sacrifice and that power has been promised and will be given. In nature the harvest comes in due season and likewise in the spiritual realm we shall reap if we faint not. Life is the time for sowing seed and God's season should not be until after we are taken hence let us sow with patience and thank Him for the privilege. In the coming year let us have higher ideals, greater ambition. Get close to God, prevail in prayer and God will give us the reward of the faithful."

B'RITH ABRAHAM ORDER IN ANNUAL CONVENTION

Kalman Rothberg and Jacob Sklarew, of this city, are attending the twenty-seventh annual convention of the Independent Order of B'rith Abraham, which opens today at Tammany Hall, New York. They are delegates of Plainfield Lodge, No. 627. The order is the largest Jewish organization in the world, having a membership of 188,000, embracing persons from all sections of the United States and is said to have over $1,500,000 capital. George Leon Sanders, the present grand master, is running for re-election and is being opposed by the Western faction of the order, which gives promise of an enthusiastic session.

The local lodge has a membership of sixty. The officers are: President, Kalman Rothberg; vice president, Max S. Weintrob; recording secretary, Nathan Bernstein; financial secretary, Abraham B. Kantor, and treasurer, Joseph Himmelfarb.

MADE CHILDLESS IN A FORTNIGHT

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Merrill Lose Two Daughters by Scarlet Fever.

QUARANTINE REMOVED

All Eight Victims Having Been Removed From McCrea Place, Guard is Relieved—Italian Youth Latest One Taken Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Merrill, of McCrea place, for the second time within a fortnight today are mourning the death of a daughter, Clara Merrill, who like her six years old sister, Wilhelmina, died in Muhlenberg Hospital of scarlet fever. Clara, who was ten years old, succumbed to the disease at noon today and will be buried tomorrow morning in St. Mary's cemetery beside the grave of Wilhelmina, who died Friday, May 9. By the ravages of the terrible disease which has spread with alarming degrees in the vicinity of McCrea place, between Wiley avenue and Terrill road, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill have lost their only children.

With the news of the second death in the Merrill family, came the report from Muhlenberg Hospital that Michael Tramontano, eleven years old, also of McCrea place, had been taken to that institution suffering with the disease and that he is not expected to live.

A strict quarantine has been enforced on the households in the affected district, but with the removal of the Tramontano boy to Muhlenberg, which numbers the eighth case taken to that institution, the last scarlet fever patient has been taken from the street. A patrolman, stationed in the contagious zone to prevent pedestrians from passing to and fro, has also been relieved of his post. Unless other cases develop, the epidemic is ended.

"HOOK SLIDE" BROKE BALL PLAYER'S LEG

Harry Pasch Sustained Serious Injury While Sliding Back to Third Base.

While playing ball on Elizabeth avenue, Harry Pasch, the well known Somerset street butcher, broke his left leg just above the ankle and was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital to have the fracture reduced. Pasch was playing an informal game with a party of friends and while he had quite a lead off the third base the catcher snapped the ball back quick, and caught him napping. Pasch made a "hook slide" for the bag but his left leg doubled up under him and he went down in a heap on the ground.

Other players rushed to assistance and he was removed to his home in a carriage. Up to 7 o'clock last night it was thought that the injury was little more than a sprain and when the break was discovered he was taken to the hospital. At that institution he was reported as resting comfortably this afternoon. Pasch is twenty-seven years old and well known in this city where he is connected with several fraternal organizations. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus carnival committee which starts work today but owing to his injury he will not be able to take his assigned part in the work.

LYDIA CHAPTER TO CELEBRATE.

The fourth anniversary of Lydia Chapter, Order Eastern Star, Lodge, will be celebrated with an entertainment reception and dance at the Park Club on Wednesday night. The first part of the evening will be devoted to an entertainment provided by professional talent, after which there will be dancing, music for which will be furnished by VanEps Brothers.

ALLEGED THIEF HELD.

Charged with stealing 120 pounds of tin, valued at $50, from the Plainfield Brass Foundry, on West Front street, Paul Embrere, of Rahway road, was held this morning by City Judge De Meza in bonds of $300 to await the action of the grand jury. He was apprehended last night by Detective-Sergeant John J. Flynn. The alleged theft took place Saturday night.

COLORED FIGHTERS FINED.

Henry F. Palmer and Mary Hays, both colored, of West Second street, arraigned before City Judge De Meza this morning on charges of disorderly conduct, were fined $8 and $5 respectively. Palmer sustained a severe cut in the head inflicted by the Hays woman with a piece of iron pipe.

CANTATA SOCIETY TO GIVE ITS FIRST RECITAL

The Cantata Society of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church will give its first concert tomorrow night in the church. The program includes a rendition of the cantata, "Daniel," by Dr. George F. Root. The solo parts will be taken by the following: Queen Miss Frances M. Betz; king, F. J. Hubach; Daniel, Louis V. Tallamy; Azariah, John W. Daub; sister of Azariah, Mrs. E. L. Praff; heralds, John C. Osborn, Oscar A. Moore. The whole chorus will be under the direction of the pastor, F. J. Hubach. The accompaniment work will be done by Mrs. F. J. Hubach and selections for four hands on the piano from Rossini and Bellini will be rendered by Mrs. F. J. Hubach and Miss E. R. Allen.

The chorus consists of fifty voices taken from the congregation of the church. The society expects to continue the study of cantatas and other first class music.

DR. GROSZMANN TO DELIVER LECTURES

Famous Authority on Atypical Children to Give Series of Talks.

Dr. Maximilian P. E. Groszmann will take part in a comprehensive course on exceptional children at the summer school of the State Teachers College of Colorado, at Greeley, in July. The other lecturers will be Prof. Lightner Witmer, of the University of Pennsylvania; Dr. H. H. Goddard, of Vineland; President G. Stanley Hall, of Clark University; Prof. David Starr Jordan, of the University of California, and a few others. The following exserpts from the announcement of the course show in what estimation Dr. Groszmann is held:

"In this field the work of Drs. Witmer, Goddard and Groszmann is unexcelled in this country.

"Dr. Groszmann founded the Groszmann School for Nervous and Atypical Children in 1900. This school is now located in Plainfield, N. J. It is primarily interested in the study and education of those exceptional children who are feebleminded but who in Dr. Groszmann's terminology are backward, difficult, nervous, wrongly educated and physically and otherwise handicapped. The National Association for the Study and Education of Exceptional Children had its beginnings in the Groszmann School. Dr. Groszmann is the Educational Director of the Association. He has given us a comprehensive classification of exceptional children and has published several books and a number of articles on the same problem. His work is spoken of in the highest terms of praise by those who are qualified to know."

Following is the schedule of Dr. Groszman's lectures:

First—Classification and terminology. The backward, difficult, nervous, physically handicapped, wrongly educated, and otherwise handicapped child, versus the feebleminded child. Developmental periods, or culture epochs.

Second—Causes of exceptional development. Child and family histories. The hereditary and environmental causes. The struggle of potentials. Vocational guidance.

Third—Methods of establishing the status of an exceptional child. The Binet-Simon, and the Groszmann tests.

Fourth—Atypical and pseudo-atypical children.

Fifth—Subnormal children. Borderland cases. Backward peoples and primitive social strata. The problem of immigration and the white man's burden.

SPECIAL MUSICAL SERVICE.

The quartet and chorus choir of the First Baptist church, under the direction of Howard Case, organist, will give a special musical service next Sunday evening. The cantata, "Penitence, Pardon and Peace," by Maunder; Gounod's "Sanctus" and other selections will be sung. This will be the last musical service for the season.

here and to your parents who perhaps have made many sacrifices that you might be able to receive the many educational advantages that you have here.

"This your graduation year, has a great significance. It is the sixteenth century after the edict of Constantine which proclaimed peace, and the year itself (1913) marks the triumph of the Cross over the Crescent, in the defeat of the Tarks. In conclusion let me say, Go forth with courageous faith, fight the good fight and when your work is done, may the final words of my text be justly applicable to you.""

A musical program was presented containing the followins numbers: Processional, "Magnificat," hymn, "Veni Creator;" benediction, "Mother of God," recessional. The visiting clergy present included the Rev. D. J. Mountain, of Buffalo, Rev. W. H. Miller, of St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield, and the Rev. J. Baldwin, the college chaplain.

Class Day exercises in which the graduates took an important part were held this afternoon but the festivities will take place on Wednesday afternoon when the commencement exercises will be held.

This is the program for class day: Vocal chorus, "Welcome Pretty Primrose;" class history, by Anabel Jones; vocal duet, "I Heard a voice," by Miss Irene Smith and Miss Isabella Mullen; class prophecy, by Miss Irene Smith; class will, by Grace Rafferty; "The Diana of Christ" was presented with these characters "Aegisthus," Miss Katherine Griffin, "Virgilia," Miss Irene Smith; "Electra," Miss Isabella Mullen, "Alico," Miss Mary Connolly; "Patroclus," Miss Grace Rafferty; "Medea," Miss Anabel Jones; "High Priest of Diana," Miss Irene A. CHANGES ARE MADE IN R. R. TIME TABLE

The Summer Schedule of Jersey Central Goes into Effect.

The New Jersey Central announced yesterday a change in the time table providing for faster schedules of several of the evening trains between New York and Plainfield. The running time of the trains leaving Liberty street at 7:00, 7:30 and 8:30 p. m., has been materially quickened by eliminating all stops east of West Eighth street, Bayonne, while the schedule of the train formerly leaving Liberty street at 9:15 o'clock in the evening has been similarly shortened and the time of departure has been changed to 9:30 o'clock. The leaving time of the 7:30 a. m. Sunday train has been made fifteen minutes earlier.

A new eastbound train has been added leaving Plainfield at 4:01 in the afternoon, a semi-express, which makes connections at Elizabethport for all seashore resorts. This train reaches Asbury Park at 5:45 o'clock. The 3:48 afternoon train to New York has been taken off.

The 5:57 a. m. eastbound train which was formerly an express to New York, reaching there at 6:52, is now a local and arrives in New York at the same time as before. Another new train leaves Plainfield at 5:08 a. m. for New York. It is a local and reaches New York at 6:27 o'clock. The train which formerly left Plainfield at 11:28 at night for New York, now leaves at 11:43 o'clock, which is a convenience to theatre patrons.

Going west there is a train leaving Plainfield at 5:19 o'clock in the morning for Lake Hopatcong arriving at the latter place at 9:28 o'clock. Otherwise there are no important changes affecting patrons of the road in this city. The latter part of June the company will put in effect its complete summer schedule of trains, when there will be a number of changes.

asked, does the study of this book have upon those who have previously been Bible students? Does it supplant the Bible in their reverence and admiration? Is the Book of books less precious to them than before? The answer is, "No." On the other hand Science and Health harmonizes many seeming incongruities in the Bible which have long perplexed layman and theologian; it explains apparent contradictions; it discloses unexpected riches; it gives new significance to favorite passages and brings neglected ones into favor.

The study and application of its teachings by those who have had little or no familiarity with the Scriptures has made them Bible students and Bible lovers. The one time atheist, the scoffer and the blasphemer are finding the Gospel a treasure house of joy and consolation whose untried doors had been barred against them until unlocked by the Key forged by the hands of a gentle woman who loved all mankind. No other book in modern times has made so many Bible readers.

It has fallen to my lot to have known its author intimately in the last few years of her earthly activity. One November day in 1908, Mrs. Eddy called me to her side from my home in Colorado to become a member of that historic household at Chestnut Hill which she once publicly designated "the happiest group of Christian Scientists on earth." I was privileged to share her daily counsels for more than two years, and from the time of my first half hour's heart-to-heart talk with her, down to the afternoon, when standing at her side I saw her marvelous hands shape her last written words, "God is my life," I have never wavered in my conviction that she has been the chosen evangel of Truth, intrusted with those good tidings of great joy that have been waiting man's readiness since the days when Jesus trod the dusty fields of Syria, and sailed the blue waters of Galilee.

I could by the hour recite to you incidents of Mrs. Eddy's wisdom and sagacity, of her courage and steadfastness, of her wit and humor, of her love for little children and her delight in the beautiful, of the inexpressible charm of her manner and the eloquence of her voice, but it is not of these things that she would have me speak.

It was her desire almost daily expressed—that her followers should disregard her personality and address their thought to the things of God which she has disclosed to them. She would have us study her books and not her personality. She would have us know her by what she wrote and not by how she looked. Years ago she instructed her students to follow her only as she followed Christ, and though she was a rare Leader she was an ideal follower of all that is truly good.

Man's comprehension of the problems of life is to be measured by his understanding of God. He holds to contrary and widely divergent beliefs about God and hence his interpretations of life are conflicting and discordant. If he concedes to God, the primal cause of all being, illimitable power—Omnipotence—and illimitable knowledge—Omniscience, and in the next breath attributes to Him the afflictions and disasters of human experience, he is setting up a god of good and evil, of benevolence and cruelty, whom he may try to love but is bound to fear.

The anthropomorphic idea of God as a man-like being of human attributes and qualities enormously magnified, a heritage of mythology handed down to us through generations of orthodoxy, is repudiated in Christian Science. For its definition of God, Christian Science consistently turns to the Scriptures.

Christian Science stands before the world as a demonstrable religion, one that is to be lived, not merely believed. The standard of proficiency for the Christian Scientist is not how much he believes but how much of that belief he is using in his daily life, in his dealings with his fellow men and in the sanctity of his innermost thoughts.

Hence it is that there is no such thing as a purely theoretical Christian Scientist. No man can become a Christian Scientist by merely believing in the teachings of its text book without practising them. We are Christian Scientists only as we put into constant practise our knowledge of our religion, be our knowledge great or small. We are Christian Scientists only as we are kind and helpful in thought and deed, only as we think health and talk health instead of disease and disaster. We are Christian Scientists only as we say to evil mental suggestion, "Peace, be still!" Only as we are loving and courageous and resolute and unswerving in our warfare against sin, sickness and death.

It is often charged against Christian Scientists because they rely wholly upon Mind that they do not "do anything" for the sick. When the average man considers the needs of a sick person, his thought at once turns to the medicine bottle and he believes there is nothing being done for the sick man unless he is made to swallow something. According to his peremptory opinions, the sick man should be treated with something that he can taste or smell or feel, something that the senses can perceive. Otherwise "Nothing is being done for him." He may tell you that attempting to change the condition of a man's body through mind alone is foolishness. And yet—this same intelligent citizen will readily admit that a man's body commonly and frequently undergoes sudden and very marked changes due entirely to mental causes. He will admit that salt water will flow from his eyes if he is subjected to great grief. That sudden fear will produce cold perspiration. That anger will cause the face to flush or pale, the heart to thump, the voice to change.

Now grief, anger and the like are obviously mental, but because their effect on the body is of every-day occurrence, as commonplace as eating and drinking, the lesson they disclose is lost upon the man who hastens to censure Christian Science for achieving what he styles the impossible, yet which has been a part of him since the day when as a crying infant he on his mother's arm shed his first tears.

Jesus proved for all time and for all Christendom that the origin of disease was mental and he healed it with mental medicine. He gave himself no concern about physical symptoms, but he destroyed what caused them. He cared little about what the sick man had been eating, but much about what he had been thinking. He said in so many words, "It is not that which goeth into a man which defileth him." When he healed the sick he gave no parting directions about diet and rest, but on at least one occasion said, "Sin no more lest a worse thing come unto thee," thus indicating the mental origin of the disease. The sick were healed by him through spiritual understanding, not by human will. Christian Science, similarly relying wholly upon divine Principle, has no relationship with will power, mental science, hypnotism, mesmerism, auto-suggestion, thought transference, spiritualism or any of the other cults or schools which rely wholly or in part upon the influence of one human mind or human will upon another. These are essentially adverse to the teachings of Christian Science wherein the human mind and the human will are made wholly subordinate and subservient to the divine Mind, the will of God. Success in Christian Science is only attained as fallible human mentality is eliminated. This implies self-denial, the denial of the human sense of self, and the affirmation of all good, and is a condition to which all must come sooner or later. "As I live, saith the Lord, every knee shall bow, and every tongue shall confess to God."

In considering the immortality of man one is confronted by the questions, "What of the hereafter? How am I to regard the change called death? What and where is heaven?" Christian Science makes direct answer to these very natural questions. That which is called death, though always and enemy and finally to be overcome, as the Bible declares, is no more to be feared than is sleep. In the present state of our development both are incidental to the experience of mankind; both interfere for the time with man's activities; and the awakening—alike in both cases—will, we believe, show no substantial change in individuality or advancement. The gates of heaven do not swing open at the touch of death, but are to be entered by right thinking and right living, here and hereafter.

Christian Science puts aside the mythologic idea of heaven as a place, and shows it to be a state or condition of mind. It follows, therefore, that its attainment depends upon the mental processes of the individual. In other words it affirms that right thinking leading to right living is the sure passport to heaven. Turning to the life of the great exemplar, Jesus the Christ, we find in him the ideal thinker whose thoughts and actions conformed invariably to the laws of God—Spirit—touching lightly upon matter and things material only as tolerated concomitants of his dwelling on earth among men.

Most men have found they can get all they want of heaven's antithesis, hell, right here on earth, and there are many who believe they have already had more than their share of it, and perhaps they have. But they should know that it does not come from the hand of God. Sin brings its own punishment. It has been truly said that man is not punished for his sins, but by his sins. By sin is meant what Paul defines as transgression of the law, whether due to man's ignorance of God's law or to his wilful disobedience of it. The child who, through ignorance or disobedience, picks up a piece of hot iron suffers because of his ignorance or disobedience. His loving father has had nothing to do with his suffering, and "Our Father which art in heaven," loving every one of His children, sends upon them neither pain nor penalty. From Him cometh only the "good and perfect gift."

There is a short and cheering message that Christian Science has to deliver to all who have ears to hear. It is not a new message. It has reassured the children of men ever since they first felt the chill of fear. The loving mother encouraging her toddling infant, the gallant captain cheering his men to greater valor, the gentle Saviour quieting his affrighted disciples, all use it. That message is "Be not afraid."

Christian Science emphasizes the fact that when fear is eliminated from the consciousness of the sick man—no matter what the nature of his illness—he has taken a long step towards recovery. It declares also that people who are habitually free from fear, worry, anxiety, apprehension and the like, all of which are the children of fear, are far less susceptible to illness and misfortune than others. It has uncovered in fear an agency of evil, an enemy of health, a destroyer of peace and a bar to man's progress heavenward. It is not to be wondered, then, that the elimination of fear from human consciousness is an important feature of the mission of Christian Science.

Frequently it is said, "It is all well enough to say 'do not be afraid,' but how am I to get rid of fear and worry and anxiety? I use all the will-power and determination I can command, yet I do not get rid of worry. It comes in about as fast as I drive it out."

Attempting to get the mastery of fear and worry by will-power alone is like trying to beat back the ocean with a baseball bat, or trying to chase clouds away with a broom. You cannot get rid of them by fighting them, but you can readily get out of their reach by rising higher. The waves of fear and the mists of worry do not extends upwards and if you will but climb to the hilltop of selflessness where Love stands waiting to welcome you with outstretched hands, you will no longer be buffeted by fear or befogged by worry. For centuries St. John has been telling this to the world in these words, "Perfect love casteth out fear."

Discouragement wears the invisible livery of evil and is constantly and consistently working for its master. It is always pulling down and never building up.

Did you ever know any one to accomplish anything worth while when in the grip of discouragement? It paralyzes effort stupefies thought and dissipates purpose.

There is a ridiculous side also to the condition of the man who is mentally sick abed with a bad case of discouragement. He is only happy when he is miserable; the worse he feels the better he likes it; the things that please him most are the things that do not please him at all. He is continually stumbling into the two extremes of self-justification and self-condemnation. Both are bad; both the modeled after plans drawn in the devil's workshop; both are obstructive to progress. Self-condemnation digs a hole; self-justification sets up a pole, and no man can go very far in any right direction when he is either crouched in the bottom of a hole or perched on the top of a pole. Man is endowed with nobler qualities than those of the beasts of the field or the fowls of the air, and he must come out of the hole of self condemnation and down from the pole of self-justification on to the level ground of unselfed endeavor if he would progress in Christian Science.

More than all of this Christian Science discloses that the man habitually discouraged is not only an inviting target for disease, but is already striped with the colors of unbelief, for he gloomily distrusts the power and goodness of God himself. This may startle some of you who are accustomed to let yourselves be robbed of your courage—discouragement—and to slide unresistingly into the bilious depths of the "blues" when things go wrong. The Christian world is full of God-fearing and truth-loving people who yield readily to discouragement because they have not yet discovered where it comes from and what is back of it. They do not see that it is but the advance agent of evil itself. A familiar table of folk-lore will perhaps illustrate this point.

It was once announced that the devil was going out of business and would offer all his tools for sale to whoever would pay his price. On the night of the sale they were all attractively displayed, and a baleful looking lot they were. Malice, envy, hatred, jealousy, sensuality, deceit and all the other implements of evil were spread out, each marked with its price. Apart from the rest lay a harmless looking wedge-shaped tool much worn and priced higher than any of them.

Some one asked the devil what it was. "That's discouragement," was the reply. "Well, why do you have it priced so high?" "Because," replied the devil, "it is more useful to me than any of the others. I can pry open and get inside a man's consciousness with that when I couldn't get near him with any of the others and when once inside I can use him in whatever way suits me best. It is so much worn because I use it with nearly everybody, as very few people yet know that it belongs to me."

It hardly need be added that the devil's price for discouragement was so high that it was never sold. He still owns it and he is still using it.

An effective plan to drive out discouragement is to bring into thought some measure of gratitude or praise. There can always be found something to be grateful for if we will hunt for it honestly and earnestly. The good old-fashioned practise of counting our blessings, the things we have we would not like to do without, generally brings gratitude to the surface for along every man's path way in life there are blooming the sweet flowers of gratitude and if he will but stoop and pull one and weave it he will find its fragrance a magic dispeller of discouragement. Or if the day be cold and dreary and the flowers covered with snow, he can find that warmth of soul which always banishes discouragement, if he will but heed that part of a favorite passage of Jesus from Isaiah, where we are commanded to put on "the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness." It never fails.

I have thus far spoken more of the results of Christian Science than of its methods. For the latter I would have you consult the pages of its text-book "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. You will not lay it down with disappointment if you take it up with sincerity.

But that you may carry away with you today some elementary precept to test for yourselves, I would place before you this simple fact. The Christian Science method of getting rid of things that are wrong is to introduce things that are right. This is not fighting evil but destroying it. It has been proved in millions of instances that a wrong thought which is the father of a wong action will invariably vanish into nothingness if you will but introduce a right thought in its place. Good destroys evil as surely and as quickly as light destroys darkness. Remember that for you will find it helpful if you are ever disposed to try Christian Science for yourselves. If you will associate in your thought good with light, and evil with darkness you will have before you a flashlight glimpse of the impotence of evil in the presence of the good. Not all the darkness in the universe can extinguish the light of one tiny lamp. Wherever it goes it chases away darkness, which is always without power to move, or even to be in the presence of light. So with the light of good and the darkness of evil.

The comparison is a good one, but it is not mine. You will find it many times in the pages of your Bible. Remember then, if you will, that the Christian Science method of banishing evil—darkness—is to bring in the light—good. If you were to try it for a single day you would be surprised to find what a new sort of day you would be giving to yourselves. Every time you find yourself thinking unkindly about your neighbor, bring in a good thought about him. It will help him and it will help you.

Every time your thought drops to the level of the beast, lift is as near the stars as you can raise it. If thoughts unclean, unjust, malicious or obstructive are there, bring in something of purity, of justice, of helpfulness, of love. When you have done your best in this line of noble endeavor, you have accomplished much. You have taken a step, a little one to be sure, but it leads in the direction of the understanding of God—the knowledge of Him, whom to know aright is life eternal.

PRAY, TELL US.

Evidently the Courier-News editor does not read his exchanges, else he would not have made the blunder that he did in Saturday's issue. In commenting on an editorial in the Daily Press of Friday, in which this newspaper stated that it would be necessary to "force the nomination for Governor upon Everett Colby," our contemporary says that "Mr. Colby would doubtless accept the nomination with pleasure." Mr. Colby has repeatedly stated that he would not be a candidate, and the purpose of the Daily Press editorial was to show the necessity of the nomination of such a man, by both the Progressive and Republican parties if it is expected to defeat a Democrat in the fall.

The Courier-News is unique in one thing. It is the only newspaper that we have noticed that insists that there is no Progressive party, but merely a division in the Republican ranks. If this be true, what will happen to the millon or more former Democratic voters who voted the Progressive ticket last fall, when it "harmonizes the two elements."

Just what is the "self seeking interest behind the suggestion" that Mr. Colby be nominated by both parties, which the Courier-News seems to fear, we do not know. Will our neighbor please enlighten us?

Surely every newspaperman and hosts of others who know "Billy" Devereaux were disappointed to learn that he did not land the Asbury Park postmastership. But as much as the result may be regretted "Billy" should not display his personal feeling to the extent he has in resigning as secretary of the Democratic State Committee. By the time-honored custom of that and every other party, the President accepts the recommendation of the congressman from the district in such matters and in this particular instance not only did Congressman Scully ask for the appointment of another but his candidate was also supported by Senator Hughes. Devereaux has always been a good sport and it was to be expected that he would accept the verdict as the fortunes of politics.

Friends of David T. Kenney, a resident and large taxpayer of whom Plainfield may well be proud, are urging Secretary of State Bryan to accept him for a Presidential appointment in the diplomatic service. Mr. Kenney is known as an inventor, a successful manufacturer and man of affairs generally, as well as one who takes an active interest in the welfare of the community wherein he resides. He is an ardent Democrat, a loyal Wilson man and above all a person of splendid character and high ideals.

When counting up the blessings of this community, it must not be overlooked that Plainfield does not suffer from the I. W. W.

Evidently the apparent "white wash" of the religious conference to which he belongs did not set well with the civil authorities, for Mc Rorie the Mt. Bethel minister, was taken into custody again today, the Union County Grand Jury having indicted him on a serious charge. The minister will get a fair and impartial trial; there will be no "whitewash."

We Jerseymen pride ourselves that for progressive legislation we have no equals. It is to be observed, however, that Massachusetts has enacted a law placing the ban on the red flag of anarchy. New Jersey should do likewise.

Now is the time to enlist for the great subscription campaign and win an automobile or other costly prize.

COUNTY PRISONERS MAY HAVE TO WORK

And if Married Their Earnings Would Be Given Wives and Children.

Elizabeth, May 26.—The Grand Jury, following the completion of its duties this morning, which included a thorough inspection of the county jail, made a radical departure by adopting a resolution requesting the Board of Freeholders and Sheriff Wright to consider the advisability of employing prisoners on the county roads or at Bonnie Burn Sanitorium, suggesting that the men be paid wages, and in the case of married men the money be paid to the wives and in the case of single men, after deducting the amount for board, it be allowed to accumulate and then paid to the prisoner when released.

This matter has been agitated for some time and in some of the counties this plan of using prisoners on county work has been successful. It has been proved to be a real benefit where these men have been given something to do instead of remaining idle while serving a sentence.

ANTI-SUFFRAGISTS STARTING CAMPAIGN

Opposition to "Cause" to Hold Mass Meeting Tomorrow Night.

Plainfield will be given an opportunity to hear the arguments of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage at the High School Auditorium tomorrow night, when Miss Minnie Bronson will be the principal speaker of the mass meeting to be held there.

Miss Bronson has been a worker against suffrage for the past two years and was in the thick of the recent battle in Michigan in which "votes for women" was defeated by 90,000. She is said to be a woman of remarkable personality—a keen thinker and a pleasing talker. Her knowledge of facts and figures in connection with the subject of suffrage is thorough.

Miss Elsie Buck, of Trenton, a working girl, will present the ideas of herself and her co-workers as to whether or not they want the ballot given to them. Miss Buck will tell of her own experiences and her talk will be along practical lines. Assemblyman John A. Matthews, of Essex county, a member of the present Legislature, will be the third speaker.

A delegation of prominent members of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Suffrage from various parts of the State is expected to be present.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. J. Hartley Mellick, of Park avenue, who fell downstairs several days ago and sprained her arm, has about recovered from the injury, which proved to be only a slight one.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson VanWinkle, formerly of the West End, have removed to Berkeley avenue, near Ravine road.

Herman Overland, Sr., carpenter, of 815 West Fourth street, who has been at Muhlenberg Hospital, where he underwent an operation, Saturday, is doing well.

Theodore Harlon, of New York, who spent the week-end with his wife and son at 815 West Fourth street, returned today.

Mrs. David Shay, formerly of Plainfield, but now of New York, has been visiting relatives here.

Mrs. A. D. Galloway, wife of A. D. Galloway, formerly of this city but now of East Bound Brook, was operated on at Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday for acute appendicitis.

Mrs. and Mrs. Adam Angerbauer, formerly of this city but now of Jersey City, will remove to Plainfield this week to take up their residence at Orchard place and New street. Mr. Angerbauer will resume his position with the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Store here.

CIVIL WAR VETS ATTEND SERVICES

Winfield Scott Post's Members Hear Sermons by Two Local Pastors.

SOME SPECIAL MUSIC

Rev. A. E. Wilson, of All Souls' Unitarian Church, and Rev. E. C. Conover, of Temple Baptist, the Preachers.

Members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and other Civil War veterans attended religious services twice yesterday as is their custom just prior to Memorial Day. In the morning, at All Souls' Unitarian church, the Civil War survivors heard a discourse by Rev. A. E. Wilson. Rev. E. C. Conover preached to them at night at the Temple Baptist church.

Taking for his subject, "The Builders of Our Nation," Rev. Mr. Wilson said in part:

"The history of our own nation shows that those who have been its builders have men both of peace and of war. The monument of the Minute Man at Concord Bridge with plow and musket, shows how our ancestors builded by the combined arts of peace and war. The coat of arms of the U. S., the eagle with the arrows of war in one talon and the olive branch of peace in the other, must only be taken to mean that we wage war for the sake of peace."

Addressing the old soldiers of the War of the Rebellion, Rev. Mr. Wilson said: "Were you, members of that grand army of the republic, any the less builders of your nation because for a while you became warriors? Because you felt the time had come to draw the sword that had been girt about you while you worked? You enlisted in a glorious cause. You fought for great principles. You were not an angry ruthless mob of destroyers; you were saddened, sympathetic but eager builders of your nation. You fought for peace knowing that peace could only exist in a nation wholly free, not half free.

"As warriors we salute you, but as workmen, builders of a nation that may be the most representative of the kingdom of God on earth, we honor and love you."

The congregational singing of patriotic songs; vocal solos by Miss Bessie Carson, and special music by the orchestra, composed of Whitney Frazee, Arthur Mosher, Elmer Wheeler, Dr. J. F. Berg and W. N. Conger, furnished the memorial program at the evening service in the Temple Baptist church.

"The Unselfishness of the Soldier," was the pastor's subject, who said in part: "The thousands of lives poured out on the battlefield were not in vain if they teach us the one lesson of unselfish self sacrifice. We give up ease and comfort and talk about sacrifice, but when we see the soldier, leaving all that made life worth living, to lay down his life on the altar of his country, we witness real sacrifice. Danger only urged them on. The conflict of 50 years ago is to most of us history, but we would not forget it, if for no other reason than that the spirit shown in these heroic men brings us under the influence of their unselfish conduct and leaves us on a higher plane of living and acting. The days of the Civil War were dark and bloody days, but pain offsets pain and desolation. It not only broke the shackles of slavery, but united the Union and made liberty a reality to us who come after them. Had they failed their service would have been just as great and their memory just as sacred for it is not the act but the motive that gives value, and their motive was unselfish."

ALLEGED MURDERER PLEADED NOT GULTY

Elizabeth, May 26.—Mateio Papalillo, 29 years old, of 213 West Third street, Plainfield, who on Saturday, April 12, stabbed to death, Thomas Deers, colored, 35 years old, of 217 West Third street, and was arrested by Detective Sergeant John J. Flynn and held on a charge of murder, was arraigned before Judge Bergen in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, this morning and entered a plea of "not guilty," through his counsel, Victor D'Alora, of Newark.

Judge Bergen will fix the date of the trial at a later day and Papalilla was returned to his cell in the county jail.

WOMAN'S ASSAILANT PLEADS GUILTY IN COURT

Elizabeth, May 26.—George Louis Weigand, who it is alleged shot Louise Nelson, a Cuban woman, of this city, on May 15, last, was arraigned before Judge Bergen in the Court of Oyer and Terminer here this morning and pleaded guilty to the charge. Judge Bergen informed the prisoner that he would not accept such a plea and he consequently changed it to not guilty. Abe J. David was assigned as counsel for Weigand. The date of his trial will be fixed later.

DEDICATE PIPE ORGAN AT DUNELLEN CHURCH

Bishop Luther B. Wilson preached the sermon at special services held yesterday morning in the Dunellen M. E. church, in observance of the installation of a new pipe organ. A program of music was rendered on the new instrument by Howard Wood, of New York, and Miss Ethel Van-Duyn, of Brooklyn, sang soprano solos. At the evening services the sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. O. S. Baketell, and Miss Van Duyn sang.

The new instrument was unveiled Saturday night when a special program of entertainment was enjoyed by a large gathering. Miss Alice Ralth, soprano soloist, and W. Taber Wetmore, an elocutionist, were among those who furnished the talent.

Lewis E. Waring, of West Seventh street, has returned from "Sands Point Farm," Newport, R. I., where he has been the guest of Reginald C. Vanderbilt for a few days. He made the trip by motor.

WILSON WARNS OF ANTI-TARIFF LOBBY

President Tells Country That Newspapers Are Being Subsidized by Advs.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, May 26.—President Wilson today issued the following statement:

"I think that the public ought to know the extraordinary exertions being made by the lobby in Washington to gain recognition for certain alterations of the tariff bill. Washington has seldom seen so numerous, so industrious or so insidious a lobby. The newspapers are being filled with paid advertisements calculated to mislead the judgment of public men not only but also the public opinion of the country itself.

"There is every evidence that money without limit is being spent to sustain this lobby and to create an appearance of a pressure of public opinion antagonistic to some of the chief items of the tariff bill. It is of serious interest to the country that the people at large should have no lobby and be voiceless in this matter while great bodies of astute men seek to create an artificial opinion to overcome the interests of the public for their private profit. It is thoroughly worth the while of people of this country to take knowledge of this matter. Only public opinion can check and destroy it. I know that in this I am speaking for members of the two houses who would rejoice as much as I would to be released from this unbearable situation."

—Renting a flat, or house, or other property, is strictly "a classified advertising matter." Any other way of finding tenants is impracticable, costly and—sometimes—impossible.

EPWORTH LEAGUES AT A SPECIAL SERVICE

The Epworth League of the First M. E. church observed the anniversary of the society last night, when the members together with those of the Junior Epworth League attended services in a body. Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, the pastor, delivered an appropriate sermon, taking the Oxford League motto, which was chosen at Oxford University in 1729, which is: "More Bible Knowledge, More Literary Culture, More Personal Piety and More Practical Service."

Dr. Anderson then took up each sentence of this motto from which he drew many helpful lessons for the Epworthians and others present, showing how they could increase their Christian efficiency and service in the Master's work. The quartet choir of the church, under the direction of Clifford A. Braider, organist, sang special anthems.

The Dunellen baseball team of the Central New Jersey League, playing its second game of the schedule, scored its initial victory Saturday, the conquered being the Plainfield nine, who were defeated by the score of 4 to 1. The contest was played in Plainfield on a muddy field, which hampered the work of the players considerably. The local team is now second in the league standing with a percentage of .500, having won one and lost a like number. The Somerville aggregation with one victory is leading with a clean slate. The locals were the victims of that setto

A committee of Board of Trade members composed of Paul Carpenter, G. Sumner Smith, Jacob Acton, Ellsworth Hays and John H. L. Peters, is negotiating with the Jersey Central Railroad authorities in an effort to have them provide a night agent at the local station.

An election to authorize an issue of bonds amounting to $85,000, to pay the borough's share of the cost of constructing the joint sewerage system, will be held Tuesday, July 8. The polling places for election district No. 1 will be the Lincoln School, and for district No. 2, the Borough Hall institution. Notices of the election have been posted at the fire house and other prominent places about town.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

An event of more than usual importance in the local theatrical world will be the first presentation in this city at the Plainfield theatre Wednesday evening, June 11, of Rida Johnson Young's new play, "The Isle o' Dreams," at the hands of that past master of Celtic impersonations, Chauncey Olcott. Chauncey Olcott stands on a pedestal uniquely and entirely his own. There is no other actor of the present day who as a consistent drawing card anywhere approaches him. For never less than forty weeks a year, he tours the country to an almost unbroken series of capacity houses, and such a thing as a theatre half filled is utterly unknown, whereas of course the principal reason for this is found in his marvelous gift of magnetism and personality, considerable business judgment enters into it as well. No matter how successful an Olcott play is, it is never kept on a second season, and for this reason the actor is able to hold his following from year to year as they are always sure of seeing a new play. The new play differs in a large extent from any of the Olcott plays of the past. The scene is laid on an island off the Irish coast, during the days when Bonaparte's name was a terror to Europe; the Green Isle itself was threatened with invasion, and the situation made more semplex by the Irishman's hatred of his natural protector, England. A description of an Olcott play without making reference to the Olcott songs would be like Hamlet with the melancholy Dane obliterated. He has four new ones this year, and believes they are among the best he has ever turned out.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

The engagement of the star revival of "Arizona" at the Lyric theatre has been extended one week. The New York run will consequently continue uninterruptedly until Saturday night, June 1. At first the management intended that the run should be limited to four weeks, but the continuance of large patronage has been such as to make an extension necessary in order to accommodate people still desiring to see the production. A special extra Decoration Day matinee will be given on Friday, May 30. This story of Western life by Augustus Thomas is as popular today as when it was first produced. The company includes Dustin Farnum, Elsie Ferguson, Chrystal Herne, William Farnum, Vincent Serrano, Rapley Holmes and Walter Hale. Last matinees of "Arizona" Wednesday and Saturday. Best seats for Wednesday matinee $1.50.

The approach of June, with its attendant warm weather, has failed to exercise any apparent effect upon those who flock to the new little Princess theatre to witness the tabloid dramatic and comedy novelties presented by the Princess Players. It has been definitely decided by the management that the present program, which includes "The Switchboard," "Food," "Fancy Free," "Fear" and "Any Night," will continue without interruption throughout the remainder of the current season. The success of the experiment of duplicating the Grand Guignol and Theatre Antoine of Paris in New York, has been so pronounced that F. Ray Comstock has announced a continuation of the same policies for the coming season, which will open about the middle of September. A new repertoire contributed by the best European and American writers of drama, comedy and satire is being arranged to be presented by the same excellent cast somewhat augmented.

BRITISH GOLF TITLE.

London, May 26.—The British amateur golf championship tournament, one of the blue ribbon events of the golfing world, was opened on the St. Andrew's links today and will be continued through the week. In number and quality the list of entries has never been excelled and some spirited competitions are looked for before the tournament is ended.

T. R. LIBEL SUIT UP.

Marquette, Mich., May 26.—In the circuit court here today the civil libel suit of Col. Theodore Roosevelt against George A. Hewett, editor and owner of the Iron Ore, published at Ishpeming, was called for trial. A statement published in the Iron Ore during the campaign last fall, in which it was intimated that Col. Roosevelt drank liquor to excess, is responsible for the litigation. Damages of $10,000 are asked. Considerable difficulty in procuring a jury is anticipated.

BIRTHDAY OF QUEEN MARY.

London, May 26.—The forty-sixth birthday anniversary of Queen Mary was celebrated at Windsor today. The bells of St. George's chapel and of Windsor parish church were rung, and a royal salute was fired in the Long Walk, Windsor Great Park. Many messages of greeting were dispatched by relatives and friends to Berlin, where their Majesties are visiting the German emperor.

Mrs. Morris Abrams, of Grove street, who underwent an operation at Muhlenberg Hospital, has returned home.

Miss Marsh, of North Plainfield, who underwent an operation at Muhlenberg Hospital for appendicitis, has returned home.

Mrs. George Megrew, of Central avenue, will give an informal porch dance at her home this evening.

A Telephone "Exclusively" Yours

WHEN you are preparing to leave town and your time is limited, it is annoying to have "Central" report "busy" when you want to reach someone by telephone quickly.

The person you are calling probably has party line telephone service, which means sharing the line with others. Under these conditions the service is naturally restricted.

Direct line telephone service is so much more satisfactory. No waiting—no blocked messages. Exclusive service at only a slight additional cost.

Direct line telephone service is the service that serves.

Westfield.

A union memorial service was conducted at the Methodist church last night by Rev. S. L. Loomis, of the Congregational church. The illustrated services at the Westfield theatre have been discontinued for the summer.

Robert Ellis, Raymond Brown and Edward Garcia have been called from Westfield to serve on the next petit jury.

The May festival that was to have been held in the park of the Washington School, last week, will be held this afternoon.

Hunterdon County.

Among those who attended the district convention of the Hunterdon County Patriotic Order of Americans at Baptisttown Thursday night from Camp No. 22, Glen Gardner, were Mr. and Mrs. Watson Rinehart, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Williams, Mrs. H. Kiefer Lance, Mrs. William Struble, Mrs. Charles Potter, Mrs. Anna Hann, Miss Ethel Crater and Miss Anna Van Syckle.

At a meeting of the Board of Education of Lebanon Township in Beacon Academy, Glen Gardner, Thursday afternoon, Lawyer John H. Nunn, of Glen Gardner, was appointed to visit Trenton and have a conference with Mr. Betts and try and have the difficulties between the State authorities and the local Board adjusted. The State school money has been withheld, the teachers have been paid no salary and many of them have brought suit against the Board of Education, and unless some arrangements can be made to get some of the State money, the taxpayers of Lebanon Township will be compelled to raise the amount here.

Mrs. Elijah Ort and brother, Charles Congle, of Hackettstown, were guests Friday of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller, in Glen Gardner.

Miss Mona Fletcher, of Oregon, was a week-end guest of Miss Mary E. Ricker, in Glen Gardner.

Licenses for dogs in the borough of Hampton will expire May 31.

Whitehouse.

Manager Harry Hoff, of the Arrow A. C., of Whitehouse Station, is still busy booking games, and expects to have his schedule ready soon. The next game will be played at Whitehouse Park with Glen Gardner, June 14.

The boys and girls of St. Luke's choir at Peapack, are preparing to give a performance of "The Firefly" about the middle of June. This comic opera recently had a long and successful run in New York. The solo parts will be taken by Miss Edith Stantial, Miss Mabel Ward, Miss Bessie Blazure, Miss Beatrice Smith, Miss Pearl Dalrymple, Mrs. J. M. Harper, Malcolm Blazure and Frederick Butterly, with Miss Mabel Petty at the piano

Joseph Casserly, who has been traveling in Europe, has arrived home and is at his summer estate, near Lamington.

Mrs. Theodore Cordes, of Gladstone, has gone to Detroit, Mich., to attend the fifteenth session of the O. R. C., of America.

The anniversary exercises and installation of the Epworth League of Gladstone were held last night in the Methodist church there. The topic was "The Social Impulse—Human Fellowship." The Christian Endeavor societies of Peapack and Pottersville attended.

John Auble, who was taken ill at his home in Gladstone last Sunday evening, is now reported to be improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Philhower, of Peapack, have just recovered from a serious illness.

Mrs. Edward Lucas, of Peapack, who was in a hospital in New York city for treatment for heart trouble, is home again, greatly improved in health.

Sidney S. Baker, of North Tonawanda, N. Y., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. John N. Stout, at Lamington, for a few days.

Mrs. Ella E. Burdette, who suffered a second attack of heart disease at her residence in East Whitehouse, is recovering.

The next meeting of the Wishbone Club will be held at the home of Mrs. E. V. Naylor, East Whitehouse, on the afternoon of June 4, at 3 o'clock. Dr. William H. Merrell, of Somerville, medical inspector of the public schools of Readington Township, will speak on the "Prevention of Tuberculosis."

Mrs. Emma Van Doren, of New Germantown, has gone to Scarsdale, N. Y., to visit Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Von Doren, for a few days.

For Mr. Manhattan's Summer Contentment:

The GIMBEL Semi-Annual Sale of Men's SHIRTS and PAJAMAS

16,330 Pieces, Newly and Especially Made for GIMBELS

Tomorrow at Savings of 25 to 33⅓ Per Cent.

Many?—yes; but a glance at the stockrooms where all these Shirts and Pajamas are piled high in their neat, fresh boxes, will make you think this huge number an underestimate.

And every Shirt and every pair of pajamas in the whole big quantity has been newly made up for us, from materials of our choosing, by our regular standbys—makers with whom we do business all the year. The fine saving—to us and to you—is an extra dividend for big business. No "jobs"—We inherit nobody else's mistakes nor do we pass along any of our own. GIMBEL standards, in cut, fit, finish, quality, pattern and color, prevail in every item.

There are the best Summer Pajamas we have ever been able to offer underprice; in madras, mercerized cotton and silk-and-cotton—complete range of size and color.

"MAC" SAYS

Mine eyes have seen this morning, after rubbing them some rubs,
The figures as represented in the standing of the clubs;
And what is this I'm seeing? Why the birds they pegged as duds—
It's Dunellen marching on.

Dunellen 4, Plainfield 1! Bob Bogardus was heard to remark upon stepping from the car in Dunellen Saturday night, "Dog gone! Some class to this old burg now."

That's right Bob, might as well get all the joy out of it possible, as it may not last long.

Ernest Dorflinger says, 'We should worry and swallow a spoon and get all stirred up."

That 4 to 1 victory just about partially healed Bogardus' open cuts sustained at the hands of the Plainfield crew on several different occasions last year. That times have changed is apparent now.

Warry McLaughlin was heaving his wide curve ball and had the Pets standing like so many dummies while the pellet bent right over the pan. Umpire Biernbrower (some name) said it was one of the most puzzeling balls he had ever seen. It certainly puzzeled him several times as indicated by the compliments he received from the bleachers.

The Dunellen "Corn Huskers" seem to be a bunch of in and outers. They are inners right now and it is one of those times when the bugs manage to get their share of gloating over with.

At last the Sunday-school and City Leagues have managed to get started and despite the rain of Saturday afternoon three of the four games were completed.

The array of material displayed in the makeup of the minor organizations' teams certainly looks like the real article and with a little better weather the contests ought to be worth witnessing.

In the Saurer-Spicer game Saturday afternoon, Patterson, of the former aggregation, caught the pill on the nose and sent it far into the air, and when the ball landed in a passing coal train Patterson completed a circuit, Prety good, huh? No, we're not kidding you.

An east end wag gets off this one: Looking at it from a fair and impartial standpoint, we are willing to lay one (1) dollar that Warry McLaughlin will not win 25 games during the Central New Jersey League season. That's real finance, the league schedule does not call for 25 games all told.

Manager Stallings, of the Braves, has released Pitcher Gervais, a southpaw, to the Buffalo club.

Pitcher Hopper, of the New Haven Eastern Association team, has pitched two no-hit no-run games this season.

Lester B. Hennessey, a student at Georgetown University, has signed for a trial with the Detroit Tigers. He is an infielder.

Monte Cross, the old Philadelphia star infielder, has been appointed a member of the International League staff of umpires.

With Eppa Rixey, Jr., repeating his 1912 performance, Charley Dooin's pitching staff is about the cutest bunch of flingers under the big top.

A year ago this month the Athletics were in sixth place in the American League standing, and the Phillies stood eighth in the National League race.

QUERIES, COMMENT AND ANSWERS

Sporting Editor:
Query—To whom must I apply for the use of Parker Field?—R. M.

Sporting Editor:
Query—I understand that there is a law against Sunday baseball in this State. If this is so, why is it allowed?—J. A. M.
Answer—One of the old Blue Laws states that Sunday baseball shall be prohibited if it creates a disturbance in the neighborhood where it is played. As long as the ball players keep within reasonable bounds and check all nuisances they are not molested by the law, but when the game begins to create an environment that is detrimental to the community, the law takes a hand and the ball players, managers and promoters can be fined or imprisoned.

Sporting Editor:
Query—Is there an agency here for the Marsh-Metz motorcycle and if so, how can I communicate with the agent?—M. M.
Answer—There was an agency of this kind here two years ago but at the present time this make of machine is not represented locally.

Sporting Editor:
Query—You will place me under a great obligation by telling me which team should get credit for winning yesterday's game between the Shamrocks and the Y. M. H. A. In the beginning of the ninth the score was 6 to 2 in favor of the Y. M. H. A. and in this session Maden struck out, Smith hit safely through short and scored a moment later on Pollock's fly to centre, which was muffed by Levine. Kane doubled over short, sending Pollock from first to third and the latter stole home while Todd was striking out. Kane going to third. Young hit to shortstop who held Kane on third but was unable to catch Young at first. Now for the crisis: Two strikes and three balls were called on Miner, the sixth ball pitched was called a ball by the umpire, who up to this time had been doing efficient work. Rosenson claimed that the ball should have been a strike and when Rosenson refused to play the rest of the team followed suit and walked off the field.—J. K.
Answer—The umpire has the power to award the game if, after the game has begun, one side refuses to continue play, unless the game has been suspended or terminated by the official. Therefore, the game belongs to the Shamrock team by a score of 9 to 0. Of course we have to assume that your details are correct.

The Toledo Mud Hens got a poor start in the American Association scramble. The shifting of Cy Falkenberg from Toledo to Cleveland put an awful crimp in the Hens.

Kenneth Nash, the old Brown University shortstop, last year with Cleveland and this season with Toledo, has signed with the Waterbury team, of the Eastern Association.

Wheat, Daubert and Smith are Brooklyn's real Bingle Kids. In a recent game against the Cardinals the Superba trio made ten hits with a total of 20, and scored six runs.

The new Federal League looks to be the best "outlaw" organization that has stacked up against the major leagues since the American-National League war of a dozen years ago.

When the Pirates were in New York recently, Honus Wagner came across with a sample of his old-time clouting ability. The "Flying Dutchman" is still a wicked slugger and able to cop a beaver's nanny.

After losing the first eighteen games of the season, the Newport News Virginia League team copped a contest with Pitcher Barton, formerly of Washington, in the box. Barton received a present of $100 for turning the trick

RANDOLPH MAKES AN AERIAL ASCENSION AND DUNELLEN LEAGUERS WIN A CONTEST

Because Manager Ernest Dorflinger, of the Plainfield baseball club, was sport enough to risk a deficiency in receipts, local baseball fans were forced to sit through nine innings of drizzling weather at Parker Field Saturday afternoon and then on top of that Plainfield cohorts had to see their pets walloped by Bob Bogardus' corn huskers to the tune of 4 to 1. Several times during the battle it looked as though Jupiter Pluvius would gain control of the situation but by some hook or crook the teams managed to wade through the whole nine innings and then the Plainfield ballists did not have enough. At any rate they started a ninth inning rally after two men had been put out and Nelson had two strikes and three balls on him that certainly looked dangerous for the time being, but McLaughlin repeated his trick sprung so many previous times during the afternoon and disposed of the third man with two occupying the sacks ready to dash for the registering station.

Plainfield got one run across the platter in the first round but from that point until the last put out was scored via McLaughlin to Barnes, the local batters were completely at the mercy of the veteran Warry, and he did what he wanted and at the proper time, too. Besides holding the Pets to four very much scattered bingles, he whiffed a half dozen and did a good share of the offensive work, pounding out two bingles (more than any other man on the field), and scored one putout and two assists. Dunellen's big time came in the fifth inning, when, Dixon got in a single and "Home run" Wolf came across with a scorching two base hit to the tall timbers. Frezza's single scored the final run in the sixth and these pair of innings were the only ones in which runs were scored.

In the fourth inning McLaughlin accomplished the rare feat of disposing of the opposition with three pitched balls, Nelson flying to Jim Wolf, Garretson lifting a high one to Frezza and Dodge hit a grounder to Jim Wolf who threw him out at first. Not to be undone Cliff Randolph came back with the same stunt in the ninth when he made Jim Wolf lift one to Bergen, and Dixon and George Wolf eacher flied out to Dorman. Randolph displayed erraticness throughout the game which was largely responsible for the Dunellen victory for this coupled with the visitors' ability to connect with his offerings made it comparatively easy for them to bring counters across the pan.

Three long hits were recorded during the game, Howard Craig getting a clean two bagger during his first sojourn at the rubber, George Wolf getting one of the same variety in the fifth when the run harvest came due, and Coyle got a three bagger as the result of Bergen's misjudgment in the eighth. Coyle wat she first man to hit in this inning and although he got as far as third on his three station clout, he was left stranded at that point. Montross and Frezza going out McGee to Garretson and Giddes hitting the empty air three times in quick succession.

A feature of the contest was the stellar performing of Garretson, Plainfield's new first corner guardian. During the afternoon he accepted fifteen chances, and some of them were spectacular ones, without a slip up. He also got his usual hit and stole a base.

The diamond was in a muddy condition for a baseball encounter and the players found it difficult to get started after hitting balls or in running down balls. While rounding third base in the first inning "Snapper" Bergen slid a distance of nearly ten feet in the slime but managed to slide right back to where he started and saved himself from being put out.

ONE GAME WAS PLAYED IN THE CENTRAL NEW JERSEY LEAGUE SATURDAY AFTERNOON

CENTRAL NEW JERSEY LEAGUE.

SATURDAY'S RESULTS:
Dunellen 4, Plainfield 1.
High Bridge at Somerville (wet grounds).

	W.	L.	P. C.
Somerville	1	0	1,000
Plainfield	1	1	500
Dunellen	1	1	500
High Bridge	0	1	000

GAMES NEXT SATURDAY:
Somerville at Plainfield.
Dunellen at High Bridge.

Warry McLaughlin's twirling pushed Plainfield into a tie for second place in the race for the Central New Jersey League pennant in Saturday afternoon's game, and now the Somerville aggregation holds undisputed possession of the top rung, with one victory and no defeats. On account of wet grounds the Somerville-High Bridge game was declared off and the Plainfield and Dunellen teams were the only nines active over the week-end.

Next Saturday afternoon Somerville comes to this city to play the Pets and the Dunellen ballists go to High Bridge where they are due to face Freddy's slants. Dunellen and Plainfield are now tied for second honors and the High Bridge aggregation, which was defeated by Plainfield last week, still remain at the bottom, being inactive over the week-end.

M'CARTY'S NECK BROKEN IN BOUT

Autopsy Shows That Blow on Chin Was Direct Cause of Collapse.

It was not heart trouble, but a fracture of the spine that caused the death of Luther McCarty Saturday afternoon following a knockout in the first round of his bout with Arthur Pelkey, of Calgary. The coroner's physicians yesterday performed an autopsy and while none will give out any statement, it is declared on good authority that McCarty's spine was fractured and that death was actually due to hemorrhage of the brain by a spinal fracture.

The inquest is set for this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The Royal Northwest Mounted Police today summoned all newspaper men at the ringside, officials of the bout and all doctors who entered the ring to aid in reviving McCarty.

Doctors have stated that McCarty's heart, while not exactly normal, was not in such shape as to have caus d death in itself from shock.

Pelkey is still at Tommy Burns' residence and is under medical attention. He is much depressed. He says he will defend the world's championship, but not for some time.

Practically every minister in Calgary yesterday referred to the tragedy, and one, the Rev Seymore, Baptist, referred to it as "deliberate murder."

McCarty never survivi ed the effects of a terrific blow which Arthur Pelkey, a giant rate bruiser, delivered in the first round of their fight Saturday. He crumpled up, fell against the ropes and then rolled to the floor. Eight minutes later he was dead.

It was a tragic ending for the young Western giant, who, having decisively whipped Morris Kaufman, Fitzsimmons and Palzer, had hoped to make big money even bigger by being the first white man to knock out Johnson.

Arthur Pelkey was arrested on the charge of manslaughter by the northwestern mounted police and released a short time afterward on bail.

PLAY FOR PRESIDENT'S AND OAKMONT CUPS

Play for the President's and Oakmont cups were the two events scheduled at the Park Golf Club, Saturday. The weekly "goats" competition was not played, neither challengers nor holders desiring to play. There was a large number of players entered in the two competitions, but only a limited few returned their scores. Those who posted for the President's cup follow:

N. H. Morrison, 91, 12-79; Peter C. Sweeny, 94, 8-86; J. V. Beekman, 106, 16-90; Frank W. Thompson, 125, 25-100.

These scores were returned for the Oakmont cup:

W. P. Taylor, 80, plus 3-83; U. G. Tingley, 104, 17-87; Royle T. Phillips, 111, 20-91; H. H. Woodland, 111, 12-99.

CHANCE TRADES STUMPF.

A trade between the New York and Cleveland teams of the American League has been completed whereby the Yanks secure Shortstop Roger Peckinpaugh in exchange for Infielder William Stumpf and Outfielder Jack Lelivelt. Peckinpaugh has been ordered to report at once, and Manager Chance plans to use him regularly at shortstop. He may be in the Yankee lineup when the team takes the field against the Boston Red Sox at the Polo Grounds this afternoon.

SOMERVILLE TEAM DEFEATED Y. M. A. A.

A Score of 11 to 4 Was Rolled up on the Local Team's Field Saturday.

Once more the Y. M. A. A. baseball team was forced to partake of the defeat cup Saturday afternoon when the strong Somerville Klinkers came to this city and went back home two hours later with a 11 to 4 victory tucked away under their belts. It was another case of poor fielding and bad streaks of luck which helped the visitors to get plentiful supplies of runs in many of the innings.

As far as hitting was concerned the Y. M. A. A. ran on a level with the Somerville aggregation, getting seven hits against the winners' eight. Hadley, although he has not twirled before in two years, put up a splendid game during the ten rounds he graced the mound and will no doubt be of great value to the Y. M. A. A. contingent when he warms up to the box game. Considering the condition of the field the fielding was good, a total of eleven errors being the contribution during the afternoon.

LOCAL BOYS VISITED PRINCETON UNIVERSITY

Under the auspices of the Princeton Alumni Association of Plainfield, thirty-five boys of Plainfield and North Plainfield went to Princeton in automobiles on Saturday, the cars being offered for the day by Princeton graduates living here. The start was made at 10 o'clock in the morning and the large party returned home shortly before 8 o'clock in the evening.

The boys saw Princeton defeated by Harvard in the ball game. Nevertheless, there were other things that kept up the boys' enthusiasm, such as the interscholastic track meet. Luncheon was served at the University Commons and afterward an opportunity was given for seeing Princeton's campus, which is at its best at this time of the year.

Although all four teams started activities in the City Baseball League Saturday afternoon in the race for the Daily Press cup, but one of the games played will be counted in the league standing as the Royal Colored Giants and West Ends contest had to be curtailed after two innings had been played on account of rain and the game will have to be replayed. In the other clash, the Spicer aggregation was treated to a decisive walloping by the Saurer combination who scored a total of 22 runs against their opponent's 2.

Some good material loomed up in the first games of the season, a number of former semi-professional stars in City League uniforms and the organization took on the appearance of a real ball circuit at the out set. Next Saturday afternoon the Spicer team will play the Royal Giants at Filmore avenue while the West Ends and Saurers will meet on Clinton avenue.

SAURERS SLAUGHTER SPICER MOUNDSMEN

Eighteen Bingles Yielded Twenty-two Runs in League Contest.

Eighteen hits including a number of the extra base variety caused the downfall of the Spicer baseball team in its first game of the City League season played with the Saurer Leaguers on the Clinton avenue grounds Saturday afternoon. From the beginning until the end there was nothing to it but Saurer, the final count reading 22 to 2 in favor of the motor truck makers. Patterson's hitting was a bright feature of the game, he getting four hits during the afternoon, and his collection included a two bagger, two three baggers and a circuit clout. His four base hit was made in a spectacular manner, the ball landing in a passing coal train and being carried away.

The best the losers could do against Fulton's heaving was to pole out a quartet of bingles, two of which were made by Sheenan. Britt Martin, the former Dunellen and Plainfield player, occupied the second sack for the Saurer combination and showed to advantage at this position both in the hitting and fielding department. Fleming and Campbell, who twirled for the losers, were hit consistently and when hits meant runs, their curves proving no puzzle to the Saurer hitsmiths.

The ultimate winners started the run getting in the first inning bringing across four counters and from then on they tallied whenever they chose. A fulisade of hitting and speedy base running caused the scoring of nine runs in the eighth stanza which sewed up the contest beyond all doubt.

SHAMROCKS DEFEATED BY Y. M. H. A. AGGREGATION

According to Y. M. H. A. authority, the Shamrock A. C. was trounced to the tune of 6 to 4 by the Y. M. H. A. team yesterday afternoon at Riverside Park, but there appears to be two sides to the question as is stated in detail in today's query column of this issue. The Y. M. H. A. manager says that for the first four innings the Shamrocks were held scoreless while the latter came to life in the fifth and ninth innings but not enough to win.

The game was one of the best Riverside Park visitors have witnessed this season, but two errors being made by the contestants. Rosenson's pitching was a feature of the contest, striking out fourteen men, while Maden whiffed seven of the other side.

The lineup:

Shamrocks—Pollock c, Smith p, Miller 1b, Young 2b, Kane 2b, Maden ss and p, Hamilton 3b, Taynor lf, Todd cf, Josephs rf.

Y. M. H. A.—Shrager c, P. Moskovitz 2b, H. Rosenson ss, B. Rosenson p, Baron 3b, Rose 1b, Stierer lf, Breen rf, Levine cf.

Summary—Earned runs, Y. M. H. A. 4, Shamrocks 2; struck out, by Rosenson 14, by Smith 4, by Maden 7; errors, Shamrocks 2; attendance 150; time of game 1 hr. 50 min.

FIVE INNINGS WAS ENOUGH TO WIN IN High Bridge Treated to its Second Defeat of the Season Saturday.

Five innings was long enough for the North Plainfield High School baseball players to defeat the High Bridge school boys by a score of 1 to 0 Saturday afternoon, but that little time of play was altogether too long for the visitors In the first place they did not want to play the game and after five innings had been played walked off the field, but this was just exactly long enough to make it a regulation game and the N. P. H. S. boys now have revenge tucked under their belts for the 1 to 0 defeat handed to them at High Bridge three weeks ago in a thirteen inning struggle

Spencer exchanged pitching laurels with Gerard this trip, and his work on the mound during the boroughites' victory was just as conspicuous as that of Gerard on the previous occasion. He held the visitors to one hit while his team mates pounded out five in the same number of innings.

P. H. S. BASEBALL TEAM DID NOT GO TO TRENTON

Weather conditions deferred the trip of the Plainfield High School baseball team to Trenton Saturday afternoon to play the High School of that place and it is probable that a later date will be scheduled. The local school boys are particularly anxious to meet the Capitol City aggregation for a defeat over this combination means a partially established claim to the New Jersey High School title which the Queen City lads are after.

The postponement suited the Trentonians to a nicety for three of their best players are away at the present time and would have been unable to take part in the game. It is the custom in the Trenton High School to conduct a trip for the senior class every year and three of the ball players were among those who left for Washington Friday afternoon.

LOW SCORES POSTED IN SECOND ROUND PLAY

The second round play for the Spring Handicap cup was the chief event at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday, while another competition of interest was a golf ball sweepstakes in which a number of players entered. There were several close matches in the play for the Spring Handicap cup, two in particular going extra holes. R. S. Rowland beat W. Lester Glenny, 1 up, (19 holes), while it took an extra hole for Frank O. Reinhart to beat H. E. Butler. The result of the play follows:

Class A—S. D. Lounsbery beat H. R. Stockton, 5 and 3; R. S. Rowland beat W. Lester Glenney, 1 up (19 holes); H. D. Hibbard beat Arthur M. Collens, 3 and 1; Frank O. Reinhart beat H. E. Butler, 1 up (19 holes).

Class B—J. V. Beekman beat A. W. Kleinecke, 1 up; C. C. Burke beat Dr. F. E. DuBois, 7 and 5; G. M. Holstein beat C. M. Church, 1 up; L. H. Gates beat T S. Wheeler, 1 up.

These scores were returned in the sweepstakes:

G. A. Bowman, 101, 27-75; H. E. Butler, 87, 12-75; S. D. Lounsbery, 86, 9-77; D. O. Rogers, 89, 10-79; D. H. Rowland, 97, 18-79; L. G. Carman, 90, 10-80; W. W. Coriell, 112, 27-85; W. M. Alling, 114, 27-87; A. W Kleinecke, 112, 25-87

TRINITY LOST GAME BUT OUTHIT RIVALS

Losing Side Prove to Be Best Hitters and Fielders— Mt. Pleasant Won.

Although the Trinity baseball team lost to the Mt. Pleasant combination Saturday afternoon, the local church boys pounded out fourteen hits against their opponents' thirteen and also held a decided edge on the fielding. The final score was 14 to 8 in favor of the Mt Pleasant ballists but in every other department of the game except the run getting the Trinity lads excelled. Marven, who twirled for the winning side, was touched for some timely bingles but on the whole pitched a better article of ball than did his opponent who was unusually erratic at times. Besides doing the bulk of the defensive work, Marven got a pier of two base wallops and a single on the offense and stole five bases. For the losers McAfee and Harvey did the best sticking, the former making three hits and the latter one more.

CITY FATHERS TO PLAY BALL.

Members of the West End Civic Association and the Netherwood Residents' Association held their respective baseball practises Saturday afternoon in preparation for the annual baseball game which will be played next Saturday afternoon. Both organizations have a wealth of fast material and the contest promises to be a speedy one.

LOCAL SCHOOLBOYS IN NINTH POSITION

Ralph Runyon Won Pole Vault and Got Third in the High Jump.

Plainfield High School's five representatives in the Princeton Club's field and track meet held at Newark Saturday afternoon managed to clean up three points and placed their Alma Mater in ninth place in the school standing. Ralph Runyon, a heretofore unheard of star in interscholastic circles, tied for first place in the pole vault with a mark of 9 feet 6 inches. It was impossible for the boys to get a footing after they had reached this mark and it was decided to draw for the gold medal which was offered as first prize and Runyon was luckey enough to win it in this fashion.

In the mile run Alfred Day became confused concerning the length of the track and uncorked his sprint a lap sooner than he should have and was forced to be contented with fifth place. Runyon also tied for third place in the high jump, the winning mark being 5 feet 4½ inches. VanZant, in the broad jump and 100 yard dash, and Waller in the shot-put and 220 yard dash, failed to qualify. Taylor, the Westfield High School crack, came in third in the 100 yard dash and tied for third in the broad jump with a mark of 19 feet, 6 inches.

P. H. S. ATHLETES ENTERED IN RUTGERS ATHLETIC MEET

Plainfield High School will be represented by the school's best athletic talent in the Rutgers College interscholastic meet which will be held at New Brunswick next Saturday afternoon and the local boys expect to get in the running for the handsome team trophy up for competition.

John Ryerson and Tonne Dennison are entered in the 880 yard run, Philip Schuyler, Alfred Day and Ned Jenkins in the mile event, Arthur Van Zandt in the broad jump, Ralph Runyon in the pole vault and high jump and Morris Mann in the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Runyon stands an excellent show of winning the events that he has entered as the field is considered to be slower than the one over which he secured first in the pole vault and third in the high jump at Newark Saturday afternoon.

JAP TO PLAY HOPPE.

New York, May 26.—The question as to whether William F. Hoppe, the youthful billiard player, is invincible with the cue may find its answer in the match at the Hotel Astor tomorrow night, when he will defend his title of 18.2 balkline champion against Koji Yamada, the Japanese expert. The contest promises to be unusually attractive to all lovers of the art of carroms. Both of the principals are brilliant exponents of the intricacies and beauties of balkline billiards. In the tournament for the world's championship at the Hotel Astor last winter Yamada was the only player who scored a victory over Hoppe.

Y. M. A. A. GAMES.

Decoration Day morning Manager William Conger of the Y. M. A. A. baseball team, has scheduled the Mt. Pleasant nine to appear on the local field and in the afternoon the Plainfielders will go to Bound Brook where they will meet the St. Joseph's nine. Saturday afternoon the Y. M. A. A. will cross bats with Holy Cross on the Center street diamond.

ORTLIEB MAY ENTER LEAGUE.

There is a possibility that George Ortlieb, who has been released by the Lawrence Club of the New England League to Worchester, may join one of the Central New Jersey League teams as a member of the pitching staff. Ortlieb returned to his home in Westfield when released and is at present without a job.

DIAMOND REMODELING.

Work was started on the Y. M. A. A. baseball diamond at Centre and Seventh street this morning and Manager Conger says that it will be turned into an up-to-date fast field before next Friday morning. At that time the Y. M. A. A. team will play the Mt. Pleasant nine.

The McWilliams Bible class of Hope chapel will hold a business session tomorrow night.

HOPE CHAPEL AND FIRST BAPTIST WIN INITIAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAGUE GAMES

SUNDAY-SCHOOL BASEBALL LEAGUE.
SATURDAY'S RESULTS:
Hope Chapel 7, Monroe Avenue 5.
First Baptist 9, Park Avenue 5.
STANDING OF TEAMS:

Hope Chapel	1	0	1,000
First Baptist	1	0	1,000
Monroe Avenue	0	1	000
Park Avenue	0	1	000

First Baptist at Hope Chapel.
Monroe Avenue at Park Avenue.

Hope Chapel and First Baptist inaugurated the second year of the Sunday-school Baseball League Saturday afternoon by defeating Monroe Avenue and Park Avenue Baptist respectively, in the initial games in the 1913 league race and are now tied for first place in the standing with one game apiece. Park Avenue and Monroe, although they put up losing games, displayed some excellent baseball ability and are looked upon as lively contenders for the bunting in spite of the fact that they suffered an early defeat.

Next Saturday the two league leaders will clash and the result will put some one of the aggregations in second place while the other will be able to hold on to the top rung single handed. The two games played Saturday afternoon were closely contested, being won by margins of two and four runs. The four pitchers appear to be about evenly matched and the games to come will probably all be as closely fought, if Saturday's performances may be taken as a criteron.

HOPE CHAPEL WINS WELL PLAYED GAME

Consistent Playing Gives the Chapelites Their First S. S. League Contest.

Playing consistent baseball from flag fall to flag fall, the Hope Chapel baseball team won an uphill battle against the Monroe Avenue M. E team in the initial contest of the Sunday-school League Saturday afternoon, coming out in the van with a tally card of 7 to 5. The affair was a pitchers' battle in the broad sense of the word, each team getting the same number of runs as it did hits, and the rival moundsmen displaying some stellar twirling, especially in crucial situations. Monroe's scoring came in bunches, their tallies being brought to cover in the first and sixth innings, while the Chapelites took a little at a time and had two runs to the good when the final out was recorded.

Schott, who twirled Hope Chapel to a pennant last season, was back on the mound for the same aggregation once more, and besides holding the opposition to five hits he fanned thirteen. Hess, who opposed him was nearly as effective, allowing his seven bingles and fanning eleven. At hitters, Gunzelman and Beekman surpassed all others, getting a couple a piece, while H. Terry pounded a two sacker. In fielding Hope Chapel had the edge on their opponents, making but four errors against the Monroe team's seven.

WET GROUNDS AT SOMERVILLE.

The Central New Jersey League game scheduled to be played at Somerville, Saturday afternoon, between the High Bridge and Somerville teams was called off at noon on the playing day because of the wet condition of the grounds. As a result both teams were idle Saturday.

DECORATION DAY MEET.

Following the annual custom, the residents of South Plainfield are planning for their annual road meet which will be held on Maple avenue, Decoration Day. A number of local athletes have entered the events for which a large array of tempting prizes have been offered.

HEAVY HITTING WON FOR FIRST BAPTIST

Mills and VanArsdale Were Easy for Baptist Hitsmiths in Opening Game.

Timely and effective clouting won the opening game of the Sunday-school League race for the First Baptist ball tossers against Park Avenue Saturday afternoon, the losers being compelled to use two men in the box during the nine innings. This pair yielded an even dozen bingles which netted the First Baptist lads nine runs against their opponents five.

Both teams fielded well and with men on bases the supporters both in the infield and outfield were generally steady and reliable. After the winners finished their tallying in the first six rounds the Parks managed to push across five counters but their rally came too late and could not be padded enough to win.

TRINITY'S NEXT GAME.

On Decoration Day afternoon the Trinity baseball team will cross bats with the First Presbyterian aggregation on Hope Common at 3:30 o'clock. Trinity was the victor in the first clash between these two rivals and a close game is looked forward to. Several Trinity players who play with other teams Saturday afternoons will be in the lineup for this contest and will greatly bolster the nine. The Dutch Arms Band was originally scheduled to play at this game but owing to the fact that several of the members play in the Plainfield band it will be unable to attend the game.

BOUND BROOK TO STAY OUT.

According to Manager Charlie Newhouse, the Bound Brook baseball team will not be a contestant in the Central New Jersey League race this season. The decision which has been reached by the Bound Brook manager will be a surprise and disappointment to the many fans in this part of the State. Bound Brook will play independent ball which the manager believes will be more profitable.

Savory Spinach.

Spinach is a vegetable with unrealized possibilities. To begin with, it is within the reach of almost all pocketbooks for many months of the year. Moreover, it can be cooked in many and varied ways about which few of the cooks seem to know.

Spinach Soup.

There are several ways of making spinach soup. One way calls for a pound of spinach, two ounces of pistachio nuts and three cupfuls of stock. The spinach should be boiled in slightly salted water until it is very tender, and then drained. Then it should be chopped fine with the nuts and then put in a saucepan with the stock, boiling hot. It should then be simmered slowly for seven or eight minutes and served.

Cream spinach soup calls for half a peck of spinach, which is to be cooked with a scant four cupfuls of water until it is tender. Then it is to be drained, chopped and forced through a fine wire sieve. A quart of boiling hot milk is to be thickened with a tablespoonful of flour rubbed in a tablespoonful of butter, and the spinach is to be added to the hot milk, with salt and pepper. It is then ready to serve.

As a Vegetable.

There are many ways of preparing spinach as a vegetable. It can be cooked tender, then chopped fine and garnished with eggs; it can be chopped fine and seasoned with butter, pepper and salt; it can be chopped and then moistened with a little well-flavored soup stock.

The following way of preparing it is especially delicious when the spinach is fresh and crisp, as it generally is when it can be bought near home in the summer time:

Boil the spinach in salted water until it is very tender. Drain it thoroughly and chop it and drain it in a colander. Season it well with salt and pepper. For each quart of chopped spinach mix two tablespoonfuls of butter and one of flour in a frying pan. When this is smooth add the spinach and stir, cooking slowly, for five minutes. Then add half a cupful of cream or milk. Stir two or three minutes longer over the fire and serve.

As a Salad.

Bird's nest salad is made with cold cooked spinach. Drain it and chop it fine and shape it into little birds' nests. Put a little mayonnaise dressing in the bottom of each. Crumble the yolks of hard boiled eggs, season them with melted butter, salt, paprika, onion juice and a little minced parsley. Mould the mixture into little yellow eggs and place a few in each nest.

BREAKFAST OMELETS.

CREAMY omelets give zest to the morning meal. They tempt the appetite of those who are apt to slight the first food of the day. They are just the things for those who complain of no appetite for breakfast. Some suggestions for nourishing omelets are given here:

A Plain Omelet.

Browned Omelet.—Take four eggs, four tablespoonfuls of milk, one-quarter teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper. Mix the beaten yolks of the eggs with milk and seasoning. Fold into this the stiffly beaten whites. Pour into a hot skillet in which a little fat has been melted. Cook with a very low fire until brown on the underside. Dry in the oven.

Fish and Eggs.

Fish Omelet.—Take a level teaspoonful each of flour and butter and cook them together. Add gradually one cupful of hot milk and a little pepper. Soak over night one heaping cupful of codfish cut in small pieces. In the morning cook until soft that it may shred easily. Mix with thickened milk. Then mix the whole with one pint of cold boiled potatoes chopped fine. Put a tablespoonful of butter in a spider. When hot turn in the fish and cook slowly until a thick brown crust has formed; then fold over and turn out on a hot platter. Garnish with fried bacon and parsley.

A Vegetable Novelty.

Potato Omelet.—Take one tablespoonful of drippings and one tablespoonful of grated onion. Add, chopped, the potatoes which are left over from dinner. Place in an iron pan. Dust with one teaspoonful of salt and one-eighth teaspoonful of white pepper. With cake turner or spatula keep turning the potatoes until they begin to brown. Do not add the drippings. Beat four eggs with four tablespoonfuls of cold milk. Pour over the hot brown potatoes and mix well. Let set for a minute; then double like an omelet by pushing the potato into half the pan. Turn out on hot platter, sprinkle with chopped parsley and garnish with sprigs of parsley.

Baked Omelet.—Beat the yolks of four eggs until lemon colored with one-half teaspoonful of salt. Add one cupful of milk and the stiff beaten whites of the eggs. Pour in greased pan and bake in moderate oven twelve minutes.

Bennie Ran to the House.

When Bennie First Fed The Gobbler.

JACK and Evelyn were to go to visit in the country as soon as school closed. They were to stay at a farm, and many were the questions they asked daddy about the nice things they expected to see there.

"You will find the barnyard a very jolly place," daddy said. "In it there may be horses, cows, sheep, pigs, chickens, geese, ducks—yes, and I shouldn't be surprised if there were a turkey gobbler or so strutting around looking as if he owned the whole place."

"Once I knew a little boy who went to visit at a farm," daddy went on. "He had been to other farms, and he knew all about horses, cows, pigs, chickens and things of that kind. He always asked to feed the chickens.

"So in the morning when he had eaten his breakfast in the big airy kitchen he said to Aunt Emma:

"'Please may I go out and feed the chickies, Aunt Emma?'

"Aunt Emma smiled and said as soon as she had cleared off the table there would be some scraps which he could take to them.

"So after awhile she gave the little chap, whose name was Bennie, a brown basket in which were bits of food from the table. Bennie put on his little hat and, taking the basket in his hand, started out for the barnyard.

"He opened the gate very carefully and, going in, stood in the middle of the yard looking about for the chickens. Some of them were scratching in the dust, but he knew that a great many others were in the barn.

"So Bennie raised his voice and called 'Chickie, chickie!' as loud as he could.

"Although Bennie was a stranger, they saw the little basket and came running to find out what was in it. They knew that baskets generally meant something good to eat.

"Ducks and geese came too. Bennie was a little timid about geese, and he threw some scraps of bread away out where the geese were, and then he backed off toward the gate. Geese sometimes hiss at little boys, but when they are busy eating of course they can't do this.

"The basket was empty now, and Bennie, swinging it in his hand, had almost reached the gate.

"Just then a big bronze bird stalked out of the barn and, seeing the other fowls eating, came rushing out with a fierce 'Gobble, gobble!'

"Bennie, frightened, turned and ran to the house.

"'Oh, Aunt Emma,' he shrieked; 'there's a big bird out there with a windmill on his back, and he chased me out of the barnyard!'

"But now Bennie knows a turkey when he sees one, and he blushes when his folks tell this story about him."

CANDIES, ICE CREAM, DAINTY LUNCH

—the Boynton Newport, burning both coal and gas. This has two roomy ovens for bread, cakes and pies; and ample top space for all manner of boiling, frying and stewing. But, best of all, it does these various kinds of cooking to perfection.

The careful housewife is seldom disappointed if she puts her trust in a "BOYNTON NEWPORT."

This is a fine hot weather range because gas burning does not overheat the kitchen. Has a large water back and handy dampers. See it at our dealer's.

Abbott-Detroit 44-50, Fully Equipped, $2100

YOU WANT YOUR CAR NOW, OF COURSE!

Even automobile "fans," whom no rigor of weather can keep from their place behind the steering wheel, admit that Spring is the glorious, the ideal motoring time of the year. And so, of course, you want right now the car you've been intending to buy any time these last few months.

To want a thing in a hurry is—usually—not wise. It means you may have to sacrifice quality to gain time.

Not always, however.

We have our new Abbott models—smart, powerful, luxurious—ready for your inspection.

And, after you have looked them over critically—the sturdy, workmanlike chassis; the big, powerful, silently-working Continental Motor; the simple yet ingenious starting device, the luxurious bodies with their sweep of graceful, gently curving lines; the perfection of detail with which the interior is worked out, down to the rich, 12-inch thick upholstering.

After you have noted all these, compare them with cars selling at anywhere within twice the Abbott price, and then come back here—why, we have the car ready for immediate delivery to you.

Sounds self-assured? Yet it is the result of our almost daily experience. Our most eager buyers as well as our most enthusiastic owners are those who have only bought after critically comparing Abbott merits with those of cars at and 'way above Abbott prices.

So, if only a basis of comparison, pay us a visit here. You won't be solicited and you won't be urged to buy. But intelligent, well-informed salesmen will point out to you the merits and features of the Abbott line. It'll help you, no matter what car you ultimately decide to buy. And it will certainly help you if you want—what the Abbott can give you—prompt delivery and the best "buy" the automobile field offers this season.

FIELD DAY MEET ON THE CAMPUS

Closing of Gymnasium Classes at the College of Mt. St. Mary.

WINNERS OF PRIZES

Sixty Took Part in Outdoor Events Under Direction of Physical Director—Senior Banquet to Held Tonight.

Fifty students took part in the closing exercises of the College of Mt. St. Mary's physical department on the campus of that institution this morning and the elaborate program of events was witnessed by several hundred people. Under the direction of Sergeant Henry Barker, of New York city, physical director, the pupils demonstrated the work accomplished along the line of physical education during the term just closed and the exhibition consisted of practical work such as is taught by Mr. Barker during the regular sessions.

The program was divided into various parts according to the nature of the drills and the benefits afforded the pupils taking the specified courses doing the demonstration work. By this means the spectators were shown the advantage derived from propertly supervised Swedish drills, dumb bell drills, Indian club swinging and recreative games, adaptable to outdoor work. The drills and marches were exhibitd with musical accompaniments and this feature added greatly to the occasion.

The program included a Swedish drill in which the members of the boys' and girls' gymnasium classes took part and which was shown to a song accompaniment; a dumb bell drill and singing by the boys' and girls' classes; a hurdle race for boys; bar bells for the girls' class and singing; an obstacle race for boys; Indian club swinging by girls; a running high jump for boys and girls; an archery contest for girls; 100 yard dash for girls; a relay race for boys and girls, socco football for boys and girls; running maze; and a humorous combat by the boys' classes.

Prizes in the competitive events were given for first and second places and were awarded to Miss Katherine Griffin for first place and in the running maze and to Miss Isabella Mullen for second place; to Miss Annabella Jones for first place in the relay race and to Miss Agnes O'Connor for second place; to Miss Margaret Caullet for first in the high jump and to Miss Irene Smith for second; to Miss Kathleen Brown for first in the Archery contest and to Miss Katherine Horan for second; to Master Carl Loientz for first in the obstacle race and to Otto Keller for second.

Recreative games including soccor football and basketball were given following the athletic contests and tonight the annual senior banquet will be held at the college.

The graduation exercises will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the college building. The program for tomorrow afternoon: Marshal, John Alfred Brewster, A. M; music by the orchestra; address, Rev. John M. Norris, J. C. D.; music by orchestra; conferring of Degree of Bachelor of Arts by Right Rev. James A. McFaul, D. D., LL. D.; candidates presented by Rev. William H. Miller, A. M.; music by orchestra; Baccalaureate address by James A. Walsh, M. D., Ph. D.; recessional, "Marche Festivale," by the orchestra. Miss Mary O'Connor will be the accompanist.

MRS. CLARKSON WATTS DIED AT NEWARK HOME

Mrs. Clarkson Watts, formerly of this city but later of Newark, died at the latter place on Sunday night, following a week's illness. She was the mother of G. F. Watts, of Chatham street, North Plainfield. The interment will be made in the North Plainfield cemetery Thursday afternoon, the Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson officiating at the grave. The funeral services will be held at the house tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Clarkson was born in Bound Brook seventy-one years ago and was well known in this city, where she resided for many years, both in Plainfield and Bound Brook. She was the daughter of William Moffett and a sister of former Councilman Moffett, of this city.

IOWA SHOOTING TOURNEY.

Fort Dodge, Ia., May 27.—Half a hundred crack shots of national reputation faced the traps here today at the opening of the annual State trap-shooting tournament of the Iowa Sportsmen's Association. The tournament program this year covers three days. The daily card calls for ten events of fifteen targets each.

THE TEMPERATURE.

GAVE MINSTREL TO BOOST ATHLETICS

Warren Chapel Boys Assisted by Camp Fire Girls in Presenting Entertainment.

As the result of a minstrel show presented by amateur talent composed of Warren Chapel boys, in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium last night, the Athletic Association of that church will realize a neat sum which will be used in outfitting a baseball team. Sixteen boys made up a chorus of songsters that rendered a number of the latest song hits in a way that called forth round after round of applause from the enthusiastic audience and vein of humor handed out by the end men was both original and appreciative. The setting represented a deck of a ship and the chorus were costumed in sailor suits to correspond with the scene.

The second part of the program consisted of a Camp Fire exhibition led by Miss Edith Wetherill, physical director of the Y. W. C. A., and the girls who took part in this feature of the evening's entertainment demonstrated a various phases of the Camp Fire work. As a finale the Berse brothers, Leo and Benjamin, presented a sketch and this part of the program served as a fitting climax for the affair, it being by part the feature part of the show.

Those in the chorus were John Dawe, Clarence Higgins, Albert and Richard Schenck, John Richards, Leo Berse, Ramsey Wilson, Leon Larson, T. Higgins, Edward Windham, Robert Dawe, Horace Bunker, W. W. Williams, Walter Cubberly and J. Page. William F. Richards acted as interlocutor, and the end men were Benjamin Berse, Charles Mumford, James Goodwin and Robert Gavett. Charles Mumford coached the cast.

FORT TO ADDRESS THE TRADE BOARD

Former Governor and Others to Speak at the Civic Body's Big "Round-up."

The Plainfield Board of Trade has arranged for what is called a "round-up meeting" to be held in Sebring's Auditorium, Tuesday night, June 3, when it is expected that here will be present prominent representatives from various Board of Trade throughout the State. Already responses have been received from a number of these organizations that they will be represented at the meeting.

Former Governor John Franklin Fort will speak on "Civic Pride and How to Cultivate It," and the other speakers will be George Veihman, of New Brunswick; Senator W. W. Smalley, of Bound Brook; Austin Colgate, of East Orange, and there will be delegations from Jersey City, Newark, Elizabeth, Westfield, Dunellen, Bound Brook and Somerville.

CAMPAIGNING FOR 1,000 FOR ITS SUNDAY SCHOOL

The campaign being conducted by the Bible school of the First Baptist church whereby it is hoped to have 1,000 members by Christmas is progressing satisfactorily, according to the report presented at the monthly meeting of the officers and teachers held last night at the home of B. J. Shreve, on Grove street. Last Sunday the total membership was reported to be 695 and new members are being added each week.

It was announced that the annual excursion to Asbury Park will be on Thursday, July 10, a little earlier than last year. Various changes were recommended in the constitution, especially as to the election of officers and they will be voted upon at a future meeting of the officers and teachers. The report from the various departments showed progress. After the business there was a social hour, during which ice cream and cake were served. It was stated that Mrs. Lucie Rising, the church missionary who has gone abroad to attend the International Sunday-school Convention in Switzerland, was due to arrive in Jerusalem today, en route for the place of the convention.

SCHOOL CLOSING DATES.

FALLS TWENTY FEET BREAKS COLLAR BONE

Standing on a scaffolding attached to a ladder applying stucco to the recently erected garage of the Standard Automobile and Tire Co., at 42-46 Somerset street, this morning, Charles Bimble, a mason, of 13 Jefferson avenue, North Plainfield, an employe of William C. Smith, a mason contractor, sustained a broken collar-bone when the scaffold gave way, dashing him to the ground twenty feet below. Picked up in a semi-conscious condition, he was placed in a runabout auto and driven by Victor Clemens to Muhlenberg Hospital.

William C Smith, Jr., who was in charge of the job at the time, said men had been working on the scaffoldboard all day yesterday, and that the contrivance seemed strong enough. Bimble is a heavy man, however, and the scaffoldboard, which is an attachment hooked on a ladder to allow standing room for a man to work at a high point, was a frail affair of oak and iron. It was the iron brace which gave way and caused the fall.

In dropping to the ground Bimble struck a heavy spruce plank which broke in half from the force of the impact and toppled over on the sidewalk. He narrowly missed falling into an area ten feet deep which led into the basement of the building.

TEN FOR ONE FOR MR. 'EARLY STARTER'

Some Pointers for Aspirants for the Automobiles and Other Prizes.

The schedule of votes in The Daily Press contest has been so arranged that it will be impossible for any candidate to find out the standing of another and send enough subscriptions to his friends gratis to defeat the candidate who began the race early. The fairness of this has been commented upon by the public and those who intend to make the race.

Ten For One.

The number of votes allowed at the beginning of the contest will be ten times the number allowed during the last period. For every dollar in subscriptions a candidate turns in up to and including June 18 his competitor who does not get started early will have to turn in ten to equal the number of votes received by Mr. "Early Starter." This eliminates the possibility for any candidate to spend money to win the grand prize, the Henderson car. Were it money The Daily Press wanted perhaps it would benefit this newspaper to a greater extent if the arrangement of the vote schedule were revised. The Daily Press wants readers, readers who consider The Daily Press worth the price paid.

Bear In Mind.

Candidate should remember in asking their friends for a subscription to The Daily Press that they are giving them value over and over again. Oftentimes when a friend is approached rather than give a subscription he will offer a thousand different excuses such as "If I thought you had a chance I would take it," "You can't win; the contest man has it all framed up who the winner will be;" "John Jones has ten million votes, you had better drop out." Perhaps he is a better friend to John Jones that he is to the solicitor and if he discourages the solicitor John Jones will have one less to beat. A person who comes out with a flat "NO" is a better friend that the one who tries to discourage.

WILLIAM BROWN DIES, AGED FIFTY-THREE YEARS

William Brown, aged 53 years, of 514 Watchung avenue, died of a complication of diseases this morning following an illness of two months. He was stricken by paralysis and was under treatment at Muhlenberg Hospital for a time.

Mr. Brown was a native of Scotland and had lived in Plainfield about twenty years. He was engaged in the jewelry and watch-making business for many years, both in New York and this city. He was a member of the Independent Order of Foresters.

There survives a wife, two sons, James and William Brown, the latter being in the regular army, and one daughter, Miss Agnes Brown, who lives at home. The notice of funeral will be given later.

Mr. Brown was a member of the First Presbyterian church.

BOROUGH SCHOOL FACILITIES BAD?

North Plainfield Education Board Hears Protests of Pupils' Parents.

PLAN DEMONSTRATION

Buildings Overcrowded and Unsanitary and Voice of the People Will Be Heard by Board on Monday, June 2.

Representatives of the North Plainfield Parent-Teacher Association appeared before the Borough Board of Education, last night, and presented a protest against the overcrowded and generally unsanitary conditions of the Somerset School and further recommended that steps be taken to erect an eight-room primary and grammar school building in the western end of the borough to meet growing needs. As the result, the Board announced that a public meeting will be held Monday night, June 2, at the Park Club to discuss the borough's educational problems.

The protest came before the Board in the form of resolutions, which in effect were that the old part of the Somerset building be remodeled to comply with the State requirements as to sanitation, lighting, hal space and fire-proof stairways; that an appropriation be made for the purchase of a suitable site in the western section of the borough and that an appropriation be made to build an eight-room primary and grammar grade building.

Former Mayor N. B. Smalley, a new member of the Board, advocated the erection of a handsome school building, "beautiful to look at," and "a source of pride to the inhabitants," deploring the erection of cheap houses in the borough. "If I had my way," said Mr. Smalley, "the borough would buy up all the vacant land and control the erection of buildings. A 10x20 houses costing $1,000 brings a lot of children and a higher tax rate."

Mrs. John Foulks, of 93 Mercer avenue, who acted as a spokesman for the Parent-Teacher Association, protested against conditions in the Somerset School, declaring that she intended sending her three children to another school next year unless changes were made this summer. She deplored what she termed as "the outrageously crowded and unhealthy conditions of an antiquated institution," complaining that the rooms the poorly lighted, badly ventilated and the hallways are dark and narrow.

It was stated that the cost of repairing the Somerset School would be between $8,000 and $1,000, and that a new school building would cost about $30,000. During the evening a communication was read from the State Board demanding that the necessary alterations be made this summer.

Supervising Principal Arthur B. Vossler reported the present enrollment of the borough schools to be 1,130. Miss Edna French, a kindergarten teacher, made a request for additional salary in the event of afternoon sessions being held next term in that department. This was referred to the committee on teachers. The resignations of Miss Mabel H. Case, an assistant manual training teacher, and Herbert Lloyd, the music teacher, were received and accepted. Miss Jessie Utter, of this city, was engaged as music teacher at a salary of $750 per annum. Miss Bertha Spencer was engaged as a teacher of domestic science at a salary of $700. Dr. A. H. Dundon was engaged as school physician for 1913-14 at a salary of $200 and it was stated that as soon as the designing engineer approves the work, Den. J. Galbraith's bill for $271.46 for plumbing, heating and ventilating work will be paid.

PETITIONING FOR BETTER FIRE-FIGHTING FACILITIES

George Megrew, of 963 Central avenue, has been circulating a petition, which has been signed by 150 property owners, which he will present at the June meeting of the Common Council, next Monday night, requesting that steps be taken to improve the fire-fighting facilities of the city. The petition calls attention to the fact that the mechanical equipment of the city fire department is in many respects antiquated, incomplete and unsuited for present needs.

Attention is also directed to the water pressure and it is requested that this matter be investigated. The fire at the home of John H. Jewett, at 1000 Central avenue, recently, when so much damage resulted, is cited as an instance of the need of better fire protection on the part of the city.

REVISIONISTS START ASSESSMENT PROBE

Co-operating Committee Begins Its Work and Will Rush Its Business.

John G. MacLaughlin, chairman; Frank J. Hubbard, secretary; DeWitt C. Ivins, Thomas Hughes and Armstrong Mulford, comprising the new tax commission appointed by Mayor Percy H. Stewart, for the purpose of assisting the Board of Assessors in revising the tax assessments, met in the office of the Mayor, last night, and decided on its plan of work. From now on the commission will meet almost every night.

The Board of Assessors was not present last night, but arrangements will be made by the commission to meet with the board from time to time as the necessity demands and when its work is completed a report with recommendations will be made to the board.

The commission at its various meetings will afford all property owners an opportunity to confer with it on matters pertaining to tax assessments and make suggestions. The commission has but one purpose in view, that of bringing about a more equitable assessment on property throughout the city, and while it has no power to fix assessments it is expected that its recommendations will have considerable weight with the Board of Assessors in making the assessments for the coming year. It is admitted that some properties are taxed too much while others are not taxed enough and it is the desire to equalize these assessments as nearly as possible.

MRS. WM. H. SHOTWELL HEART DISEASE VICTIM

Venerable Woman Succumbed at Her Home in Borough This Afternoon.

Mrs. William H. Shotwell, aged about seventy years, died suddenly at her home, 26 Fairview avenue, at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Heart trouble was the cause. Mrs. Shotwell, who had been in her usual good health, was busily engaged in preparing dinner, when she suffered an acute attack of heart trouble. She sat down to rest for a minute and passed away within a short time.

Mrs. Shotwell was born at Green Brook and has lived in this vicinity all her life. Her maiden name was Miss Minnie Staats. She was a lifelong member of the First Presbyterian church, of which her husband has been treasurer for nearly fifty years. She was a devout Christian and esteemed by all who knew her. There survives beside a husband, one son, Freeman Shotwell, who is employed at the City National Bank. Announcement of the funeral will be made later.

AMEND COMMISSION GOVERNMENT ACT

McDermott Bill Passed by the State Senate—Fielder Active.

Trenton, May 27.—The Senate last night at the instance of Acting Governor Fielder took from the table and passed Assemblyman McDermott's bill amending the Walsh commission government act. The Senate defeated the bill last week.

It passed last night after the adoption of an amendment prohibiting the transfer of policemen and firemen to departments other than their own.

Originally the bill permitted transfers of all city employes from one department to another.

The bill as passed has many features, chief of which is that commissioners may be recalled in any calendar year instead of only once during their four-year term.

The Senate voted down an amendment by Senator Edge that commissioners might make appointments to subordinate positions in their respective departments without the approval of the other commissioners.

REFERENDUM ON SMALL BOARD FOR UNION CO.

Trenton, May 27.—It is understood here that a movement will be made in Union county for a special election under the new Hennessey act to permit the county to vote again on the adoption of a small Board of Freeholders.

MISS BRONSON HAS HAD GREAT CAREER

Anti-Suffrage Chief Speaker Active in Politics and Education.

Miss Minnie Bronson, the chief speaker in tonight's big mass meeting at the High School auditorium under the auspices of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, is a brainy woman. She was graduated from the Upper Iowa University with the degree of A. B. She received the degree of Master of Arts from the same institution—all in 1892. Her first work was as a teacher of mathematics in the St. Paul High School, St. Paul., Minn., which position she held from 1889 to 1899. In 1900 she was assistant in the Department of Education of the United States Commission to the Paris Exposition. In 1901 she was director of the Educational Department of the Pan-American Exposition and in 1904 she filled the position of superintendent of Elementary and Secondary Education at the St. Louis Exposition.

Miss Bronson was secretary to the United States Jury of Awards at the Liege Exposition in 1905. She was delegated by the United States Bureau of Education to report the Educational Congress held in Belgium also in 1905. She was chief of the Department of Social Economy at Jamestown Exposition in 1907 and in 1907-1909 she was named special agent of the United States Bureau of Labor to investigate the conditions of labor of women and children.

In 1909 Miss Bronson was named as a special agent by the United States Department of the Interior to the Alaskan Exhibit of the Seattle Exposition and in 1910 she was the government's special agent to report on the strike of the Shirt Waist Makers.

Miss Bronson will be assisted by Miss Elsie Buck, of Trenton, and Assemblyman John A. Matthews, of Essex.

Mrs. E. Yarde Breese, formerly of this city and president of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Suffrage, will preside and many prominent anti-suffragists from this and other States are expected to be present.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. SUSAN RAMSEY

The funeral of Mrs. Susan Ramsey, widow of Joseph Ramsey and mother of Mrs. A. D. Edgar, of East Front street, was held at her late home in Lebanon, Hunterdon county, yesterday afternoon, and ws largely attended by relatives and friends. Rv. William E. Davis, of Berne, N. Y., for twenty years the pastor of the Reformed church of Lebanon, of which Mrs. Ramsey was a member for a half century, officiated, assisted by Rev. William J. Lonsdale, the present pastor. Burial was in the cemetery of the Reformed church, Lebanon.

Mrs. Ramsey was born at Lebanon and lived there all her life, the family being one of the best known in Hunterdon county. Mr. Ramsey died about twelve years ago. There survives ten children, five daughters and five sons, all married. Among them are Mrs. A. D. Edgar, of this city; Mrs. Albert Myers and Sandford Ramsey, of Dunellen.

SCORED WM. COOPER.

William Cooper, of Netherwood avenue, received a severe reprimand in the City Court this morning when arraigned before Judge De Meza charged with purchasing liquor for a man who has been placed on the "black-list." On his promise never to repeat the offense he was released on a suspended sentence. He was arrested by Patrolman Mernaugh last evening and spent the night in a cell. George Totten was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail recently for the same offense.

MUSICAL SERVICE.

A musical service, the last of the season, will be held at the First Baptist church, Sunday evening, June 1 at 7:45 o'clock. The quartet and chorus choir will sing the cantata, "Penitence, Pardon and Peace" by J. H. Maunder; Gounod's "Sanctus," from the Messe Solennelle, and other selections. The prelude to the service will be played by Miss Florence Wohlfert, violinist.

FUNERAL OF MRS. LOOMIS.

The funeral service of Mrs. Caroline Loomis, widow of Frank Loomis, who died at her home, 10 Willow avenue, the borough, on Friday night, was held at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon at Kensico cemetery, Kensico, N. Y., Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, officiating. The burial was at Kensico in the family plot.

SAY NOT GUILTY TO INDICTMENTS

Veterinary and Fireman Admitted to Bail on Charges of Cruelty to Animals.

TWO AGAINST LAWSON

Local Colored Physician Indicted Twice and is Released on Bail—Another Negro Also Pleads Not Guilty on Serious Charge.

Elizabeth, May 27.—Dr. F. C. Herbert and Daniel Kiederling, of Plainfield, the former a veterinary and the latter a chauffeur for Fire Chief T. O. Doane, were arraigned in court this morning to indictments charging them with cruelty to animals. They both pleaded not guilty and were admitted to bail in the sum of $300 each. Their trials were set for June 10. City Judge W. G. DeMeza and Robert C. Woodhouse furnished the bonds for both defendants.

Following the fire in the barn of S. Scheuer & Co., on North Front street, Plainfield, on March 17, when several horses owned by the grocery firm were badly burned, Dr. Herbert was engaged to care for some of the animals in the hope of saving them. It was found necessary to shoot two of the horses on the night of the fire and two more were removed to Kiederling's livery stable on East Second street for treatment. Deciding that it would be impossible to save the horses arrangements were made to send them to Theodore Glaser's place near Dog Corner, where they were shot.

Mr. Kiederling was engaged to assist in taking the horses to Glaser's and it was while leading them through the streets that complaint was made to the authorities and Mrs. S. G. VanHoesen, the Plainfield agent of the S. P. C. A., took the matter before the court, with the result that both Dr. Herbert and Mr. Kiederling were indicted. There was some surprise when it was learned that a bill had been found against the latter, for he was smiply engaged to assist in taking the animals away to be shot. It is alleged that the horses were in terrible condition, their eyes being burned out and their ears burned off and citizens protected against taking them through the public streets in such condition.

Dr. James F. Lawson, a colored physician of Plainfield, who was twice indicted, charged with having performed illegal operations, was arraigned in court, pleaded not guilty and was held in $1,000 bail on both charges. His trial was set for June 9. Bail was furnished by George W. Cole, of Plainfield. The two cases were those of Miss Christina Christensen on June 25, 1912, and Miss Kara Anderson on May 7, last.

Alfred Peterson, colored, of Plainfield, arraigned on a serious charge, pleaded not guilty. He was released in $300 bail furnished by Morris Abrams, and his trial was fixed for June 10.

STILL ANOTHER DEATH FROM SCARLET FEVER

The scarlet fever epidemic in the vicinity of McCrea place and Terrill road has sent two children from one family to their graves and has caused several others to be sent to Muhlenberg Hospital and claimed another victim this morning. Michael Tramontano, twelve years old, who lived with his parents in Terrill road, near McCrea place, died in the hospital this morning. He was taken to the institution yesterday afternoon.

Clara Merrill, of McCrea place, who succumber to the disease yesterday noon, was buried this morning in St. Mary's cemetery beside her sister, who died Friday, May 9.

A strict quarantine kept throughout the scarlet fever zone, was removed yesterday when Tramontano was removed from his home to the hospital. Unless other cases develop it can safely be said that the epidemic is ended, as one other patient in Muhlenberg Hospital will be able to leave that institution in several days.

Although the local Board of Health has been inclined to withhold details of the numerous cases from the newspapers, they have successfully coped with the epidemic, which threatened to spread to other districts. All inhabitants of the quarantined ward were closely watched by the Health officers and were kept veritable prisoners in their homes. A patrolman, stationed there for the purpose, prohibited any persons from passing through the streets of the disease ridden district.

Mrs. Edward R. Grannatt, whose husband died recently at Atlanta, Ga., returned to Plaineld yesterday, where she will remain indefinitely. She was formerly Miss Adelaide Elsberg, of the borough.

JOHNNY JONES SHOWS WELL WORTH SEEING

Johnny Jones and his mammoth exposition shows opened under the auspices of the Watchung Council, K. of C., at the circus grounds, West Front street and Grant avenue, last night, and the merrymakers were greeted by a crowd of pleasure seekers numbering over 2,000, all of whom declared the shows and attractions offered "the greater ever." The large circus park is too small for t he twenty divisions of the tented colony and the attractions had to be grouped together in a maze so as to open all of the numerous and varied attractions to the public. All of the tents were not opened last night but ample time has been afforded for the management to erect the final booths and everything will be in full working order tonight.

Aside from the galaxy of three up-air, free-to-all amusements, numerous other shows and attractions are stationed on the grounds, including a "Motordrome," "Ten in One," "Dog and Pony Show," "Winchester," "Animal Show," "Joyland," "Minstrel Show," "A Trip to Mars," a merry-go-round, society circus, a ferris wheel, the diving girls and a snake show.

PERSONAL.

Miss Evelyn Lutz and Lawrence Bersnad, of New York, the latter a well-known attorney, have returned home after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Nehum Seltzick, of Grant avenue.

Harry Wirenga, who has been a call-man attached the hook and ladder truck at fire headquarters, has been appointed for regular duty during the vacation season and is now stationed at the Netherwood fire house.

MISS WILDEY A WINNER.

Miss Edna Wildey, of this city, was one of the entrants in the Pennsylvania and Eastern States women's championship lawn tennis tournament that opened at Haverford yesterday, and the Plainfield racquet wielder was one of the survivors after the first and second rounds of play. Mrs. C. N. Beard, of Montclair, was another Jerseyite to come through the first pair of rounds with colors flying.

WHAT IS COBB REALLY WORTH TO DETROIT TEAM

Leaving out the thrills and getting down to real hard cases—large round cases of a value of one buck each—what is Ty Coob really worth to the Detroit club? Ha, ha! Sure you laugh. That has been thrashed out before. Sure it has, but at the present time it is an interesting discussion in view of the fact that Tyrus held out for a salary of $15,000 and after a big fuss the Detroit club sent for him, and a day later he was back on the team.

Of course none of the officials of the Detroit club will tell you what Ty is receiving, but it is a sure bet that the "Georgia peach" is getting the biggest salary ever paid a ball player outside of a manager.

Cobb is silent on the question of salary. He doesn't tell whether he received the whole $15,000 or not, but it's a pretty good guess that Cobb got at least a good favorable compromise sum.

N. P. H. S. WINS WITH A BINGLE FUSILADE

Summit Twirlers' Curvology Had No Terrors for Borough Schoolboys.

A stage trip to Summit accompanied by a large delegation of supporters and a return to the City by the Hills at an unearthly hour this morning, together with a defeat annexed at the expense of the Summit High School aggregation was the experience of the North Plainfield High School nine yesterday afternoon and evening. Two stage loads of students made the trip over the mountains and helped the little borough combination trim the Summit representatives to the tune of 17 to 6, said victory being the direct result of a fusilade of bingles pounded out at importune moments when runners were crouched on the sacks ready to sprint post haste for the scoring depot. What the winners failed to hang up in the hit column they managed to gain through the home nine's elaborately decorated error color, a total of ten spots blemishing the Summitites diamond performances.

Up to the seventh inning not a player sporting the home team's colors crossed the rubber, while fourteen blue and black stockinged individuals scrambled past the Summit catcher, apparently unhindered. Every man in the Summit High School regiment was guilty of helping the North Plainfielders in their run getting to the extent of one or more error with the exception of "Ted" Reavy and Allesbury, and this duet appeared to be pretty nearly the main cog in the losers fielding machine. Reavy was the stellar performer for his alma mater, getting two of the team's five hits and accepting his three putouts in first-class style. Just by way of variation he pulled a pair of runs across the rubber.

North Plainfield players had little difficulty in shining before the shoots of McFadden and Lawrence, who did the mound work for the home students, and several of the boroughites plowed out a goodly collection of the safe brand. Taylor led the slugging with three singles and a double while Captain Dunning pulled up in the second row with a double for the afternoon. Spencer got a brace of singles as did also Pitcher Stahl.

The score.

CINCINNATI TEAM ONCE MORE A DISAPPOINTMENT

Cincinnati seems destined to be a disappointment in the National League race once more. The Tinkerites don't appear any stronger than last season. It was hoped that with Tinker covering short field, a position which has been weak for years, the Reds would take a brace and become contenders in the race, but to date they have gone worse than ever, and there appears to be no hope for the immediate future.

No club in either major league has spent more money than Cincinnati in an effort to get a winning team, yet it has been a consistent failure for years. Ball players have been purchased at fancy prices and fortunes spent in the search of classy material, yet from an artistic standpoint the proposition has been a failure, though manager after manager has been secured to bring about better results. Joe Kelly had his turn. Ned Hanlon tried it, John Ganzel also had a chance, and Griffith and O'Day preceded Tinker and none of them made a success of the job.

HOW THE WORD "FAN" CAME INTO EXISTENCE

Diamond fans can be counted by the millions, whereas other classes are restricted to thousands. Likewise baseball is the greatest of all levelers. A bank president shares views with a day laborer while seated in the ball park.

The word "fan" has created much dispute in the past. Many have wondered what the word means. To some there is the hazy idea that it refers to a fan such as ladies carry to the theatre. So a writer sought out the originator of the expression—Ted Sullivan, scout of the Chicago White Sox and incidentally a lecturer of note.

"I coined that word twenty years ago in St. Louis," said Sullivan. "I was managing the St. Louis Browns at the time and had under me such celebrated players as Charles Comiskey, Arlie Latham and others.

"We were continually pestered with a man who kept hanging around and trying to but into the private life of the players. We simply couldn't rid ourselves of him. He would try to get into the clubhouse to chat with the players and get so he wanted to come into my office to chat about baseball, its history and the like.

"One day an attendant came into my room and stated: 'That fellow's here again. What shall I do with him?'

"'That fanatic again?' I exclaimed. So after that we began calling him the fanatic. This was too long, so we finally shortened it to fan. The newspapers got on to it and started to using the word. It spread to other cities and before long came to include all those interested in baseball. Today a 'fan' would consider himself insulted if you called him a fanatic, but that's where the word was derived."

EVERY HOUSE CAN AFFORD A GAS RANGE

If you have no gas range you can easily get one.

An outlay of just a few dollars will put one in your kitchen ready for your use.

BAYONNE CLEAN-UP WEEK.

Bayonne, May 27.—Clean city week observance is in progress in the First Ward. Residents of the ward are busy putting out dirt and refuse for removal by employes of the street department. At the First Baptist church Sunday the pastor, Rev. Dr. Henry M. Warren, urged all citizens to follow the request of the Chamber of Commerce and make their homes and grounds spic and span. The sale of "clean city buttons" under the auspices of the Neighborhood Club was started yesterday morning. Seventy-five young women are selling the buttons, each having a district assigned her. Five cents a button was asked. The young women were divided into teams of five and the team selling the most buttons will receive a prize from the club.

Captain Brown, assisted by the Elizabeth Corps, will conduct the meeting at the hall of the local corps of the Salvation Army on East Second street, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The public is cordially invited.

COMPROMISE JURY REFORM BILL PASSES

Chancellor-Sheriff Measure, Backed by Fielder, Goes Through Senate.

Trenton, May 27.—The debate that preceded the passage by the Senate of the chancellor-sheriff bill was spirited. Frequently President Johnson called both Republican and Democratic Senators to order and asked them to confine their remarks to the bill.

Much of the debate was along the lines of the Republicans charging the Democrats with favoring hybrid measure against their own wishes in deference to the wishes of President Wilson. The reply of Senator Davis and other Democrats was an attempt to justify the bill as a good one.

The hottest shot was poured by Senator Nichols, Republican, of Cumberland county, who said that the Democrats do not really believe that the chancellor-sheriff bill is the best jury bill, but that they were caucus-bound, and that some of them admitted they were voting against their own judgment and taking orders from Woodrow Wilson the First, as the Cumberland Senator characterized the President of the United States and former Governor of New Jersey.

Senator Edge was also very caustic in his remarks and said that the chancelor-sheriff bill was not a compromise bill, as had been claimed for it by its supporters, but that it was absolutely and solely a surrender by the Democrats.

Senator Davis defended the bill and said that it was sinister influences both on the Republican and Democratic sides that made it necessary for the Democrats to accept a bill which did not meet their highest expectations. He referred to the Republicans being controlled in former years by the "Board of Guardians," and this brought Senator Nichols to his feet again on a question of personal privilege, in which he said he had served in the Legislature for thirteen years and had never been bossed by anybody. Then Senator Davis remarked that the Republicans had not passed a jury reform bill when they were in power and even when Governor Fort threatened to send the militia into Atlantic City.

Senator Nichols replied that the greatest mistake Governor Fort ever made during his administration was that he did not carry out his threat, and send the militia there.

Governor Fielder's jury bill pased the Senate by a vote of fifteen to three. The negative votes were cast by Senators Pierce, Reed and White. Senator Pierce opposed the bill because he felt it would take away from Supreme Court justices the power in certain cases to appoint elisors.

Governor Fielder, sitting in the Senate, was sure the bill wasn't open to any such construction. He explained the bill, saying it provided for the drawing of grand and petit juries by lot from lists prepared by sheriffs after these lists had been revised by the Supreme Court justices.

Senator Fitzherbert offered an amendment, which was beaten, intended to limit the power of naming "struck" juries to these cases where application for the same had been passed upon by a Supreme Court justice.

7TH-DAY BAPTISTS OFFER USE OF THEIR EDIFICE

The deacons of the First Baptist church have received a communication from the officers of the Seventh Day Baptist church, offering the members of the First Baptist church the use of their edifice for Sunday morning services while their edifice is undergoing extensive repairs during July and August. The matter will be presented at the prayer meeting of the church tomorrow night.

No arrangements have been made by the First Baptist church for summer pulpit supplies, as Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, the pastor, will be in town during July and it is planned to have no services during August. The customary arrangement of holding union services Sunday evenings during July and August will probably be followed out this summer.

The improvements to be made at the First Baptist church will include new windows, new wall decoration, new floor coverings and improvements in the vestibule. The plans are now in the hands of contractors and it is expected that bids will be received within a short time, after which the contracts will be awarded.

ANNUAL CHURCH FESTIVAL.

The Woman's Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will hold its annual strawberry and ice cream festival at the church tomorrow night and in connection with the affair, an elaborate entertainment has been prepared which will include the first appearance of the "Kitchen Band." The nature of the entertainment is being kept secret and the women feel sure that it will afford a pleasant surprise.

Plainfield, N. J., May 27, 1913.

A REAL CHARITY.

When we say that the Plainfield Anti-Tuberculosis League is doing one of the noblest works in the country we use the adjective advisedly for it has been and is saving precious human lives. Organized less than four years ago as the pioneer association of its kind in New Jersey, it has ever held first place in the list in this State, and notwithstanding that ours is one of the small cities.

Let us call your attention to its achievements and aims in as few words as possible. As the first step a pavilion was erected and equipped at a cost of $4,000. As many patients as accommodations would allow were cared for at the institution and many others were given treatment and advice at their own homes. Some of the victims were cured, others were greatly improved and in all cases the progress of the terrible disease was arrested.

It was not very long before the work attracted attention throughout the State. The results showed that the disease could be treated here just about as well as in Arizona or Colorado. It was demonstrated that it was not so much a question of climate as it was of proper nourishment and plenty of fresh air. The little pavilion here served as an object lesson to the government of New Jersey and a law was enacted making it compulsory for all counties to construct and maintain sanatoria for the care of those afflicted with the great white plague.

But this did not come to pass, however, until the Plainfield Anti-Tuberculosis League succeeded in convincing the Union County Board of Freeholders to establish a large camp and it did not take much persuasion to accomplish this, for the freeholders willingly did it after learning what had been done at the little pavilion. Bonnie Burn Sanitorium was the first county institution of the kind in New Jersey and any one who has seen the camp on the mountain slopes back of Scotch Plains need not be told what a grand work is being carried on there. Union county well has reason to be proud of that institution.

The work of the Plainfield society, however, did not stop when Bonnie Burn was opened. There was still another mission for it. Today that mission is being performed. It is to be found in the Open Air School for anaemic children. The old pavilion was thoroughly renovated and removed to a location in the west end where some twenty anaemic children who would be susceptible to tuberculosis are being taught their lessons and being fed on a nourishing diet in the open air. The school is already crowded and there is need for enlarging the work. There is also need for treating some 500 people afflicted with tuberculosis most of whom work in the day and therefore cannot be given treatment and instruction except in the evenings.

All this simply means that the Plainfield Anti-Tuberculosis League needs funds. These needs are itemized as follows:

Price of school site	$1,500
Moving and setting up buildings	800
Operation of school	1,500
Nurse and Nursing Bureau	1,250
Class	125
Clinic	250
Rent, office, maintenance and survey of housing conditions	1,075
	$6,500

We commend the League's appeal to every man and woman who can afford to give even if it is but one dollar a year.

FOR A SWIMMING POOL.

The Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Men's Club is alive to the community's welfare for it is discussing matters pertaining to betterment of local conditions. Among these is its agitation for a public swimming pool. That there should be some place for the small boy to enjoy that pastime during the vacation season is manifest. From time to time, there has been some agitation for one, but the chief obstacle has been the expense. It is not the cost of construction but the charge for the water that counts as the big item of expense. The pool would have to be continually refilled with fresh water and it is surprising what this amounts to. It was not long ago that the Public Playground Commission obtained an approximate estimate with an idea in mind of installing a pool at Parker Field. The scheme had to be abandoned because of the cost.

When the big addition to the Plainfield High School is completed, however, the new building will contain a large swimming pool, the cost of which it is reported, will be about $8,000. The purpose is to teach the high school pupils the art of swimming. The only unfortunate part of it is that few children ever reach the high school grade and therefore the percentage of those who will have the opportunity to use the pool will be very limited. The time to teach the youth to swim is when he is young and the younger the better. It should not be delayed until he is grown almost to manhood. We venture the assertion that more boys than men lose their lives in the water and it is in most cases due to the fact that they do not know how to swim.

Would it not be a good plan, therefore, when the pool is completed, to have it open all summer for the free use of the youngsters? There they would be under supervision and a swimming master could be engaged at a small cost to teach them how to swim, how to dive and how to resuscitate drowning persons.

There is a free lecture course in Philadelphia on "How to Handle Milk."

Owing to a pressing engagement, T. R. will not be in attendance.

The contributing editor for Saturday's issue will be the local manager of an utilities' corporation, who has the subject he will discuss thoroughly at hand.

FIRE NEAR ELIZABETH, LOSS ABOUT $100,000

Elizabeth, May 27.—The grain elevators and shede of Charles Schaffer & Sons, formerly owned by the American Hay Company, located at Townley, about three miles from this city, were destroyed by fire, last night, the total loss aggregating about $100,000. The fire was discovered about 11 o'clock and there being no adequate fire protection, the flames spread rapidly throughout the plant.

Thirty carloads of grain standing on a siding of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, close to the burning building, were saved, but the loss on buildings and contents was complete. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

TRYING TO SAVE DECKER.

New York, May 27.—Justice Goff will hear arguments of counsel tomorrow on the application for a new trial in the case of Charles A. Becker, the former New York city police lieutenant, who is under sentence of death for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, a gambler. Counsel for Becker claims to have important new evidence in support of the contention that Becker was convicted through a "frame-up" of the "gunmen," who were desirous of obtaining revenge against the police officer for previous prosecutions.

SMALL FREEHOLDER BOARD PAY BILL O. K.

Griffin Measure Goes Through Legislature and is up to the Governor.

Trenton, May 27.—The bill which provides for the conmpensation of the members of the smaller Boards of Freeholders, which was introduced in the House of Assembly by Mr. Griffin, of Union county, and which already passed that body, went through the Senate last evening and is now ready for the signature of Governor Fielder.

Another freeholder measure which was passed by the Senate was the one introduced in the House by Mr. Hennessey and which makes possible the voting on the small board proposition at special elections. An effort was made by Senator Fitzherbert to insert an amendment into the measure requiring a voting by districts but it was voted down. Senator Leavitt also made an effort to have an amendment adopted safeguarding civil service but it also was voted down.

The Senate did not consider the freeholder bill which has been generally regarded as the one which would give the most relief to the situation, the one introduced by Assemblyman Griffin and which made the adoption of the smaller boards mandatory. This bill was passed in the House but was never reported by the "steering" committee in the Senate.

CONFEDERATE VETS IN ANNUAL REUNION

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 27.—Scenes of unbounded enthusiasm attended the formal opening of the [illegible] in a great tented city, erected in one of the downtown parks thousands of the old soldiers, constituting the remnant of the gray-clad host of the Confederate army with their affiliated "Sons" and "Daughters" answered roll call this morning. The camp is named in honor of Gen. Alexander P. Stewart, Tennessee's famous military leader.

The convention of the veterans was called to order in the Auditorium at 10 o'clock this morning by Gen. George P. Hickman, commanding the Tennessee division. The invocation was delivered by Rev. J. W. Bachman, chaplain general. Governor Hooper, of Tennessee, Mayor Thompson, of Chattanooga, and W. E. Brock, chairman of the local union committee, formally welcomed the veterans and visitors. Response was made by Gen. Bennett H. Young, of Louisville, commander-in-chief.

Occupying seats on the platform were Gen. Julian S. Carr, of North Carolina; Gen. K. M. VanZandt, of Texas; Gen. George Harrison, of Alabama; Gen. William B. Haldeman of Kentucky, and other prominent officers and representatives of the United Confederate Veterans, the Sons of Veterans and Daughters of the Confederacy.

The appearance of each of the old commanders in the hall was the signal for an enthusiastic demonstration. The veterans arose in a body, hats, handkerchiefs and coats went into the air, and cheer after cheer rang out, the gallery joining in the applause.

During the afternoon business sessions were held by the Sons of Veterans and the Confederate States Memorial Association. Another interesting feature of the day was the sponsors' parade, which made its way through the camp of the veterans and along several of the leading thoroughfares of the city. The parade was led by the sponsor for the South, Miss Kate Daffin, of Texas, who rode in a gorgeously decorated automobile, with a troop of cavalry as escort.

STATE PRESS TO CATSKILLS.

Trenton, May 27.—The fifty-seventh annual meeting and outing of the New Jersey Press Association will be held in the old Catskill Mountain House, from Friday, June 20, to Monday, June 23. Members of the association will leave New York on the Day Line steamboat Hendrick Hudson, at 8:40 o'clock on the morning of June 20, and upon arriving at Catskill Point, at 3:25 o'clock in the afternoon, will transfer to the Catskil Mountain Railway, reaching the hotel an hour later. The return trip will be made on the Washington Irving, which will reach New York at 6 o'clock Monday evening. Aside from the business meetings, arrangements have been made for the amusement of the excursionists. Of special interest will be an address by former Governor Edward C. Stokes at a banquet Saturday night, following the first day's business session. The committee in charge includes A. S. Crane, J. W. Clift and W. B. R. Mason.

—Make a business task of your search for business employment. You can't do that, however, unless you advertise.

The hours are, in the afternoon from 3 to 5, and in the evening from 8 to 10, although parents are cordially invited to attend while school is in session. In the evening music will be supplied in the assembly room by the school piano and victrola. Refreshments will be served by the girls of the eighth grade.

The Memorial Day exercises will be held in the assembly room of Public School No. 1 on Thursday afternoon. The pupils have put forth special effort on music and recitations. A number of G. A. R. veterans, headed by Captain Hand, will be present and make addresses to the pupils

Miss Marion Hunter has returned to her home in Willow Grove, after visiting Miss Fannie Mead, of Bayonne, N. J.

Memorial Day will be observed in this place Friday when the local volunteer fire company and school children will meet the Plainfield G. A. R. veterans at the 9 o'clock trolley and escort them to the cemetery. Services will be held and the graves of the men who died in the Civil War will be decorated.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hollingsworth have returned to their home in Cranford after visiting Mr. Hollingsworth's father, Loftus Hollingsworth, of Johnston's drive.

H. C. Lockwood has started to erect a new house on LaGrande avenue, the borough.

The two expresses that the commuters of this place petitioned for were obtained according to the summer schedule which went into effect yesterday, an express to New York stops in the morning at 6:34 for New York passengers only and one from New York in the afternoon at 5:10 to let off New York passengers only. Elizabeth is the only other stop made by either of these trains.

POWER FACTS AND POWER FACTORS

Manufacturers cannot do without power.

They must have power that is efficient.

They should have power that is flexible.

They all want power that is economical.

Steam plants do not meet these requirements to the highest degree of satisfaction.

CENTRAL STATION ELECTRIC POWER DOES

We are not simply making a claim; we are stating facts.

And we have about 7,000 actual users of Central Station Electric Power whose total connected load is in excess of 72,000 horsepower to point to as evidence that Electric power is giving satisfaction.

Many of these customers abandoned their own steam plants and substituted Electricity because they found it PAID to do so.

What Central Station Electric Power is doing for 7,000 it can do for you.

Let us prove it to your satisfaction.

ELLIS MAKES REPLY TO CALKINS' LETTER

Questions the Soundness of Councilman's Contention That City is Exceptional.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

Leighton Calkins in his letter published in your paper on the 20th inst says "I believe in the principle of Commission Government," but he doubts the wisdom of applying it to Plainfield. This is something like saying "honesty is the best policy but not for us," or "the law of gravity will work there but not here," or "human nature is different in Plainfield from what it is elsewhere." Mr. Calkins' letter no doubt expresses the sentiment of a number in Plainfield who flatter themselves they have a model city with little room for improvement and believe in letting well enough alone.

The oft repeated dictum, the burden of Mr. Calkins' letter, "we are unlike other cities, we don't need commission government," suggests the Pharisees of old crying aloud in the temple, "We thank thee, O Lord, we are not as other men are." It is singular that there are any Plainfielders who lay this flattering unction to their souls when there are so many things in which Plainfield is behind other cities of like size and wealth. Just to mention two or three. Its streets are not up to the average and it continues the use of a street pavement, the McAdam, quite out of date for cities of its size; its sidewalks and street crossings could hardly be worse; it is poorly lighted; it has long needed a system of gathering the garbage from households, but the fear of losing a few votes has prevented either political party from publicly favoring the establishment of one.

Our new councilman says continue this fossilized form of government. Those having the most recent experience in and with the City Council of Plainfield say abandon it for the commission form. Among these men are our present mayor, Mr. Stewart, ex-Mayor Moy, ex-Mayor Fisk, Councilman Mygatt, ex-Councilman Holt and several others. There is an old proverb, "Who heeds not experience trust him not." Emerson says, "Government has been a fossil, it should be a plant." The leading authorities the world over agree that the Mayor and Council plan is a fossil. Let us make the government in Plainfield a plant.

Yours truly,
L. J. ELLIS.

ASSEMBLY PASSED AN EUGENIC BILL

But the Senate Did Not Consider the Measure at All.

Trenton, May 27.—The House yesterday put itself on record as favoring the principle of eugenics by passing Assemblyman Nuttin's bill, which provides that before a person can obtain a marriage license in this State it will be necessary to present to the official issuing the license a certificate of the health of the contracting parties.

The bill reads that the certificate must be obtained from a reputable physician, licensed to practice in this State, and that it must show that neither the woman nor man, intending to marry, has any disease or infirmity capable of being transmitted from parent to child. False statements in such certificate shall make the one filing it guilty of misdemeanor.

While the House passed the measure the Senate did not touch it, owing to its decision not to deal with new legislation.

In explaining the bill Mr. Nuttin said that if the Legislature had done nothing else during the entire session than pass the bill it would have distinguished itself. He declared it a very meritorious measure.

Mr. Nuttin's eugenics bill was not among those the Senate committee decided to report, so nothing more will be heard of it, probably until next year.

REV. DR. SNODGRASS GIVES PATRIOTIC TALK

Former Plainfield Pastor Addresses Audience of 5,000 at Paterson.

The Rev. W. C. Sondgrass, formerly of this city, but now pastor of the Market Street M. E. church, of Paterson, was one of the principal speakers at a patriotic rally in Paterson, Sunday, which was attended by more than 5,000 persons.

The former local pastor, after speaking of many of the nation's martyrs said:

"America has always been a hospitable land, and the assimilation of dissimilar people in our citizenship is one of the wonders of history. In the days of the Civil War native Americans and men born beyond the seas fought with equal courage, and endured with equal fortitude the hardships of camps and hospital. Equal honor and equal opportunity to the native and the naturalized citizen!

"A prosperous and confident nation is always exceedingly long-suffering. But if ever it should become necessary to defend our homes or our altars, a million heroes, as brave as those who stood with Leonidas at Thermopylae would rush to the colors as if by magic. Behind them, pressing for the front, would be a dozen other millions, all singing patriotic songs and religious hymns, and all ready to lay down their lives for their country, as if death for country were a sacrament.

"The death of men for a great cause should stimulate others to live for it. Our country was worthy of the sacrifice which these men made for its integrity and freedom. In these times of peace we may not be required to certify our patriotism with our blood, but we are summoned, every one, to live for the land we love. Religion joins its voice with patriotism in calling us to duty."

SPITE FENCE AGAIN DISFIGURED

Red Bank, May 27.—Despite the vigilance of a night watchman some one during the night smeared red paint and more eggs on the fourteen foot high fence erected by George H. Poulson to separate his property from that of Calvin West in Broad street here. About three weeks ago the fence was smeared with black paint and eggs. Mr. Poulson then engaged a night watchman to guard the fence. On this occasion the paint and eggs were scraped from the fence. Mr. Poulson declares he will not raze the fence until Mr. West agrees to pay for the cost of its construction, the money to be donated to either the hospital at Long Branch or to any of the local churches. This Mr. West refuses to do.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

By FRANCES MARSHALL

Take Care of the Ironing Board.

No one can expect summer frocks and lingerie to be well laundered if the ironing board is not in good condition. There are some laundresses, to be sure, who can iron a lacy, filmy white frock on a sheet drawn over the kitchen table, held at one corner with the tea canister, and at another with a box of starch. But such laundresses are few and far between, and well-covered, carefully protected ironing board is an assistance even to an expert.

To begin with, the board should be properly covered.

Old Blankets.

Nothing makes a better foundation for the ironing-board cover than an old blanket. Cut three or four thicknesses of blankets the length of the board and four or five inches wider. Tack the long edges of the folds along the under part of the board at one side about an inch from the end of the board. Put the tacks in straight and evenly at intervals of about an inch. Then pull the folds of the blanket smoothly over the top of the board, hold them in place on the other side of the under part of the board with three or four tacks, turn the board face down on a table, and pull the blankets tight, tacking them as you tighten them at intervals of about an inch.

The Cover.

The cover of the board can be made of unbleached muslin, of heavy bleached muslin or of an old sheet. There should be three of four thickness of the muslin and it can be put on with pins or with thumb-tacks. If pins are used, they are fastened neatly and regularly into the blanket on the under side of the board. Thumb-tacks are stuck in the board; so if thumb-tacks are used the muslin should be wide enough to stretch well beyond the blanket.

It is worth while to get muslin of a firm, heavy and durable quality, for thin muslin is quickly weakened by the alternate dampness and heat from the clothes and the irons and by the occasional scorching which is almost inevitable.

The end of the board where the iron stands should be well protected. Folded newspapers, which should be changed as soon as they are scorched or brittle from the heat, are as satisfactory as anything. A strip of sheet asbestos can be tacked across this end of the board. Beside either asbestos or papers there should be an iron stand.

For Embroidery.

A small pad attached to the ironing board to use for ironing embroidery is a convenience. This pad can be made of half a dozen thickness of flannel, covered neatly with muslin. It can be sewed to a tape a foot long tacked at the other end of the under side of the board. When the laundress comes to a piece of embroidery which should be ironed on a thick pad to bring out the pattern, she pulls the little pad about to the top of the board, and irons the embroidery without going to the trouble of looking for an old sheet to iron it on.

Some Cookery Suggestions

COOKING VEAL.

THE best veal, which is that of a calf about two months old, is pale pink or flesh colored in the lean parts. The fat should be clear white. The hind quarters are the choicer cuts. Slices from the legs are called cutlets. Breast and shoulder of the forequarter make stew meat or inferior roasts. The ribs are sold as chops. Roasting pieces and steaks are cut from both leg and loin.

Novel Way of Baking.

Creamed Veal.—Take three pounds of veal, boil and season it and when cold pick to pieces, as for salad.

For dressing take three pints cream and when hot thicken with five teaspoonfuls of flour mixed with four tablespoonfuls of butter and salt to taste. Put veal in the pan, pour dressing over and cover thickly with breadcrumbs. Bake in a slow oven.

With Mayonnaise.

Veal Jelly.—Take a veal shank, cover with cold water, let it come to a boil and skim carefully. Add one medium sized onion, a bay leaf, small piece of red pepper, salt and six whole cloves. Boil slowly till the meat falls off bones. Take out the meat, strain the liquid and let it cool while the meat is picked into small pieces. Remove the grease from the liquid. Add to the meat, put into bowls to cool. Serve on lettuce leaves, with mayonnaise dressing.

Served Cold.

Spiced Veal.—Cut some lean cold veal into pieces about one inch square. Pour over them sufficient scalding vinegar to cover, adding to each pint of the same one dozen whole cloves, a half stick of cinnamon, a teaspoonful of salt and a small red pepper or a dozen pepper corns. Allow the veal to stand in this pickle for at least twenty-four hours. It is then ready for use and is nice served for cold luncheon or supper.

Nicely Seasoned.

Stewed Veal.—Take three pounds of lean veal, cut it into pieces and cook in one ounce of butter, together with half a dozen small onions. After cooking for ten minutes add two tablespoonfuls of flour and moisten with a quart of white broth. Stir well and season with a heaping teaspoonful of salt and a teaspoonful of pepper. Add two or three carrots cut into small squares, an ounce of salt pork cut up into pieces and a bouquet of herbs. Cook for forty minutes longer, remove the herbs and serve hot.

Daddy's Bedtime Story— The Story Of the Chocolate Tree.

Picking the Chocolate Tree Fruit.

"SIX chocolate creams since supper time? Dear me!" said daddy. "That seems to me to be a good many."

"Oh, but they are good chocolates! Mother said so," Evelyn replied. "And they won't hurt me a bit."

"But I only had five," Jack grumbled, peering into the empty box, "and now there are none."

"But you know that the last time you ate nearly the whole box," Evelyn insisted, "and I think I ought to have more than you this time."

"Come, come," broke in daddy; "this will never do. If you begin to quarrel I shall forget what I was going to tell you."

"Very well," the children cried; "we will be very quiet. Now, please, go on. Tell us a story."

"Well, few of the little people who live in the lands where the chocolate trees grow ever see chocolate creams or carmels or have ever tasted chocolate cake or dipped a spoon into chocolate ice cream.

"The chocolate tree, you see, grows in hot countries, where most of the people are too poor to buy candies and where our kind isn't sold.

"The name of the chocolate tree is the cacao, and our chocolate is a paste made by mixing the flour formed by pounding the seeds with sugar and spices.

"The chocolate tree, as I will call it, grows in South America, the West Indies and in Mexico, so it is an American tree. It can be raised only in warm places. It takes a good while for the tree to grow old enough to bear fruit, but when it does its owner gets a great deal of money from it.

"The tree gets to be three or four times as tall as a man and is a handsome plant, looking not unlike a lilac bush.

"The fruit looks something like a big yellow cucumber, with fine red streaks running around it. The skin is tough and warty. Inside is a soft pinkish white filling that is eaten, while the large seeds are carefully picked out, washed and dried in the sun.

"Before they are used for making cocoa or chocolate the seeds are first roasted, then broken so that the outside husk can be taken off and the inside ground to powder.

"These husks are what is known as cocoa shells and are used in making the nice cocoa you drink. The flour from the inside of the seeds is ground up with sugar, honey, molasses, starch, rice, flour, sago, arrowroot and spices. It is made into a paste and is formed into cakes as we buy it in the shops.

"The word chocolate is made up of the Indian name for the tree 'choco' and 'late,' their word for water."

Blue and Gray Suits $12.50

$18 to $20 Values for - - - -

The Blue and the Gray dwell in complete harmony in our Clothing Store. Each one stands by the color—both are fast friends.

When a man selects a blue serge suit his first cosideration is the color. The man will ask, "Is it fast?" "Will it stand the sun?" His second consideration is the quality of the fabric. He will ask, "Is it all wool."

These two things are both so essential to the life of a serge suit that men have learned to see the folly in selecting a serge that is not all wool and absolutely fast color. The serges we use in these suits are those that were tested out during the tariff investigation at Washington and so passed upon as a quality that could be sold in suits at $15 to $20.

We present these splendid Blue Serge Suits at $15 to $20 values, and we give with each suit an extra pair of trousers, doubling its life, and sell them to you for only $12.50.

What we can say of the Blue Serge Suits we can also say of our Gray Suits, which are strictly all wool, worth $12.50 to $20, and are sold in the newest models, some with coats silk lined, some with two pairs of trousers, for only $12.50.

Medium Gray Crash Suits, Dark Gray Crash Suits, Light Gray Crash Suits, Gray Worsted Suits, Gray Serge Suits, Gray Cassimere Suits, Gray Cheviot Suits—all here at $12.50.

WHITE HATS FOR DECORATION DAY AT $5 AND $3.

The $5 Hats are in the main Millinery Salon and are of fine quality white hemp, in the newest and most popular shapes, trimmed with ruching of white maline, ratine, pompons, maline bows, ribbons, flowers—the maline is waterproof; they are exceptional value.

Here are everyday hats for goaways—hats full of snap and style with a holiday air about them that makes them a delight to the wearer and the observer.

The $3 Hats are in the Ready-to-Wear Section and are of good quality white chip, trimmed with malines, ribbons, flowered chiffon, feather novelties and feathers in many original and distinctive ways.

Both lots of hats are the product of our own clever milliners—the difference in price is in the quality of the materials.

"LONG MAY IT WAVE."

Have you a real American flag?

Have you a flag that is bright, clean and beautiful?

Has your flag the full complement of stars—does it embrace the whole United States?

These are questions worthy of answers. Pertinent, surely, and pointed. No good American should wince if he has to answer "no."

Flags are cheap the best of them. As for instance:

LEAL AND N. P. H. S.

On Crescent Oval tomorrow afternoon the North Plainfield High School and Leal School baseball teams are scheduled to clash in another Interscholastic League battle for the Collier cup. The boroughites have already scored a win over the private school boys and are looking forward to an easy repitition tomorrow.

QUERIES, COMMENT AND ANSWERS

Sporting Editor:

Query—Please tell me how far apart the hurdles are placed in a 220 yard race?—R. N.

Answer—There are ten hurdles, fifteen yards apart.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Does a chauffeur who has been licensed for the past three years and wishes same renewed require the same examination as a beginner?—L. B. H.

Answer—If a chauffeur has his card of last year he requires no new examination.

Sporting Editor:

Query How does the United States rank with other naval forces of the world?—F. H. G.

Answer—We rank third, Great Britain is first and Germany second.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Did Stanley Ketchel ever fight Jack Johnson for the championship and who won?—J. J.

Answer—Johnson knocked Ketchel out in the twelfth round of a scheduled twenty round bout at Colma, Cal. on October 16, 1909. It was for the championship.

Sporting Editor:

Query A says that a manager can take a man out of the line-up though the player had taken his position in the field. B says he cannot.—H. I. L.

Answer—Your question is somewhat hazy We presume you mean to inquire whether a manager can substitute a player after turning in his line-up before a game. Yes, he can, if that is what you want to know. But the man whose name was erased to make room for the substitute is not eligible to play again in that game, according to precedent established by the major league umpires.

"MAC" SAYS

Yes, a faction has disturbed Manager Dorlinger's crew in the race for the Central League bunting. Referring of course to Bob Bozardus and his youngsters. Ernie says: "Wait until we two meet again.

He isn't a peerless leader or even a keystone king, but Bogardus is aldays right up with the dynamite clubs when it comes to deciding a league race.

Because of Pitcher Marvens wildness in that Trinity-Mt. Pleasant game Saturday afternoon, the church boys had to keep constantly on the alert to avoid being used as a backstop for his wild heaves. Some of these days this youngster will face a charge of manslaughter, if that "slow" ball of his ever bears an opponent.

If you want the correct slant on it take it from the fountain-head. That's why "Chic" Thompson's analyses of the City League race are so illuminating.

Yes, Britt Martin has actually jumped his contract with the Dunellen leaguers, but the fans of that town should worry and get all "Coyled" up.

Billy displayed a whirlwind article of baseball around the keystone sack Saturday afternoon and the three pillow smash in the eighth was the real goods.

Somerville ought to prove some drawing card here next Saturday afternoon and the local fans certainly need something like this for an eye-opener. Somebody has said, "A team on top in May does not necessarily mean a pennant winner, but oh you gate receipts.

Burgundy and Warry McLaughlin's left get better with age.

Tennyson never could write poetry; Rembrandt couldn't land a bum sign painting job; Hoe didn't know the difference between a printing press and an Oliver chilled plow, while what "Home Run" Wolf Doesn't know about batting would fill the books of a Carnegie Library.

We have seen them both and vote the Cincinnati team worse than the Cincinnati base hit. It's still troubling the scorer.

Dave Driscoll now admits that the United States League is among the 29,000 leagues under the sea. It took the wiley one a long time to find it out.

We met a few of those North Plainfield High School ball players ambling down Somerset street about 1 o'clock this morning. It must have taken them some time to defeat the Summit High School lads. Coach Webster must be getting lax in his training requisites to allow his charges to roam the streets at that unearthly hour.

FRED RITTER'S RECORDS IN THE TRI-STATE LEAGUE

Fred Ritter, who twirled for the Plainfield baseball club on a number of different occasions last season, is at present pitching with the Atlantic City team, of the Tri-State League, and appears to be pretty much the main thing along the pitching line for his aggregation. To date he has won two games and lost four, giving him a percentage of .333. He has been used as relief man on a number of different occasions and in a pinch he has shown the real goods.

Ritter has taken part in eleven games and out of thirty-three times at bat he has scored two runs and three hits for an average of .091. He ranks fourth among the pitchers in fielding and out of seven games he has returned nineteen assists with one error for a mark of .950.

GAMES SCHEDULED FOR THE NETHERWOOD A. C. PLAYERS

A double header will be played by the Netherwood A. C. baseball team on Decoration Day, when the junior ballists will meet the Clinton Avenue nine in the morning and the same nine again in the afternoon. On Sunday, June 1, the Netherwoods will line-up against the Shamrock A. C. in the second game of a series.

The team will take the field as follows: Dodd, c; Schinkle or Demp; Luthman, 1b; Trotter, 2b; Moore, ss; Hoffmeister, 3b; V. Mulin, lf; Henzel, cf; Stebor, rf.

WESTON TO STROLL AGAIN.

Edward Payson Weston will leave New York Monday on a 1,500-mile walk to Minneapolis. He plans to reach that city August 2. The aged pedestrian plans to average about twenty-six and one-half miles a day and to rest on Sundays. After ferrying across the Hudson River Weston will follow the tracks of the Erie Railroad to Chicago, which he plans to reach on July 9. He will then follow the tracks of the Chicago and Northwestern to St. Paul, where he will stop over night.

MARTIN RETURNED TO BENCH.

Once more Jack Martin has been pushed back a peg and he is now warming the bench for the Rochester team of the International League, his place in the lineup being given over to Ireland yesterday afternoon at Buffalo. The best the new player could do was to chalk up two put-outs and four assists. He failed to connect for a hit. Buffalo won 3 to 2.

SCHEDULED FOR TONIGHT.

Close to 100 riders are expected to compete in the twenty-five mile road race, which will be conducted in this city Decoration Day, and the entry list as compiled by Jack Horner, who is promoting the affair again this year, is one of the choicest ever programmed. The best road racers of the country will race on the Mountain avenue course next Friday morning for prizes aggregating hundreds of dollars in value. The riders will be sent under way at 10 o'clock and the event will be contested on the macadam road between North Plainfield and Mountainside borough, a course that will be covered twice.

Local pedal pushers have turned out in large numbers and to date five have sent in their entries and indications point to many more Plainfield registrations before the pistol shot Friday morning. Plainfielders entered and who have been training faithfully in anticipation of the event are Robert Gullberg, Edward Simon and William Simon, of the Rambler A. C.; George Simon and Ernest Mantz, of the Plainfield Cycle Club. Other entries include Gus Wohlrob, of Jersey City, the winner of last year's race, and the following:

G. A. Knopp, G. E. Mulk, Jr., Jesse R. Pike, Jerome Steinert, Frank MacMillan, of the Century Road Club of America; H. H. Murphy, Atlas Cycle Club, of Brooklyn; H. L. Lind, unattached, Brooklyn; C. Van de Vere, Cranford; William Segelken, unattached, Brooklyn; Frank MacMillan, A. D. Dawson, Richmond Hill, N. Y.; I. Taub, Century Road Club Association, Hoboken; Clinton F. Gackenbach, Orville, Pa.; R. A. Ron, Brooklyn, unattached; A. A. Hauch, Italian-American Gymnastic Association, Brooklyn; C. Inverso, Cicola Ciclistico Italian, Philadelphia.

Newark will be prominently represented in the race with a large delegation of riders from the Bay View Wheelmen. The entries to date from this organization include John Kautman, E. Pofahl, Henry Earl, Walter Grender, Robert Henderson, F. Arenberg, John F Draher, W. Pofahl, Alfred Andres, Thomas Grimm, Fred Weber and Walter Lee, Jr.

Unattached wheelmen from Newark who will strive for victory are Fred Hohl and Lawrence Werner.

The Empire Wheelmen, of Brooklyn, will send a formidable array of pedal speeders in Frank Becht, T. A. Kennedy, William Napier, Eddie Ford, Thomas Bilo, Carl E. Erickson, Frank Mehrman, Patsy Damiano and R. B. Smith.

Additional enlistments coming in this morning's mail include Fred Hensch, of the C. R. C. A., of Jersey City; Nat Goitgoff, of the Atlas B. C., of Brooklyn, N. Y.; James Preteaw, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Joseph D. Cross, of the E. C. W., of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Merrill Stener, of Newark, unattached; C. W. Miller, of Newark, unattached; John N. Tess, of Newark, unattached.

Jesse R. Pike, of the Winston A. A., one of the fastest riders entered, is an all around athlete being just as good as a runner as he is pushing the pedals. Saturday afternoon this varsatile athlete captured first place in the ten mile road race held through the West Hudson towns under the auspices of the John A. O'Keefe Association. Pike had a handicap of forty-five seconds and he covered the course in 54 minutes and 27 seconds. The last five miles of the race was a struggle between Pike and Charles W. Gilmore, of the St. Augustine A. C., of Union Hill, but the former by a burst of speed in the last 100 yards managed to nose out his rival for first honors.

The list of prizes was made public by Jack Horner this morning and includes the following: First, Pierce racer; second, Crawford roadster; third, Panama roadster; fourth, U. S. No. 80 tires; fifth, pair of No. 77 tires; sixth, pair Penn Vacuum Cup tires; seventh, pair Reliance tires; eighth, pair Defender tires; ninth, pair Goodrich tires; tenth, pair Thorn-proof tires; eleventh, pair Thorn-proof tires; twelfth, pair New Saranac tires; thirteenth, New Departure coaster brake; fourteenth, Corbin coaster brake; fifteenth, Musselman coaster brake; sixteenth, Eclipse coaster brake; seventeenth, Two Tone Shime Horn; eighteenth, Never Out lamp; nineteenth, Solar Gas lamp; twentieth, Old Sol Gas lamp; twenty-first, Search Gas lamp; twenty-second, Hussey handle bar; twenty-fourth, Conklin fountain pen; twenty-fifth, Diamond chain; twenty-sixth, Whitney chain; twenty-seventh, Coventry chain; twenty-eighth, Veeder Trip cyclometer; twenty-ninth, Star racing pedals; thirtieth, Motorcycle grips.

The time prizes are: First, Columbia racer; second, one pair Palmer tires; third, one pair Diamond thread tires. Two special awards will be made, one for the first place winner and another to the time place winner. The former will receive a Person's racing saddle and the latter will be given an exact duplicate of the first place winner's award.

WATSON-STILLMAN TEAM WON A GAME

Take Close Contest From the Levgar Ball Artists—Well Played Contest.

Playing gilt-edge baseball at Dunellen, Saturday afternoon, the Watson-Stillman A. C. baseball team scored a 4 to 2 victory over the Levgar A. C. another crack factory nine. The game was a remarkably well played one for this class of teams and both aggregations fielded and hit the ball in great style. The loss of the game to the Levgars [illegible] was due to Vogel [illegible] one of the four made in his team against the two scored by the opposition.

McFadden and Flagge [illegible] respectively [illegible] were hit hard at times but [illegible] upheld them in a stellar [illegible] many would-be hits were turned into spectacular putouts. [illegible] were pounded out by the pitchers against the seven chalked up by the losing batters.

HEAVY HITTING WON FOR ALL-PLAINFIELDS

Extra Base Clouts Sewed up the Sunday Afternoon Clash —Dixon the Star.

A game featured by heavy hitting in which extra base clouts were not uncommon was won by the All Plainfield nine Sunday afternoon when it took the Oak Field Club aggregation into the game by a score of 11 to 4. A feature of the game was the hitting of Johnny Dixon, who hit for a circuit trip, with three men on the bases in the fifth inning. His pitching was another bright spot in the game and he held the opposition at bay at all times

HITS ARE STRETCHED BY IMPROVED DASHES

The way in which runners turn first after making a base hit is another good illustration of the stride forward the playing end of the game is taking.

In the olden days a batter after making a hit would lumber down to first and dig up the sod for a long distance in right field before turning back. If the ball by any chance went through the legs of the infielder or outfielder he had absolutely no chance to advance another base until he first came back to touch the initial sack. If he turned wrong—that is, toward second—he immediately incurred the liability of being put out.

The first improvement in this regard was made some time ago when it was decided that a man after crossing first could turn either way in safety, provided he made no attempt to go to second.

Do batters avail themselves of this rule? Rarely. And here is where the improvement comes in, for there is scarcely a single runner in the big leagues who do not turn first with great speed after hitting the ball and continue on nearly halfway to second, ready to go on if the error is made.

Players realize that an extra bag in these days of closely fought contests sometimes is a big factor in winning.

CIVIC BODIES TO HARMONIZE

Three Associations Met and Permanently Organized Last Night.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

P. G. Chace Will Head General Committee — Concentration Sought — Board of Trade Declines Invitation to Enter.

Representatives of three of the local civic associations met in the Chamber of Commerce rooms last night and discussed a system by which the strength and influence of the various bodies in this city could be brought to bear collectively and forcefully on matters taken up by any of the associations for the welfare of the city. Many suggestions were advanced and the delegates presented a number of plans, some of which had to be eliminated because of their complexity, but it was finally agreed to form a civic combine to be known as the general committee. This body will serve as a clearing house for all questions of public interest taken up at the meetings of the respective associations and act upon them as a combined civic organization committee.

Three members will be selected from each of the societies and these will represent their respective organizations at the meetings which will be held the second Tuesday in each month. P. G. Chace, who has been acting as temporary chairman during the preliminary arrangements, was elected to fill the chair permanently; Harry McMenimen, who has been acting as secretary, was chosen for the office of secretary-treasurer, and Stanley Gunnison, Jr., will be the vice-chairman. At present the West End Civic Association, the Netherwood Residents' Association and the Chamber of Commerce are enrolled in the new project and indications point to the entrance of the Taxpayers' Association before the next meeting, as a committee has already been appointed by that body to attend the session.

Those present at the organization gathering were Harry McMenimen, Newton B. Smalley, Stanley Gunnison, Jr., and J. J. Varley, of the Chamber of Commerce; Thomas Hylan, F. A. Weeks, John Carroll and W. W. Robison, of the West End Civic Association, and A. C. Wilmerding and P. G. Chace, of the Netherwood Residents' Association.

A letter was submitted to the recently organized Board of Trade when the proposition was first launched, inviting them to co-operate with the idea, but response was not forthcoming and the Board declined to become affiliated with the new movement or to be represented at the meeting. The former letter was sent by the Chamber of Commerce, which was the originator of the combine movement and it was voted to send a second appeal from the committee now that permanent organization has been affected.

DEFECTIVE FLUE CAUSED A $500 FIRE LAST NIGHT

A defective chimney caused a fire in the home of Jacob VanDeventer on Woodland avenue at 10:30 o'clock last night, that threatened to destroy the residence before it was brought under control by the local fire department arriving on the scene of the blaze in response to a telephone call followed by an alarm from box 25. When the firemen arrived the fire had reached a clothes closet on the third floor of the building and the flamable contents burned rapidly setting the woodwork and beams in the attic ablaze.

A stream from the chemical engine extinguished the fire before it spread to the other parts of the house, however, and the firemen had the blaze under control inside of an hour. The damage amounted to $500.

OPEN-AIR SERVICES AT GRACE EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Beginning with Sunday and continuing through the summer on Sunday afternoons, a short open-air service will be held on Grace church lawn in the rear of the parish house. The regular evening service will be held at 4:30 in the church. Afterward the clergy and choir will proceed to the parish house steps where the creed, Lord's prayer and a collect will be said and familiar hymns will be sung. There will be a short address followed by the benediction.

The preacher for next Sunday will be Rev. E. Cowles Chorley, of Garrison, N. Y.

REMEMBER SAYING ABOUT EARLY BIRD

There's a Lesson in the Adage for Those Who Would Win Great Prizes.

While some stop to think others run away with the prizes of life Judging from the number of nominations received at this office few seem to realize the opportunity offered by The Daily Press.

While the contest is progressing very slowly at present it will after two or three weeks begin to liven up. This will be due to the fact that many who did not start early will realize their opportunity to win. Again the fact is mentioned that a candidate will have to secure a greater number of subscriptions later on to equal the votes now being given. It is not always the winning candidate who turns in the most subscriptions. The early starter might win an auto with thirty or forty subscriptions turned in during the first period, while it would require three or four hundred during the last period to receive the same number of votes. The old saying goes, "You can put a horse to water but you can't make him drink."

The contest department keeps urging and urging every day through the columns. GET THE EARLY START.

The contest manager can count on his fingers the number of candidates who have availed themselves of the foregoing advice. There is plenty of time to enter. Don't stand back. Can one put his spare time to a better advantage?

Most people would like to enter but dread the thoughts of getting defeated or they imagine it will require hundreds of subscriptions to win. This is an erroneous idea. The winning will be very easy compared to the value of the automobile.

SUFFRAGIST HEAD MAKES TART REPLY

Mrs. Feickert Gives an Answer to Arguments of Assemblyman Matthews.

As president of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, Mrs. Lillian F. Feickert, of this city, today, addressed an open letter to Assemblyman John F. Matthews, of Essex county, in reply to his speech made at the mass meeting held here last night by the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage. Mrs. Feickert, who is an unusually gifted woman, had this to say:

"I should like to comment upon a few statements in your address made last evening at the Anti-Suffrage meeting in the Plainfield High School.

"You said that you were obliged to neglect your business in order to properly fulfill your duties as an Assemblyman, and added that if women lived up to the full obligations of complete suffrage, running for office as well as voting, they would be forced to neglect their homes and children, in other words, their 'business.' In your own county, Essex, there were 70,013 voters at the last election. Assuming that if women had the vote, the number of voters there would be doubled, that is, increased to 140,026, there are only twelve Assemblymen from Essex county, so that only one voter out of each 11,669 could possibly hope to serve in the Assembly. It is reasonable to suppose that men would not give up running for office, and that not all the twelve representatives from Essex county would be women. It is also within the bounds of possibility that such women might be unmarried or widows, and their children might have gotten beyond the stage of infancy, might even be old enough to vote for their mothers. In any event, would you advocate the ballot being taken from you because you confessedly neglect your business in the interests of the State?

"You stated that the voters of the women of the west had not changed the easy divorce laws of Reno. Please remember that women do not vote in the State of Nevada, although they confidently expect to be able to after the election of 1914, as their suffrage referendum bill passed the Legislature for the second time this spring, by a vote of 49 to 3 in the House and 19 to 3 in the Senate.

"You said that suffrage is to those women who desire it as much a fad as a style of dress. You can only judge others by yourself. Is this your conception of the dignity of suffrage—does it amount to no more to you than the difference between narrow and wide brimmed straw hats for summer wear?

"You said, 'The most rabid suffragist will tell you that she does not expect to better the electorate,' then staed a little later that each Assemblyman wah liable to nomination by

PLAN TO SUPPLY HOT LUNCHEONS

INDORSED BY BOARD

Meals Will Not Exceed Three Cents New Movement Will Be Tried at Lincoln and Bryant Schools—Will Start October 1.

A plan whereby Plainfield school children, principally those of the primary grades, will be supplied with hot luncheons at a nominal cost, was submitted to the Board of Education at a special meeting held last night by the Mothers' Association and the latter organization was given the power to carry out its scheme. Present plans call for the opening of a kitchen department in the Bryant School next October over which the members of the Mothers' Association will have direct supervision and they will be assisted by the local Board of Education. A careful study into the food requirements and costs for supplying the proper nourishment necessary to the school children during the different seasons of the year has been conducted by the association for some time past and in their report which was submitted to the board they contend that the average cost per child will not exceed three cents and this sum will furnish a meal consisting of soup, crackers and other substantial articles of food. While no article of food on the menu will exceed one cent in cost, the association has outlined a system whereby the hot luncheon will pay for itself, through a method of balancing one cost with another.

While the new scheme will be introduced at the Bryant and Lincoln Schools in the fall, as soon as the success of the undertaking is shown, the idea will be introduced in all the city schools and it is hoped in time to supply every educational institution supported by the public of Plainfield with the same conveniences. The schools where the luncheon will be given a trial are two of the most centrally located and therefore were selected by the association for demonstration purposes. The Bryant School will be used as the central kitchen and a covered push cart will supply the Lincoln pupils with hot food.

A competent cook will be employed by the Mothers' Association and anywhere from forty to eighty of the association members have enlisted their names as assistants in the cause. The work will be divided up into sections and the women will work in committees, a different squad directing the work each week. The Board of Education will supply the stationary equipment needed and the Mothers' Association will take charge of the financial end of the undertaking.

In placing its petition before the board the Mothers' committee emphasized the fact that this was the first time such a project has been tried in a city of this size on the scale outlined in their report. East Orange has tried a system similar in some respects to the proposed local one but the scale presented has been an inferior one. While it will be in the experimental stage for some time to come in this city, the luncheon idea will be given careful study while it is in operation and the spread is expected to be rapid.

Mrs. O. H. Smith is general chairman and will have direct supervision over everything that is done, with Mrs. Harry Henwood as her assistant. Mrs. Albert Penn is the superintendent of the operating department and will be assisted by Mrs. E. H. Mumford. The committee includes Mrs. H. C. Krebs, Mrs. Stephen Voorhees, Mrs. G. Stuart Simmons, Mrs. George O. Stevens, Mrs. James C. Kimball and Mrs George Green. A finance committee composed of Mrs. George O. Stevens, chairman; Mrs. William N. Sandford, Mrs. Stephen and Mrs. H. C. Corbusier was also appointed.

ENTERTAINMENT POSTPONED.

Inclement weather has made it necessary for the Reminiscent Club to postpone its annual reception which was originally scheduled for tonight until some time next week, the exact date to be announced later. Members of the club are making great preparations for the affair, which will be held in the club rooms on West Fourth street and are naturally looking forward to the event with much anticipation for its success.

FIFTY IN THE CAST OF CANTATA "DANIEL"

Superbly Rendered Under Cleric's Direction at Monroe Ave. Church.

Fifty vocalists selected from among members of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, delighted a capacity audience in that edifice last night by the rendition of the beautiful cantata "Daniel," by Root, under the direction of the pastor, Rev. Frederick J. Hubach. The soloists received well earned applause for their clever impersonations of the various characters which were taken by Rev. Mr. Hubach, basso, as king; Miss Frances M. Betz, soprano, as queen; L. V. Tallamy, baritone, as Daniel; John W. Daub, tenor, as Azariah; Mrs. E. L. Pfaff, soprano, as sister of Azariah, and Oscar Moore, basso, and John C. Osborne, tenor, as heralds.

The respective parts of the cantata were introduced by the rendition on the piano of the overtures, "Norma," by Bellini, and "L'Italiana in Algeri," by Rossini, and "Festival Cortage," by Arnold Kleffell. Mrs. Frederick J. Hubach and Miss E. R. Allen were the pianists. Miss Bertha Jones was the organist.

The chorus was composed of:

Sopranos—Misses Georgetta Beekman, Agnes I. Brown, Daisy Brouarb, Martha Camp, Gertrude Gray, Bessie Gunzleman, Marian Hofer, Anna L. Lee, Clara Lee, Sofia Le Poidevin, Maria Le Poidevin, Helen Pierson, Louis Pread, Anna Matthews, Stella Rink and Caroline Van Pelt; Mrs. Edward H. Beekman, Mrs. Samuel B. Beekman, Mrs. Harry L. Gardner, Mrs. J. C. Pierson and Mrs. S. T. Saums.

Altos—Misses Mabel Lant, May Pound, R. E. Allen, Florence C. Brown, Mary J. Matthews, Grace Weston and Josephine Romond; Mrs. Willard H. Cook, Mrs. A. Haken and Mrs. J. M. Nicholson.

Tenors — Benjamin Nicholson, Isaac E. Houston, Paul Hofer and Frank A. Langworthy.

Bassos—Edwin H. Beekman, George Lee, Frank Stodd, Alston B. Davis, Russell Hess, William McComb, Arthur L. Hofer and William Le Poidevin.

The scenic effects on the stage were elaborate and represented the historic Babylon during the time of the seventy years of captivity of the Hebrews in that place. Other parts of the church were decorated with palms and ferns.

As a fitting conclusion to the successful production the members of the chorus presented the pastor, Rev. Mr. Hubach, with a silver mounted communion set, in a leather case, as a token of esteem and appreciation of his untiring efforts in arranging the cantata. Mrs. Hubach was presented with a silver mounted serving tray; Miss Jones, the organist, was made a present of a hand painted dish and Miss Allen, who accompanied Mrs. Hubach on the piano, was presented with a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

IN JUSTICE TO THE STIRLING POSTMASTER

On Friday, May 23, there appeared in this paper a news item to the effect that Ray Allen, postmaster at Stirling, was then a prisoner at the county jail at Morristown, after having been arrested by the Federal postal authorities for an alleged shortage in his postoffice accounts. It was also stated that it was said that he had robbed the postoffices at Basking Ridge, New Providence and Short Hills, that he owned an automobile and made various trips to the postoffice, taking stamps and money.

On investigation it has been found that Mr. Allen was not confined in the county jail at Morristown, nor was he charged with robbing the postoffices at Basking Ridge, New Providence and Short Hills, nor visiting the various postoffices and taking money and stamps therefrom and this paper regrets that such an article should appear and in justice to Mr. Allen makes this retraction in justice to itself as well as Mr. Allen.

'ANTIS' RETURNED SUFFRAGIST FIRE

HIT BACK AT "PROS"

Miss Elsie Buck and Assemblyman Matthews Also Make Arguments —Mrs. E. Yarde Breese Acts as Chairman.

Arguments opposing equal suffrage were presented by able speakers at a public meeting held at the Plainfield High School, last night, under the auspices of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage. The auditorium was filled with antis as well as those who are fighting for the cause of suffrage, all anxious to hear the arguments of those who declare that a majority of the women do not want the ballot. The meeting was quite as interesting as that held two weeks ago in the Plainfield theatre by the suffragists.

Mrs E. Yarde Breese, of Trenton, who was formerly Miss Georgianna Smith, of this city, who is president of the State association, presided. The speakers were Miss Elsie Buck, of Trenton, who was introduced as "a working girl," Miss Minnie Bronson, who has been campaigning against the suffrage movement for the past two years, and Assemblyman John A. Matthews, of Essex. Before the addresses, Mrs. Breese read a letter written by Bishop McFaul, of Trenton, who declared himself to be opposed to equal suffrage and expressed his pleasure over the movement started by the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

Miss Bronson, the chief speaker of the evening, as well as Mr. Matthews accepted the opportunity to criticise Miss Inez Milholland for some of her statements, especially the one in which she said that the anti-suffrage movement is supported by the liquor interests and the charge had never been disproved. The speakers emphatically declared that such was not the case, and Miss Bronson went so far as to say that Miss Milholland, who recently has been admitted to the bar, had trespassed dangerously near the danger line in making such a statement.

After reviewing briefly the history of the suffrage movement, she recalled that while the anti-movement was only three or four years old, it was growing by leaps and bounds She declared that the comparatively small percentage of women advocating suffrage should not be permitted to force this obligation on the thousands of women all over the country who do not want it, and because women oppose suffrage does not necessarily mean that they are social parasites.

How can women best serve their State?" said Miss Bronson. "That is the question. Can they best serve it by having the ballot, campaigning, etc., which to many women is repugnant If women are to have the ballot they must accept the franchise with all that it implies, which includes jury duty, police duty, etc. Already in Colorado, where they have suffrage a woman's party has been organized, it being opposed to all parties. When the women get the ballot, if they do, all questions will not be settled, but on the contrary will raise countless difficulties. Woman has always been the world's eudactor and man the executive and it is man's duty to protect woman, which I believe can be best accomplished without giving woman the ballot. Through the power of public opinion women have been able to secure more good legislation than they ever will with the ballot. In States where there is suffrage there is more political antagonism than ever.

"The Federation of Women's Clubs has done good work and has secured more legislation than all the suffragists combined, but woman's significance will vanish with the ballot."

Miss Bronson then took up the question from the standpoint of economic equality and legal equality. Speaking of the legal equality, Miss Bronson said that about 92 per cent. of the women do not want the ballot. She then went on to tell what the different States have done by the way of enacting laws for the protection and betterment of women, and she asked the question as to whether the ballot is to give women anything better.

Referring to the stock argument that women who pay taxes should vote, Miss Bronson said that in some States 4 per cent. of the women pay taxes and in others as high as 10 per cent., in some cases the property being put in their names by their husbands who wish to escape the payment of debt. The speaker declared the question of taxation to be one of popular fancy with the suffragists; also that the wage-earning woman should have the ballot. She said

BRODZIAK WITNESS FAILS TO MAKE GOOD

Questioned by Hetfield, Jr., Counsel for Cleric, Plaintiff's Case Falls.

Elizabeth, May 28.—After a number of witnesses had been examined in the case against Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, defendant in a $5,000 slander suit, instituted by Burnett Brodziak, before Judge Vail in he Supreme Court, yesterday, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of the firm of Reed & Hetfield, who was counsel for the minister, moved for a non-suit. Robert Newton Crane, of counsel for the plaintiff, moved for the withdrawal of a juror, which was granted. The plaintiff will have to pay the costs of the trial.

Mr. Brodziak bases his action against Mr. Mathiews on a remark in which the latter was alleged to have said that Mr. Brodziak was too familiar with girls. He failed, however, to prove the charge in court, his principal witness being uncertain as to whether Mr. Mathiews made the remark or not. Mr. Hetfield called a number of witnesses, including Dr. F. W. Westcott, E. T. Hand, Burton P. Hall and Dr. Munger, of Scotch Plains, in support of his case to prove that Mr. Mathiews was not guilty of the charge.

Mr. Brodziak was formerly employed as instructor at the Parish House, Scotch Plains, which position he resigned several months ago. There had been friction between Mr. Brodziak and the Parish House Council and it was just before he gave up his position that the remark upon which the suit was based was alleged to have been made by Mr. Mathiews.

MISS PHILLIPS TO WED ON SATURDAY, JUNE 7

Mr. and Mrs. Percy F. Phillips, of 921 Madison avenue, issuted invitations today for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Marguerite Phillips, and James Mauger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Mauger, of West Seventh street. The ceremony will take place at the home of the bride-elect's parents on Saturday, June 7. Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, of which Miss Phillips is a member, will officiate.

The Girls' Club of the Park Avenue Baptist church, of which Miss Phillips is a member, gave her a tin "shower," at her home, last night, the gifts comprising about everything needful for the kitchen. There was a social time and refreshments were served.

COMMISSIONERS HEAR SOME PROPERTY OWNERS

Elliot T. Barrows, F. H. Andrews and Daniel J. Courain, commissioners appointed by the Common Council in the matter of opening and extending Kensington avenue, from Prospect avenue to Park avenue, a distance of about 2,200 feet, met in the Common Council rooms, last night, to treat with all interested property-owners. The commissioners organized by making Mr. Barrows chairman and Mr. Andrews secretary.

There were only two property-owners who appeared before the commission, V. W. Nash, Jr., representing the Jonathan Clawson estate on Park avenue, and George W. Bird, representing Mrs. Morgan Bird. The commissioners listened to the offers of the two representatives and assured them that they were given careful consideration. Mr. Nash offered, on behalf of his client, to donate the required land for the improvement provided no assessment for benefits was made, and Mr. Bird made practically the same kind of an offer. The commissioners adjourned to Monday, June 16.

ANNUAL SENIOR CLASS BANQUET

Faculty of the College of Mt. St. Mary is Entertained by Graduates.

FAREWELL REMARKS

Miss Irene Smith Acted as Toastmaster—Degrees Will Be Conferred on Four This Afternoon—Affair Held in New Building.

Covers were laid for twenty-five at Gabriel Hall, the new school building at the College of Mt. St. Mary last night, the occasion being the annual banquet tendered by the Seniors to the college and faculty. Six members of the 1913 class who will be graduated from that institution this afternoon, took this opportunity to extend a farewell to their alma mater and the affair took the form of a final social gathering before the seniors leave the institution. The hall was elaborately decorated with yellow and violet bunting, and a profusion of cut flowers covered the tables.

Miss Irene Smith, one of the candidates who will receive the degree of bachelor of arts this afternoon, acted as toastmaster at the banquet and introduced a number prominent in the college work who made appropriate remarks to the graduates and teachers. Miss Catherine Griffin spoke on behalf of the graduates and took as her theme "Our College." She told in a reminiscent way of the many advantages afforded at the College of Mt. St. Mary, outlined the many profitable experiences during the present class' stay at the institution and thanked the faculty and all connected with the college for the many courtesies extended during the course of educational preparation.

Sister Mary John spoke for the faculty telling of her experiences with this year's class which she lauded for its superior qualities and expressed a wish that this might be the commencement of a successful worldly career for all. Miss Isabella Mullin, one of the seniors, rendered a vocal solo, entitled "If I Were a Rose," and as a finale the whole assemblage took part in a closing chorus.

Those who will receive degrees this afternoon are Miss Irene and Helen Smith, Miss Grace Rafferty and Sister Mary Concepta.

In speaking to the graduates at the commencement exercises this afternoon, Dr. Walsh, the principal speaker, said in part:

"So much is said in our time about woman's place in the world and in life that it seems dangerous for any mere man to venture into the discussion. Evolution, of which so much has been heard during the last half century, has finally brought, even to woman, the opportunity to express herself and to take her place in the world though she has been repressed and put into the background and treated practically as a creature without a mind by previous generations. Still more important than the evidenced afforded of the old time attitude toward women is the place accorded to women in the literature of all times. All through the Iliad and Odyssey the lofty position of woman was maintained and the marriage of one man and one woman forever seems to be considered as one of those basic principals of life which cannot possibly suffer exception even in thought. When woman fails, man inevitably falls after her. If woman is strong she may lift man up, though, of course, she may fall. The great tragedies of the world as written by our famous poets represent the efforts of good women to save men they love from fatal flaws in their characters.

"Unfortunately history and literature would seem to show that when woman comes down to man's level she invariably sinks below it. When we are not true to what is best in us we are likely to admit it in our lives more of what is worst in us than we originally anticipated."

As a parting word to the graduates the speaker said:

"Dear graduates, you are going out to take your place in life. Do not forget that the place of woman is above man, not on a level of supposed equality with him. Woman's rights are much more than equal. Unfortunately there is a tendency in our time very noticeable in education, in social matters, in nearly every phase of life, toward leveling down instead of leveling up. Do not be caught with the shimmer of this false democracy and pseudo fraternity and equality, but live up to what is best in you. This is what you good teachers who were also mine expect of you. This is what your alma mater demands of you in return for the education that you have received. Nobleness oblige. Privileges impose obligations. You have had the privilege of a higher Catholic education. Be sure that it bears fruits of high influence in your after life. By their fruits shall men judge the scions of Catholic education."

two corrupt forces, 'the political bosses and the ignorant electorate' 'the ignorant' in the electorate.' If (which you immediately changed to it is a fact that the majority of the present electorate is ignorant, then the New Jersey suffragists will very willingly claim that the extension of the franchise to women will considerable better the electorate.' Mrs. Caroline Alexander (than whom there is no better authority on such questions in the State) speaking in Somerville last week, said that within the last ten years one-fifth of all the immigrants who had come to this country had stayed in New Jersey; that these immigrants were mostly men who did not bring their wives with them, in fact she said that the ratio was about twenty men to one woman. The last census shows that there are 38,000 more men than women in New Jersey, and that this surplus is composed chiefly of what are termed 'undesirable immigrants,' that is, those who come from Russia, Austria and Italy, rather than from Ireland, England, Sweden, Norway and Germany. In this State three girls graduate from the High Schools to one boy. So you see the women would not increase the ignorant vote.

"In referring to a statement by a suffragist speaker that ninety per cent. of all criminals in jail are men, you said, 'Not all the criminal women are in jail?' Are all the criminal men properly incarcerated?

"Referring to White Slavery, you stated that 35,000 unfortunate women are on the streets of New York, and deduced from this that their mothers must have failed to give them the proper moral training at home. Jane Addams, Reginald Wright Kaufman and other authorities on this subject say that for every bad woman there are ten bad men who make and keep her what she is. Who are more responsible for the 350,000 men involved in this New York situation, their mothers or their fathers?

"The quotations which you read from Judge Lindsey's 1910 article were similarly quoted by an anti-suffrage speaker at the Albany Legislative hearing in 1911. Reading a report of this speech in the Denver papers the next morning, Judge Lindsey immediately took a train for Albany. He reached there after the close of the hearing, but asked for permission to speak as a matter of personal right. This was granted him, and he said he could not hear the women of Denver traduced and remain quietly at home; that he had come there to testify that the women of Denver were responsible for the continuance of the work of the Juvenile Court; that the women of Colorado were very largely responsible for all the reform laws of that State, although as the women only constitute forty-two per cent. of the population, they cannot, of course, accomplish reforms without the help of the good men of the State. At our hearing in Trenton in February, Senator Shafroth, of Colorado, until recently governor of the State, came in and asked permission to speak. He said he wanted to testify to the success of woman suffrage in his State. He gave instances to prove his contention, and closed by saying, 'In Colorado we have experienced woman suffrage, and we have obtained great good from the influence of women in politics.

"You said that a number of suffragists went to Trenton to lobby for the Suffrage Referendum Bill, but you neglected to state that a band of anti-suffragists, headed by Miss Minnie Bronson, went down a week before the suffragists did to lobby against the bill. I may tell you that the suffragists were asked to come by some of their supporters in the Assembly, who said, 'The antis have been down here in force trying to make the Legislature believe that women are not vitally interested in this matter. If you expect to eradicate this impression a lot of you suffragists had better come down and present your reasons.' In response to this request a number of suffrage workers went to Trenton, among them being Mrs. Everett Colby, Mrs. Philip Marrison and Mrs. S. L. Loomis, of Orange; Mrs. George M. LaMonte, of Bound Brook; Mrs. William E. Gebhardt, of Clinton; Mrs. George T. Vickers and Miss Bessie Pope, of Jersey City, and Mrs. C. L. Riley, Mrs. Francis deL. Hyde, Mrs. Albert B. Jones and myself, of Plainfield. Not one of us is younger than you are, Mr. Matthews (the Legislative Manual gives your age as thirty), so your reference to the extreme youth of the suffrage lobbyists can hardly apply to us, and I know we used more solid arguments than the 'smiles' to which you also refer! I did not talk with you personally, but I was one of several who argued at considerable length with the Union county Assemblymen, who were three of the four men who voted with you against the bill. They presented a great many 'arguments', that their own wives did not want to vote; that men would no longer treat us with respect if we voted; that we could not expect to have men give us their seats in crowded subway trains if we voted; that women belonged upon a pedestal and they did not want her to come down 'into the mire of politics.' We were distressed to learn from such good authority that Union county politics is a mire! One of them, John J. Griffin, of Elizabeth, said he did not approve of a referendum to the people on this subject, because most of the voters would know so little about it that they would not vote intelligently, and there would be danger of our winning. A few weeks later, speaking in Elizabeth, this gentleman said he had voted for a referendum to the people on the Jury Reform Bill because he believed most of the voters were ignorant on this matter, and if they were obliged to vote on it, they would take pains to inform themselves about it.

"When you debate the question of woman suffrage in Paterson on June 10 with Senator Helen Ring Robinson, of Colorado, I believe you will obtain an entirely new viewpoint as to the use women make of political power and the good results to the State of their political responsibility, which they feel. If you listen to the arguments with a perfectly open mind, you may even become converted to suffrage and take the stand for the rights instead of the antis of the argument in the coming campaign."

RETURNED SUFFRAGIST FIRE

that the long project [illegible] than it does men in many cases. Miss Bronson said that in the light of recent events women must [illegible] solved their own problem which should be done before the ballot is given to them. If votes for women would raise wages, as some believe, it would also lower wages.

Miss Bronson then took up the statement made by Miss Milholland, in which she said that the liquor interests are backing the anti-suffrage movement, making an empty [illegible] plea. She said that she was treasurer of the campaign in California and every [illegible] or contribution was carefully recorded, which money was [illegible] on the honor system returned [illegible] said that [illegible] could not be [illegible] of an organization that takes up a collection at every meeting.

In conclusion Miss Bronson said that she did cheer to the suffragists comparing the militant body with our forefathers, who had to fight for their liberty, and denounced the actions of the militants.

Assemblyman Matthews took up the question from the point of expedience, declaring that it was inexpedient that woman should exercise the ballot, that it is not an equal right. He then described the laws that would be placed on women if the ballot, compared social conditions today with those ten years ago, stating that the real American woman should give her whole time to the training of her children, and that it is up to the men to be vitally interested in this movement.

The speaker sharply criticised Miss Milholland, whom he said posed as an authority on motherhood, and declared "that there is no [illegible] tion in motherhood for the [illegible] task of life," and referred to her "tan upstairs". He said that [illegible] suffrage and socialism go [illegible] hand in hand, and he took up the question of White Slavery, [illegible] that if women gave their children proper training of such children they would not be found going [illegible] wrong path.

Recalling the action of the Legislature in voting in favor of submitting the question of suffrage to the [illegible] mitted to the people, Mr. Matthews said that many of those who voted in favor, admitted that they did so at the personal request of some [illegible] man who had buttonholed them, [illegible] added that the question would be killed at the polls. Mr. Matthews also declared that large sums of money is being taken away from worthy charities to finance the suffrage campaign. He referred to the movement as the "yellow peril," of course meaning the yellow badge worn by suffrage advocates. Mr. Matthews concluded his speech by quoting an extract from an article by Judge Ben. Lindsey, in which he declared that suffrage in Colorado had not helped matters.

Miss Elsie Buck, the third speaker of the evening, [illegible] the arguments against suffrage. She said that women have enough to do at home without [illegible] ties, that a majority of women do not want suffrage, that women always been easy victims of fashion and that they would sell their souls for the price of a pretty article of wearing apparel.

Miss Buck said that if women [illegible] of the right kind they can persuade their husbands, or brothers to vote for the right candidate, that equal suffrage will not better a poor working girl, but will incur a poll tax each year and that if women are permitted to vote the vast majority will be influenced by their husbands. She did not see how women could be good law makers when they continually persist in breaking laws to further their cause as they are doing in England.

OPPENHEIMER MUST GIVE LIFE AS FORFEIT

"The Criminal of the Century," After Long Fight, to Pay Penalty.

San Francisco, Cali., May 28.—After staying his execution for more than five years, by availing himself of every legal technicality and every court, Jake Oppenheimer, "the criminal of the century," will be executed at Folsom prison within the next two weeks unless the governor intervenes and commutes the sentence. Oppenheimer, whose brutality and murderous tendencies have gained for him the name of "Man Tiger" and have made him the terror of guards and prisoners alike, is considered one of the most remarkable criminals ever known in this part of the country. He has a long record of crime and is known to have committed at least four murders.

Oppenheimer began his career of crime in this city many years ago, when he was employed as a messenger boy for a telegraph company. One day he was discharged by the superintendent and promptly revenged himself by shooting the superintendent. Three years later he was sentenced to 50 years' imprisonment for robbing a drug store. A man named Ross testified against him. Oppenheimer was sent to Folsom and later, when Ross was also sent to that institution for some other crime, Oppenheimer awaited him at the prison gate and stabbed him to death.

Some time after that Oppenheimer murdered a guard named McDonald at the prison. As a punishment he was placed in solitary confinement, but obtaining a tube and cutting his way out he made a murderous assault on a fellow convict named John Wilson with a butcher knife. In 1901 the State legislature of California had passed a law imposing death punishment upon any prisoner who should make an assault upon a prison official or a fellow prisoner. Under this law Oppenheimer was tried in October, 1907, for his attack upon Wilson, who had died from the effects of the stab wounds. Oppenheimer was found guilty and was sentenced to death. The execution was set for June 6, 1908, but Oppenheimer through his counsel appealed and fought his case through several courts and finally the Supreme Court of the United States. Every court decided against him and the U. S. Supreme Court upheld the validity of the California law. Oppenheimer made another attempt to save his life by obtaining a writ of habeas corpus and bringing his case before the United States District Court upon the plea that the statute under which Oppenheimer had been sentenced to death is retroactive and contravents section 10 of the Constitution of the United States, which forbids the passage of ex post facto criminal laws. This case also was dismissed and with that all resources of the law were exhausted.

While awaiting the decision of the courts in his efforts to save himself from the gallows, Oppenheimer was kept in strict confinement at the Folsom prison. There he continued his criminal career with unequaled cunning and ferocity. In company with two other prisoners, J. W. Finley and Francisco Quijada, Oppenheimer made an attempt to break out of the prison at midnight on January 6, 1910 by sawing the bars of their cell. They would have succeeded had not Night Captain Quagnuro detected them speaking along a corridor. He called several of the guards and subdued the prisoners.

Quijada, a half-breed Yaqui Indian, had attacked some of the prison guards several years before and had also been sentenced to death under the law of 1901. He also appealed to the courts and his case was pending at the time when Oppenheimer began his fight for his life. There was considerable ill feeling between the two prisoners from the very beginning and their mutual hatred increased in the course of time. The climax came in September of 1911, when one morning Quijada challenged Oppenheimer to a combat for life, while the prisoners were permitted to exercise in the corridor of the prison. Oppenheimer who had secretly prepared himself for such an emergency, flung himself upon the Indian and stabbed him to death with a sharp piece of steel which he had picked up in the prison yard several months before and which he had secreted in his mattress ever since.

Although there was never a lack of "bad men" in the prison, Oppenheimer was always considered the most dangerous of the prisoners. He was greatly feared not only by his fellow prisoners but also by the prison guards and officials and for several years it was considered necessary to have him watched and guarded by two guards armed with loaded rifles. Oppenheimer was the most sullen and refractory prisoner in the penitentiary and on many occasions it became necessary to discipline and severely punish him.

TARRYTOWN CLERGYMAN IN LONGFELLOW RECITAL

Rev. Alvin Brooks of Tarrytown, N. Y., entertained a large audience at the First Baptist church, last night, with a Longfellow recital. The affair was given under the auspices of the Young People's Society of the church. Mr. Brooks first gave a brief sketch of Longfellow's life and then sang a dozen or more of his poetic selections set to music, beginning with "Excelsior." With each number Mr. Brooks gave a short talk explaining the circumstances under which it was written. The proceeds from the entertainment will be used for missions.

ANNUAL LAWN FETE AT HEAVENLY REST CHURCH

The annual summer festival of the Church of the Heavenly Rest will be held on the church lawn and in the house on the adjoining corner on June 21. Elaborate preparations are being made by the Men's Association and Woman's Guild of the church to make the affair a success.

There will be an industrial booth at which useful and fancy articles will be on sale, a candy table, lemonade and soda water booth, ice cream and strawberries. Golf putting contest, on the bowling and other features of interest. Music and dancing will be [illegible] in the parish house.

MINISTER SPEAKS AT WOMEN'S CLUB MEETING

Religions, the doctrines of which were alleged as contrary to the teachings and correct interpretations of the Bible as known to the Christian world, were attacked by three ministers yesterday afternoon in Vincent chapel before members and guests of the Current Events Circle of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church. Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, of the First Baptist church, spoke on "Confucianism;" Rev. Frederick J. Hubach, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, told the assemblage of "Buddhism," and Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, denounced "The New Thought," beliefs as "things which sound pretty, but which are all wrong."

Dr. Herring said that although the New Thought is helpful in its idealism, individualism and optimism, it fails to give a clear and correct conception of the life and acts of Christ or the fatherhood of God as told in the Bible. A Christian Science advocate who had listened to his discourse took exception to his remarks regarding that form of religion. She told Dr. Herring that it irritated her to listen to a clergyman talk from the pulpit because she could not "get up and answer back."

Following a short talk by Mrs. Matthew H. Ewart, president of the Ladies' Aid Society, tea was served by a committee composed of Mrs. Samuel Bingeman, Mrs. George Rittenhouse, Mrs. Walter Rittenhouse, Mrs. John Lewis and Mrs. J. P. Gibson. The program was arranged under the direction of Mrs. Charles Anderson and Mrs. George H. Whitney.

MAYOR'S CHAUFFEUR HURT.

Walter Loomis, of John street, chauffeur for Mayor Peter H. Stewart, while doing the mechanical parts of an automobile this morning, received a slight injury when the crank handle unexpectedly spun around several times, striking him in the forehead. He was attended by Dr. F. C. Ard.

CRITICALLY ILL.

Mrs. John Kennedy, of East Front street, was taken suddenly ill while visiting friends in Newark on Sunday and was moved to Muhlenberg Hospital where she was operated on for appendicitis. She is now in a critical condition.

An Exhibition of Unusual Charm.

Monsieur Andre de Fouqueres, who recently honored our shores with his presence, said something when, in summing up his impressions of the American woman, he said, 'Fashion interests her to the highest degree; and she has absolutely no confidence except in the Parisian taste. For her, French women are the uncontested arbiters of chic, incomparable artists, inspirers of the masterpieces which our couturiers create.'

This fact has long been recognized by the New York stores catering to women's needs and luxuries, and they have put forward all manner of garments modeled after those of the Paris couturier. The John Wanamaker Store, however, goes further than this, and for several seasons has been most successful in presenting to its patrons tableaux of living models wearing the original creations of these artists in fabrics. Their present exhibition, which is just opened, maintains the penchant of this house for giving its patrons the unusual. This time a Russian Wedding Fete is presented, and the Russian influence on Parisian fashions is revealed in the gowns which are the joint productions of Leon Bakst, the Russian, and Paquin. They include a wedding gown, a bridesmaid's gown and correct wedding costumes for the guests.

Bakst was former director of mise-en-scene and costumes of the Imperial theatres in Moscow and St. Petersburg and exhibits his paintings in all the salons of Europe. He is adding new glories to his reputation by giving Paris new ideas of colorings, and their adaptation to the wardrobe of the woman of fashion. Madame Paquin offered her collaboration to Bakst, who is now living an exile from his country, in his adopted Paris. Together—the artist and the couturiere—they have created a group of gowns which are the talk of two continents.

The gowns which visitors to the Wanamaker Store are privileged to see are a special collection direct from Paris made to order for this event. They are Russian in feeling and color, but they have, besides, a live personality which lifts them out of national characteristic and a human interest which gives them world-charm. It is a collection full of fascination for every woman. The exhibition is presented in the Auditorium, First Floor, New Building, at 11 o'clock in the morning and again at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. It will last throughout the week.

The stage is hung with a tapestry in old blue and silver and decorated with Russian flags. In the centre background is the dais for the bride and groom. Young girls and boys in the national costume precede the wedding party and take their places on either side of the flower-decked approach to the throne. The bride is gowned in a most exquisite robe of white, deeply slashed in the front. The groom is attired in the white and gold dress uniform of the Cossacks. Following the bridal couple comes the bridesmaid in a most unusual robe in which royal blue, bright green and white are most charmingly blended. Then the wedding guests follow, and after the wedding party have grouped themselves on the stage come peasants bearing various gifts. The Balalaika orchestra provide the wedding music and the peasant girls and boys give a most entrancing Russian folk dance. Altogether from every viewpoint the exhibition is crowned with success, and should be attended by all who can make the opportunity to get this glimpse of Russian life and Parisian fashion.

SHIRLEY & JOHNSTON

BABCOCK BUILDING PLAINFIELD, N. J.

CENTRAL LEAGUE TO REMAIN THE SAME

New Players Entered by Dorflinger—Four Team Circuit Will Continue.

A schedule of games to be played in the Central New Jersey baseball league over the week-end was drawn up at last night's meeting of the league held in the Kensington Hotel and according to present plans all of the teams will be busy both Friday and Saturday although no league double headers are booked. New Brunswick and Bound Brook were finally dropped at last night's meeting and now it is an assured fact that the organization will be a four team one instead of the six team circuit that has been agitated.

The names of Will Coogan, Clem Coogan and Leon Teston were entered by Manager Ernest Dorflinger, of the Plainfield baseball team, and these new players will be given tryouts with the local aggregation probably in the next game. Teston is a former Bound Brook High School player, while the Cogan brothers are well known in semi-professional circles around the metropolitan circuit.

N. P. H. S. BASEBALL TEAM WILL BATTLE WITH ALUMNI

The annual baseball game between the North Plainfield High School and the Alumni teams will be played on Hyde Oval, Decoration Day afternoon at 3:30. The borough team has now won seven straight games and they will have to put up a perfect article of ball to beat the old-timers. Acting Captain Herbert Stine has about fourteen former High School stars and they expect to trim the undergraduates. Among those who will appear in Alumni uniforms are Herbert Stine, Carton Smith, Pierson Bailey, Percy Bailey, Wilbur Dunning, Preston Dunning, Leslie Powelson, Frank Webster, Gay Hardley, Lester Hamilton, Tone Overton, E. Schuck and George Conover. Conover will probably do the mound work as both Smith and Percy Bailey have hard games to pitch the next day. Stine and Pierson Bailey will divide the catching and Overton will cover the second bag.

CATHEDRAL CONFERENCE FOR CHURCH WORKERS

Church workers of the Second Missoinary Department of the Episcopal church are preparing for a conference to be held at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, in New York city, June 30 to July 5. The final program has just been completed. The range of topics covers almost every phase of church work, missions, religious education and social service. The list of speakers contains the names of many of the most prominent leaders of the church. The conference will not be made up simply of a long series of addresses. There are to be real classes for earnest study. Under nearly all the topics, provision has been made for informal discussion and consultation. The aim throughout has been to provide opportunity whereby church workers might equip themselves for better work.

Exceptional facilities, in the way of entertainment, are offered those who attend. The men will be housed in the dormitories of Columbia and the women at Teachers' College. All the members of the conference will come together for meals at Columbia commons. The Columbia buildings are very convenient to the Cathedral Close. By special arrangement with the University authorities, the cost of these accommodations is made very low.

Expeditions will be made on the afternoons of the conference period to various points of interest, in and near New York. Ellis Island and the famous Bedford Reformatory will be visited under expert leadership.

The secretary of the conference is Rev. Charles K. Gilbert, 416 Lafayette street, New York city, who will furnish full information to all who desire it.

"REMEMBER THE MAINE."

With a grand naval and military parade, with teeming crowds, and in the presence of a distinguished company the National Maine monument, erected by popular subscription in honor of the United States sailors who met death in the explosion of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor just prior to the Spanish-American war, will be unveiled on Friday afternoon in Columbus Circle, at the southwest entrance to Central Park, in New York. The Stars and Stripes will float from all the public buildings and from thousands of business houses and private residences. Fifth Avenue will be lined with spectators, who will cheer the 5,000 bluejackets from the Florida, North Dakota, South Carolina, New Hampshire, Virginia, New Jersey and half a dozen other of the great dreadnoughts detailed by the Navy Department to attend the unveiling.

The unveiling ceremonies will be of an impressive character, beginning with an invocation by Father Chidwick, wh owas chaplain of the ill-fated battleship. Other leading participants in the program will be Secretary of the Navy Daniels, Rear Admiral Badger, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, Governor Haines of Maine, Governor Sulzer of New York, and Mayor Gaynor of New York city. The actual unveiling will be performed by Frederick D. Owen, of the Department of Public Buildings and Grounds in Washington. At the conclusion of the ceremnies Father Chidwick will deposit a handsome wreath at the base of the memorial in behalf of the United States government. Similar floral offerings will be presented by Governor Haines for the State of Manie, and Governor Sulzer for the State of New York.

The principal part of the monument proper consists of a pylon 18½x21 feet, and 40 feet high, with panels on its four faces. It is flanked by two colossal figures, representing the Atlantic and the Pacific Oceans, suggestive of the National scope of the memorial. The Atlantic is typified by a young man in the fullness of his strength, the Pacific by an old ma nhalf slumbering. The figures standing would be over fourteen feet high.

At the foot of the shaft and facing the circle is a group of sculpture ante-bellum in idea—courage awaiting the flight of peace, while fortitude supports the feeble. These are figures nearly twice actual life-size. Above the group is the following inscription: "To the valiant seamen who perished in the Maine—by fate unwarned, in death unafraid."

On the lower part of the pedestal supporting this group is a conventional boat prow on which kneels a figure of a boy holding wreaths of olive and laurel, suggesting the new era inaugurated in Cuba through the Spanish War. A low fountain basin extends toward the circle from this side of the monument, approached by three broad steps forming a stylobate.

The corresponding group on the side facing the park is post-bellum in motif—justice, having intrusted her sword to the genius of war, receives it again at his hands, while history records its deeds. The inscription over this group reads as follows: "To the freemen who died in the war with Spain that others might be free."

The pylon is crowned by a group representing Columbia triumphant, drawn in a sea car by three plunging horses. This group is in bronze, cast from guns recovered from the sunken Maine, and is heavily gilded. The group is seventeen feet high, making the monument fifty-seven feet in height. All the other sculptures are of Knoxville marble. In panels on the lateral faces of the shaft are inscribed the names to whom the monument is dedicated.

At either side of the pylon and separated from it by two park roads are two entrances formed by four garden houses of the type familiar in the great parks abroad. Each pair of houses constitutes a gateway. There is one of those gates on each side of the footpaths and partially connected by a low wall and with seats facing the circle. The pylon itself and the houses and the wall are of Tennessee marble, with a granite base of a similar shade of color.

A Trenton newspaper boasts of a saloon in that city that closes every week day night at 10:30, and on Saturday nights at 11:30. We have one saloon in this city, at least, that closes earlier than the Trenton one on week days, by half an hour.—New Brunswick Home News.

And Plainfield can beat both Trenton and New Brunswick. By our ordinances the all bars must close at 11 o'clock every night and not open again until 6 o'clock in the morning, and in Plainfield, which has a less proportion of bars than either of the two places mentioned, the ordinance is strictly obeyed.

Somewhat on the order of the German plan of municipal government will be the scheme shortly to be referred to the voters of Dayton, Ohio, to ascertain whether they desire its adoption. There will be a commission but the five members of that body will employ a business manager who will actually run the city as the chief executive officer. The Germans consider municipal government as a science and their administrative officers are picked for their fitness and not because of their politics. Hence, no cities in the world are as well governed as those in Germany.

Time was when the old school of politicians fixed things up in the rear room of a saloon or in some gambling joint run under the guise of a political or social club. There the "boss" announced who could run for office and who could not and his word went. What a contrast to present day conditions. For instance, there is Everett Colby. His frineds will meet him at a garden party and there and then he will be asked to run for office and will give his answer. And yet some people say that the world is not growing better.

Mayor Cronin, of Bayonne, is to be applauded for his courage. He took the "bull by the horns," figuratively speaking, last night, for when some I. W. W. agitators attempted to speak in that city he ordered the police chief to escort them out of town. Good for Cronin. America has no place for such enemies of law and order.

SCHOOL SUPPLY BIDS RECEIVED BY BOARD

An adjourned meeting of the Plainfield Board of Education for the purpose of opening bids for school supplies needed during the coming year was held last night and bids were received from four dealers, three of whom were from New York. Peckham, Little & Co. submitted an estimate of $2,369.33; Keeny Brothers and Wolkins, $2,369.63; J. W. Pratt & Co., $1,986.74; J. L. Hammett Co., $2,220.09, according to sample set number one and according to sample set number two, $1,937.33. The estimates were referred to the committee on supplies and a report will be submitted to the Board at a later date.

A delegation from the Mothers' Association visited the Board of Education at the special meeting consisting of Mrs. H. O. Smith, chairman; Mrs. G. Stuart Simmons, Mrs. Charles Munro and Mrs. Stephen H. Voorhees and presented reports of their findings as a result of the investigation conducted in connection with food serving movement. After due consideration the request was granted and the Board instructed Superintendent Henry M. Maxson to arrange for the necessary fittings.

BELIEVE THEY HAVE MEN WHO ROBBED A BANK

Chicago Ill., May 28.—Detectives believe that the arrest of Michael J Flanagan, Charles O'Leary and William J. Lawlor, who were given a preliminary hearing in court toda, on charges of being connected with the robbery of the New Westminster, B. C., branch of the Bank of Montreal, will ultimately lead to a clearing up of the mystery of the great robbery and the recovery of much of the loot. Flanagan, who is a Chicago saloonkkeeper, is alleged to have had thousands of dollars' worth of the stolen bills in his possession and to have disposed of many of them through O'Leary and Lawlor.

The robbery of the New Westminster bank occurred on September 14, 1911, and was one of the most remarkable thefts of its kind in recent years. Notes and gold amounting to about $375,000 were stolen. The robbers bound the watchman, dynamited the vaults and fled in an automobile. Finding they had more loot than they could carry they hid $24,000 beneath a wooden sidewalk in the city. On January 12, 1912 John McNamara, known as "Australian Mac" was arrested in New York and after a fourteen months' fight against extradition was returned to New Westminster, where he and four alleged confederates are awaiting trial. It is believed that the Chicago arrests will lead to the capture of another member of the band who is known to be at large and who is believed to have possession of the bulk of the stolen money.

MRS. ELSIE NIEDER.

Mrs. Elsie Nieder, aged 55 years, wife of G. P. Nieder, died yesterday at her home on South avenue, Fanwood. She had been a resident of Fanwood for many years. The funeral service will be held at the late home tomorrow morning at 8:45 o'clock and at St. Joseph's R. C. church, North Plainfield, at 10 o'clock, where a high mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of the soul.

MUST SERVE TIME.

Luther Chriss, 28 years old, a member of the Johnny Jones Carnival Company, was arrested last night on Grant avenue in company with Lena Cooper, of West Fourth street, and was charged with disorderly conduct. Arraigned this morning before City Judge DeMeza both were fined $8. In default of this amount they will be committed to the county jail for a term of forty days each.

FUNERAL OF MRS. W. SHOTWELL

The funeral of Mrs. William H Shotwell will be held at the late home on Fairview avenue, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Dr C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which Mrs Shotwell was a member for so many years, will officiate, assisted by Rev. Lewis Bond, a life-long friend of the family. The burial will be in North Plainfield cemetery.

HER HIP BROKEN.

Mrs. Margaret Peer, aged 62 years of 430 West Front street, was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday afternoon, suffering from a fractured hip. She had been engaged in house-cleaning. While placing a mattress on the clothes-line, the prop snapped and Mrs. Peer was thrown to the ground with sufficient force to break her hip.

WILLIAM R. CARROLL.

William R. Carroll, a resident of this city for the past fifteen years, died this morning at his home, 28 Sandford avenue, following a long illness. Mr. Carroll formerly lived in Brooklyn, and he had not been engaged in business for some time. The funeral will be private and the burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

FUNERAL OF WILLIAM BROWN.

The funeral of William Brown will be held at hi slate home, 514 Watchung avenue, Friday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. The burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

SELLS HOUSEHOLD GOODS.

Robert Murray, the auctioneer, conducted a successful sale yesterday afternoon at 334 Franklin place. It will continue today. The crowd attending the sale yesterday was very large and Mr. Murray with the assistance of several clerks was kept busy until late last night disposing of the goods. Mr. Murray will conduct another sale of household goods tomorrow on East Front street, opposite Woodhull & Martin's. Friday afternoon he will sell a large residential property on Dudley avenue, Westfield.

VIOLATED ORDINANCE.

Charged with shooting firearms within the city limits in violation of an ordinance, Robert Weldon Terry, of 1238 South avenue, was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning and released with a warning. Terry said he was shooting at birds who destroy his "young farm" in the rear of his home. The shooting was brought to the attention of the police by Robert C. Woodhouse, of 1210 East Seventh street, who telephoned o Chief Kiely.

BURGLARY AT STORE.

CHURCH ENTERTAINMENT.

Although the inclement weather prevented a strawberry festival on the lawn of the Netherwood Reformed church last night as planned, an enjoyable affair was held in the edifice. The Dutch Arms band of Trinity Reformed church entertained with numerous selections and games were played. Mrs. John Hansen, who was chairman of the arrangement committee, was assisted by Mrs. Horace J. Martin, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Merkel.

AT NEPHEW'S GRADUATION.

Miss A. E. Lincoln, of West Fourth street, has returned from Baltimore, Md., where she attended the commencement exercises of the Maryland Medical College, where her nephew, Dr. W. H. Crowly, of Philadelphia, waws one of the graduates. He was the youngest member of the class, also the president. He was prominent in athletics while in college.

JOSEPH M'INTYRE HAS A SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Joseph McIntyre, who is now in Berkely, California, where he, with his family, has been spending the last winter and spring, writes that he has just concluded a successful series of concerts in San Francisco and vicinity and expects to return to Plainfield September. He plans to give his numerous patrons in Plainfield another series of celebrity concerts which will include artists of the first rank and hopes to bring also one of the noted symphony orchestras of New York to Plainfield.

The unfailing success and steady growth of appreciation which have marked Mr. McIntyre's concerts in Plainfield during the past t n years proves conclusively that he has the ability to interest the public and he is assured of strong support and patronage. The delight afforded the music-lovers by his last season's events which included the Flonzaley's and Tina Lerner arouses keen interest as to what artists will be heard this season.

SEEK TO BREAK WILL.

Hackensack, May 28.—A hearing to set aside the will of John S. Lyle, of Tenafly, who died on July 26, leaving an estate of several million dollars, was held in the Orphans' Court here today. Mr. Lyle, who was a member of the firm of Lord & Taylor, New York, was 92 years old. He left the greater part of his fortune to his young wife, Julia Gertrude Lyle. Nephews and nieces to whom he left only small bequests are seeking to have the will set aside on the ground that for a long time prior to his death Mr. Lyle was of unsound mind and incapable of disposing of his vast estate. Undue influence on the part of his wife is also alleged by the contestants.

IMPERATOR SAILING OFF.

Berlin, May 28.—The Hamburg-American liner Imperator will make her first trip from Hamburg on June 11 instead of today, as originally scheduled. The change in the plan of the line has been made to give more time for getting everything in shape and for repairing some minor damages to machinery resulting from the trial trip. Under the new schedule the vessel should arrive in New York on June 18. The Imperator is the biggest steamship afloat, an eleven-storied floating palace 710 feet long, with engines of 80,000 horsepower. Her displacement is 50,000 tons, and she can accommodate 5,000 passengers.

—Patrons of Neuman Bros. are advised to get their orders in early tomorrow as the store will be closed all day Friday. 5 27

Three Shovels of Coal Do the Work of Four

"Square Pot" Furnaces lessen living cost by cutting coal bills. The square firepot of this famous furnace always keeps a live fire. It never clogs with ash or cinder, but clears free with each turn of the grate. Hence the "Square Pot" Furnace is constantly giving out a full quota of heat for fuel consumed. More than that, this same square firepot increases radiating surface over ordinary round firepots 15 or more per cent. From all of which it is safe to deduce that the "Square Pot" heating system gives expected results on about one-fourth less coal than other systems. See this economical furnace at your dealer's and ask for a demonstration. "Square Pot" boilers have these same valuable features. "Square Pot" furnaces and boilers best solve all heating problems.

This is the furnace that makes the saving

TENNIS AT SACRAMENTO.

Sacramento, Cal., May 28.—Several of the expert tennis players for which the Pacific coast is famous were on hand here today at the opening of the annual tournament for the Central California championships. The tournament will continue until the end of the week.

QUERIES, COMMENT AND ANSWERS

Sporting Editor:

Query—Will you please publish the date of the opening of the black bass season? When is pickerel fishing legal?—A. F. G.

Answer—The black bass season opens on June 15. Pickerel fishing is legal now.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Kindly settle the following question which arose during a game of pinochle as follows: The game was two handed. Hearts were trump. A had melded forty trumps. B led a card. A taking the trick with a king of trumps from the table, and, after taking the trick, laid down the king, ace, ten and jack to the queen that remained on the table to meld 150. B claims it does not count. A claims it does. Who is right?—G. K. Y.

Answer—Search me. Your question isn't plain. If the king A used to meld 150 was a second king, not the one with which he took the trick, his 150, of course, counts. If, on the other hand, he had only one king, the one with which he took the trick, he could not, of course, meld it, after using it to take the trick.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Will you kindly tell me where Far Hills are and where I can get an entry blank for the junior championship to be held there June 27?—M. M.

Answer—Far Hills "aren't." They is. Far Hills is a station on the Passaic and Delaware branch of the Lackawanna Railroad. It is in Somerset county. For entry blanks write to James E. Sullivan, secretary of the A. A. U., 21 Warren street, New York.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Please state when the hunting season for rabbits, squirrels, and quail opens in this State?—F. K. L.

Answer—November 10.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Please answer if any league team ever went through a full season without meeting defeat?—G. H. T.

Answer—It hasn't come to my ears if such a thing ever happened in a "regular" league. The nearest approach to such a record occurred in 1875, when the Boston team won every game it played on its home grounds. Of course, if you want to count some of those "three-ply leagues," which blow up the minute the fuse is set off, it might happen, but I have no record of such occurrences.

Sporting Editor:

Query—On what date does the Plainfield open championship for men's singles start at the Plainfield Country Club and to whom are they opened?—F. P. A.

Answer—The championship is scheduled to start Saturday, July 12, at 2:30 o'clock. The event is open to all players in Plainfield and North Plainfield.

BASEBALL NOTES

Clyde Milan the Washington star, has landed in his old place at the head of the list of base stealers in the American League.

Cobb, of the Tigers, Jackson, of the Naps, and Collins, of the Athletics, are engaged in a great battle for the American League batting honors.

Pitcher Mamaux, a former Pittsburgh rookie, has been showing great stuff with the Huntington team, of the Ohio State League.

Jack Slattery, the old major leaguer, has been signed by Manager Hugh Duffy, of the Portland New England League team. Jack will cover first base.

The two old-timers, Arthur Devlin and John Titus, are playing swell ball and helping the youngsters of the Boston Braves grab games for Stallings.

The Pacific Coast League teams are going along at a merry clip, with less than 200 points separating the top and bottom of the league standing.

Winning twenty-six of the first thirty-five games, has placed the Mobile team away out in front in the Southern League pennant scramble.

In Rip Watson, the St. Joseph team has one of the finest hitters in the Western League. He played with the Hastings Nebraska State League team last season.

Jack and Eddie Onslow, who were with the Tigers last season, are not getting on "slow" with the Providence team. Both boys are playing the old game in great fashion.

Manager George Heckert, of the York Tri-State League team, will carry only one catcher this season, Heckert deciding that Joe Knotts can handle all of the games.

Waterloo and Cedar Rapids, the two new members of the Central Association, are traveling far apart in the association pennant race. Waterloo is leading and Cedar Rapids is in the cellar.

Manager Frank Chance, of the Yankees, takes his turn on the coaching lines this season. When with the Cubs he was bench manager strictly allowing his athletes to do the coaching.

The National League has a big lead over the American in number of high-class hitters to date, 27 being registered in the .300 division in the older circuit as against 16 in the younger.

Coach Larry Sutton, of the Brooklyn Superbas, is on a still hunt for a good pitcher for the Dahlen crew. Larry is prepared to go as high as $10,000 and maybe a little more for a first-class twirler.

JAP WAS TROUNCED BY YANKEE RIVAL

Willie Hoppe Merely Toyed With Yamanda in 18-2 Billiard Contest.

Japan was defeated last night in its first clash with the United States. Yamada, the little fellow who is so clever with the billiard cue, tried to take the 18-2 battering he got from Willie Hoppe. The American, who has been showing them all how to play the game ever since he could lift a cue, and failed miserably. The alleged contest was staged at the Hotel Astor in Manhattan last night, and the select audience, which had expected to see a fine exhibition by both the principals, merely witnessed a runaway affair. Hoppe winched by a score of 500 to 33.

It was probably one of the most one-sided exhibitions ever seen in championship tournament. Hoppe played all around the Jap from start to finish and made Yamada look like a novice at every angle of the game.

The Jap is usually a performer who shows no sign of being affected by the importance of the event, the audience, the luck of the game or any outside element. Last night he was nervous all the time. Some of the spectators were of the opinion that he was not in good physical trim, and he surely fell far below his usual standard.

MISS WILDEY CONTINUES TO WIN ON HAVERFORD COURTS

Doubles and mixed doubles occupied the whole of the afternoon in the second day's play of the women's tennis championships of Pennsylvania and Eastern States at the Merion Club, Haverford, yesterday.

In the preliminary round of the doubles tournament Miss Dorothy and Miss Edna Wildey, of this city, defeated Mrs. Gilbert Harvey and Miss Clara T. Chase, 6-3, 6-0; and in the mixed doubles, Miss Edna Wildey, of this city, and H. A. Sands defeated Miss Mary Brown and S. Thayer, Jr., 6-4, 6-3.

ANOTHER CONTRACT FOR CHASE

Hal Chase, the premier first baseman of the New York Yankees, is about to try matrimony again. Accompanied by a young woman, who gave her name as Miss Anna Marion Cherung, of 95 West 119th street, New York city, Chase drove up to the City Hall in Jersey City in an automobile shortly before noon yesterday and procured a license. He gave his address at 3810 Broadway, New York. "We will not be married for some time," said the ball player. "Miss Cherung and I merely decided to get a license at the present time in order to avoid any further trouble."

DRISCOLL GETS SCANLON.

Manager Dave Driscoll, of the New Brunswick baseball team, has signed "Doc" Scanlon, the old Brooklyn mainstay on the mound, to do the twirling for his aggregation on Decoration Day afternoon against the Mohawk Giants. Since he was transferred to Philadelphia Scanlon has refused to play in the big leagues and has been picking up independent money doing a large amount of the work for the Elizabeth T. A. B. nine.

HUNTING AND FISHING

The bill to license non-resident anglers fishing in the fresh waters of the State passed the House of Assembly Monday, but it was lost somewhere between the House and President Johnson's desk in the Senate. Several interested people searched for it with X-rays, but they could not locate even the trail.

A reader complains that the people at the Jersey fishing resorts are not showing any interest in the pastime now that something can be caught at most of them. It might be and just such has been the case for all times. It takes the city folk longer to learn the fall rolling be can and are first fish.

Lovers of salt water fishing will find in Cape May the ideal spot of the North Atlantic Coast as a place in which to spend their summer vacation. Cape May divides the ocean and Delaware Bay and has the ledge of rocks protecting the cape extending out two miles from shore, the ledge to form cat balls in the way of the fine insect life, which attract hordes of fish.

The English pheasants at the State game farm at Forked River are laying eggs, and the superintendent has the incubators working overtime. The stock of breeders at the farm is the finest in the country and the fish and game commissioner has reasons to be proud of the improvements which originated with the present board.

No use in discussing the weather as far as fishing is concerned. The rain is with us every other day and will continue, so we are told, until after Decoration Day. Let us hope so, as several of our acquaintances are anxious to get right fishing from one of the Sheepshead Bay boats and we expect to chaperon the party.

AN INTERNATIONAL "BEANING?"

Manager John Evers, of the Chicago Nationals, yesterday accused Pitcher Howard Camnitz of deliberately hitting Pitcher Larry Cheney and Catcher Archer during the game at Pittsburgh last Saturday and of trying to hit Heine Zimmermann. Evers declared he would begin a crusade to wipe out the practice of certain pitchers who aim at batters' heads. Evers said he did not permit his pitchers to aim at batters and believed that if President Lynch would take up the question other managers would issue similar orders to their men.

A BRAND NEW ONE.

What is said to be the heaviest pike ever landed in that section is credited to Godfrey T. Swain, a member of the Hammonton Council, who pulled the fish out of Batsto River, near Hamilton, N. J., and after weighing it found that he also had weighed six lead sinkers and a quarter of a pound of buckshot which the fish had swallowed from time to time. Lead and all, the fish weighed 4¼ pounds. It measured 24 inches.

CIVIC TEAMS TO PLAY.

Members of the West End Civic Society and Netherwood Residents' Association are getting in trim for the inter-association baseball game which will be played on the Netherwood field next Saturday afternoon. A number of old time stars have turned out for the game and it will probably evoke a large amount of interest locally.

LEAGUE GAME OFF.

Wet grounds caused the cancellation of the Leal-North Plainfield High School game scheduled to be played at Crescent Oval this afternoon in connection with the Interscholastic Baseball League race for the Collier trophy. This would have been the second meeting of these two rivals and a good game was looked forward to at this time.

WORLD'S AUTO RECORD.

W. G. Scott and L. G. Hornsted, driving a 15-30 horse power motor car, yesterday, broke the world's record for twelve hours, covering 914 miles, 640 yards. This was at the rate of 76.20 miles an hour. All the world's records from seven to twelve hours were beaten.

JUPITER PLUVIUS WON.

Owing to rain, the baseball game originally scheduled to be played at Parker Field yesterday afternoon between the Plainfield and South Orange High School nines had to be called off. This is the second cancellation within a week for the P. H. S. boys.

SCOTCH PLAINS GAME.

A ball game will be played at Scotch Plains Decoration Day morning between the Parish House nine of that place and the Dixie Giants. This is the first game for the home team in several weeks and they expect to have a stellar aggregation on the field.

GIRLS ON THE LADDERS.

Their Rapid Work In Coaling Ships at Nagasaki, In Japan.

Coaling at Nagasaki, Japan, is done entirely by girls. Big coal barges bear down upon the ship as it approaches the shore, and as soon as it comes to anchor a rough ladder is placed between the liner and the foremost barge.

On each rung of it a girl takes her place. Men in the barge quickly shovel the coal into shallow baskets holding half a bushel each to the sound of a monotonous chant, and these baskets then pass from hand to hand up the living ladder with marvelous celerity.

Each girl seizes one and swings it straight up in front of her, above her head, when it is caught by the next girl. Down a second ladder, likewise packed with girls, the empty baskets pass in similar manner back into the barge to be refilled.

Barge after barge is emptied in this way. The monotonous chanting never ceases. The living elevator goes on hour after hour with its never ending stream of baskets until the last bunker is full, when the ladders disappear as if by magic and the ship is ready to proceed on her voyage.

A Pacific Mail steamer will "bunker" 2,300 tons of coal in six and a half hours, an average of 353¾ tons per hour, or nearly six tons per minute, an almost incredible record.—Wide World Magazine.

FORESTS AND HYGIENE.

The Value of Trees From the Standpoint of Human Health.

We hear much of the importance of the conservation of forests from an economic standpoint, but little is said as to the hygienic value of forests.

Forests contribute to the general health by breaking the force of steadily blowing winds. They mitigate the heat of summer by the vast amount of evaporation from their leaves that occurs by day. They also promote rainfalls. Thus they check the tendency of the earth to desiccate, which is almost as injurious to health as it is to vegetation.

Cholera often passes a wooded district and revels in a treeless one. A certain road in India leads for sixty miles through a dense forest. Farther on it runs for ninety miles through a barren plain. Hundreds of persons travel the entire road daily. Now, in the first or wooded section cases of cholera seldom occur, while within the latter it has been of frequent occurrence. One year cholera raged in Allahabad. Soldiers whose barracks were on a hill suffered the most from the epidemic; those in barracks surrounded by four rows of trees much less. But not a single case occurred among the soldiers whose barracks were in a thicket. It was the same the next year.—Harper's Weekly.

Henry Clay's Brother.

In the old cemetery at Camden, Ark., the body of Porter Clay, brother of Henry Clay, has reposed since his death in 1850. He was admitted to the bar in Kentucky, became state auditor, but began to preach in the Baptist churches and in time consecrated himself to that work. Finally he removed with his family to Illinois, where a dispute with his church authorities compelled him to resign a pastorate. Soon afterward he became a wandering evangelist, going to Camden in that capacity and founding a church. He died there in 1850, two years before his illustrious brother. During all the years that have passed the women of this little church have cared for his grave. At first they marked it with a headboard, but the New Century club of Camden erected a stone slab over the grave.—Argonaut.

WHY THE GIANTS ARE NOT WINNING

"Swelled" Heads a Detriment to John McGraw's Tribe of Players.

Although John McGraw's Giants do not appear to have the same "pep" they have exhibited in other pennant races and the fact that the team is not quite up to the standard set in other seasons there is still that loyal band of supporters ready to back the New Yorkers up on every hand and a number have even ventured to predict another strip of bunting for the Gotham nine. One thirty-second degree Giant rooter has asked us to express an opinion on the 1913 situation and while all dope is more or less misguiding we consider the Philadelphia team as the leading contender in the 1913 race. The question arises, who are the Phillies most dangerous rivals?

During the winter the sharps favored New York, Pittsburgh and Chicago. The Phils were absolutely ignored. New York appears to be suffering from a reaction following two pennant conquests. The team is rent by the swelled heads of baseball prima donnas. Marquard, who a year ago was making a pitching record, has been of little use to McGraw this season. Tesreau, another steady winner of '12, is losing regularly.

Old Matty has been New York's only reliable curver, and he can't be sent to the hill as often as he could some years ago. He has to be nursed. McGraw must be hard up for pitching material when he sends three players to Cincinnati for Art Fromme, a flinger whose reputation for control is not of the best.

Several of McGraw's regulars, notably Snodgrass, have suffered severe decline in their playing. The drive and snap that pushed last year's team to many a victory is missing this season. McGraw never had a great team. Its pennant successes were due more to the manager's sagacity and generalship than to the inherent power of the club. It looks now as if it is asking too much of McGraw to expect him to win a third pennant with his present lineup.

Pittsburgh played shabbily against the Phils, but unquestionably the team was playing below its standard.

The Pirates are a team which has few holes, but the few holes are crushers. The team should play better ball in hotter weather; but it is a question whether it will be able to close up the ground separating it from the top.

Of the three teams picked last winter to win the pennant, the Cubs look like the weakest. In their series in New York the players acted as if their thoughts were in Madagascar. They certainly were not in National League Park. The Cubs blundered and floundered around like a lot of lost lions.

New Haven, Conn., May 27.—The Yale varsity crew, accompanied by coach and trainers, left today for Gales Ferry to begin training on the Thames for the Yale-Harvard boat race June 20. The crew will have about a week more than usual on the Thames, the earlier date having been decided upon to allow of more "concentrated" training.

HOW THE NATION HONORS ITS HEROIC DEAD

The Tomb of the Unknown Dead at Arlington, Va.

"On Fame's eternal camping ground
Their silent tents are spread,
And Glory guards with solemn round
The bivouac of the dead."

THE United States Government perhaps enjoys the distinction among the Nations of caring for those who have died in defense of its honor better than other countries do for their departed heroes. Scattered all over our land are burial grounds beautiful in location, kept ever green by strict attention and liberal appropriations, and visited daily by thousands who are thus paying tribute to the generous bounty of the Government and to those who offered their lives in response to the call of patriotic duty.

There are no less than seventy-two national cemeteries at present under the care of the War Department. The first appropriation for this purpose was made in 1850 when $10,000.00 was set aside to be used in purchasing a suitable place for the burial of the United States soldiers who had been killed during the war with Mexico. So, the first of our national cemeteries was laid out on foreign soil in the City of Mexico. It is beautifully kept and is visited every year by hundreds of American tourists. After the Civil War another appropriation was given for the care of the bodies of the thousands of men who fell in defense of the Union. In several places it was necessary to use parts of the battlefield for this purpose. Gettysburg was one of these and about 17 acres were laid off there for a burial ground for the men who fell in that fearful three days' battle. This is one of the best known national cemeteries for it is visited by thousands of people during the year. It is located just outside of the town of Gettysburg. In the centre there is a splendid national memorial surrounded by the graves of three thousand, six hundred and thirty-two heroic dead, more than sixteen hundred of whom bear the simple headstone "Unknown." A number of smaller monuments have been set up in different parts of the cemetery and beautiful flowers are all about. The cemetery was dedicated by President Lincoln on November 19th, 1863, and the address which he delivered on that occasion has been immortalized as one of the masterpieces of oratory.

The cemetery at Arlington, Virginia, is the largest of the national burial grounds, containing more than four hundred acres. It was at one time the home of General Robert E. Lee, that peerless leader of the Confederate Army. The grounds are beautiful beyond description for every art known in landscape gardening has been used to make this spot consecrated to the memory of our heroic dead a paradise of floral beauty. Nature, too, has assisted, for in parts of the grounds are ravines and hillsides crowned with lofty oaks which spread their great branches over the white tombs like protecting arms, and the soft green grass which grows over the graves seems like a delicate mantle covering the dead heroes. On the level plateau a silent army of more than seventeen thousand men are at rest. Among these are four thousand, six hundred and ninety, whose names are unknown. The headstones are all of the simple pattern adopted in the year 1872 for all national cemeteries. They are made of the best white marble and are thirty-nine inches long, twelve inches wide and four inches thick. Each headstone is inscribed with the name, rank, Company, State and Regiment to which the deceased belonged. They are all exactly alike for no deviation is allowed from the style specified by the Secretary of War. Counterparts of these headstones are found in every national cemetery in the United States. In one of the newer sections three and one-half acres have been set apart for the Confederate dead. There was a special appropriation made by Congress for the purpose of collecting all the bodies of Confederate soldiers who were buried in the District of Columbia. A handsome monument is in course of erection on the plot, which is already decorated with shrubbery and flowers. Another section is given over to the men who saw service in the Spanish-American War; one section for the officers and another for the men. A tall shaft in their honor has been erected by the United States Government. There is also a monument to the memory of the Rough Riders which was unveiled during President Roosevelt's administration. He made an eloquent speech on that occasion and welcomed many of his old comrades. The women who served as army nurses have not been forgotten, and there is a special section reserved for them. In the nurses' plot in the Spanish-American War section an interesting monument has been erected in memory of those noble women. It consists of a huge granite boulder with the insignia of the Red Cross and several palm branches cut on the stone face. Eight nurses have already been interred and there is room for many mo. .

A special place is given to the sailors who went to their deaths when the U. S. Battleship Maine was blown up in the harbor of Havana. The huge anchor of the Maine marks the spot, and within the next few months the mast of the ill-fated man-of-war will be erected near the graves. It is already at the cemetery.

Many noted army officers are buried in the officers' section, among them General Phil Sheridan General J. H. Baxter, General Theodore Wint and General Lawton. General George Crook, the noted Indian fighter, sleeps at Arlington, and his monument is one of the most unique in the cemetery—a huge granite monument with a brass panel on the front of it. On this panel is a scene depicting the surrender of the Apaches under Geronimo to General Crook in the Sierra Madre Mountains, Mexico, in 1883. Near the Fort Myer gate is the sarcophagus of Quarter-Master-General M. C. Meigs, who in 1864 suggested to President Lincoln the advisability of converting the Arlington estate into a national cemetery. In September, 1866, an imposing monument was erected to the memory of two thousand one hundred and eleven unknown soldiers who died either at the battle of Bull Run or along the route to the Rappahanock. Their names, their homes and their friends were unknown, so the simple story is told in letters chiseled on the face of a massive granite monument erected to their memory by a grateful nation.

A Temple of Fame, which adds to the beauty of the place, stands near the old Lee mansion. It is an octagon shaped structure consisting of stone pillars and cornices and an iron roof and concrete floor. The names of Washington, Lincoln, Grant and Farragut are inscribed on the cornices, and on the columns are those of Meade, Thomas, Mansfield, Sedgewick, Garfield, McPherson, Humphreys and Reynolds.

At Antietam, Maryland, where the world's bloodiest battle was fought, there is a picturesque cemetery in the shadow of the mountains, and there nearly five thousand soldiers have found their final rest. Of these about two thousand are unknown, but their graves are as well kept and as flower covered on Decoration Day as the graves of the men of the highest rank in the army.

A national cemetery was established at Vicksburg, Mississippi, in 1866, and about seventeen thousand men are buried there. They are the soldiers who fell in battle at this point or died in hospitals or prisons nearby. At Natchez and at Corinth the graves of soldiers of both the Blue and the Grey are being cared for by the War Department. At Newbern, South Carolina, three thousand soldiers are interred. The names of one-third of these men are missing. Cemeteries under the care of the United States Government are located at Fredericksburg, Virginia; at Chalmette in Louisiana; at Salisbury, North Carolina; at Shiloh, Nashville and Chattanooga, Tennessee, and at Andersonville and Marietta, Georgia. The one at Andersonville contains thirteen thousand, seven hundred and twenty-two graves. Many of these men died at the famous Confederate prison which was located there. At the Jefferson Barracks, St. Louis, there is a national cemetery with over twelve thousand tombs, one-fourth of which are marked with the "Unknown" headstone.

Away out in Montana there is a national cemetery. It is located on the Custer battlefield and more than fourteen hundred soldiers are buried in this desolate place. There is little beauty of shrubbery and flowers owing to the climatic conditions, but a splendid marble shaft has been erected by the United States Government in honor of these heroes who lost their lives in this Indian horror.

The South has not forgotten the boys who wore the Grey, for despite the crippled condition in which the people of that section of the country found themselves after the war, one of their first acts was to find suitable resting places for the men who gave their lives in defense of the Lost Cause. The Southern women joined hands with the men and today hundreds of monuments have risen over the graves or to the memory of Confederate soldiers. The Spanish-American War in a measure wiped out sectional feelings, and shortly after its close popular opinion began to favor the marking of the graves of Confederate soldiers with stones similar to those used for the Union soldiers. President McKinley was known to be in sympathy with the movement. At a reunion of the Confederate veterans held that year the question was discussed and it was finally decided that if the Government marking was done it should only refer to the graves of Confederates buried in the Northern States. They adopted resolutions of appreciation but declared that the marking of those graves in the South was a sacred trust of the people in whose cause the men had died. Shortly after this Congress appropriated $2,500.00 for the purpose of collecting the remains of Confederate soldiers from various places in the District of Columbia and burying them at Arlington in the plot referred to in the early part of this article. The South at once set about to mark the graves of their honored dead who were interred in the South. State appropriations were made and popular subscriptions were started, and so complete has been the work of marking the graves of the Confederate soldiers both in the North and South that it is extremely doubtful as to whether there is a single unmarked grave of the men who wore the Grey.

Many notable Confederate monuments have been erected. Richmond has eleven memorials to the men who fought under the Bonnie Blue Flag. New Orleans has recently erected one which compares favorably with the finest memorials in this country. At Chickamauga each Confederate State which had troops in the battle has its participation marked on a shaft erected to the Confederate forces who took part in the battle. In the Confederate cemetery at Charleston, South Carolina, there are six monuments and a number of memorial tablets. At Bull Run, Virginia, the Daughters of the Confederacy have erected a modest shaft on the battlefield in memory of the men who wore the Grey. At Gettysburg, Maryland has honored her Confederate regiment by a monument erected by popular subscription taken in that State. And so all over the land both the North and the South are striving to honor the heroes of the Civil War by bronze and marble. Sectional feeling has been practically wiped out, and on each Decoration Day the graves of both Blue and Grey are covered with flowers as a token of love and respect. The ranks of the veterans of both the Union and Confederate armies are growing thinner each year, and it will not be very long before information concerning the Civil War will be a matter of written history alone. And so on Decoration Day of 1913, when we stand by the flower covered graves of our dead heroes whether we belong to the North or to the South, let us remember that we are Americans—a united nation.

"And in strewing the flowers in tokens of love,
In planting the lily today,
Let all be remembered;
For angels above look down on the Blue and the Grey.
Let hands clasp in friendship—resentment removed,
And this be resolved o'er the sod—
That the only contention shall be Who may prove more loyal to self and to God."

Of Interest to Women and the Home

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

The Year's Linen Suit.

This year's linen suit is one of the most useful garments of the season. For one thing, it is generally simply and sensibly made, at least so far as the question of laundering is concerned. To be sure, there are some elaborate and expensive suits which are piped and trimmed and faced with silk and velvet and satin, but these suits can be dry cleaned. Most of the less expensive suits are either made of such dark colors and in such way that they will need cleaning only once, perhaps not at all, in the summer, or else they are made for tubbing.

Another thing which makes this year's linen suit useful is that this is a season for separate coats. The coat to the linen suit can be worn with muslin frocks or with separate white or tan linen skirts, and so will form many smart-looking costumes.

Velvet collars.

The black velvet collar is a feature of many of the tan linen suits; but it is tacked on so that it can be easily removed. It is really a sensible accessory to a linen suit, for the collar and cuff edges, with the edges of the coat, are the parts which show soil most quickly. So if the collar is black, the coat will look fresh for a longer time than if it is of the linen. Cuffs, too, are often made of black, but generally of satin, with a satin collar to match, and this is another sensible arrangements. Binding of wide braid about collar, cuffs and edge of the coat, in a shade darker of the same color as the suit, also helps keep down the cleaner's bill.

The Use of White.

White accessories are also used with dark linen suits. White pique pipings are put about collars and cuffs, and these can be ripped out and cleaned easily.

Large white bone buttons are used on dark suits with good effect. Sometimes there is a waistcoat of eponge, either of white, of the color of the suit or of that color combined with white; and this waistcoat is generally fastened with tiny white pearl buttons. Small buttons, too, are often used to decorate collars, cuffs and the occasional sash ends of linen in contrasting color shown on some tailored suits.

Embroidery.

Some sort of embroidery, if only a touch of it, is seen on many of the most attractive suits. The smart tan suits have a few stitches of black taken at the ends of the darts, in the form of arrow-heads, or a few radiating black stitches at the ends of the buttonholes. Where buttons are used for decoration on the suits, a simulated button-hole is coarsely outlined in heavy black rope silk, and when the suit is cleaned this silk can be ripped out and replaced in a few moments.

Embroidery in self color adorns some of the colored suits. A big, effective pattern should be chosen and stamped at the bottom of the back of the coat and on the two fronts. It should be coarsely worked with four or six ply mercerized cotton in a shade exactly matching the suit.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

Judge Lindsey on Suffrage.

The results of woman suffrage in Colorado ever since its establishment have been so satisfactory that it is hard to understand how it encounters opposition in other States. I have never observed one evil as the result. I have never heard a criticism directed against woman suffrage that ever worked out in practice, or, if it did, was not equally applicable to male suffrage.

It used to be said that the women would not vote—that they were not intelligent. I believe, in proportion to population, nearly as many, if not more, women voted at the last city election as men. In no important election has less than forty per cent. of the entire vote been cast by women, and, considering that there are more men than women in this Western city, it is no more than fair to say that the women are equally interested in the affairs of government, and vote as intelligently and as independently as the men.

One of the greatest advantages which has come to us from woman suffrage is the fear on the part of the machine politicians to nominate for public office men of immoral character or to defeat those who have maintained a reputation for honesty and decency. Again, at critical times and in important elections when some great principle is at stake, especially with reference to local conditions where the home and family are involved, the women of the State have always come to the rescue. The powers of evil realize that they have a powerful moral force to deal with when it is once aroused, and they also realize that, when it is aroused, it has the power to strike a blow.

We have in Colorado the most advanced laws of any State in the Union for the care and protection of the home and the children, the very foundation of the republic. These laws, in my opinion, would not exist at this time if it were not for the powerful influence of women, which, at all times, has been back of them and those who have conscientiously and faithfully administered them.

I know that the politicians in both parties reckon seriously with the woman vote, and I know that men of immoral character have been refused places upon party tickets because of the fear inspired by the woman vote if it is aroused; and when it is aroused, as it generally is in proper cases, it can always be counted upon to be on the side of righteousness.

We believe we have the best juvenile court law, the best child-labor law, the best compulsory education law, the best laws for the prevention of cruelty to children and the enforcement of the obligations of fathers to support wife and child, and the best administration of these laws when once upon the statute books, of any city in the Union. I believe I only voice the general impression of the best informed as to such matters when I say that we owe this condition more to woman suffrage in Colorado than to any other cause.

The Real Point.

(By Mary Ware Dennett)

Suffragists, both as individuals and as organizations, are steadily and increasingly asked the following questions:

1—What are the present laws relating to women and children in the various States?

2—How great is the discrimination against women?

3—How much need is there for more legal protection for children?

4—Just how much better are the laws relating to women and children in the States which have woman suffrage than in those which have not yet gained it?

The answers to these questions are very interesting and important: interesting to all public-spirited people who believe in social progress; important to every citizen of the country, whether concerned or not about social progress.

But, they are interesting and important because they are parts of necessary economic and social research, not because they are suffrage arguments. While it is true that there is no State in the whole country the laws of which are as fair to women as to men, this fact forms no part whatever of the logic upon which the equal suffrage demand is made.

While it is true that most suffragists are public-spirited people, and therefore are deeply distressed about unjust laws, and are keenly endeavoring to bring about better legislation, they have to remind themselves over and over again that such interest and such work belong to their duty as citizens, and does not belong to their work as suffragists.

They also have to remember the history of the enfranchisement of men in this country, as shown by the following facts:

1—The first voters got their rights by the original Colonial charters, most of them including religious qualifications, and all of them including property qualifications, thus restricting the ballot to relatively few men.

2—After the Revolution, for the sake of the "common defense" and the "general welfare," the religious qualification was removed. A large number of men were then enfranchised, but they did not ask for the vote, nor did they promise to use it well, or to use it at all.

3—In 1790, by the Naturalization Act of Congress, another large number of men were enfranchised, which act also enfranchised their descendants, and again they did not ask for the vote nor promise to use it well.

4—When the negroes were given the vote, it was not at their request, nor were they required to show that they would make good use of it.

5—The same has been true of the enfranchised Indians. Now what is required, at present, of a man before he can vote in the United States?

He must be 21 years old.

He must be native born or naturalized.

In some States he must be able to read.*

That is all.

He is not asked whether he will use his vote.

He is not asked if all men want to vote.

He is not asked if he thinks the laws need changing.

He is not asked if he will promise to better the laws.

He is not asked to give statistics showing whether men have previously used their votes to better the laws.

He is not asked if he is sure he can still be a good father.

He is not asked to "remain attractive" after he votes.

But all such requirements, and more, are made of women when they aspire to vote.

*In a few Southern States there are additional educational and property qualifications affecting the negro voters only.

Some Cookery Suggestions

Baked Eggs With Cheese.
Parker House Rolls.
Hot Apple Sauce.
Sponge Cake. Tea.

EGG SUBSTITUTES FOR MEAT.

To reduce the cost of living the clever housewife has at her command many expedients for producing appetizing and nourishing dishes. Eggs are now moderate in price, and these may be prepared in many ways that will supply as much nutriment as the higher priced flesh foods. Eggs are so digestible that they may be served to the small folks of the family or form part of the late supper when necessary.

Baked Eggs.

Baked Eggs With Cheese.—Brush an earthenware dish with a little butter and put in four round slices of toast. Break four eggs on the toast; cover with three tablespoonfuls of grated American cheese and one cupful of cream sauce. Place in hot oven and bake twelve minutes.

Italian Eggs.—Put into a bowl the yolks of three eggs with a tablespoonful of chutney and a tablespoonful and a half of olive oil and beat well. Break half a dozen eggs into a teacup, put them one by one on the sauce and set the dish into a moderate oven until the eggs are set, but not overdone. Serve on the same dish very hot.

Eggs With Meat.

Baked Eggs With Sausages.—Make a cupful of thick tomato sauce or chop the canned or stewed tomato fine without straining it, seasoning it with onion juice, salt and pepper. Mix with this a couple of link sausages that have been cooked and chopped into small pieces. Pour the mixture into a dish and break upon it as many eggs as the space will allow without crowding. Set in the oven and cook until the whites of the eggs are firm.

Baked Eggs and Ham.—Add a teaspoonful of onion juice to a cupful of finely chopped boiled ham; beat six eggs light, stir the ham into them, season with a little pepper, a tablespoonful of minced parsley and turn the mixture into a frying pan in which is a tablespoonful of melted butter. Stir the mixture as for scrambled eggs until the eggs thicken or cook it as you would an omelet, loosening it from the bottom with an omelet knife and folding it when done.

Only Tiny Mermaids Could Ride Sea Horses.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Little Horse That Lives In the Sea.

"THERE, now," said daddy; "sit very still while I tell you a story about the little horse that lives in the sea."

Jack and Evelyn opened their lips. They were just about to object to daddy making the mistake of saying horses lived in the sea. Then they thought better of it. They closed their lips and made ready to listen to what he had to say.

"I shall begin by telling you that the little horse that lives in the sea doesn't look at all like the horse that lives on shore.

"He is small—so small that the mermen and mermaidens must be very tiny indeed if they can ride about on his back. He hasn't any feet, and he gets about by swimming through the water by means of his two small fins and his long curly tail.

"But mostly the sea horse doesn't swim about at all. He stays at home, for he is not a very good swimmer. He makes his home in a grove of seaweed, where he can find the little sea animals on which he lives. These groves are found in shallow water near to shore, and the sea horse hangs on to one of the weeds as hard as he can lest a strong current should carry him out to sea, where he would be lost or gobbled up by some of his big enemies. The sea horse isn't much of a swimmer.

"As the sea horse has no hands, he holds on by means of his tail, which is quite long and thin and which he can curl around anything he pleases. When among the weeds he is near the food he likes.

"The sea horse is brown, so that he looks just like the seaweeds among which he lives. All over his little brown body are rough spines that help to keep him safe from his enemies. It is only the sea horse's head that makes one think of a land horse.

"Though he is a fierce little thing where other small creastures are concerned, the sea horse is the best of fathers, while Mrs. Sea Horse is not a very good mother. She lays her eggs and then goes away, seeming not to care what becomes of her babies when they hatch out.

"But then most fishes are rather careless parents. However, Mr. Sea Horse makes up for his wife's thoughtlessness. He has a little brown pocket on his body, and he takes the eggs into this and carries them about until the baby fishes hatch out. Then I'm afraid Mr. Sea Horse soon loses interest in the babies.

"The stories tell us that old Neptune, king of the sea, rides around in a sea shell carriage drawn by sea horses. It must take a lot of the horses to draw him if the king is any size."

"IN A BAD WAY."

Many a Plainfield Reader Will Feel Grateful for This Information.

If your back gives out;

Becomes lame, weak or aching;

If urinary troubles set in,

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys.

Local evidence proves their merit

A. K. Mattis, 127 West Fourth street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I gave Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement five years ago after receiving a cure through their use and today I confirm all I then said in their favor. The cure has been permanent. I was troubled for years by a dull backache and pains in my head. I believe that it was due to a great measure to a bad fall I had. Nothing seemed to help me and when I read of the good work Doan's Kidney Pills were doing in similar cases, I got a supply at Randolph's drug store. They drove away the aches and pains and my experience gave proof of their merit."

Depreciation! The thing that makes cars expensive. No one wants a car that's out of date and out of style. You wouldn't have brass trimmings on your car today. Nowadays nothing will do except electric starter and electric lights. Yet many purchasers are urged into buying right-hand drive cars when the same factory will eventually show new models with left drive and center control, cowl dash and tank and wire wheels, features you get on the Henderson now and at no extra cost.

Exactly one year ago today we first offered—left drive and center control with cowl dash. Isn't this convincing evidence that the Henderson really is the year ahead car?

FOWLER WANTS TO BE GOVERNOR

COVERS WIDE FIELD

Former Congressman Neglects to Say What Ticket He Aspires to Head—A Summary of His Opinions.

Former Congressman Charles N. Fowler, as a candidate for a nomination for Governor of New Jersey, today announced his platform and gave his opinions on important current political problems.

Defining his stand on State issues, Mr. Fowler declares he is in favor of "true jury reform," endorsing the Read measure that was supported by the Republicans during the recent session of the Legislature. Mr. Fowler also places himself on record as being in favor of holding a constitutional convention with equal representation from each county.

Averring that he is not in favor of the initiative in the popular sense of the word, Mr. Fowler asserts that he favors a broad constructive referendum which will give to the people power to pass any bill that the Legislature has refused to pass and also to veto any laws that the Legislature may have passed despite public protest; he also favors conferring power with the people for the recall of all executive and administrative officers, but stipulates that he is opposed to the recall of judges.

President Wilson's short ballot scheme also has the endorsement of the former congressman. Among other principles advocated by Mr. Fowler is the purchase of State supplies through an open bidding system by a commission; the adoption of an "Industrial Disputes Investigation Act" for the solution of labor disputes; legislation encouraging the scientific study of agriculture and horticulture; the conservation of the natural resources of the State; the enactment of a child labor law, a woman's employment law and a rest day law, and the passage of a stringent pure food law.

Other State legislation advocated by Mr. Fowler is a law that will prohibit the marriage of persons physically unfit; the establishment on a firmer foundation the present civil service code; also the adoption of laws for "Progressive" income and inheritance taxes.

The right of suffrage to women is not overlooked, and Mr. Fowler declares himself in favor of submitting this question to a popular vote. To free the State entirely from boss rule he also urges "the strengthening in every conceivable way the Corrupt Practises Act."

Referring to his stand on national matters, Mr. Fowler dwells considerably on the tariff situation and asserts that an elaborate adjustment of a tariff bill today cannot be wisely treated by legislation. The proper manner in which to treat this question, he claims, would come by the establishment of a broad trade and tariff commission whose duties would be to investigate and prevent monopoly either in the production or distribution of commodities.

Other national legislation deemed imperative by Mr. Fowler is the enactment of a national marriage and divorce law, a national child labor law and additional legislation covering bank credit currency to meet the demands of the times. The establishment of a National Department of Health, with a representative in the cabinet, is also regarded as a vital necessity by Mr. Fowler.

OVERSEER OF THE POOR APPEALS FOR A BENCH

Editors Plainfield Daily Press:

The old folks at the City Home would very much appreciate having a bench to sit on under the trees this summer. The one they have now has no back and isn't really comfortable.

Some of your readers undoubtedly have benches in their yards that are substantial and comfortable. The old women need one very much, and the same way with the men.

If any or your many readers can spare such a bench I would be very glad if you would put me in touch with them.

Yours truly,
HENRY L. DE FOREST,

WIVES OF MASONS ACT AS HOSTESSES

Lydia Chapter Order of Eastern Star, Celebrates its Fourth Anniversary.

Lydia Chapter, No. 41, Order Eastern Star Lodge, celebrated its fourth anniversary, last night, by giving an entertainment, reception and dance at the Park Club. The affair was a great success, there being nearly 300 members and friends present. The first part of the evening was devoted to the entertainment, the program being furnished by Malcolm Shackelford, humorist and impersonator, and John Irving, a magician. The first number was an overture by Kenneth Stuart's orchestra, which was followed with songs and stories with banjo accompaniment by Mr. Shackelford.

Mr. Irving then gave an excellent exhibition of sleight-of-hand work, being assisted by Dick Melick, who afforded much amusement, being as much mystified as the audience itself. A feature was the making of a tambourine by Mr. Irving, using a ring and paper, out of which was taken hundreds of small flags, which were distributed as souvenirs. On each flag there appeared the words "Lydia Chapter, No. 41, O. E. S., fourth anniversary." Mr. Shackelford's impersonation of a scene in a southern court room was especially good.

After the entertainment dancing was enjoyed until 2 o'clock this morning. The general committee comprised Mrs. W. R. Causebrook, chairman; Mrs. E. W. Poinier, Mrs. Elizabeth Woodard. The reception committee comprised Mrs. Elizabeth Bayer, Mrs. L. E. Weaver, S. B. Joseph. Those who served on the floor committee were Mrs. Krinic, Mrs. Arthur McVoy, Mrs. Elizabeth Woodard, Mrs. W. N. Dunham and Mrs G. D. Passmore. The following officers served as ushers, Mrs. Robert Humstone, Mrs. Schenck, Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. H. W. Marshall, Mrs. Laura Willis, Miss Eveland, Mrs. S. B. Joseph, Mrs. C. H. Rugg, and they were assisted by W. N. Dunham, Harry G. Uhler and W. R. Causebrook.

PARENT-TEACHER ASSN. IS FORMED IN BOROUGH

Permanent organization of the North Plainfield Parent-Teacher Association was effected yesterday afternoon in the Somerset School when sixty were enrolled and officers were elected. Supervising Principal Arthur E. Vossler opened the meeting and introduced Mrs. William Sandford, of this city, a member of the executive committee of the State Congress of Mothers and who has been actively engaged in the forming of similar associations in various parts of the State.

Impressing upon the minds of the mothers and teachers present that it was not only a benefit to them to cooperate with one another by forming a parent-teacher association, but that the results accomplished thereby was of ultimate good to the pupils, Mrs. Sandford gave an interesting and inspiring talk on the purposes and duties of such organizations. At the conclusion of her discourse she was given a rising vote of thanks.

The election of officers resulted in these selections: President, Mrs. John Foulks, of Mercer avenue; first vice president, Supervising Principal Arthur E. Vossler; second vice president, Mrs. Matthew Ewart, of Fairview avenue; secretary, Mrs. Herbert E. Parker, of Westervelt avenue, and treasurer, Mrs. Judd Stewart of Willard avenue. Each successful candidate responded with words of thanks to the members and promised her best efforts in assisting in the solution of the borough's educational problems.

TAKEN ILL ON STREET.

A man appearing to be about forty years old who said his name was Anton Kordck, and that he came from a wealthy family, but who could not tell where he came from or any places he had been before reaching Plainfield, was taken with a fainting spell last night at Park avenue and West Front street. Patrolman Vanderweg, doing traffic duty at that point, summoned the hospital ambulance and the man was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital, where it was said he was suffering from a complication of diseases.

GREEN TO LEAD ST. MARY'S.

Joseph Green has been elected to lead the St. Mary's baseball team on the diamond this season and "Doc" Doyle, the former Holy Cross football manager, will be the game booker for the St. Mary's ballist. Harding will pitch for St. Mary's tomorrow against Park Avenue Baptist.

NO PAPER TOMORROW.

As tomorrow, Memorial Day, will be a legal holiday, the Plainfield Daily Press will not be published.

HOLIDAY EVENTS FOR PLAINFIELD

VETERANS CEREMONIES

Parade, Decoration of Graves and Oration—Good Bills at Both Proctor's and the Plainfield Theatre—Other Offerings.

There will be the usual observance of Memorial Day in Plainfield tomorrow. This year the day is of special significance by reason of the fact that the date marks the fiftieth anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg and the veterans of the Civil War are planning to celebrate the occasion with an extensive program.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., has arranged an interesting program. In the morning the various cemeteries will be visited and the graves of dead soldiers decorated by details. There will be a parade in which Co. K and the Boy Scouts of the city will join. The Plainfield band has been engaged to furnish music. The Plainfield avenue and North Plainfield cemeteries will be visited on the line of march and special exercises will be held at each one under the direction of the officers of the Post. The veterans will also visit Scotch Plains in the morning where exercises will be held at the Baptist cemetery. The school children and firemen of Scotch Plains will meet the veterans and escort them to the cemetery.

In the afternoon public exercises will be held at Reform Hall, when S. S. Swackhamer, of North Plainfield, will be the orator of the day. The officers of the Post will take part and a large chorus of school children under the direction of the Women's Relief Corps will sing patriotic songs. Through the kindness of friends each veteran will be provided with white carnations tied with white ribbon, furnished by the W. C. T. U. Following the exercises there will be a reunion of the veterans and friends.

Throughout the day there will be an elaborate program of sports, including baseball, golf, tennis and a twenty-five mile bicycle road race, the details of which will be found on the sporting page.

There will be attractive programs at Proctor's theatre and the Plainfield theatre. At the former place there will be a continuous program of high-class vaudeville and motion pictures from 12 o'clock noon until 11 o'clock at night, while at the Plainfield theatre will be the finest photo-plays both afternoon and evening.

The New Jersey Central will run an excursion to Lake Hopatcong, for those desiring an out of town trip. In the afternoon the commencement week exercises will be concluded at Mt. St. Mary College with an alumnae banquet. In the evening the Polish Falcons will hold a dance at Saengerbund Hall.

Holiday hours will prevail at the Plainfield Public Library and Reading room. There will be numerous private entertainments throughout the city and borough, all of which will combine to make the day one of pleasure for all.

The pupils of St. Joseph's Academy, Manning avenue, North Plainfield, will give a musical and flag drill tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the old church corner of Watchung and Manning avenues.

All scoutmasters of this city have received instructions from Allen E. Beals, the scout commissioner for this district, to assemble for general orders and line formation tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in the rear of the First Presbyterian church, East Front street, opposite Church street The troops are expected to appear in line with full equipment, including staffs, patrol, troop and signal flags.

As an attraction for Y. W. C. A. members, an outing to a grove in the vicinity of Martinsville has been planned for Memorial Day. Games will be played and a novelty in the way of serving lunch gives promise of furnishing a delightful surprise. Many of the members will be accompanied by friends.

HARRY GULICK'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Harry Gulick, who died yesterday afternoon at his home, 539 West Fifth street, will be held at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at St. Mary's R. C. church, following a service at the late home at 8 o'clock. The burial will be at St. Mary's cemetery. Mr. Gulick was the son of the late Jacob Gulick, and had lived in Plainfield many years. He leaves a wife and several children and a mother.

A SPECIAL MASS.

A special mass will be celebrated at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning in St. Joseph's church in memory of the departed members of the Holy Name Society. The present members of the organization and their friends are expected to attend.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS AND KNOCKS BUT ONCE

Do You Hear It Summoning You to Accept the Greatest Offer Ever Made Here?

The opening of the big $4,000 contest is close at hand. The number of nominations being received at the contest department are very disappointing as the big list and the value of prizes should attract more people than seem to have taken an interest up to the present.

There surely are some who are holding back waiting for the opening day, June 4. This is not necessary, however, as any person interested can secure a subscription book and start right now while the field is fresh.

Candidates should not forget to inform prospective subscribers that the same boy who now delivers The Daily Press will continue to do so.

That the contest department allows votes on payment of lapsed subscriptions.

That it is not necessary to start the paper while the contest is in progress. The delivery of The Daily Press will start any time a subscriber desires, whether it be tomorrow or a year from then.

eBar in mind that a subscription now equals ten during the last period of the contest.

Those who have not already made up their mind to start do so at once. Call at the contest department office. A subscription book will be given you and the necessary instructions to start on the path to success.

G. A. R. VETERANS VISITED SCHOOLS

Greeted With a Special Program Rendered by Pupils—Respond With Speeches.

Following their annual custom, a detail representing the Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., visited all of the local public schools this morning where special Memorial Day exercises were presented by the pupils for their benefit. In each of the schools a member of the Grand Army gave a short and appropriate address consisting of reminiscent tales of the war which have been told and retold for years past, and the pupils responded with the singing of National airs and recitations. I. E. Houston was in charge of the delegation at the Washington School; W. C. Smith at the Bryant School; Chief T. O. Doane at the Stillman School; I. L. McVoy at the Irving School; Henry Whitney at the Jefferson School; L. V. F. Randolph at the Plainfield High School; W. W. Corriell at the North Plainfield High School; H. B. Green at the Somerset Primary School; T. B. Titsworth at the Watchung Avenue Primary School, J. F. Berg at the Franklin School; John I. Finley at the Parochial School; Simon R. Debele at the Mt. St. Mary's College; Henry E. Frazee at the Scotch Plains schools.

School children were requested to bring flowers to school today and an abundance of the cut and potted variety were presented to the aged soldiers at each institution which will be used to decorate the graves of departed comrades tomorrow morning when the cemeteries will be visited. A delegation of from two to five men accompanied each of the leaders on the tour of the schools and at several places each responded with a short address.

CHICKEN THIEF ESCAPED FROM PLAINS MARSHALL

Charged with stealing chickens from the hen roost on the property of Mrs. Henry Demerest, in Front street, Scotch Plains, John Grolleto will be arraigned before Justice Clark at that place late this afternoon. Grolleto was arrested with Thomas Reardon as he was leaving the premises with the "goods" concealed in a bag by Marshal Fred Clark last night.

Reardon put up a desperate fight when cornered by the marshal and succeeded in escaping from his captors.

FOUR RECEIVED THEIR DEGREES

GRADUATION ADDRESS

Rev. Dr. Norris the Chief Speaker—Rev. Wm. H. Miller Presides—Affair Held in the College Building Yesterday Afternoon.

A week of festivities in connection with the commencement exercises of the College of Mt. St. Mary was concluded yesterday afternoon when Right Rev. James A. McFaul, D. D., LL. D., conferred the degree of Bachelor of Arts on four candidates, Sister Mary Concepta, Irene Austin Smith, Grace Regina Rafferty and Annabell Elizabeth Jones. A large audience of relatives and friends of the graduates witnessed the final exercises and a special program of speech-making and music was held in accordance with the usual custom. Visiting clergy and laymen were present from a number of the surrounding dioceses, including Right Rev. J. A. McFaul, Bishop of Trenton; Rev. William H. Miller, of St. Joseph church, North Plainfield; Rev. Dr. Norris, Deal Beach; Rev. W. J. Fitzgerald, Lambertsville; Rev. John Murray, Rev. Bernard M. Bogan, and Rev. Daniel F. Hogan, of St. Mary's church, this city; Rev. Joseph Zimmer, of Raritan; Rev. W. Johnson, of St. Michael's church, N Y.; Rev. William Dettrich, of Bound Brook; Rev. M. Spillane, of Phillipsburg; Rev. John Baldwin, College Chaplain; Dr. J. J. Walsh, Dr. J. J. Savitz, superintendent of public schools of Union county; J. P. Murray, R. Boring, John J. Smith, John Forney, William Rodgers and David T. Kenney.

In introducing Dr. Norris, the principal speaker, Rev. William H. Miller said in part, "New Jersey has been said not to be of the United States, yet she enjoys magnificent educational advantages and many of her towns and cities from Sandy Hook to Cape May are famous. One place in particular has become famous and throug the brilliancy of its pastor, the Rev. Dr. Norris, whom I take much pleasure in introducing to you."

The speaker was greeted with a volume of applause and said in part: "Rising from her ashes, Mt. St. Mary's once more proudly rears her head in the newness of her resurrection. Within the hallowed walls education is enshrined, here its dominion is enthroned upon the altar of the gospel, and here with religion as a judging star, all that is best and noblest in the student is developed. The question has been asked, 'What is a young girl to acquire in a Catholic college?' First, let us ask if she has had a good primary education, a good moral and home training, and an intellect in keeping with her years. We do this to be honest with the institution. If she has these attributes, then she can enter, enter and work, so that results will be apparent even after the first year of College Cirriculum. There is character, character is life dominated by principles, where character exists no upstart ambitions can spring up. Catholic higher education seeks to fix the young girls idea on womanly ideals, which will grow with her years, be she engaged in charitable work, private or public, in the uplifting of her less fortunate sisters, who are oftentimes overworked and underpaid, or in raising her voice against silly extravagance or vulgar wealth, her womanly ideas will work untold good and will be an ample compensation to her parents, who gave her the advantages of her education such as can be obtained in an nstitution of such high standing as Mt. St. Mary's."

Dr. Walsh, who next addressed the graduates and faculty, gave an account in his usual humorous vein, of his own feeling of importance on the day of his graduation. He said if he knew half as much now as he thought he knew, there would be nothing left to learn. Continuing he said he himself received his early education at the hands of the Sisters of Mercy and that he was proud of the fact.

The candidates for degrees were then presented by the Rev William H. Miller to Bishop McFaul, who conferred the degrees with a few complimentary remarks. The program: Processional, Marshal John Alfred Brewster, A. M.; music by the orchestra; address by Rev. John W. Norris, J. C. D.; selection by orchestra and conferring of degrees.

ST. MARY'S TO PLAY.

St. Mary's baseball team will play the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school leaguers on Crescent Oval tomorrow morning. This will be the first game of the season for the former aggregation and as this team was a former entrant in the Sunday-school League the contest is naturally looked forward to with much interest. Both combinations have a large following and a big crowd will probably witness the game.

MISS HELEN M'LAIN IS NOW MRS. SMITH

Fashionable Wedding at Elizabeth is Attended by Plainfield Folk.

Elizabeth, May 29.—Elaborate in every detail, the wedding ceremony making Miss Helen McLain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard McLain, of Westfield avenue, and Dr. Henry Smith, of Jersey City, man and wife, took place yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock at the Immaculate Conception church. The bride was gowned in ivory satin, Georgette crepe, veiled with white chiffon, with veil of pointe aiguille. Mrs. Lawrence Hart, of Kansas City, a sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Dr. Ford Smith, of Jersey City, a brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were William McLain, Bernard McLain, Jack J. Smith and George Cutley. Miss Mary O'Connor, of Plainfield, played the wedding march.

Among the Plainfielders witnessing the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. David T. Kenney and daughter, Rev. Bernard Bogan and Miss O'Connor.

POST OFFICE EMPLOYES WILL MEET TOMORROW

Letter-carriers and clerks employed at the local postoffice will be represented at the annual convention of these two bodies of the State to be held in Orange tomorrow. The two organizations will hold separate conventions. Arrangements have been made for a joint banquet to be held in the Orange Armory in the evening.

Those who are to speak will include United States Senator James E. Martine, Congressmen Townsend, McCoy, Kinkead and Hamill, of New Jersey, and Congressman Reilly, of Connecticut, father of the eight-hour bill; National President William E. Kelly, of Brooklyn, and National Secretary E. J. Cantwell, of the National Association of postoffice clerks.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR FREDERICK C. GIBBS

The funeral of Frederick C. Gibbs, who died suddenly at Bayonne on Sunday, was held at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at 200 West Front street. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, including delegations from Court Washington, No. 11, I. O. F., and the Sons of St. George, of Elizabeth, of which Mr. Gibbs was a member.

Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, conducted the service. The burial was in Hillside cemetery and the pall bearers were representatives of the Foresters and Sons of St. George. At the grave the Sons of St. George had charge of the service.

JOHN W. WAGNER WILL DECORATE THE GRAVES

Despite his advance in years, John W. Wagner, of New Market road, one of Dunellen's few Civil War veterans, will follow his usual custom of planting flowers on the soldiers' graves at the Samptown cemetery tomorrow, as he has done on Memorial Day every year since Gen. Logan was responsible for instituting Decoration Day.

Mr. Wagner today brought his well preserved, although worn and aged uniform from its resting place. It is donned by himself only on special occasions. He will make several trips to the cemetery tomorrow carrying with him flowers which he will plant on the graves of comrades. And the glorious flag for which he fought will be hoisted by himself tomorrow at sunrise to fly from the top of the flagstaff on his premises throughout the day.

"GOT THEIR GOATS."

The goats of Americo Dominico and Pietro Perillo, both of North avenue, cost them $10 each this morning when the owners were brought before City Judge DeMeza, charged with allowing their animals to run at large in violation of a city ordinance. Numerous complaints have been received from inhabitants of the East End section of the city regarding this form of nuisance and an investigation by the police department revealed that the two men arrested and arraigned this morning, were the chief violators.

An unusually large list of entries have been received for the tenth annual horse show of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club to be held on June 5, 6 and 7 at the horse show grounds on Woodland avenue, and among the exhibitors this year will be William Ziegler, Jr., of New York city, a millionaire, who has become a prominent figure at sporting events. Practically all of last year's exhibitors will be here next week.

The following well-know persons have engaged boxes for the show: Charles W. McCutchen, Edward Low, Robert A. Fairbairn, E. H. Ladd, Daniel F. Ginna, Charles J. Fisk, Orville T. Waring, Rufus C. Finch, Louis K. Hyde, Charles W. Holland, George P. Melick, William Palmer Smith, Frederic Bull, H. C. Irons, Jabez C. Gilbert, Lewis E. Waring, Percy H. Stewart, James W. Jackson, Harry G. Runkle, J. C. Charles, L. G. Timpson, Henry McGee, Mrs. Chapman Fisk, George G. Rohlig, J. Hartley Mellick.

Others who will be among the patrons of the show are Mr. and Mrs. R. Henry Depew, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Otterson, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. VanBoskerck, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lyon, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Kaufman, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Runkle, Captain and Mrs. Chauncey Humphreys, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Conner, Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt C Ivins, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Rowland, Mr. and Mrs. Ford Johnson and Arthur A. Fowler, the last named of Peapack.

Those who have donated special prizes for the show are:

Robert A. Fairbairn, Joseph W. Harriman, Charles W. McCutchen, Charles J. Fisk, J. J. O'Donohue, Frederic Bull, S. S. Carvalho, Plainfield Riding and Driving Club, Edward R. Finch, Orville T. Waring, Frederick Lewisohn, Mayor Perry H. Stewart, Louis K. Hyde, Charles D. Freeman, Joseph Tate, Tonzo Sauvage, Arthur M. Harris, B. A. Hegeman, Jr., and Charles M. Fleischmann.

A large force of men is now engaged in putting the horse show grounds and grandstands, as well as the stables in first-class condition for the show. Some of the entries will begin to arrive as early as Sunday and from that time through the early part of the week the show grounds will be a busy place in preparation for the three days' event. A band of music will be at the show every afternoon giving a popular program, and it is the hope of the club that Plainfielders will take an interest in the exhibition, which has now become a fixture in the annual events of the year.

RESIDENTS INDIGNANT OVER DECISION OF A JUSTICE

Charged with acting in an indecent manner about Scotch Plains and Fanwood for several days, a man, who gave the name of John Morrali, a stranger, was arrested Tuesday night by Marshal Logan, and arraigned before Justice of the Peace Joseph Clark. The prisoner told the justice a likely story with the result that he was given so much time to get out of the place.

The summary release of the man under such conditions has aroused considerable indignation, the citizens believing that he should have been held for the grand jury. It is reported that the man had been prowling about the streets both day and night, frightening women and children and why he should have been given his freedom is more than the people of Scotch Plains can understand.

This for the next two years will be the New Haven home of Professor W. H. Taft and family, who formerly occupied the White House.

The house is in the centre of the district in which a great many of Yale's professors live and is on the crest of Prospect street, directly opposite the Yale Forestry School. Adjoining the Whittlesey place is that of Mr. William W. Farnam, one of Professor Taft's closest friends in New Haven. The house has fi[illegible] rooms.

NOVEL MUSICAL BY WOMEN'S SOCIETY

Presented in the Seventh-Day Baptist Church Parlors Last Night.

A novel entertainment in which kitchen utensils were used as musical instruments was given by the Women's Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-Day Baptist church in the parlors of that edifice last night and was attended by a large crowd of church members and their friends. The form of entertainment presented by the women of the church was an innovation in itself and involved numerous interesting numbers which were thoroughly enjoyed by the audience. Following the appearance of the "Kitchen Band" the annual strawberry festival was held in the Sunday school rooms and all present pronounced the affair one of the best ever given in that congregation. Music was furnished by the Kazoo band, composed of musicians playing on instruments patterned after common culinary requisites such as spoons, egg beaters, strainers and funnels, which, while they supplied the necessary harmony also produced a mirthful side which was greatly appreciated.

Mrs. David E. Titsworth, who acted as conductor, was attired in a regulation military uniform with spoons for braid and egg strainers for epaulettes. The other members of the band wore uniforms to correspond with that of the leader and represented every conceivable form of kitchen necessity. Mrs. James E. Kimball led a grand march which opened the affair while the Kazoo band rendered the popular anthem, "Marching Through Georgia." A duet composed of Mrs. Charles Dunham, playing a cornet, and Mrs. Frank Langworthy with a bag pipe, played several selections, and Mrs. William Hubbard gave a 'cello solo. The instruments used in these two numbers were also made to represent kitchen wares.

The other numbers were "The Three Blind Mice," by the band, which was played by request; a recitation, by Mrs. Henry M. Maxson; solo, by Mrs. Theodore Davis, accompanied by Mrs. William Hubbard Mrs. George L. Babcock and Miss Nancy Randolph; Mrs. Theodore Champlain, as "Senorita Champeni," an organ grinder, played several selections on a hand organ which later took the appearance of a bread mixer; piano selection by Mrs. N. E. Lewis, with Miss Beatrice Cottrell as page; an anvil chorus with knives on anvils, led by Mrs. David E. Titsworth; instrumental quartet, composed of Miss Nancy Randolph, Mrs. Charles Titsworth, Miss Mildred Green and Mr. Theodore Champlain, [illegible] by Miss Helen Rob[illegible] "Tis o' Thee" in which the entire audience took part.

Among those of the Women's Society who took part in the affair were Mrs. Rene Cannon, Mrs. Frank J. Hirschfeld, Mrs. Isabelle Randolph, Mrs. John H. Cottrell, Miss Mary Green, Miss Frances Kinney, Miss Celia Cottrell, Miss Mildred Green, Mrs. W. S. Hubbard, Miss Dorothy Hubbard, Mrs. Ethel Hubbard, Miss Ruth [illegible], Mrs. James E. Kimball, Mrs. Frank Langworthy, Miss Nancy Randolph, Mrs. C. H. Dunham, Mrs. G. E. Stillman, Miss Frances Kinney, Mrs. Theodore Champlain, Mrs. George L. Babcock, Mrs. Charles P. Titsworth, Mrs. Roland Davis and Miss Isabelle Randolph.

ATTACKED BY BULLDOG.

While returning to his office on Front street, Dunellen, this noon, Recorder David Campbell was attacked by a bulldog and had his right hand severely lacerated by the canine's teeth. The dog is the property of the Dunellen livery stabl and was ordered to keep the animal chained up for further observation.

IN THE COUNTY COURT.

Elizabeth, May 29.—Kalmen Rothberg, of Plainfield, was found guilty in the county court here yesterday. The charge was made by a servant girl. Rothberg's lawyers gave notice of an appeal to be taken.

Rev. C. C. Cain will be the speaker at the Rescue Mission tonight.

BALDWIN AND DEXTRA MC CLAUGHRY

Whether Hull McClaughry is withholding his two children, Dextra and Baldwin McClaughry, from their wealthy mother for a "ransom" of $1,000,000 will be decided before Superior Court Judge Seawell in San Francisco, Cal. Justice Henshaw issued a writ directing the father to produce the children, and it was served at Galt, Cal., recently. Mrs. McClaughry, who is a daughter of the late E. J. ("Lucky") Baldwin, charges her husband has asserted the children are valued at $1,000,000 by him and he will yield them for that sum only.

REPORTS FINDING A CANCER SERUM

Boston Physician May Have Discovered Cure.

WILL TREAT HUMANS SOON.

Experiments on Rabbits Indicate That the Poison of Malignant Tumors Can Be Destroyed, Discoverer Says—Positive Cure Not Yet Promised, However—Methods Explained.

The discovery of a serum which kills cancer poison and which, physicians believe, may prove to be a cure for cancer has been announced by Dr. Howard W. Newell, instructor of pathology at the Boston university school of medicine.

At the seventy-third annual meeting of the Massachusetts Homeopathic Medical society, which took place recently, Dr. Newell announced his discovery. The announcement followed three years of research work, he said.

What he has found, he explained, is a chemical process for the extraction of poison from a malignant tumor in man and with this poison obtaining from rabbits a serum which when mixed with the original serum in the proper proportions wholly nullifies the poisonous properties of the tumor extract.

Will Experiment on Humans.

Dr. Newell soon will experiment on cases of cancer in human beings. Every patient to be inoculated with his serum must first have been declared by a committee of five surgeons to be a victim of cancer.

Dr. Newell describes how, from cases of operable tumor where a diagnosis of cancer (carcinoma) had been positively established by clinical and by microscopical findings, the freshly extirpated malignant growth was freed from fat and extraneous tissue, cut into small pieces, boiled for several hours in water and then filtered and how the filtrate was acidified and boiled and filtered again to remove the proteids.

"This filtrate," said he, "was exactly neutralized and the soution was evaporated on the water bath to a sirupy consistency. This sirup was carefully extracted with pure alcohol, and the extract after the removal of the alcohol by distillation was repeatedly treated with ether. The residue, insoluble in the ether, was then dissolved in water, and the solution was rendered strongly acid and again thoroughly extracted with ether.

"This time the etherial extracts were collected, the solvent removed by distillation, and the final residues again were dissolved in water. The aqueous solution was rendered alkaline, boiled for half an hour and again filtered. On the spontaneous evaporation of the filtrate long, white, needle shaped crystals separated, and these were purified by repeated recrystalization in water.

"These crystals in their purified form are the basis of the subsequent investigations," he said.

Experiments on Rabbits.

"While up to the present the exact chemical nature of the active tumor extract is not known, its capacity to produce anti-bodies could be studied experimentally to advantage. To this end a series of immunization experiments were undertaken with healthy adult rabbits.

"These were used with one-tenth of a cubit centimeter of the tumor solution. Ten days later an immunizing dose of ten milligrams of the active substance formed in the body of the guinea pigs was given. Ten days later a second solution was used. This dose had been sufficient to kill nonimmunized rabbits in twelve hours. Three more immunizing doses were given at ten day intervals. In a period of fifty days the animals received sixty-four milligrams of the toxic substance, divided into six doses.

Hope Cure May Be Found.

"The serum from these rabbits when mixed with the original tumor solution in the proportion of ninety-nine parts of solution to one part serum completely immunized all other rabbits and guinea pigs from the action of the original solution, though double the death dealing dose was administered in every experiment.

"The serum from the animals immunized contains a substance or mixture of substances which possesses the power of antagonizing the toxic action of the tumor substance. This has been demonstrated by use of the serum either previous to or simultaneous with that of the tumor poison. In both events no effect is observed from quantities of the poison which if used alone would produce a rapidly fatal intoxication.

"With the simultaneous use of poison and anti-body it has been shown that one part of the latter will effectually antagonize ninety-nine parts of the former."

Funds For Polar Expedition.

The National Geographic society, with headquarters at Washington, has voted $20,000 toward the cost of the scientific north polar expedition which will leave the Pacific coast under the command of Captain Roald Amundsen in June, 1914, to explore the polar basin.

PLAN MEMORIAL TO MOLLY PITCHER, FAMOUS HEROINE

Patriotic Citizens Suggest a Monument at Her Grave In Carlisle, Pa.

Patriotic citizens and organizations are taking great interest in the proposal that a monument in honor of Molly Pitcher, heroine of the battle of Monmouth during the Revolutionary war, be erected at Carlisle, Pa., where her body is buried.

Advocates of the memorial plan got the Pennsylvania legislature interested in the subject and expect definite results soon.

It is planned to honor this American woman, who bravely took her husband's post at a cannon in one of the fiercest battles of the Revolution after he had fallen.

The proposed memorial has been designed as a pedestal surmounted by a figure of the illustrious Molly, whose married name was McKolly or McCauley. Particular care has been taken by the sculptor to make the likeness as perfect as possible.

Five women descendants of Molly, now living in Carlisle, were used as models for the statue. Excellent descriptions by people who knew the woman were available and were used in molding the figure.

On the proposed monument, for which the state of Pennsylvania will be asked to spend $15,000, are two bronze tablets, one of which will show Molly with her traditional pitcher lending succor in the midst of battle and the other will show her at the cannon's mouth. In front of the monument an exact reproduction of the cannon she served will be constructed.

NEW MAMMOTH CAVE IN UTAH

Great Cavern Found Near Ogden by a Ranchman.

A new Mammoth cave, which promises to be interesting from a historical as well as a geological standpoint, has been found in the mountains near Promontory point, eighteen miles from Ogden, Utah. It was discovered by Thomas Whitaker, a ranchman, and his account of what he saw there created so much interest that a party of professors at the University of Utah immediately began making plans for an exploration trip through the cave.

It is believed that Whitaker is the first white man who ever entered the cave, as the surrounding country is so barren that no one has lived there within the memory of civilized men.

The walls of the cave are covered with what appear to be prehistoric hieroglyphics, or picture writing. In the district near the cave there is current an Indian legend to the effect that a great battle was fought between two tribes in that vicinity many years ago and that the vanquished tribe perished in an immense cave.

The front chamber of the series in the cave is about 75 by 150 yards in area, and its height is estimated at forty-one feet. On the walls of the chamber are crudely drawn pictures of Indians.

DIES IN HIS 104TH YEAR.

New Jersey Man Attributed Long Life to Moderation.

John Butler died recently at his home in Ocean Grove, N. J., in his one hundred and fourth year. He was born at Tottenville, N. Y., Jan. 16, 1810.

Up to the time he was in his one hundred and first year Mr. Butler could see as well as he could at seventy-five, and he enjoyed splendid health. He was as sprightly as few men of eighty are. His eyesight began to fail at length, and finally he became almost blind, but up to a few weeks ago he retained his bodily health.

Uncle John, as every one had called him for years, always preached "moderation in all things," and he practiced moderation except perhaps in the matter of coffee. He indulged in this to the extent of eight cups a day for many years. He never used tobacco, but drank liquors when he wished.

SUFFRAGE PRAIRIE SCHOONER.

Tour of New York State In Ancient Vehicle Planned.

A prairie schooner such as figured in the rush to the gold fields in 1849 will [illegible] prominent place in the May suffrage parade in New York, after which it will tour the state, starting from the state suffrage headquarters. The sides of the schooner will be decorated with slogans to this import:

"Suffrage or bust in 1915."

Certain antis, with some pleasure, are recalling that the schooner which started for the gold fields bearing the device, "California or bust," ultimately hit the homeward trail with the caption changed to "Busted, by thunder!"

The schooner is being built under the direction of Frank Nelson of Rochester, who is an old time prospector.

SHOWS JOB HUNTER THE DOOR

President Wilson Squelches Man Who Ignored Rule.

That "no office seekers need apply," which President Wilson hung on the White House fence March 5, still is in force a candidate for a governmental post learned to his sorrow recently. He was received personally by the president and after a bit of general conversation diplomatically broached the subject of his ambition for office.

The president congealed in his particularly effective way of congealing.

"You have forgotten the rule," he observed distantly. "Good afternoon."

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY PRESS

UNDER OLD GLORY EX-REBELS MARCH

Confederate Veterans in Parade at Annual Reunion at Chattanooga.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 29.—This was the spectacular day of the national reunion of the United Confederate Veterans, when gray-haired soldiers of the '60s marched again shoulder to shoulder. The parade was the feature of the day. Public offices, the banks and many business houses were closed, and the people made the occasion a holiday. The early morning trains poured hundreds of visitors into the city from near-by points in Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia.

During the night the final decorative touches were made, and this morning the streets through which the parade was to pass were one continuous line of flags and bunting. At nearly every available point along the route viewing stands had been built, while hundreds of roofs and windows had been equipped with chairs for the accommodation of spectators.

It was a few minutes past 11 o'clock when the signal guns to start were fired. The line was led by Commander-in-Chief Young and his staff. The first division was made up of the department of Northern Virginia, comprising the veterans of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the Carolinas. The old soldiers of Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana and Florida marched in the division of the department of Tennessee, commanded by Gen. George Harrison. Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma and the Northwest comprised the department of Trans-mississippi. Sponsors and maids, officers of the auxiliary organizations and many prominent citizens of Chattanooga and vicinity rode in carriages as did also many of the veterans whose age or physical infirmities made it impossible for them to march on foot.

The veterans were greeted enthusiastically all along the line. The applause became a veritable tempest as the old soldiers marched past the official reviewing stand. At this point Commander-in-Chief Young left his place at the head of the procession and reviewed the line. Governor Hooper and many other notables occupied seats in the reviewing stand and joined in the enthusiastic demonstration that greeted what is likely to be the last grand march of the surviving veterans of the great army of the Confederacy.

HOME MISSIONS CONSIDERED.

Elizabeth, May 29.—With delegates attending from Middlesex and Union counties, and Staten Island, the annual meeting of the Woman's Newark Conference of the Methodist Church, was held in Epworth M. E. church, Stiles and Magie streets. The election of officers at the afternoon session was of the most important business transacted. These officers, most of whom served last year, were elected: Miss Helen J. Carlton, president; Mrs. Mary Winter, Mrs. J. H. Faulks, Mrs. John B. Case, vice presidents; Mrs. J. J. Marsh, treasurer; Mrs. W. J. Taylor, recording secretary. Devotional services during the day were in charge of Rev. F. C. Mooney, Rev. C. C. Woodruff and Rev. C. S. Ryman, of this city, and Rev. Mr. Knox, of Metuchen. The addresses during the day were made by Mrs. Emma Bourne, field secretary for home missions; Miss Newland, of the Newark Deaconness' Home, and Mrs. William Trewin; also by Mrs. C. S. Woodruff, of the Newark Conference of the Women's Home Missionary Society.

RAHWAY OWNERS SETTLE.

Rahway, May 29.—The fight made by a portion of the Main street property owners regarding the payment of a brick pavement recently installed was settled at the meeting of the Common Council. By the settlement the property owners will pay $12,993.97 and the city $10,951.54. This was accepted by Judge John McK. Whittemore, representing the property owners. The original assessment was for the city to pay one-third and property owners two-thirds. Councilman Valentine, of the special committee to secure a dog catcher, was given full power to hire a man at $5 per day and a helper at $3 per day. It is expected the city will be rid of stray dogs in two weeks. The city treasurer reported the following balances in various funds: Contingent, $10,383.51; fire department, $43,4.., lamp, $4,469.65; road, $10,260.78, poor, $1,819.29; police, $9,285.82.

PASSING OF OLD ASTOR HOUSE.

New York, May 29.—The historic Astor House in lower Broadway, for three-quarters of a century one of the best known hotels in America, ended its career today with a mournful procession of patrons passing in and out of the high-vaulted lobby. Many a sentimental toast was offered as some of the "old-timers" lined up at the bar and took a farewell drink beneath the great glass dome of the rotunda. Within a few days the old building will be turned over to wreckers. A tall office building is to be erected on a portion of the site and it is expected the remainder will be bought by the city and used in connection with the new subway. The property is owned jointly by William Waldorf Astor and Vincent Astor.

IN A REAL DEMOCRACY.

The Australian Commonwealth is awaiting in suspense the outcome of the great political battle that will be fought out at the polls on Saturday. Never before have the issues at stake in a campaign for the election of members of the Commonwealth Parliament been so momentous and never before has the feeling between the opposing parties been so high. Whether the Labor party now in power shall be retired in favor of the Liberal opposition, or shall be returned to power for another period of three years is the great question to be decided by the voters.

During the earlier years of federation in Australia little was accomplished looking to the permanent welfare of the new nation, but during the last few years, under the control of the Labor party, a pioneering policy along economic, social and political lines has been adopted. What actually has been achieved is startling and what has been proposed is even more so. Government ownership of railways, street car lines, telephones, telegraph, cold storage warehouses, and wireless systems has existed for some time. Recently there have been established old age and invalid pensions, "baby bonuses," a Federal land tax, compulsory military training and a Government bank. Within the past year the Labor party has started construction of a trans-Australian railway system to cost $20,000,000, and more recently the corner stone of a new national capital on which it is proposed to expend $25,000,000 were laid.

Although there are less than five million people on the island continent the Federal Government manages to collect an annual revenue of $100,000,000; this from the Federal land tax, customs and excise and the post office department. During the recent campaign the Federal land tax, which imposes a graduated tax upon all holdings valued at more than $25,000, received the brunt of the attack from the opposition. Second only in disfavor with the opposition is the proposal to spend so large a sum upon the construction of the new national capital.

The corner stones of the new city were officially laid on March 12 last by the Governor General of the Com- Lady Denman christened the new monwealth, Lord Thomas Denman. city Canberra. The site of the proposed federal city is situated in the center of what is known as the Federal Capital territory. This is 500,000 acres in extent and was deeded to the National Government by the State of New South Wales. The plan of the city is by Walter B. Griffin, a Chicago architect, who won a $9,000 prize in a competition thrown open to the architects of the world. The roads in the district have already been completed, the city laid out, the Cotter River dammed and now ready to furnish water, and a National Observatory erected upon Mount O'Malley. There is also in operation as part of the plan the Duntroon Military College, erected within the year and modelled after West Point. The city is to have the commission form of government.

The new railway from Port Augusta in South Australia to Kalgoorlie in West Australia, will be completed in about two years. The new Commonwealth Bank is modelled along the lines of the Bank of the Argentine Republic and will have its permanent headquarters in Canberra. During the first three months of its operation its deposits aggregated $5,000,000.

The "baby bonus" act came into effect on the first day of this year and since that time the bureau in charge of the disbursement has distributed nearly $1,000,000 to mothers who applied for their bonus of $25 for each new baby.

Under the old age and invalid pension acts created by the Labor party, $1,100,000 have been distributed annually in pensions. The compulsory military training act went into effect last October and under that law 250,000 youths between the ages of fourteen and twenty-one are reciving a certain amount of military training. The Labor Government has established various wage boards which deal directly with the question of wages in all the industries. These boards have proved a great help in maintaining peace between employers and employes.

The Labor party is headed by Andrew Fisher, now serving his second elective term as prime minister of the Commonwealth, while the Hon. Joseph Cook, whose free trade tendencies have caused a split in his party, is leading the Liberals. Although the forces are fairly evenly matched it is believed from certain indications that the Labor party will again be successful and that Premier Fisher, once a coal miner in Wales, will be returned to power.

As President, Woodrow Wilson is using the same kind of ammunition to annihiliate the enemies of honesty and decency as he did when Governor of New Jersey. He is fearless and frank in his denunciation of the crooks and now that he is challenged to give names it is a hundred to one shot that he will make good. In this State, he always accepted the "defi." That accounted in a great measure for his popularity and consequent success.

"Platform and Opinions on Current Public Questions of Hon. Charles N. Fowler Candidate for the Nomination of Governor of New Jersey"—such is the caption of former Congressman Fowler's first campaign card. It will be noticed that he omits to mention what party's nomination. But, then, that makes little difference. He won't have a "look in" at any primary.

Not much noise is being made, but some effective work is being done by stanch Republicans to bring about the nomination of Ernest R. Ackerman for the party's gubernatorial nomination. His course in public life has been such as to gain few enemies and his record is a clean and progressive one.

They will never raise a question about William Jennings Bryan's favorite drink although it appears to be a trifle stronger than that of T. R. The distinguished Secretary of State likes grape juice, while "Teddy" dotes on milk.

"Scoop," our society reporter, wants you to read this: "I know why Marse Henry Watterson, of Kentucky, yes sar, was so envious of Woodrow Wilson. Didn't "T. R." go and give it away that there is a fine mint patch right there on the White House grounds?"

GRAND JURY PRESENTS LOVING CUP TO FOREMAN

The members of the Union County Grand Jury went to Bonnie Burn Sanitorium this afternoon for the purpose of inspecting the new county institution. Afterwards they will go to the Berkeley Hotel, Elizabeth, for dinner.

Charles C. McBride, foreman of the grand jury, will be presented with a handsome silver loving cup, by his colleagues, as an evidence of esteem. The presentation, which is in the nature of a surprise, will be made by William Jeffery.

SUED HIM FOR $3,000; SECURED VERDICT OF $10

Testimony taken in the suit for $3,000 damaged alleged instituted by the Twin State Realty Co., Inc., with offices in Rahway, against Albert Rajotte, a coal and wood dealer of Dunellen, which was tried yesterday in the Supreme Court at Elizabeth, revealed that the defendant had been the victim of James Dunbar, a former employe of the realty corporation. When the taking of testimony was completed a verdict of $10 was given the plaintiff corporation, which alleged that Rajotte had caused a number of trees to be cut down on a tract in Westfield avenue, near Westfield. They claimed they were preserving the trees to form a park effect.

According to testimony presented in Rajotte's behalf, he paid Dunbar $25 for the trees which he was to cut down and use for cord wood. Soon afterwards, Dunbar disappeared and is thought to be in other parts of the country. The realty company claimed Dunbar had been dismissed from its employ several months before the deal was made.

Former Judge W. R. Codington, of the law firm of Codington & Blair represented Rajotte.

GROCER'S BUTTERINE QUERY PASSED UP TO STATE BOARD

Summit, May 29.—Whether a dealer can give a customer butterine for butter, even when the product is branded acording to law, is a question the Board of Health was called upon to settle yesterday. The board passed up the problem and the State board will be asked to give an opinion.

The question was asked by Thomas Donnelly, a grocer. He said he had sent his clerk to another grocer for a "pound of twenty-nine cent butter." The clerk, according to Mr. Donnelly, came back with a pound of butterine, properly labeled. With the package, said Mr. Donnelly, came a slip showing he had bought a "pound of butter."

Donnelly declared the dealer had violated the law; that he had sold butterine for butter, and that the Board of Health should begin proceedings. The board took the stand that Donnelly knew the package contained butterine, and therefore it was his duty to return the article.

"I knew no one could sell butter for twenty-nine cents a pound," said Donnelly to Health Officer Colton, "and I sent my clerk to buy the article. I feel that the matter is one for the Summit Health Board to take up."

QUAKERTOWN SCHOOL BOARD ENJOINED IN LODGE DISPUTE

Trenton, May 29.—In order to give Lakatong Lodge, I. O. O. F., of Quakertown, an opportunity to obtain an injunction in the Supreme Court, Vice Chancellor Mackes signed an order yesterday afternoon temporarily restraining the Board of Education of Franklin Township, Hunterdon county, from tearing down an old school building which had been condemned for school purposes. This relief had been sought in the Court of Chancery by the lodge, but the vice chancellor held that adequate relief could be had in an action at law.

The lodge and the School Board are disputing the ownership of the building, which has been used jointly by the School Board and the lodge for many years. It was erected in 1866 by the Franklin Education Association for use as an academy. About 1872 its use for that purpose was abandoned. All agreement was entered into by which the lodge occupied the second floors of the building. In subsequent transactions, the lodge claims it purchased the property. The School Board, on the other hand, holds that ownership is vested in the school district.

In temporarily restraining the razing of the building the vice-chancellor stipulated that should the lodge neglect to institute proceedings in the law court, as suggested, he would discharge the order under which the tearing down of the building is restrained.

ELECTION AUTHORIZING NEW SCHOOLHOUSE IS HELD VOID

New Providence, May 29.—The special district election held here May 16 has been declared void, the Board of Education receiving notification from Dr. J. J. Savitz, county superintendent, and Borough Attorney E. L. McKirgan.

The voters authorized the Board to erect a school building at Murray Hill, at a cost not to exceed $8,000, and to issue ten bonds at $1,000 each.

This action was declared void on the ground that the people had authorized the Board to erect a schoolhouse on "the plot of ground authorized to be purchased." No plot of ground was authorized, although there were three sites named in the ballot. The people of Murray Hill desired a schoolhouse, but refused to consider the three sites.

It will be necessary to hold another election, and the Board will consider presenting the identical propositions which were voted on at the last election, as many of the Murray Hill people now agree that the sites named are the most adaptable.

It is proposed to spend $2,000 for land, but property in the Murray Hill section has jumped up fabulously since talk of a school has risen. Mrs. Isabelle Spencer offered the Board an eighty-foot front lot in South street for that sum, but the Board will insist upon 150 feet front.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.

BALKAN-TURKISH WAR ENDS BY PEACE TREATY

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

London, May 29. It is believed that the treaty of peace between the Balkan allies and Turkey will be signed tomorrow at the British foreign office by the peace delegates of the various states concerned. Bulgaria and Turkey have both definitely decided to sign the document in deference to the wishes of Sir Edward Grey, and there is little doubt that the other three allies, Servia, Greece and Montenegro, will do likewise.

YOUNG NEGRO BAPTISTS HOLDING A CONVENTION

The eighth annual session of the Baptist Young People's Union of New Jersey (colored), which opened at the Mt. Olive Baptist church, yesterday afternoon, was continued this morning. The devotional exercises were in charge of Rev. F. H. Baskerville, of Passaic, and Rev. A. W. Brown, of Newark. President W. T. Watkins, of Orange, is in the chair.

After the appointment of committees, there was an able paper by Rev. Dr. D. W. Cannon, of Cranford, on "The Kingdom of God In This Generation," which was followed by a general discussion. There were welcome addresses by Miss Elizabeth Ivy of Mt. Olive church, and J. H. Baker, of East Orange, followed with a solo by Mrs. Waddleton, of Nutley.

"An Ideal Young Woman," was the subject of a paper by Mrs. R. E. Watkins, of Orange, and Miss Lillian Peters, of Newark, read a paper on "The Pressing Needs of the Hour." There were instrumental and vocal solos by Miss Lillian McCree and Miss Ruth Chapman, of Newark.

This afternoon's session was devoted to a general discussion of various religious topics and the annual address of the president. Officers will be elected during the afternoon. The feature of the closing session tonight will be the annual sermon by Rev. J. A. Jordan, of Westfield, who takes the place of Rev. E. E. Jackson, a former pastor of the church, who was called South by the death of his mother.

ZAISER DIES SUDDENLY FROM HEART DISEASE

William A. Zaiser, aged 57 years, formerly of Newark, who had been living for a short time with his brother, Harry Zaiser, tax collector, at South Stirling, died suddenly, last night, of heart trouble. The attack was an acute one and Mr. Zaiser passed away before medical assistance could be summoned. Mr. Zaiser went to South Stirling recently intending to spend the summer there with his brother, who lives on the Coriell farm. He is survived by his brother.

The funeral service will be held at the late home, Saturday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. George Bowers will officiate and the burial will be in the cemetery at Mt. Bethel.

RAHWAY VALLEY RAILROAD TO STOP SUNDAY TRAINS

Roselle, May 29.—Announcement is made by the Rahway Valley Railroad that, beginning June 8, no trains will be run Sundays. The 2:14 train from Summit to Kenilworth will be discontinued week days.

Most of the road's passengers commute on week days to the factories at Kenilworth. The passenger list on Sundays has been very light.

EXEMPTION HEARING SET BY CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

Trenton, May 29.—A public hearing will be given by the Civil Service Commission the afternoon of June 3, at the State House, upon the question of exempting the position of expert engineer for the New Jersey Harbor Commission.

Announcement has been made by the commission of the results of the examinations for the position of right-of-way engineer for service in the Department of Public Roads. Three candidates passed the tests, in order of merit as follows: Roy Mullins, Plainfield; Alfred B. Nelson, Trenton, and Louis S. Scott, Jersey City.

An examination for assistant foreman, to supervise the laying of water mains in this city, will be held June 11. The salary is $18 a week. The test is open only to residents of this city. The last day for the filing of applications is June 6.

SOLD PEPPER AND ALCOHOL AS JAMAICA GINGER, IS SAID

Trenton, May 29.—Charged with violating the pure food law by selling as Jamaica ginger a concoction containing red pepper, Jamaica ginger and approximately 30 per cent. of alcohol, the Pennsylvania Liquor Company, of Atlantic City was given a hearing before the State Board of Health. Samuel Buckstein, proprietor of the company, appeared as defendant.

Buckstein told the board that the liquor had been shipped to him in bulk and he had bottled it. A sample discovered by W. S. Townsend an inspector of the board, was contained in a bottle used for a well-known brand of whisky.

By request of the State Board, Buckstein was examined by Dr. R. E. Doolittle, who for a time succeeded Dr. Wiley in the federal bureau of food and drugs, and who is now head of the federal laboratories in New York.

The purpose of getting Buckstein here was to enable the New York authorities to prosecute the manufacturers of the product, which was shipped from New York and was supposed to have been manufactured in that State. The State Board was inclined to believe that inasmuch as the concoction figured in inter-state commerce, it should be taken by the national authorities.

Josiah Stryker, of the attorney-general's office, who represented the State Board, said that he would make a further investigation before advising the Board what course to pursue.

TRACKLESS TROLLEY GRANT HELD IN ABEYANCE AWHILE

New Providence, May 29.—The rough draft of a franchise ordinance, said to be the first drawn in America in favor of a trackless trolley was read at a meeting of the Borough Council.

The draft was submitted by the Tri-County Power and Traction Company, which seeks the privilege of operating a trackless trolley system along Springfield avenue.

The proposed line will be operated from the business section of the city of Summit, through New Providence Borough, New Providence Township Passaic Township and then to Bernardsville. The total distance covers eight miles.

The draft was referred to the law committee, of which Leonidas Dennis is chairman.

Copies will be sent to all of the councilmen who will note their objections and suggestions and present them to the chairman of the law committee within a week.

The franchise covered the matter of fare. The charge for any distance in the borough of New Providence from any point in that place is not to exceed five cents. The fare from any point in the borough to any point in Summit is not to exceed ten cents.

The draft calls for a fifty-year franchise, which the councilmen consider too long a time. Several other changes, mostly of a minor nature, are contemplated. The franchise provides for fines as penalties for the company failing to live up to provisions of the contract.

The Township Committee of New Providence Township will hold a hearing in the Columbia School on Thursday night on the question of granting the company a franchise through that community.

Rev. William J. Lonsdale, of Lebanon, went to Somerville Monday to a meeting of the Classis of Raritan, when Rev. W. DuMont Conklin, who had just been graduated from the New Brunswick Theological Seminary, was given a license to preach. Mr. Lonsdale conducted the examination in theology. The young minister is the son of Rev. Marian T. Conklin, formerly pastor of the Reformed church at Whitehouse Station. He has accepted a call to become assistant to Dr. I W. Gowan at Weehawken. Yesterday Mr. Lonsdale delivered an address on "A Man's Calling," at the meeting of the Y. M. C. A., at Peddie Institute at Hightstown.

The Sunday-school in Round Valley has started its regular sessions for the summer months. Officers have been elected as follows: Superintendent, Alvah H. Haver, Jr.; assistant superintendent, Samuel J. Berry, Jr.; secretary, Chester Conover; treasurer, Edward Tine; librarian, Miss Edith Tine; organist, Miss Mabel Haver; associate organist, Miss Minnie McPherson; teachers, Samuel J. Berry, Jr., Miss Helen Berry, Miss Clara Haver, Miss Letitia Merrell, Mrs. John Emmons and Mrs. John R. Conover.

In the Reformed church at Lebanon Sunday evening the union services of that congregation and the Methodist church will be started and the pastor, Rev. William J. Lonsdale, will preach the sermon. He will have for his topic, "Prisoners of Hope." On the following Sunday evening, June 8, at the union service in the Methodist church, the members of the Jr. O U. A. M., and I. O. O F. lodges will attend in a body. Both pastors will speak. The Children's Day exercises of the Reformed church will be held Sunday morning, June 8, at which time a special address will be made by Rev. A. C. Apgar, representative of the State Children's Home Society.

Dunellen & Vicinity

Memorial Day services were held today in the local public schools, consisting of patriotic addresses by several G. A. R. men, vocal and instrumental solos and the singing of patriotic selections by a chorus. The schools closed before the regular dismissal hour and will reopen again Monday at the usual time.

The local school children have been unusually liberal in their floral contribution for the decoration of the graves of the dead soldiers. The plants were received this morning and will be placed on the graves in the New Market and Plainfield cemeteries tomorrow, following the usual exercises.

Unfortunately, the local baseball team of the Central New Jersey League, will be out of town tomorrow, the schedule compelling the Dunellenites to journey to High Bridge and oppose the aggregation representing that place. A large delegation of "rooters" are planning to accompany the players. All are anxious to see Dunellen at the head of the league. The team is second now, and their chances are good for a first place berth.

The Rev. Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Knox and Mrs. M. E. Harris attended the recent missionary meeting of the Elizabeth District of the Newark conference, held in Elizabeth.

Flowers and shrubbery have been planted about the local Jersey Central Railroad station.

The Dunellen F. C. baseball team will play in Lincoln tomorrow.

The singing classes conducted in the M. E. church by S. Frederick Smith, of Plainfield, have been discontinued for the summer. It is planned to resume activities, however, the first Monday in September. The classes which were formed at Mr. Smith's suggestion have proved popular.

Reunion night for former pastors of the M. E. church was held in that edifice last night as a climax to the series in celebration of the installation of the new church organ. A capacity audience greeted the ministers, some of whom were bent and gray. The services were inspiring and the rendition of an excellent program of music made the occasion a memorable one. The former pastors were introduced by the present incumbent, Rev. Dr. W. A. Knox, who made a short introductory address. Among those who were present were Rev. Charles F. Woodruff and Rev. Walter C. Kinsey, of Newark, and Rev. E. C. Dutcher of East Rutherword. Words of regret were received and read from Rev. E. C. Little, of Verona, and Rev. Josiah Meade of Hoboken, whose advance in years made it impossible for them to be present. Previous to the services in the church, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Knox entertained the visitors at their home.

BADGER STATE'S BIRTHDAY.

Madison, Wis., May 29.—The State of Wisconsin reached its sixty-fifth birthday anniversary today, having been admitted to the Union May 29, 1848. The anniversary passed without observance, except the flying of the national and State flags from the Capitol.

Bound Brook.

The Bound Brook High School Alumni Association has issued invitations for an informal dance to be given in the auditorium of the Lafayette School building on Friday night, June 13. The committee is John W. Zimmerman, chairman; Ethel C. Somers, Louisa Franke, Arthur D. Bergen and Percy Van Zandt.

Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Miller, of Woodcliff-on-Hudson, are spending a few days visiting Mr. and Mrs. William W. Smalley.

The Bound Brook Motorcycle Club will hold a dance in Voorhees' Hall, tomorrow night. Abraham Karo and Frank Stangle compose the committee.

South Plainfield.

Woolworth Clinger, of Hazeltown, Penn., is spending a few days with his brother, Charles Clinger.

Rev. Father Mountain, who is holding a mission in the Sacred Heart church, will lecture on the "Mysterious Gateway" tonight at 8 o'clock. After the lecture benediction will be held.

Mrs. William Farrel of Metuchen, has returned home after visiting her mother, Mrs. Mary McDonough.

All the drop forgers in the Spicer Universal Joint Works were idle yesterday on account of shortage of oil.

The cement foundations of the cellars on the three double houses being constructed by the Hamilton Realty & Construction Company are finished and the framework is started.

'Plains & Fanwood.

The funeral of Mrs. Elsie Neider, wife of G. P. Neider, who died at her home in the borough Tuesday after a lingering illness, was held at that place this morning at 8:45 and at St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield, at 10 o'clock, where a high mass of requiem was offered for the repose of her soul. Mrs. Neider had resided in the borough for the past twenty years and was well known and respected by everyone. Besides a husband she leaves two children, Georgite and Philip Neider.

The local volunteer firemen and school children will meet a delegation of the G. A. R. at the trolley station tomorrow morning at 8:15. They will march to the cemetery where appropriate exercises will be held.

Memorial Day exercises were held in the assembly room of the school this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Recitations and music special for the occasion were rendered by the pupils. A delegation from Winfield Scott Post, of Plainfield, was present and made several short addresses to the scholars.

The local school will be closed tomorrow in observance of Memorial Day but will reopen Monday morning and begin work for the final "exams" which commence a week from today.

A regular meeting of the Saturday Night Club will be held in the Fanwood firehouse Saturday evening at 8 o'clock.

Robert Paxson, of the borough, is visiting relatives in Bristol, Pa.

Miss Ada Farley, of Farley avenue, is able to be out again after being detained at home for the past ten days by illness.

Clifford Hall, of the borough, has just purchased a 1913 motorcycle.

S. Dana Townsend is spending a few days with his mother in Brooklyn.

In all probability the local school nine will be without the services of their star pitcher, George Venitzeo, tomorrow as he has a severe cold. Fred Herbst will probably do the mound work.

AMBOY BOY PRIZE WINNER.

Easton, Pa., May 29.—Walter DeWitt Barker, of Perth Amboy, N. J., won the first prize of $50 in the annual junior oratorical contest of Lafayette College, Monday night. Fred N. Miller and Virgil A. Davidson, of this city, were second and third, respectively. Mr. Barker spoke on "The Democracy of Tomorrow." Miller received $30 and Davidson $20. The judges were the Rev. H. M. Gessner, B. F. Cresson and Clarence Beck, all of this city. President E. D. Warfield presided.

$30,000 ANNUITY TO WIDOW.

Cranford, May 29.—Jose Berre King, who died April 22 in his home here, left an annuity of $30,000 to his widow, Mrs. Louise W. King, who is temporarily in London, England. She also receives all personal effects. The unestimated residuary estate, subject to the life annuity of Mrs. King, is left in equal shares to Mr. King's five children, who also will receive the fund set apart for their mother's income at death.

THE DAY WE CELEBRATE.

Memorial Day, the Nation's greatest day,
To many a heart the saddest in a way,
Although half a century has past
Fresh in our memory ever will last,
Recollections of our noble and our brave!

The first of Spring time's grandest splendor,
The first of nature's roses we surrender,
With loving thoughts and full of grace
We gently touch the resting place
Of our noble and our brave!

The Stars and Stripes the greatest banner,
Salutes thee with the highest honor,
Softly praying, sweetly singing;
We come to thee sweet essence bringing
Serenely sleep our noble and our brave!

Never! can Memorial Day be of the past!
Never! while Spangled Banner last,
With emblems, Courage, Purity and Love,
Incerase in every heart duty from above
To decorate the graves of noble and brave!

As the years roll bye with numbers growing less,
May we learn still further how to bless,
The good that has been nobly wrought
By the bloody battles that were fought
By our noble and our brave.

As down the ages decendants come and go,
May they ever feel and learn to know,
The tributes paid these Sacred Comrades true;
Who fought and bled for the red, white and blue!
God bless forever our noble and our brave!

LOUISE TREDERIKE THAL.

A Telephone "Exclusively" Yours

WHEN you are preparing to leave town and your time is limited, it is annoying to have "Central" report "busy" when you want to reach someone by telephone quickly.

The person you are calling probably has party line telephone service, which means sharing the line with others. Under these conditions the service is naturally restricted.

Direct line telephone service is so much more satisfactory. No waiting—no blocked messages. Exclusive service at only a slight additional cost.

Direct line telephone service is the service that serves.

NOTES FROM LABOR FIELD

Policemen in St. Louis are to have an eight-hour day.

The Amalgamated Association of Iron, Tin and Steel Workers almost doubled its membership the past year.

The International Stereotypers and Electrotypers' Union of America will hold its annual convention in Buffalo next month.

The Mule Spinners' Union of New Bedford, Mass., has entered a formal protest against the proposed cotton schedule in the tariff bill.

Ballots cast by the wireless operators employed by the Marconi Company so far as received are almost unanimous for demands for higher wages to be made. The operators are voting at the same time for a strike if the demands are refused by the company.

Iron and steel workers in the organized mills, about 15,000 in number, gained another increase the other day of 25 cents a ton and proportionate advances for those who do not work on a tonnage basis. This does not apply to the workers in the steel trust plants.

The trade unions of New York number more than 525,000 members distributed over 2,469 locals. During the past fifteen years the gain was equal to about 250 per cent. This army of workers forms, in a large measure, the bulk of the intelligent wealth producers of the State. If they were a unit politically, as they are industrially, they would be a great power.

The railway freight handlers and railway clerks of Salt Lake City, Utah, have formed a union, the organization being one of the latest to be organized in that city. The charter list contains the names of a large percentage of the men employed in this class of work and the prospects are that it will be augmented by many more within a short time.

During January and February of last year the American Federation of Labor issued 34 charters, chartering one department, eight central bodies, 21 local trade unions and four federal labor unions. For the same two months this year a total of fifty charters was issued, including nine central bodies, 32 local trade unions, and nine federal labor unions.

A large number of carpenters are on strike in different cities of the country, according to information received at their headquarters in Indianapolis. Nearly all the agreements of the carpenters and the contractors ended May 1, and on that day many went out. In some cities there is a difference over wages, in other cities as to hours. In some of the cities the differences have been adjusted.

Amalgamation of all men working in the metal trades into one large international organization under the banner of the American Federation of Labor for the purpose of maintaining the spirit of sympathetic strikes among laboring men, is the basis of a movement indorsed at the semi-annual meeting of the metal workers' unions and metal trades councils of Michigan and Ohio, recently held at Columbus, O.

There is more teaming done in Chicago than in any other city of the world. The number of vehicles registered with the authorities was 80,000 in 1912, an increase of 11 per cent. over the preceding year. Of these more than 50,000 are horse-drawn wagons and trucks used for hauling merchandise and other commodities. The automobile trucks number 2,790. Teaming in Chicago represents an annual business of $60,000,000 and an investment in excess of $85,000,000.

AT KAISER'S JUBILEE.

New York, May 29.—Carrying an invitation from the German Emperor, William Duning of Richmond, Ind., and Paul Werner of Cleveland, O., sailed today for Hamburg to participate in the great celebration next month of the silver jubilee of Emperor William's reign. Werner is a store-keeper in Cleveland and Duning is a locksmith. Both are natives of Germany. As young men they served together in the "Kaiser Company" the First regiment of the guard, one of the crack regiments of the imperial army. At that time the commander of the company was Prince William, now king of Prussia and German emperor. In arranging for the jubilee celebration the Kaiser directed that every surviving member of his old command should be invited to participate in the festivities and that special preparations should be made for their reception and entertainment while in Berlin.

AS G. A. R. ESCORT.

Boston, Mass., May 29.—The Gate City Guard of Atlanta, Ga., which is making a tour of various northern cities, arrived in Boston this morning and was entertained at luncheon by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. Tomorrow the visitors will act as escort to one of the local G. A. R. posts at the Memorial Day Exercises on the Boston Common.

—One of the next one hundred people who buy real estate in this city, would probably find that property of yours to be exactly what he wants. Give him, in a Press ad, sufficient facts to persuade him to investigate.

"AL" FARMER, FORMER DIAMOND IDOL, LOSES IN LAST GAME WITH GRIM DEATH

An old face is seen no more in the lineup of the crack Ridgewood semi-professional nine and a familiar name to Plainfield fans is missing in the box scores this season.

It is that of Al Farmer, who was the catcher for Plainfield a few years ago when George Johnston, of Scotch Plains, piloted the destinies of the local club. Al died at his home in Brooklyn recently after an illness of several months, a part of which time he was confined in a sanitorium. Farmer was attacked with the malady that caused his death during the latter part of last season and the last time his name appeared on the sporting pages of the metropolitan newspapers in connection with the national partime was last fall when a benefit game was played for him by his old diamond pals in Brooklyn.

Al Farmer was one of the most popular players who ever donned a Plainfield uniform. He was a sterling athlete and always played the game for all it was worth. A game was never ended until the last man was called out with big Al. Memories of his happy smile, and encouraging words to his teammates piercing through the wired mask from behind the plate during the heat of a contest still linger in the memories of local fans who attended the games in those days.

Farmer's popularity on the Plainfield diamond was due to his happy disposition and his aggressive and hard working qualities. Although he played the game always to win, and would fight to the last ditch to stave off defeat Farmer's baseball career was never marred by an act of rowdyism on the diamond. It was due to laudable qualities, combined with his skill as a player, that Farmer was idolized and cheered by the plaudits of thousands of fans in scores of heartbreaking contests on historic Crescent Oval.

"Lefty" Davis, the old Scotch Plains mound artist, was the battery partner of Farmer when the latter made his debut on the Plainfield nine under the management of George Johnston.

In addition to being a star catcher, Farmer was a terrific batter and on scores of occasions his tornadic drives brought hope and victory to Plainfield. In the same lineup with Farmer were Big Jim Robertson, the erstwhile Fordham star, who covered first base; Bill Lauder the former Giant and Philadelphia National Leaguer, captained the nine and played third base; Harry Patience was at second base, and "Kid" Roberts and Charley Walton cavorted at shortstop; other celebrities were the famous Pete Cregan and McGoey in the outfield. After "Lefty" Davis departed "Ernie" Lindeman became Farmer's battery assistant.

After leaving Plainfield the battery of Lindeman and Farmer won laurels with Summit, Dover, Ridgewood and other trong semi-professional clubs. For a time Farmer played on the Providence, Eastern League, club and one season he received a tryout on the Brooklyn Nationals.

In speaking of Farmer's death, George Johnston, the former local manager, paid this tribute to the dead ball player:

"Al Farmer was dead on the square. He was one of the 'whitest' ball players I ever had any dealings with. He was a splendid player, always working hard to win and the sport loses a player of noble time in his death."

Farmer was about thirty-two years of age. He is survived by a wife and several children.

BALDWIN IS A LONG DISTANCE BALLIST

Scotch Plains' Veteran Attributes His Success to Using Horse Liniment.

Dr. Osler's theory that a man is N. G. after forty years of age is discounted by George Baldwin, the veteran player of the Scotch Plains baseball team. Baldwin has played the national game since he was "knee high to a grasshopper," and now at forty-five years he is as agile as ever and is outplaying some of the budding youngsters who are in Manager Joe Alberts' line-up.

According to Baldwin his prime ambition is to eclipse the remarkable record of the famous "Orator Jim" O'Rourke, of Bridgeport, who played several years after he reached the half-century mark.

Until this season Baldwin covered second base, but owing to a prevalence of weak arms among his players, Manager Alberts shifted him to the outfield. Baldwin declares his wing was never in better trim, and this is borne out by several brilliant performances, in which he has thrown ambitious home-run hitters out at the plate.

Baldwin, when asked to explain the wearing qualities of his portside flinger placed the credit to using old-fashioned horse liniment in removing the kinks after the winter season.

"If Christy Mathewson would follow that prescription he can stay a dozen years or more in big league company," declared "Baldy," as he exhibited his muscles.

LOCAL GRADUATE TO CAPTAIN COLUMBIA

Russell Lawrence Beatty Elected to Lead Blue and White Track Team.

Russell Lawrence Beatty, a graduate of Leal School in this city and formerly a local athletic competitor, was yesterday elected captain of the Columbia University track team for next season. It will be remembered that Beatty, who was known as "Rus" Lawrence in this vicinity, was a stellar performer in the shot-put in which he made a specialty and while a member of the local private school attracted country wide notice. During his prep school term he joined the New York A. C. of which he is still a member and when the college season closes he competes under that organization's colors. Last year he was selected as a member of the American team to make the trip to Sweden to participate in the Olympic games but family troubles kept him on this side and he did not compete in the international events.

He has won many points for Columbia's track team in the shot-put event and is picked as a sure winner of the iron ball throw at the intercollegiate games to be held in the Harvard University stadium tomorrow and Saturday. Beatty may compete in the hammer throw as well as in the shot-put.

S. S. TEAMS IDLE ON THE HOLIDAY

Two Games Saturday Afternoon—Independent Contests Tomorrow.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL BASEBALL LEAGUE.

STANDING OF TEAMS:

	W.	L.	P.C.
Hope Chapel	1	0	1,000
First Baptist	1	0	1,000
Monroe Avenue	0	1	000
Park Avenue	0	1	000

GAMES SATURDAY.

Hope Chapel vs. First Baptist.
Monroe M. E. vs. Park Avenue Baptist.

No games are scheduled for the Sunday-school Leaguers tomorrow but several of the aggregations are planning to play independently and it is more than likely that all will be active either in the morning or afternoon.

Saturday afternoon the league leaders, Hope Chapel and First Baptists, are scheduled to come together and it stands to reason that one of the nines will have to vacate the top berth. Each now has a 1,000 per cent. standing in the league race and one will be bound to drop the contest Saturday afternoon. On the Parker Field, the Park Avenue Baptist combination and the Monroe team will clash.

BUSY WEEK END FOR CENTRAL LEAGUERS

Four Games Will Be Played—Plainfield on Visiting Diamonds.

CENTRAL NEW JERSEY LEAGUE.

STANDING OF TEAMS.

	W.	L.	P. C.
Somerville	1	0	1,000
Plainfield	1	1	500
Dunellen	1	1	500
High Bridge	0	1	000

Plainfield at Somerville.
Dunellen at High Bridge.

GAMES SATURDAY.

Plainfield at High Bridge.
Somerville at Dunellen.

Four more games are scheduled to be played in the Central New Jersey League race over the week-end and the standing of the clubs will be treated to a thorough shakeup before the program is run off. Plainfield does not play on its home grounds either tomorrow or Saturday but a number of the local fans are planning to take in the games at Somerville and High Bridge.

Dunellen's first game on its new grounds is carded for Saturday afternoon and Manager Bob Bogardus is making great preparations for the opening.

COLLEGE MEET DRAWS CROWD.

Cambridge, May 29.—Six hundred and seventy-nine individual entries have been received for the thirty-eighth annual intercollegiate track and field meet to be conducted within the Harvard Stadium tomorrow and Saturday. The first of the college teams to strike town was the University of California. Tonight protests will be acted upon at the annual spring meeting of the I. C. A. A. A. A., which will be held at the Copley Plaza. Eller, the Georgetown hurdler entry, has already been protested, and what disposition the organization will make of his case will be decided upon tonight.

SATURDAY GAMES IN CITY LEAGUE RACE

All Four Teams Will Be Busy Over the Week End—Two Good Contests.

CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE.

STANDING OF TEAMS.

	W.	L.	P. C.
Saurer	1	0	1,000
Spicer	0	1	000
West Ends	0	0	000
Royal Giants	0	0	000

West Ends vs. Saurer.
Spicer vs. Royal Giants.

Playing the Royal Colored Giants Saturday afternoon, the Spicer baseball team will try to retrieve the overwhelming defeat handed out to them by the Saurer bunch last week and with the cripples who were out of the lineup last Saturday back in the fray it looks as though they had a pretty good chance of setting up a tally in the "games won" column.

On the Saurer grounds on Clinton avenue, the West Ends will play the Saurer aggregation and if the high score performance of last Saturday over the Spicers may be taken as a criterion it looks as though the West Ends were due for a drubbing.

CREAM OF BICYCLE TALENT TO APPEAR

Twenty-five Mile Race Tomorrow Will Be Star Event on Holiday Program.

A field including the best riders in the country will start in the annual twenty-five mile road race being conducted under the auspices of the Plainfield Cycling Club here tomorrow morning. Pedal pushers from the four corners of the globe, representing over a score of different cycling organizations, will compete in the event for which nearly forty prizes, ranging in size and value from bicycle chains to a Pierce racer. This is the fifth annual event of the kind to be run under the local club's auspices and present indications seem to point to it as a leader over all of the other four, and the pedalers will push their steeds over the same old course viz.: Out Mountain avenue to Scotch Plains, a trail that will be covered in two laps.

Close to 100 riders will invade the convines of North Plainfield to race for the trophies and some of the most prominent men in the cycling world at the present time will act as officials. Jack Horner, as usual, is the promoter of the meet, and those who have witnessed the event in former years, are familiar with the class of racers he brings to the borough annually. The local event will savor of international variety, bicycle riders having entered names that come from numerous nationalities.

A number of Plainfielders have been practicing hard all the week to get into trim for the quarter century run and when the starter's pistol is fired, a plentiful sprinkling of local talent will adorn the chalk mark. In former years Plainfielders have been conspicuous in the prize getting and this time will be no exception.

ROYALS HAVE DOUBLE HEADER.

Manager Pete Simmons, of the Royal Colored Giant baseball team, has booked a double headed with the Somerville Klinkers to be played at the latter place tomorrow. The first game will be staged in the morning and the second in the afternoon. Saturday afternoon the Royals will play the Saurers on the Clinton avenue field.

IMPROVED COURTS TO BE OPENED AT P. C. C.

Upper Tier Will Be Open for Tennis Players Tomorrow Morning.

On Decoration Day the upper tier tennis courts at the Plainfield Country Club, which have just been entirely reconstructed, will be thrown open for play. The annual handicap men will start in the morning and play will be continued all day; while tournament will be brought to an Saturday afternoon. Entries close at 8 p. m. tonight, and the draw be made at the residence of Albert D. Beers, 784 Watchung avenue. The work of rebuilding the upper courts has been under consideration a number of years. A solid foundation of clay has been built and a candid surface thus obtained. The back-stop fence on the north side has been rebuilt and is now twelve feet high instead of eight as formerly. Playing conditions have been further improved by bringing back fence twelve feet nearer the net fence. It is believed that the upper courts will now compare favorably with the lower ones, which have deservedly high reputation and are considered equal to if not superior to any in the country.

ATHLETIC MEET AND PLAY FOR SOUTH PLAINFIELDERS

Junior athletes from this city are planning to invade South Plainfield tomorrow afternoon to take part in athletic meet to be held under auspices of the South Plainfield Baptist church. Nine events will be off, including a 100 and 220 yard dash in the senior class also a running broad and running high jump, standing broad and standing high jumps, and 12-pound shot put. In junior class a 100 yard dash and running broad jump are carded.

In the evening a play entitled "The Gypsy Queen," will be presented in Washington Hall and the prizes which consist of ribbons will be awarded to the sucessful contestants the field meet.

P. H. S. SCHEDULE CHANGES.

Morris High School baseball players, who were originally scheduled to play the Plainfield High School boys Parker Field, Saturday afternoon have been secured for tomorrow afternoon instead, thus completing a double holiday bill for the local schoolboys. In the morning the Plainfielders will lineup against the Hill School contingent in one of the interscholastic League clashes. Saturday afternoon Plainfield will go to Princeton to play the High School team of that place.

INTERNATIONAL AUTO RACE AS A HOLIDAY AFFAIR

Indianapolis, Ind., May 29.—Everything is in readiness for the third annual 500-mile International Sweepstakes race, which is to be decided tomorrow on the Indianapolis motor speedway. On the eve of this richest and most spectacular auto speed classic in the world, the Hoosier capital is throbbing with enthusiasm and expectancy. The city is filled with thousands of visitors, many of whom have come from distant parts of the country to see the big race.

Five miles from the centre of the city, at the motor speedway, the thirty odd drivers of international fame who comprise this year's list of entries today put their racing motors in final condition for the hard tests, involving the custody of several valuable trophies and $50,000 in prize money.

There are almost as many favorites for the race as there are starters. "Wild Bob" Burman, the so-called speed king, is one of the drivers whose names are most frequently heard about the cafes, hotel lobbies and other public places where the enthusiasts congregate. Another whose chances are rated equally high is Ralph De Palma, the young Italian American driver, who has pulled down prize after prize since the sport of automobile racing was first introduced in America.

It is generally conceded that among the cars likely to finish at the front are the three Isottas, the big Italian speed creations which have figured prominently among the world's record-breakers. The three cars will be piloted by Harry Grant, Teddy Tetzlaff and Vincenzo Trucco. Caleb Bragg, Spencer Wishart, Paul Luccarelli, Johnny Jenkins, Albert Guyot, Jules Goux, Don Herr, Charylie Merz, William Knipper, Ralph Mulford and Harry Endicott are among the other noted drivers who will be seen in the great contest.

TO CLOSE GAME FARM SUNDAYS.

Trenton, May 29.—Announcement has been made by the Fish and Game Commission that the State game farm at Forker River will be closed to the public on Sundays. This is the nesting season and a large crowd on the farm, the commission says, would seriously interfere with the birds. Tickets of admission are necessary in order to enter the game farm on week days, and then the hours are limited between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

Billie Burke will spend her vacation in Europe.

Gertrude Bondhill will be seen as an artist's model in "The Million."

John Cort will produce a new comedy next season called "The Marriage Game."

David Warfield's appearance as Shylock has been postponed to the season after next.

The Fritzi Scheff Opera Company has just been incorporated with a capital stock of $10,000.

The play in which Marie Tempest will appear in this country next season is called "The Handfull."

Henry Miller has closed his tour for the season, but will begin his third season in "The Rainbow" in August.

Percy Haswell will open her fourth season of summer stock performances in Toronto about the end of this month.

The Chicago Opera Company is to offer a prize of $5,000 for an American opera composed by a resident composer.

Thomas Meighan and his wife, Frances Ring, will be leading man and woman of a stock company in Los Angeles.

Mollie King, recently in "The Winsome Widow," will play vaudeville engagements until the Shuberts call for her services.

James T. Powers has made such a success in the revival of "The Geisha," that he has decided to star in this piece next season.

Fanny Ward will be the star next season in a farce from the French entitled "The President," under the management of A. H. Wood.

Elliot Dexter, who played the role of the lawyer in "The Master Mind," will appear in a play shortly to be produced, called "Nature's Cry."

Edith Wynne Matthison is playing in a drama, "The Necessary Evil," by her husband, Charles Rann Kennedy, the author of "The Servant in the House."

Grace George is to go to London to play in "Divorcons." It is said she may make a world's tour, appearing in this play, "Pretty Peggy" and in a Shakespearean revival.

For the first time in his long career on the stage, Maclyn Arbuckle is to appear next fall in a musical comedy. Such an arrangement was made the other day in New York with Klaw and Erlanger.

LIFE MURDERERS TO HANG.

Greensboro, Ala., May 29.—Two negroes, each of whom acknowledges a belief that he should be hanged, are to meet death on the gallows here tomorrow. Sharp Aaron and Tom Simon are the men who are to pay the extreme penalty. Each was convicted of wife murder.

LONG HOLIDAY FOR EXCHANGE.

New York, May 29.—On account of Memorial Day the New York Stock Exchange closed at the end of business today and will not reopen until next Monday. The Consolidated and other exchanges followed the lead of the big mart in taking a three-day holiday.

CONGER'S NINE BUSY.

Two games have been booked for the Y. M. A. A. baseball team by Manager William Conger for tomorrow as holiday attractions and both give promise of producing some real excitement. In the morning the Mt. Pleasant delegation will swoop down on the recently remodeled Centre street diamond and in the afternoon the Y. M. A. A. will jump to Bound Brook where they meet the St. Joseph's team.

CIVIC BALLISTS TO CLASH.

Members of the West End Civic Association and the Netherwood Residents' Association will don baseball togs Saturday afternoon and meet in a diamond battle on the Netherwood field. Several practices have been held during the past two weeks by the civic associations and some speedy baseball is on the card.

GOLF CLUB OPENING.

The formal opening of the Madison Golf Club will take place tomorrow. The main attraction will be played for the club cup, medal play handicap, thirty-six holes, eighteen holes to be played tomorrow and the remainder Saturday

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

The Summer Living-Room.

The summer living-room, to be comfortable, should be free from cluttering, heating, dust-gathering furniture. Little, useless ornaments, elaborate cushions, heavy draperies and much furniture looks well in some living rooms in winter, when the weather outside is unpleasant, and the temperature is down. But in the summer the same furnishings are superfluous. So, before the warm weather really decides to stay with us, the summer living-room should be made ready.

The Windows.

Begin with the windows. They should, of course, be screened if flies and mosquitoes are a menace, and at least one in each room should be so screened that the window can be lowered from the top. The curtains, if they are heavy, should be taken down and packed away, after they are cleaned. They will be all the more attractive in the fall because they seem new and unusual, and they will be spared much hard wear, for the dusts and mists of summer that sift in through open windows are destructive to curtains. In their place, put up Swiss or net curtains, or else leave the windows curtainless.

Ornaments and Pictures.

Ornaments, in the summer, should be few. There should be simple vases for flowers—vases that are easy to keep clean and bright. Fish bowls of different sizes, which can be kept on the pantry shelves when they are not in use, make attractive bowls for holding roses, nasturtiums, paeonies, chrysanthemums and most of the big, effective flowers of summer—and they cost little. Nicknacks which have no use should be packed away until winter.

Pictures, too, if they are in fragile frames, can be packed away—a method of caring for them which is certainly better than covering them with mosquito netting. A few pictures in wooden frames which can be cleaned with a damp cloth can be left on the walls.

Furniture.

If you are fortunate enough to have wicker and willow furniture, use that in the living-room and put the heavier, upholstered furniture out of the way. If you have not willow furniture, make or buy linen dust covers or cretonne covers for the heavy furniture. These covers protect the furniture and at the same time make it cooler and more comfortable for warm weather.

A living-room furnished in this way, with wide-open windows, a few flowers, always fresh, standing where they will catch the breeze, and a well-stocked writing table, book shelf and work box is a comfortable place in which to pass a summer's day. And, better still, because of the simplicity of its furnishings, it is easy to take care of.

Some Cookery Suggestions

FISH IN SEASON.

FOR Friday's dinner there are many different fish to select from. Salmon, trout, halibut, bluefish, flounders, sea bass and mackerel are all available.

To bone fish, whether fresh or salt, take them while raw and, holding the headless fish in the left hand, split down the back. With the right thumb carefully push the meat from the flesh side of the backbone. Then gently force the thumb between the backbone and the skin of the fish from head to tail. Now pull sidewise, and the ribs adhering to the backbone will come out with it.

All the remaining bones can be removed by catching them between the thumb and the sharp blade of a knife.

Baked Fish.

Halibut in Cream. — Take three pounds of halibut boiled with plenty of salt, remove the skin, bones and flake. Boil one bunch of parsley and one large onion in a little water to extract flavor. Take out and thicken with three tablespoonfuls of flour previously beaten smooth with a little milk. Then add to it one quart of rich milk and one-half cupful of butter. Put fish and sauce alternately in a buttered pan, having sauce on top. Cover with cracker crumbs and bake until brown.

Well Seasoned Fish.

Boiled Salmon Steak.—Take a pint of broth or water and boil with a small bunch of celery, half a teaspoonful of salt, quarter saltspoonful of pepper and a tablespoonful of vinegar. Cut the salmon steaks in suitable pieces and put the fragments and bones in the boiling liquid. Place the salmon in a clean saucepan and strain the seasoned broth over it. Cover and let boil briskly for ten minutes. Serve in a deep dish with the liquor instead of sauce. The full flavor and the richness of the fish are preserved in this dish.

A Delicious Food.

Grilled Trout.—Take fresh trout, clean and score it diagonally three or four times on either side, brush over with oil or melted butter and broil over a clear fire, placing the trout on oiled straws on the gridiron, as this prevents the skin of the fish being torn in the turning.

Serve with bearnaise sauce, which is made as follows: Stir together over the fire the yolks of five eggs, an ounce of butter and a dash of salt and freshly ground black pepper. As soon as the butter is melted and the eggs begin to thicken lift the pan off the fire and stir in another ounce of butter; then return it to the fire to dissolve the butter and repeat this twice more, stirring the butter well in off the fire, then returning the pan to fire to melt the butter. When four ounces of butter have been well blended add a small teaspoonful of minced green tarragon and a teaspoonful of tarragon vinegar.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Story of The Moccasin Flower.

DOWN by the brook the yellow ladyslippers were in bloom. Jack and Evelyn had found them growing there and gathered some for mother.

Daddy admired them when he came home. "Moccasin flowers we used to call them when I was a boy," he said.

Jack exclaimed, "Moccasins are what Indians wear on their feet."

"Yes," replied daddy; "that's why they were called moccasin flowers by the Indians. There's a story about it.

"Once in the long ago when there were no white people in this country and the Indians had everything to themselves there lived in a little Indian village by the side of a wide flowing river a young Indian couple with their child.

"Both parents were very fond and proud of their small boy, the Little Brave, as they called him.

"One evening after Little Brave's mother had sung him to sleep by the river shore the mother went back to the wigwam to get supper for her husband, who had not yet come back from the forest where he was hunting. She was so busy that she did not notice the sky grow darker and darker, and it was only when her husband's voice at the door of their wigwam asked, 'Where is our Little Brave?' that she looked up and saw a storm was coming on.

"'I left him sleeping by the river shore!' she cried and hurried down to the stream, with her husband following her.

"There came a terrible clap of thunder, and by the lightning's flash they saw two long white arms lifted up out of the river and pick up their sleeping boy. Then boy and arms went down into the water. The river spirit had carried off their child to his home.

"On the bank of the river they found the moccasins their child had worn. They picked them up. It was all they had left to remind them of their boy.

"The poor mother sat by the bank of the river many days weeping over the moccasins.

"One night as she sat staring at the water a little hand touched her shoulder, and, turning, she saw her little boy.

"'Come, mother,' said he; 'you are to follow me up the Shining Way tonight,' and he pointed to where the Milky way, that great path of star dust, stretched across the sky—straight to the home of the Great Spirit, as the Indians think it leads.

"She rose and followed him and was never seen on earth again. But as she rose she dropped the little yellow moccasins, and where they fell sprang up a beautiful plant which the Indians named moccasin flower and which we sometimes call wild ladyslippers."

THE LATEST FAD.

Charming Blouse In Shadow Lace Designs.

IN LACE AND SATIN.

The charming blouse pictured is of shadow lace, with bands of wide green satin ribbon run between the lace and the thin silk lining. This is the very latest fad of the lace blouse of the season. Matching bows of green silk are used outside the blouse. A little collar of black chiffon underlies the collar of lace. Crystal buttons trim the blouse down the front.

Temper.

I have a little temper
That lives inside of me
And long as it remains there
It's good as it can be.

I do not know exactly
Just where it makes its nest,
But it is only happy
When it has gone to rest.

And it would make me naughty
If it got out of place
And came out like a fire
And showed upon my face.

But I will watch my temper
And keep it in control
And then I will be certain
To save my little soul.

(C, 1913). Punctuated by T. A. Daly.

At the last regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of Roselle it was voted that the association incorporate for the purpose of conducting a moving picture business. The Board of Education has donated the use of the school auditorium for the pictures, the men of the association are to install the machine and the women to procure and supervise the pictures. This association was organized in 1913 and has 150 members.

Miss Askew addressed the meeting on "The Use of Storytelling."

The Charity Organization, an outgrowth of the association, held an apron sale and netted a neat sum.

The Duchess of Marlborough delivered an address to a class of young mothers in London on Monday in which she said she believed a well cooked meal is a more effective means of stopping the drink habit than any amount of legislation, and expressed a hope for more schools for mothers for the purpose of supplementing the primary domestic teaching of girls in elementary schools.

Educators everywhere are watching with keenest interest the experiment being tried at Spring Valley, Oregon, by Dr. Alderman and his associate teachers. School credit is given for home duties faithfully and efficiently performed. Building fires, splitting wood, barn chores, scrubbing, sewing, cooking, dusting, practicing music lessons, sleeping with open windows, going to bed at a regular early hour, arriving at school with clean hands and faces, are some of the duties for which credit is allowed. The work is definitely measured and the parents' signature is necessary before credit is given. Dr. Alderman says, "The giving of school credit for home work is like opening great reservoirs of power which as yet have only been tapped." He claims that the habits of industry and cleanliness thus encouraged are not only reflected in the school life but also in increased ability in studies and greater willingness to prepare lessons and a higher degree of accuracy in all activities.—Mothers' Magazine.

"The fact that a boy prefers Alger or Henty to Scott or even that a girl gives some of her time to reading Mary Jane Holmes need not be looked upon as a calamity. True, we could wish them better employed, but aside from the possible waste of time, results from such occasional reading are not likely to be highly injurious. The appetite for this cheap emotionalism appears and usually disappears without working permanent harm. Capable librarians are coming to realize this fact and instead of banishing all books of the Alger-Henty type, they are tactfully endeavoring to regulate their circulation. The result is that where the librarian has any degree of co-operation from the parents a great deal is accomplished by way of compromise, and sandwiched in between two semi-worthless books the boy reads one really good one. * * *

"If we teachers, librarians and parents are to remedy this evil, then, it seems to me, it is not to be done by any prejudiced wholesale condemnation of books of which we are largely ignorant, but by an intelligent recognition of the thread of value in the thinnest adventure story in which our boys delight, as well as by the ability and willingness to point out, in a manner far removed from preaching, the practical and substantial values and delights that come from an acquaintance with true literature. Intelligent, tactful, sympathetic supervision of boys' and girls' readingsmay well claim the attention of all interested in cultivating a love for literature."—The Chautauquan.

SUMMER BAG OF WASH FABRICS

Smart Women Have These Dainty Accessories of Materials to Match Their Gowns as Well as of the Rich Brocades and Heavy Silks That Have Been Popular.

THE season has brought out a number of interesting novelties in bags. Chief among these is the fabric bag of washable material to match the summer gown. Hand bags, pocketbooks and cardcases are made of plain or printed material and are lined with silk to match the color of the pattern if there is one.

Charming vanity bags are made of stiff silks, brocaded, striped or plain, in bright, old fashioned colors. They draw up on gilt cords and have small mirrors fastened in the bottom with gold braid. Some of the bags are decorated with ruffles of old lace dotted with small chiffon or ribbon roses. Others have ruffles of black net with a colored border run in silks of subdued, rich coloring.

Single strap handle bags are among the late novelties and have come to replace the cord effects. One is in a striped moire finished with a puff, and another has the lower half of the bag covered with a moire plaiting. Both of the bags have metal frames. One is silk covered, and in the other the metal is bare.

The new mirror purse, one of the successes of the moment, is developed in a black brocaded silk, and the mirror is fitted to the inside of the opening, so hinged that it falls flat when the purse is opened. There are vanity fittings in this bag as well as a money purse. This is a form which is especially to be recommended for evening bags because of its convenience.

The use of handsome novelty silks is noted in many of the new fancies. One such which is developed in a chine printed and brocaded ottoman has a frame of hand carved silver.

The new chain handle is so arranged that the short loop of the chain when adjusted in a certain manner acts as a safeguard against the opening of the purse. This is a new feature in the adjustment of chain handles for suspended bags which should commend itself to the purchaser.

A bag oriental in form and coloring is developed in a fabric with gold lace trimmings, and the openings are slits in the sides, guarded by a collar band of gold braid, like the ring closing seen on the oriental money purses.

There are also interesting new forms in leather. Very popular are the leather bags in envelope style in contrast to the cord handled fabric bags.

One of the most interesting novelties is the leather purse in flat envelope style opening from the center like a portfolio, each side being fitted completely. On one flap is the money and change purse and on the other side the vanity case and a memorandum book. This is developed in a fine morocco lined with moire. The purse clasps on the outside with an impression hook and has the envelope strap handle.

Elephant skin is shown made up into traveling bags, hand bags, eyeglass cases, razor cases, writing desks, cardcases, pocketbooks and all sorts of bags and cases.

The leather is of beautiful color and interesting texture. It is finished in several shades of brown, from one that is dull gray to one that is light and tawny. It has a porous surface, pricked with tiny holes like pin pricks, and altogether suggests cork. The bags and cases made of it are decorated with gold and are therefore expensive.

—Renting a flat, or house, or other property, is strictly "a classified advertising matter." Any other way of finding tenants is impracticable, costly and—sometimes—impossible.

A MOCK ELOPEMENT

By MARTHA BILLINGS

Jim Dunlap was a hardworking farmer boy. His father died when Jim was very young, and the boy was obliged to scratch early for a living. He worked hard and studied nights, for there was ambition in Jim, though no one would have suspected it. Nevertheless he seemed content with hard work and not inclined to take a stand above mediocrity.

May Stanley was the belle of the village. The moment Jim Dunlap saw her he fell in love with her.

Now, while Jim Dunlap was a plodder, with nothing brilliant whatever about him, May was a little witch. She was witty, droll and much inclined to mischief. Her face was a mirror for her thoughts. Nevertheless if she had a preference for any of the young men of the village—there were no newcomers—none of her friends could discover it. But a girl, be she ever so communicative on other subjects, may keep that one secret deep hidden in her breast. As has been said, there was one young man with whom she was never associated in the minds of her friends. That was Jim Dunlap. Indeed, she had been heard to very unfeelingly apply to him the name of "sorrel top."

While Jim was plowing by day and a student by night, a gangling, awkward man of twenty, Walter Swift, the son of a neighboring well to do farmer, was getting ready to leave college with a degree. He came home with a good deal of eclat, with a fraternity badge on his chest and a reputation for scholarship. The girls looked for him to take an interest in May Stanley as the only one of their number capable of attracting one who had a university cut about him and more citified manners than any of the rest. But some of them declared that he wouldn't look at May even. These latter he disappointed by not only looking at her, but looking at her with longing eyes. There was that in her that attracted both sexes—a reckless, helter skelter, devil-may-care way she had, which is always fascinating in young persons, especially to young persons.

Swift's appearance fresh from college tended to put Jim Dunlap by comparison only further in the background. His joints seemed larger, his hair redder, while his freckles seemed like brown autumn leaves that some one had tramped all over his face. Not that he appeared to feel any inferiority, for he plodded on in the same awkward way as before. It was rather a feeling in those who saw the two young men in contrast.

That winter after Swift's coming home was a gay one among the younger set of the village. It isn't every small town that can number a full fledged college graduate among its social attractions, and Swift, who had played his share of pranks while at the university, originated a good many methods of amusement. When the winter was drawing to a close and Lent was coming on the boys and girls were wondering what they would do by way of a carnival. One of their number suggested that they have a fancy dress ball, but they had had one the year before and wanted something newer. Swift came to the rescue by proposing an elopement.

"An elopement!" all exclaimed at once. "What do you mean by that?"

"In colonial times," he said, "when a couple were married it was the custom for the bride and groom to race with the guests for a tavern, the party reaching the goal last to pay for a supper. I propose that we select a couple to elope (for fun, of course) and run for the Beaver inn, the rest to follow, the supper to be paid for as in colonial times."

The idea was accepted with enthusiasm. May Stanley was just the girl to play the part of the bride, and the proposer of the scheme was the man for the groom. May was chosen, but Swift was not. While he was the admiration of the girls, the boys were inclined to be jealous of him. But the boys couldn't settle upon one of their own number—each desiring to be the eloper—till some one in jest nominated Dunlap. All laughingly assented, and it was considered that there would be more fun with him for groom than any of the others. He would make the affair more ridiculous.

Tuesday night before the opening of Lent Jim saddled two horses, one with a woman's saddle, and at 10 o'clock pulled up under May Stanley's window. She jumped down into his arms, he put her on one of the horses, and away they galloped.

At the same hour and minute the rest of the party started from an equidistant point, both making for the Beaver inn. Jim and May stopped for twelve minutes by the way; but, having been given the advantage of the best road and Jim making a cut across fields, the elopers arrived first.

"My friends," said Jim, "I'll pay for the supper, for this is the happiest night of my life. May and I stopped by the way at a parson's just long enough to be married."

No one considered his words in earnest, and all set up a shout, but May produced a certificate that was passed around among the girls, and at last it began to be understood that the pair were married.

"For heaven's sake, where and when did they do their courting?" was the universal question.

PAY LAST TRIBUTES TO MRS. SHOTWELL

Rev. Dr. Herring Officiates at Funeral Services Attended by Many.

The funeral service of Mrs. William H. Shotwell was held at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the late home on Fairview avenue, North Plainfield, and was very largely attended by relatives, friends and neighbors. There was an unusually large display of floral tributes, comprising pillows and wreaths from the City National Bank, the Plainfield Savings Institution, the Pastor's Aid Society and the Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian church and many individuals.

Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. Shotwell was a lifelong member, conducted the service, made an address of eulogy, and Rev. Lewis Bond, of this city, and Rev. Rev. W. E. Honeyman, of the borough, intimate friends of the family assisted, Mr. Bond making a few remarks and Mr. Honeyman offering prayer. The untiring devotion of Mrs. Shotwell to her home and her church was referred to imupressively.

The burial was in the North Plainfield cemetery and the pallbearers were Robert H. Radford, John H. Manning, Charles M. Hummer, John Abbott, William Hamilton and Dr. N. W. Currie.

REMOVED THE CHICKENS AT A STRANGE HOUR

James Goelleto, of Scotch Plains, arrested Thursday morning at 1 o'clock while carrying nine chickens in a bag, was arraigned before Justice Clark, Thursday night, charged with stealing the fowl. After Marshal Clark had testified to having chased and arrested the defendant, Robert Newton Crane, his counsel, produced Mrs. Henry M. Demarest as his first witness who testified that the birds alleged to have been stolen by Goelleto were her property and that she had given her son, Henry Demarest, Jr., permission to remove any part of her poultry stock from the coops. The latter told the court that there was to be a chicken dinner at a friend's house and that he, accompanied by Goeleto, had taken the birds from the coops and was on his way to the scene of the festivities when the defendant was arrested. On the strength of these assertions Justice Clark dismissed the charge.

OPEN AIR MEETINGS WILL BEGIN TOMORROW

In the open air meetings the rector of Grace church has arranged a very attractive series for warm Sunday afternoons and invites the interest and attendance of all Plainfielders. Outdoor religious services are not a common feature of the Episcopal church and in establishing this enterprise Grace church is going a little out of the routine, but has plenty of precedence for the step. Open air services have been made very popular and successful in Europe; at Grace church, New York, much profit has followed preaching in the open, and undoubtedly Plainfield will appreciate this advance of Grace church to the religious interest of the community.

The exercises on the Parish House lawn will follow evensong in the church. The service will be very short, consisting of a Scriptural reading, the creed and some bright familiar hymns. The address tomorrow will be made by Rev. E. C. Chorley, of Garrison, N. Y., a man well calculated to interest the bystander. No prayer books or hymn books are needed. If the day is fine the attendance will probably be large.

HELD A DANCE.

Over 200 persons responded to invitations to attend the dance of the N. N. S. Club, which was held last night in Debele's Hall. Guests were present from New Brunswick, Elizabeth, New York, Brooklyn and Newark. The event was arranged by Louis Berse, assisted by Herman Shaeger, John Stierer, David Rosalzky and Miss Roda Davidson.

TWO PLAYERS HURT IN FIREMEN'S GAME

Haulenbeck and Stahl Put Out of Novel Game at Hyde Oval Yesterday.

Two players were injured in the ball game played at Hyde Oval yesterday morning between the Married and Single men's baseball teams composed of members of the North Plainfield fire department, but neither will be permanently incapacitated as a result of the hurts sustained. Chris Stahl, who was playing with the Married men, got in the way of a swiftly pitched ball while at the bat and fell to the ground stunned for the time being. He quickly recovered his wits, however, but while joking with his wife and some friends on the field adjoining Hyde Oval later in the morning he was suddenly seized with a fainting spell and fell to the ground unconscious.

Ball players rushed to his aid and after being brought back to his senses with first aid remedies he was removed to his home in a carriage. He is about today apparently none the worse for the accident. Frank Haulenbeck, a member of the Single men's team, was caught in the lip with a foul tip while he was batting and sustained a deep gash.

POLISH PEOPLE HELD A BIG CELEBRATION

Adopted Citizens of America Enjoyed a Day of Festivities Yesterday.

An American and a Polish flag, donated to the local organization of Polish Falcons by the Polish Alliance of America with headquarters in Pittsburgh, was dedicated yesterday with elaborate ceremonies, which included the blessing of the emblems in St. Mary's church, a parade, and other festivities in Saengerbund Hall.

In St. Mary's church, the flags were borne to the altar by delegates from various Polish societies of New Jersey. They were Ignatz Tremhourizki, Peter Shubert, Joseph Stroke, Walter Labuo, Mrs. Katherine Zislo, Mrs. Vincent Wismieski and Mrs. Carolina Phister, of this city; Mrs. Gregier, of Paterson; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Somlack and John Tggrybatz, of Oak Tree; and Mrs. Joseph Phister and Peter Borwitz, of Jersey City. Father Bogan in a short address told the assemblage that filled the edifice to be good citizens and thoroughly respect the liberty they enjoy in this country. He also wished them success in the proposed establishment of the United States of Poland. The services wer concluded with the congregational singing of American and Polish national hymns.

After leaving the church the societies paraded through the principal streets of this city and North Plainfield led by a band and a large representation of the Polish Nation Guards of America, who acted as an escort to the dedicated flags. Colonel Wysozki, of Passaic, of the Guards, acted as marshal. In the line of march were members of Polish societies of this city, Bound Brook, Somerville, New York, Elizabeth, Newark, Jersey City and Hoboken and also the Lady Falcons of Plainfield.

In Saengerbund Hall at 5:30 o'clock the Polish Nation Guards won the praise of the audience by the execution of a difficult military drill in full uniform and paraphernalia, and the turners of the PoPlish Falcons gave a gymnastic exhibition. Preceding the dance which was held at night, supper was served which was featured by speeches of a patriotic nature by Colonel Wysozki, Frank Somlack and Rev. Mlynarskki, pastor of the Polish church in South River.

Y. W. C. A. ANNUAL PICNIC.

Thirty members of the Y. W. C. A., led by Miss Ethel Wetherell, the physical director, went to the "Havenwood" cottage near Chimney Rock, yesterday, where they spent the day, indulging in a variety of outdoor program of games and tramps. Picture taking was a popular diversion and many photographs of the surrounding country were taken by the girls. This is the annual Memorial Day outdoor meeting and the return trip was made in a hay rack.

FUNERAL OF HARRY GULICK.

The funeral of Harry Gulick was held at St. Mary's R. C. church at 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning, Father B. M. Bogan officiating. Among the mourners was a delegation from the Mason's Union. The burial was in St. Mary's cemetery and the pall-bearers were Martin Kiely, Martine Hibbits, Patrick Corrigan, Samuel Flatley, Edward Johnson and Thomas Coulter.

MEMORIAL DAY'S OBSERVANCE HERE

SWACKHAMER ORATOR

Local Boy Scouts and Company K Join in Parade With Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R.—Fiftieth Anniversary.

In the memory of those who fought in the Civil War for the preservation of the Union, graves were decorated by surviving comrades and the heroic deeds of the dead and living were praised in speech and song in this city yesterday at the annual Memorial Day observance, held under the direction of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R. The tributes at the graves were impressive and the services at Reform Hall in the afternoon were inspiring.

Promptly at 7:30 o'clock in the morning, the G. A. R. members assembled at their headquarters, Reform Hall, and led by the Plainfield band, proceeded by special trolley cars to Scotch Plainfield. At Park and Westfield avenues they were met by the Excelsior volunteer fire department; members of the recently organized troops of Boy Scouts and over one hundred school children dressed in white and carrying American flags. A line of march was formed and all proceeded to the Baptist cemetery, where the soldiers' graves were decorated and services were held under the direction of Dr. J. F. Berg and Simon P. Debele. Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, made a short address. While prayer was offered all knelt beside the flower covered mounds.

Returning to this city a line of march was formed at 10 o'clock at the Post headquarters. The officer of the day, I. L. McVoy, acted as marshal. Let by a detail of patrolmen and the Plainfield band, the war veterans followed next in line. After them came Company K and the Boy Scouts and automobiles and trucks ladened with pots of flowers brought up the rear.

The line of march led from Central avenue and West Second street through to Second street, to Park avenue, to Front street, to Watchung avenue, to Chatham street, to the Presbyterian cemetery, where services were held and graves decorated under the direction of Captain William C. Smith; thence through Chatham street, to Somerset street, to Front street, to Plainfield avenue, to Evergreen cemetery, where similar ceremonies were held under the direction of Chaplain N. C. Pennington and H. B. Green; thence through West Fifth street to Central avenue, to Reform Hall, where the participants disbanded for luncheon.

Other cemeteries visited and graves decorated and those in charge follow: Hillside, I. L. McVoy and Dr. J. F. Berg; St. Mary's, John I. Finley; Friends', Edward A. Vanderweg; Westfield, C. W. Harden, Bryan C. Howell and J. F. Millett; Mt. Horeb, J. Worth Coddington; Coontown, Job Coddington; Springdale, Job Coddington; Spencer's, H. Craig Smith; Samptown, R. B. Manning and William Faulks; New Market, Firman Gise and C. W. Soden.

The program of services in the afternoon at Reform Hall included an able address by former Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer. A large chorus of school children under the direction of the Women's Relief Corps rendered a partiotic vocal program and officers of the Post took part in the special program. Captain William C. Smith was master of ceremonies. He was assisted by Adjutant H. Craig Smith.

After commenting in a general way on the meaning and origin of Decoration Day, Mr. Swackhamer said in part:

"Abraham Lincoln said in a debate with Stephen A. Douglas, 'If slavery is wrong, neither Congress or the people have a right to put a slave where there never was a slave,'—that is, in free territory. The South answered by saying, "Slavery extension or secession.' The South insisted in maintaining the doctrine of State rights, while in the North the National idea prevailed. And at Gettysburg it was written in blood that this country is not a mere confederation of States, but a nation of people.

"Today if a Jerseyman lands in England France or Germany he is recognized not as a citizen of New Jersey, but as a citizen of the United States. The revolutionary fathers framed the constitution after this idea. The republican principle embodied in the American government has arrested the attention of the whole world. France overthrew the Bourbon dynasty and established a republican government; Portugal has dethroned her king and established a republic; China has awoke from her long sleep and four hundred

ANOTHER PLAYER HAS HIS LEG FRACTURED

Nash Removed to Hospital During Leal-P. H. S. Game Yesterday Afternoon.

While running down a foul ball in the Leal School-Plainfield High School Interscholastic baseball game on Parker Field yesterday afternoon, James Nash, the Leal School catcher, collided with Schneider, the third baseman on the same aggregation and was injured so severely that he had to be removed to Muhlenberg Hospital. The two players came together with a terrific impact and Nash got considerably the worst of the deal, Schneider getting off with a severe shaking up. The catcher's leg was broken between the knee and the ankle and he sustained a deep gash in his scalp.

When removed to the hospital Nash was suffering great pain and it was found, upon examination that the tibia bone was fractured. An X-ray examination will be conducted this afternoon to determine to what extent the bone is shattered. In a game played last Saturday afternoon in the Sunday-school League, Danny Randolph, of the First Baptist team, suffered an injury very similar to Nash's.

GREAT AMUSEMENT BILLS BEGIN MONDAY

Proctor & Sanderson, proprietors of Proctor's theatre and the Plainfield theatre, make an important announcement today of a change of policy which will be inaugurated on Monday. Commencing Monday an all-star vaudeville bill of seven acts will be presented at Proctor's theatre. There will be four shows a day, two in the afternoon and two in the evening. The performance will begin at 1:30, the second show at 3 o'clock and in the evening the shows will be given at 7 and 9 o'clock. The prices will remain unchanged. The bills will be changed Mondays and Thursdays.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR SAMUEL W. REESE

Members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., this afternoon attended the funeral services and placed floral tributes on the last resting place of Samuel Widdows Reese, of Westfield, who died late Wednesday afternoon, and was buried today in Fairview cemetery. Several days before his sudden death he was assisting in the Memorial Day plans for yesterday. He was a member of the committee to have charge of the exercises and the decorating of the graves of departed comrades in the Fairview cemetery.

Funeral services held at 2:30 o'clock at his late home, 114 Elmer street, Westfield, were conducted by the Rev. C. J. Greenwood, pastor of the Baptist church in that city, assisted by Rev. Dr. W. I. Steans, of the Presbyterian church.

Mr. Reese went to Westfield to live in 1883, after having resided for many years in New York. At the outbreak of the Civil War he enlisted in the First Pennsylvania Reserve Cavalry. Besides being a member of the Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., he belonged to the Central Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., and several social organizations. In politics Mr. Reese was a staunch Republican. At one time he was a member of the Westfield Board of Education. He was also senior of the metal goods concern of S. W. Reese & Co., of 44 Vesey street, New York. A wife and three sons survive him.

AUTO HIT HYDRANT.

HE DOESN'T WANT ALL OF $10,000

WILL PAY COSTS, TOO

City Father Had Some Harsh Things to Say of Watson's Saloon But After a Long, Long Time He Will Forget it All.

The $10,000 suit for damages instituted by Michael F. Watson, a saloonkeeper, of Grant avenue, against Councilman Patrick J. Reville, has been discontinued with the proviso that the plaintiff pay the costs, which was agreed to by his counsel, former Judge William R. Codington. Former Mayor G. W. V. Moy, who represented Reville, recently gave notice that he would make a motion to have the suit nolle prossed, and today word was received of the discontinuance of the action.

The suit against Mr. Reville was the result of certain statements which he made at a meeting of the Common Council when Mr. Watson's application for a liquor license was up for consideration. Mr. Reville attacked the character of the place conducted by Mr. Watson and especially the kind of liquor sold there. Sensational statements were made by the councilman in his capacity as a city father, he alleging that liquor bought at Watson's place was in some degree responsible for deaths.

Papers in the suit were filed, but the case was adjourned time after time, until finally Mr. Moy decided to end the action through a motion in court that it be nolle prossed.

ASSAILANT ESCAPES; VICTIM GOES TO JAIL

Elizabeth, May 31.—Judge Connolly in the Court of Common Pleas Thursday afternoon suspended sentence on a Plainfield woman charged with attempting to kill her brother, Antonio Princippati, and the latter, who was arrested following the revelation that the woman who posed as his wife was a Mrs. Angelina Muriello, was sent to jail for five months. Mrs. Muriello received a bullet wound in her back when she attempted to shield her supposed husband from the murderous revolver attack of Mrs. Marie Foruri, an act which probably saved his life, on Monday morning, April 14, the same day that Thomas Deers was murdered by an Italian. Mrs. Foruri, although receiving a suspended sentence will have to report weekly to the Probation officer. The arrest of Princippati on the charge was the result of investigations attending the attempted murder case. All concerned live at 431 West Third street, Plainfield.

DODGE GIFT OF STATUE UNVEILED AT PRINCETON

Princeton, May 31.—A granite statue depicting "The Spirit of Youth" was unveiled on the Princeton campus yesterday afternoon commemorating the founding of the Intercollegiate Young Men's Christian Association, from which grew the student volunteer movement and the world's Christian Student Federation. The statue is the gift of Cleveland H. Dodge, '79, and was designed and executed by Daniel Chester French.

The statue is the figure of an athletic student in football clothes, with an academic gown thrown over his left arm and holding two books in his arm, while his face is aglow with the fire of religion. It represents the three sided model student developed mentally, physically and spiritually.

THE LAST OF EDIFICE.

PUBLIC DIET KITCHEN OPENS MONDAY, JUNE 9

Under the auspices of the City Union of the King's Daughters, the diet kitchen will be opened for the summer at the Day Nursery on West Front street, on Monday, June 9. The officers and executive committee of the union, will be in charge. Dr. Norman H. Probasco will assist during June, Dr. Alfred Ellis during July, Dr. C. Howard Pratt during August and Dr. Bernard Levinson during September, while Dr. Sidney R. Titsworth has kindly offered to give his services any time during the summer.

The kitchen will be open from 8:30 to 10:30 a. m., when mothers can get milk and will be shown how to prepare various articles of food for the children. One of the physicians will be at the Nursery on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week from 9 to 11 o'clock in the morning to consult with mothers about their children. The back porch of the Nursery will be used, as well as the back yard, and in this way the union will dispense with the summer camp. Contributions for this work will be appreciated. They can be sent to the Plainfield Press, where they will be promptly acknowledged and the money will be forwarded to the proper person.

STATE MASTER BAKERS' BODY ELECTS OFFICERS

Trenton, May 31.—Williard C. Cutter, of Trenton, was chosen as the new president of the New Jersey State Association of Master Bakers, which held its eighth annual convention here Tuesday at Gaertner's cafe. The other officers elected were: Vice-president, H. Eberwein, Paterson; treasurer, W. Rudolph, Hoboken; secretary, J. Wright, Paterson. Both the vice-president and treasurer were re-elected.

The convention decided upon giving every baker a voice in the State convention. Previous to this time the bakers have had their own local organizations, and would chose their delegates to the convention. This means that the small baker as well as the large baker will have an equal voice in the State conventions.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, MAY 31, 1913.

The editorial columns of this paper are conducted on Saturdays by representative citizens who are free to express their own views. A. B. Wilson, local agent of the New York Telephone Co., is the Contributing Editor for today.

THE TELEPHONE AND THE PUBLIC.

The telephone is intimately concerned with the lives of each and all of us. It is so simple and easy just to lift the receiver and ask for the number we want that we seldom think of how many times a day we perform that operation. Multiply the number of times we ourselves telephone by the number of telephones in our own locality and then add a generous figure to cover the calls sent to or received from outlying towns and cities and we gain some conception of the volume of a day's business and of the problems involved in rendering a service that shall always be accurate, rapid and dependable.

Every call sent means that an employe of the company has spoken directly with some member of the general public. As millions of calls are made every day, even a very small percentage of errors may result in a large amount of unfavorable criticism. Thus it will be seen how much the forbearance and courtesy of telephone users is appreciated. What is more, this same courtesy tends to reduce the errors themselves.

There are also many thousands of accounts with many kinds of subscribers to be handled and in this, as well as in the matter of telephone calls. patience and fairness in the attitude of the general public is of very material assistance.

Work is constantly going on to maintain, to improve or extend the network of cables, poles, wires, exchanges and switchboards which go to make up a telephone system. Fire, flood and accident conditions must be met and overcome with as little loss of time as possible, to reduce to a minimum the period of interruption of service. Appreciation on the part of the public of the many difficulties encountered by reason of such uncontrollable causes would go far to silence unfavorable criticism. New subscribers must be sought, directories must be compiled and issued, new operators must be constantly trained; in short, the many problems of a growing public utility must be faced and solved. Yet dependable service must be constantly rendered.

Every department must do its work accurately and quickly and in co-operation with other departments, else mistakes and confusion resulting ultimately in poorer service are the consequence. Just as each department is taught to work in harmony with every other, so the whole telephone company is constantly seeking to merit the hearty sympathy and co-operation of the public that it may continue to render service that shall always be accurate, quick and dependable.

Fully two-thirds of the responsibility for the rendering of the best telephone service rests with the public itself. The telephone company merely holds its plant and operators in readiness for the use of all comers, rich or poor, literate or illiterate. With the lifting of the receiver till it is replaced on the hook the calling party and the called are masters of the situation. If they are talking over a party line it is theirs exclusively unless some other party on the line interrupts. If the calling party gives a wrong number he has no one to blame but himself—unless the directory is in error, which is seldom the case. And it would certainly seem courteous for him to apologize to the person called to the telephone by his mistake. If the person called fails to answer promptly, an apology would seem to be due from him rather than from the operator who has been ringing his bell. Thus it is seen that with at least three persons involved in every call two are of the public. The chances of error are two to one in favor of the telephone company. But why speak of errors and criticism when the situation so evidently calls for the mutual forbearance, co-operation and courtesy of those most concerned—the telephone company and the telephone-using public? The efforts of both should be directed to meeting the actual conditions under which service must be rendered in an intelligent, practical way.

MANASQUAN FLORIST MAKES GOOD ON SUICIDE THREAT

Manasquan, May 31.—Rufus Abbott, fifty years old, a florist of this place, made good his repeated threats that he would kill himself. His body, still warm, was found suspended by a rope attached to the rafters in the attic of his Broad street home.

Dr. A. C. Morris, who was summoned, said life was extinct, and Coroner Albert Bennett, of Belmar, pronounced it suicide. He deemed an inquest unnecessary.

Although not in any financial difficulties, Mr. Abbott, according to his wife, declared he would end his life if business did not pick up. It was during the absence of Mrs. Abbott that the florist, procuring a rope from the cellar, ascended to the attic, tied the rope around his neck and kicked over a box on which he stood.

Abbott had lived in this town for the last ten years. His hothouses and plants take up almost three acres.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)
Tokio, May 31.—It was said here today that another note from Japanese Government dealing with the question of Californian land ownership legislation is to be forwarded to Washington.

ELECTRICIANS WANT INCREASE IN WAGES

And Chances Are They Will Get Fifty Cents More a Day.

The journeymen electricians of the city have made a demand on the bosses for an increase in wages from $4 to $4.50 a day, effective June 1, and unless it is granted it is said they threaten to quit work. There are six contractors in the city affected by the demand. It is also reported that $12 a week is demanded for the apprentices. It was stated this afternoon that the contractors were likely to grant the demands, inasmuch as one concern had agreed to the increase and the others would be obliged to follow suit.

The demand for increased wages comes at a time when the contractors are all busy and with so much work on hand they cannot afford to have their men strike, hence the possibility of conceding to the demands of the men. Sometime ago there was talk that the journeymen intended asking for more money, but it was only recently that the matter was definitely determined upon.

THEY HOLD UP BOX OF WOMAN'S ASHES

Sent via Plainfield, Box Containing Them in Possession of French Authorities.

A story published in the New York Herald of Thursday under a Cherbourg, France, date line, discloses a story of some local interest. According to a cablegram a box of human ashes sent from St. Louis to France by the way of Plainfield, was being held up at Cherbourg for examination.

An investigation showed that Miss Adele Rossell, a French woman employed by a Plainfield family, had received the box of human ashes, those of her aunt, who died in St. Louis about June 9, and she forwarded the box by parcel post to France. The ashes were placed in a handsome cherry-stained box about ten inches square. The package was addressed to a certain party at Doubs Estate, Audincourt, France.

Miss Rossel before sending the box from here was obliged to make a declaration as to the contents, and it was then sent sealed against examination. Why the authorities held it up in France cannot be learned. Miss Rossel is out of the city at present.

RECOMMEND CANDIDATES FOR THEIR MAYORALTY

Bound Brook, May 31.—George W. Harris and M. F. Wirty were recommended for the mayoralty nominations in the new borough of Middlesex, at a meeting of about one hundred citizens, in Sisty's Auditorium Thursday night. George W. Harris, of Lincoln, was chairman of the meeting, and R. C. Sours, of Beechwood Heights, secretary.

The following were recommended for the councilmanic nominations, of which there are six to be elected: Ludwig Wild, Nelson M. Giles, Louis Paulson, John J. Campbell, M. A. Ryan, Walter Sisty, George R. C. Sours, William G. Batch and W. C. King. William D. Voorhees has been suggested for the nomination for assessor and Jesse Leone, James Linsey, Fred Knutter and Jacob J. Goble for constables.

MEMORIAL DAY AT WATCHUNG'S CHAPEL

Memorial Day exercises were held at the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel last night, the affair being largely attended. A delegation of about twenty-five members from Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., was present by special invitation and they enjoyed the program. Rev. Frank Fletcher made the address of the evening in place of Rev. Charles A. Eaton, who was called away. The chapel was elaborately decorated with flags and bunting.

The program opened with a flag raising by Captain W. D. Parlin, of Watchung, and the other numbers were as follows:

Tableau, "Tenting Tonight;" recitation, Miss Try Mattox;; tableau, "Just Before the Battle Mother;" song, "Marching Through Georgia;" recitation, "The Whistling Regiment," Miss Tessie E. Schmidt; address, Rev. Frank Fletcher; recitation, Miss Try Mattox; tableau, "The Home and the Field;" recitation, "The Counter-Sign in America," Francis Bodin; recitation, Miss Try Mattox; tableau, "Unknown," Miss Winifred Eaton; song, "America."

PRESIDENT WILSON AGREES WITH SENATOR TILLMAN

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)
Washington, May 31.—Senator Tillman today made public a letter he received from President Wilson, dated 27, relative to currency legislation reading as follows:

"I am warmly obliged to you for your letter of the twenty-fourth and want to say that I heartily agree with the conclusions it contains and in which Congressman Johnson joins. This is the time to pass currency legislation and I think we are in a sense bound in loyalty to the country to pass it so that any attempt to create artificial disturbances after the tariff shall have become a law may be offset by a free system of credit which will make it possible for men big and little to take care of themselves in business. I am sincerely obliged to you for your kindness in writing me."

The letter from Congressman Johnson to Senator Tillman referred to in the communication from the President said that currency legislation should be coupled with tariff revision. Commenting on the correspondence, Senator Tillman said:

"In my judgment it is of vital importance to the future success of the Democratic party that we should have currency legislation as soon as possible."

FUNERAL SERVICES OF WILLIAM BROWN HELD

The funeral service of William Brown was held yesterday afternoon at his late home, 514 Watchung avenue. There was a large attendance of friends and neighbors. Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, officiated, assisted by Rev. Alfred Nicholson, of New York, of which church Mr. Brown was a member when he first came to this country. During the service, Miss Grace Carroll, of the Crescent Avenue church quartet, sang, "Lead Kindly Light." The burial was in Hillside cemetery.

FOURTH ANNIVERSARY OF BAPTIST PASTOR

On the occasion of his fourth anniversary as pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, Rev. G. A. Maguire and his wife were tendered a reception Thursday night by members of the congregation. George E. Place acted as master of ceremonies and after a program of instrumental selections by the High School orchestra under the direction of Mrs. Evans, piano solos by Walter J. Place and vocal solos by Miss Edith Bechtel had been rendered, he called upon the pastor for an address. Rev. Mr. Maguire reviewed his work since coming to Plainfield and urged those present to assist him in the work of upbuilding the various departments of the church.

The affair was given under the supervision of the social committee, comprising Mrs. Charles Hellyer, Mrs. Howard Mason, the Misses Ella Curtis, Marjorie Phillips, Mabel Stutsman, Ada Cuming, Florence Hawkins and Grace Chamberlin, W. S. Lowe, James Mauger, Charles Hellyer and Howard Mason.

These served refreshments: Misses Gertrude Groff, Ruth Maguire, Helen Cuming, Edna Groff, Edith Bush, Leo Bush, Mabel Stutsman, Carrie Kling and Marie Kling; Harry Thompson, Irving Pratt, Joel Ollear, George Place, Phillip Schuyler and Herman Kling.

COREY NOT ALARMIST.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)
New York, May 31.—William Ellis Corey, former president of the U. S. Steel Corporation ,returned yesterday on the French liner France, after an absence of two months. He says trade generally in Europe was at par but not above it. He expresses his approval of the Underwood tariff bill and does not believe that it will affect business unfavorably in this country except in isolated cases.

Planning Warm Weather Menus.

The problem of planning the menus is simpler in summer than it is in winter because of the wider choice of fruit and vegetables which is possible at that time; but on the other hand, it is difficult to plan a summer diet which contains sufficient nourishment and is at the same time not too heating or too heavy.

It should be remembered that a greater amount of starch and fats are necessary to maintain a well-balanced diet in the winter than in the summer. On the other hand, a diet composed exclusively of fresh fruit and green vegetables is not nourishing enough to satisfy the demands which work and exercise make on the mind and body.

Meat once a day, even if it is ordinarily eaten more frequently, is often enough in warm weather. Eggs and cereals can take its place at breakfast and vegetable soups and salads can serve for the main dish at luncheon. Milk, too, is a good warm-weather substitute for meat, providing it [illegible] and fresh.

For [illegible] when it can be had fresh, can often be substituted for meat. Made dishes of tinned fish, too, are tempting and nourishing; scalloped salmon, creamed shrimps, jellied fish and fish loaf are all good summer dishes.

Vegetables.

A good rule to guide the housekeeper in the choice of vegetables is to use those that are in season. There is little need to caustion the economical housewife to do this, for the vegetables in season are always those that are cheapest and freshest and most economical. Vegetables should be eaten in abundance when they are cheap and fresh. Vegetable soup, two cooked vegetables and salad of lettuce combined with tomatoes, peppers, cold cooked vegetables or fruit can all be served for dinner in warm weather.

Fruits For Dessert.

Heavy puddings and pies are out of place in the warm-weather menu and so are rich cakes and pastries. In their stead plenty of fruit should be served; and when fruit is not available custards, creams, gelantine desserts or a frozen dessert of some kind can be substituted.

Just because you want to serve fruits as often as possible is no reason why you should serve them monotonously. Any fruit can be made into an ice, sherbet or ice cream. It can be served chilled through with a syrup of sugar and water which was poured over it when it was hot; it can be served as a light and delicate puddings, or as the filling to a light, flaky pastry crust. Occasionally, of course, it can be served plain, for nothing is more delicious than fresh berries with cream, or sliced peaches when they are juicy, luscious and of good flavor. Sponge cake, white loaf cake simply iced or macaroons can all be eaten with raw fruit for summer desserts.

Stewed Tomatoes. Lettuce Salad.
Apple Pie.
Coffee.

SOME TIMELY SOUPS.

EXCELLENT soups are possible with spring vegetables of all kinds coming into the markets. Onions, beets, watercress, celery, new potatoes, asparagus, spring peas, etc., all make acceptable soups.

With Spring Onions.

Cream of Onion Soup.—Take half a dozen new onions, chop and cook in two tablespoonfuls of butter for eight minutes, add three cupfuls of cold water, cook thirty minutes and rub through a sieve. Melt the heaping tablespoonful of butter, add four tablespoonfuls of flour, two cupfuls of scalded milk, seasoning of salt and red pepper. Cook five minutes. Combine mixtures, add yolks of two eggs slightly beaten and two tablespoonfuls grated cheese.

New Potato Soup.—Pare and slice six large potatoes and three small turnips. Put them in five pints of water, boil five or six hours until perfectly dissolved and of the consistency of pea soup. If the water boils away too fast add a little boiling liquid. When thick enough add butter, pepper and salt. A small piece of salt pork or lamb or veal and a small onion may be added to vary the soup if desired.

Enriched With Eggs.

Royal Soup.—Take one quart of milk, two small white onions, two eggs, two tablespoonfuls of butter, two of flour, two of grated cheese and salt and pepper to taste. Put the milk on to heat. Fry the onions in the butter, but do not brown; then stir in the flour and cook two minutes longer. Add the milk and cook ten minutes, stirring until it thickens and is smooth. Stir in the seasoning and cheese, and when ready to take up add the eggs, beaten with a few spoonfuls of the soup. Do not let the soup boil after the cheese and eggs are added.

Soup With Dumplings.

Dutch Bean Soup.—Take one cupful of dried beans, soak in lukewarm water overnight, put them over the fire the next morning in one and a half quarts of cold water, one and a quarter pounds of lean salt pork cut in small pieces. Boil slowly for four to five hours or until the beans are very soft. Add to this one cupful of cold milk. Thicken with egg dumplings made with one egg well beaten, four tablespoonfuls of flour, a little salt and enough milk to make a thick batter. Drop into the soup in very small spoonfuls and serve as soon as done.

People Came to See the Rock.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Rock Gave Credit Where It Was Due.

THE story hour was at hand, and Jack and Evelyn with it.

"A story for two," laughed daddy as he saw them coming. "Very well. Now, sit down and listen while I tell you about the big gray rock that stood in the field bare and ugly and alone.

"Every one who passed said, 'Oh, dear, how that ugly rock spoils the looks of the nice field!'

"The rock would have liked to be handsome and admired like the flowers and the grasses and the trees, but he was just a plain gray rock, and he could not help it.

"'If only nice plants grew over my big bare sides I would not seem so homely,' the rock told the brook. But there was no earth on the rock in which the plants could take root.

"One day the brook as it came babbling by said: 'Friend, far up the stream there is a wonderful little plant that grows on rocks such as you. Some day I am going to try to bring some down here to you. Perhaps then it may take a fancy to grow on your sides and you will look very different.

"And one day the brook pushed and floated a piece of stone down the stream and lodged it just beside the big gray rock.

"'There,' said the brook; 'just look at that piece of stone! It broke off and fell into the water yesterday, so I've just floated it down to you.' The big rock of which it was a part is covered with that green stuff. They call it moss.'

"The big gray rock was greatly pleased. The brook swept the stone as close to it as possible, and the rock said to the green moss:

"'Please come up here and grow on me.'

"Soon a faint green began to color the gray sides of the stone, and persons who had said, 'What an ugly old rock that is!' turned to notice it.

"Day by day the green became deeper until in time the rock was covered with a thick velvety coating of moss.

"Then in the soft moss the seeds of little wild flowers carried there by the wind, by insects or birds took root, and lovely flowers grew out of the crannies. The friendly little brook trickled around it, and soon handsome ferns sprang up about the rock.

"People now began to come from far and near to see it. 'What a beautiful old rock it is!' they would exclaim.

"But the old gray rock—he was a very honest rock—said: 'No, indeed; I am just as I was. If there is anything to admire it is the moss and flowers and the ferns, my kind friends, who have so kindly hidden the ugliness of a plain old rock from sight.'"

SUNDAY BASEBALL AT THE 'PLAINS

Maujer X Nine of Jersey City Will Oppose Alberts' Crew Tomorrow.

Baseball fans who make the weekly trip to Scotch Plains tomorrow afternoon will be treated to another gilt-edged program of the diamond stuff, if Manager Joe Alberts plans materialize and they generally do. As opponents for the 'Plains team he has booked the speedy Maujer X nine, of Jersey City, and a stellar attraction is promised. The visiting aggregation is one of the most formidable in the Metropolitan district and has been lining up against such teams as the Lincoln Colored Giants, the Bayonne Sunday club and other teams of like strength in and about Greater New York.

Alberts will send his regular team of hustlers on the field with Frederickson on the firing line and as this band has been sufficient to cope with all of the teams it has met to date, the same representation will no doubt give the Maujer bunch a battle royal. Sevral Metropolitan stars appear in the Maujer lineup and the work of these individuals will probably be a whole show in itself.

QUALIFYING ROUND FOR CHAMPIONSHIP CUP

The ideal weather conditions attracted a large number of golf enthusiasts to the Park Golf Club yesterday, and as a rule excellent scores were returned in the various events. There was the qualifying round for the Spring Championship cup, and play for the President's Holiday and Oakmont cups. The first eight players returning the lowest gross scores qualified for the championship play, and the following scores all counted for the three cups, with the exception of the Oakmont.

Some of the contestants played both morning and afternoon, and allowed their best score in the two rounds to stand in the various competitions. The scores:

C. B. Morse, 95,15-80; U. G. Tingley, 98, 17-81; Peter C. Sweeney, 88, 6-82; Samuel Townsend, 104, 21-83; W. P. Taylor, 83, plus 3-86; William Nischwitz, 118, 30-88; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 98, 9-89; A. C. VanAisdale, 10, 30-90; Nelson A. Miller, 112, 21-91; W. V. Byard, 108, 15-93, Oliver B. Hill, 124, 28-96; J. L. Watson, 122, 23-99; R. V. Carpenter, 107, 89-9; Harry DeMeza, 132, 30-102

There was also an approaching and putting competition in the afternoon. Miss May Shreve and W. V. Byard tied with Miss Alice Barlow and R. V. Carpenter for first place with a score of 9 and in the playoff Miss Shreve and Mr. Byard won by a score of 11 to 13.

In the play for the Oakmont cup, U. G. Tingley beat C. B. Morse, Samuel Townsend beat N. A. Miller, J. L. Watson beat J. B. Betts, Peter C. Sweeney beat R. V. Carpenter W. P. Taylor beat O. B. Hill, Dr. H. K. Carroll beat W. V. Byard.

Throughout the day the members and their friends enjoyed the social features at the clubhouse and in the afternoon tea was served, some of the women members pouring and assisting in this social function.

SHAMROCKS TRIMMED ONCE MORE--A. BAUM UMPIRED

The Somerville Y. M. H. A. baseball team defeated the Shamrock A. C., of this city, at Riverside Park yesterday afternoon by a score of 6 to 4, the same tally card turned in at the previous meeting of this pair of junior diamond performers. The lossers appeared strong in the first three inings but slowed up as the game progressed while the Y. M. H. A. got better as the game grew older.

Three double plays were credited to the winning nine during the fray and every member on the team got in some timely hitting.

The lineups: Y. M. H. A.—H. Schrager, c.; Moskowitz, 2b.; H. Rosenson, ss.-cf.; Rose, 1b.; Baron, p.; Sterrer, lf.; Cantor, cf.-c.; Johnson, 3b.; Popkins, rf.; Baum af. Shamrock A. C.—Pollock, c.; Hamilton, ss.; Miller, 1b.; Day, c.; Young, p.; Todd, 2b.; Kane, 3b.; Taynor, lf.; Miller, rf.

Summary—Two base hits, Rosenson and Rose; errors, Day, Hamilton, Miller, Pollock, Rosenson and Johnson; struck out, by Young 12, by Baron 2; bases on balls, off Young 2, off Baron 2; umpire, A. Baum.

FRITZ IN BIG MEET.

Jack Fritts, the local long distance runner, came in fourth in the mile run held in connection with the Irish-American Club's annual athletic meet run off at Celtic Park, yesterday afternoon, out of a field of forty starters. The affair was a handicap event, and Fritz came within an ace of winning third place, for which he would have received a bronze medal, but Oswald Gibbons, the little New York A. C. flyer, who was seen in this city at the annual Y. M. C. A. meet last Fourth of July, nosed him out by a margin of inches.

ALUMNI DEFEATED N. P. H. S. PLAYERS

Tight Playing the Rule—Final Score 6 to 2—Conover Pitches Well.

One of the best, if not the best, ball game that was played in this city yesterday afternoon, took place on Hyde Oval between the teams of the North Plainfield High School undergraduates and the Alumni nine, the final score turning out to be 6 to 2 in favor of the former schoolboys. A close and interesting struggle evidenced itself the whole nine innings, George Conover, the Alumni pitcher, holding the younger performers to two hits, while Stahl allowed but seven.

Both teams fielded well and brilliant performances were noticeable on the part of Bill Dunning and Bailey, especially along the hitting line.

SOMERSET COUNTY MEET.

The North Plainfield High School baseball team and the girls' basketball team went to Somerville this afternoon to play exhibition games at the Somerset County Public School exhibit. All the schools of the county will be represented in both athletic events and a show of work that has been accomplished throughout the past year. The borough girls will play either the Somerville or the Bound Brook team while the baseball nine will meet the Somerville team in the second game for the championship of Somerset county. The local school has no entrants in the athletic events but have spent all their time in preparing to annex the baseball title. The exhibition is under the direction of County Superintendent H. C. Krebs.

SOMERVILLE VS. BRUNSWICK.

Dave Driscoll will bring a delegation of baseball stars to Amusement Park, New Brunswick, tomorrow afternoon, to lineup against the Somerville team, which will be greatly padded for this contest. Somerville has been after this game for some time past and several special trolleys will be chartered to convey the rooters to the New Brunswick park.

QUARTET TO SING ORATORIO.

The quartet choir of the First Methodist church will sing the oratorio, "The Conversion of St. Paul," at the last musical service of the season to be held in the church tomorrow evening. This new oratorio has to do with the remarkable conversation of St. Paul, the text is taken from Holy Writ and beautifully adapted to the music by Harry Alexander Matthews, and is both devotional and inspiring in character. The quartet is to have as an assisting soloist Clarence Larsen, of Brooklyn, violinist. Mr. Larsen is one of the exceptional pupils of Maurice Kaufman, whose artistic playing has been such a delightful feature of the McIntyre concerts. The quartet comprises Miss Gabrielle Drosse, soprano; Miss Alice C. Berning, contralto; Aleck Mac Gowan, tenor; Edgar A. Cole, baritone. Clifford A. Braider, organist and musical director.

JUNIOR MEMORIAL DAY.

Jr. O. U. A. M. Memorial Day will be observed here tomorrow by members of the order, the service being in remembrance of deceased members of the order. The councils will meet at 116 East Front street at 2:15 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, from which place they will march to Evergreen cemetery on Plainfield avenue, where the service will be held.

The Proof Is Here the Same As Everywhere.

For those who seek relief from kidney backache, weak kidneys, bladder ills, Doan's Kidney Pills offer hope of relief and the proof is here, in Plainfield the same as everywhere. Plainfield people have used Doan's and Plainfield people recommend Doan's, the kidney remedy used in America for fifty years. Why suffer? Why run the risk of dangerous kidney ills—fatal Bright's disease. Here's Plainfield proof. Investigate it.

Mrs. Patience Manchester, 120 Lafayette place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I willingly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills again. I still use this remedy occasionaly and it always relieves me of serious kidney troubles. For a long time I doctored and tried various remedies for my kidneys and bladder, but did not get a cure. Doan's Kidney Pills brought me good results from the first and before long rid me of the trouble."

DELIGHTFUL RECITAL AT ST. JOSEPH'S ACADEMY

The pupils of St. Joseph's Academy gave a delightful piano recital yesterday afternoon in the old St. Joseph's church edifice, which was attended by many parents as well as friends of the talented performers. The rendition of the piano compositions was interspersed by a musical flag drill and a playlet entitled, "Our Baby."

Among those who took part were the Misses M. Hand, L. Pettengill, H. Spencer, M. McCormack, N. McDonough, F. Hall, M. Smith, P. Daley, H. Spencer, M. Walsh, J. uinn, M. Raleighfl P. Hogan, A. Doty, E. Smith, M. Barry, J. Cunniff and C. Dentz, A. McDonough, N. McDonough, F. Smith, J. Reilly and V. McDonough.

NEW BOY SCOUT PATROL ORGANIZED YESTERDAY

The recently organized Eagle Patrol, No. 9, Boy Scouts of America took their initial tramp through the woods yesterday in charge of Scout Master Charles R. Bostwick, starting from Vincent chapel early in the morning and hiking to the mountains where they built a camp fire. Scout games were played during the afternoon and five scouts took the oath making them full-fledged members of the troop.

The patrol is made up of Clifton Wiggins, Harold Hartpence, Harold Hall, E. Larson, A. Larson, Allen Campbell, Kenneth Bennett, Carrol Dunavan and Joseph Sutton, secreary. A meeting of the organization vill be held in Vincent Hall next Saturday evening at 7 o'clock.

ANOTHER EMPLOYE OF RECREATION COMMITTEE

The dance and entertainment given at the Washington School, last night, for colored people, was quite largely attended and the entertainment was much enjoyed. Miss Lois Nutting, the new supervisor of social work here, was present and familiarized herself with local conditions. F. E. Watson has been engaged by the Recreation Committee to furnish music for dancing every Friday night.

Among the visitors last night were Rev. F. L. Greene, Mrs. Russell Dorr, Mr. and Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, the last two named representing the Board of Education, while Mrs. J. F. Lawson and Mrs. W. J. Douglass represented the committee in charge.

CHANGES AT WALDORF.

Henry Windham, proprietor of the Hotel Waldorf, on East Front street, has awarded the contract to Charles Drake to make extensive improvements at his hotel, whereby he will have an upstairs dining-room about the size of the one on the first floor. This will necessitate changing the stairway leading to the new dining-room. When the improvements are completed Mr. Windham will have ample accommodations for his patrons.

PUBLIC HEALTH TALK.

Through the efforts of Andrew E. Kenney, president of the North Plainfield Board of Health, D. C. Bowen, a member of the State Board of Health, will speak Monday night at a public meeting to be held in the Borough Council chambers. His subject will be "Local Health Administration."

INJURED BY A PITCHFORK.

Joseph Fusco, aged 10 years, of Clinton avenue, was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday, suffering from an injury to his knee, the result of falling on a pitchfork. The lad was playing about the yard when he accidentaly stumbled on the fork.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

Children's Day will be observed at All Soul's church tomorrow morning when a program of songs and recitations will be given by the children and Rev. A. E. Wilson, the pastor, will preach a sermon on the theme "Good Foundations to the Children."

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

Y. M. A. A. GAINS INITIAL VICTORY

Volley of Bingles Sews up an Easy One for the Y. M. A. A. Ball Tossers.

A ball team played another ball team on the new Centre street diamond yesterday morning, and this time it was the Y. M. A. A. aggregation that came out on top over the Mt. Pleasant nine by the one-sided score of 21 to 7. A volley of seventeen hits coming at the right time sewed up the contests for the local boys in the first few innings and from then on they had nothing to do but to get in a little practice on the side for the stiff afternoon game played at Mt. Pleasant.

Besides hitting the pellet like demons, the Y. M. A. A. combination did something it has not done before this season, the feat of going through an entire contest without making a single slip.

The score:

MT. PLEASANT.

TRINITY BEATEN BY FIRST PRESBYTERIANS

Padded Winners Wallop the Ball and Field Well—Old Timers Perform.

Playing with a padded lineup on the old historic Hope Common baseball battle ground, the First Presbyterian aggregation celebrated Memorial Day by taking a 10 to 2 walloping at the expense of the Trinity church ball tossers. Both teams consisted of lineups that savored of the "has been" variety, but despite the rusty condition of some of the returned "stars," the game turned out to be a good one and the crowd of spectators were amply repaid for their trip to the Common. Ragged fielding put a crimp in the showing of the Trinity aggregation, the various players totaling up seven errors behind their moundsmen, against Murphy's solitary slip on the opposite side. Trinity was a little behind in the hitting as well, getting but half the number of hits that the Presbyterians were able to garner throughout the nine stanzas of play.

Chauncey Colthar returned to the diamond long enough to twirl three innings for the Trinity boys and played the other two-thirds of the game at short, and during his regime on the mound the Trinityites played in whirlwind fashion. In the initial frame three of the opposition were mowed down via the three-strike route and during the trio of rounds he adorned the mound the veteran Colthar whiffed an even quintet of prospective sluggers. Dilts, who relieved him in the fourth session, continued the good work and a majority of the Presbyterian counters were the direct result of inexcusable fielding misplays which accounted for tally after tally. Franklin Newell occupied the winner's tabernacle of pitching fame and held the losers to four bingles and fanned thirteen. Britt Martin, who played second base for the winners, thus adding another era to his already large edition of variety performances, pulled a wonderful catch when Newell pitched wild to the keystone sack trying to catch a runner napping. This fielding feat was one of the brightest spots in the show.

QUERIES, COMMENT AND ANSWERS

Sporting Editor:

Query—Where can I obtain a prepared booklet of the hotels, together with rates and other information? G. I. L.

Answer—The Central Railroad of New Jersey has prepared such a pamphlet.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What is the present high run mark in billiards? L. S.

Answer—It is now 150 points for a single run. This mark was established last Tuesday night by Willie Hoppe in his match with the Japanese Yamada.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Kindly tell me the name of the winning junior relay team at the Princeton Club's meet held in Newark last Saturday? A. D.

Answer—The quartet from Bayonne High School finished first in that event.

Sporting Editor:

Query—When a man runs for the pitcher who gets the stolen base, if one is made? F. D.

Answer the man running is credited with all he makes.

Sporting Editor:

Query—When a man is injured in a baseball game and rests up for an inning can he return to the game? F. G. T.

Answer—It makes no difference for what reason he is removed, when a player is once taken from the lineup he cannot return.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Who holds the one mile bicycle record? J. H.

Answer—Hehir holds the mile record (unpaced) of 1 minute, 4 and 3-5 seconds, established in Salt Lake City, September 8, 1912.

Y. M. A. A. Lost at Bound Brook Yesterday Afternoon 25 to 10.

Manager Conger and his Y. M. A. A. baseball team were trimmed to the tune of 25 to 10 at Bound Brook yesterday afternoon, playing the St. Joseph's baseball team of that place. A profusion of hits, twenty-three from the bats of the winners, and sixteen pounded out by the losers featured the contest, which was an erratic one from every point of view.

Both pitchers were hit to the four quarters of the lot and had little influence over the opposing batters.

Borough Fire Laddies Battled on Hyde Oval Yesterday Morning.

A weird game of "baseball" featured by the return to the diamond of many old timers, was played between the married and single forces of the North Plainfield fire department on Hyde Oval, yesterday morning, the former winning out by a score of 23 to 9.

Both pitchers were hit hard and often, while many of the batters on the other hand proved to be easy strike-out victims for the moundsmen.

MORRIS CANCELLED GAME.

Owing to a cancellation received from the Morris High School baseball team, Plainfield High School players were idle yesterday morning, the game being originally scheduled to take place on Parker Field. The game was declared off Thursday night and Manager Sattels could not book a game at that time.

PLAINFIELD BEATEN BY SOMERVILLIANS

Tight Playing Features the Contest in Connection With Central League Race.

Plainfield was treated to another drubbing in connection with the Central New Jersey League race at Somerville yesterday afternoon when the wiley Jack Torpey and his tribe administered a 4 to 1 trimming to the local boys. Inability to connect with Kraft's benders proved to be the undoing of the Queen City delegation for the best they could do was to annex an even quartet of hits, all of which were scattered throughout as many innings. Randolph and Stewart yielded but seven of the safe variety but the clouts came at opportune moments and could be counted upon to bring across tallies when they were needed. Somerville registered a double in the second and another brace in the fifth while Plainfield was held scoreless until the eighth.

Both teams fielded fairly well, Plainfield making four errors against the other side's ore.

LEALS PLAYED ALL AROUND H. S. NINE

Nash is Hurt and Game Was Stopped at That Juncture —Final Score 3 to 3.

Doing the inevitable by holding the Plainfield High School ball players to a 3 to 3 tie in seven innings, was costly to the Leal School nine on Parker Field yesterday afternoon, for during the contest, Jim Nash, their most valuable player, was hurt so as to keep him out of the game for the remainder of the season. He is at present in the hospital suffering from a deep cut in the head and a fractured shin bone.

Although Matty Coughlin held the private school lads hitless until the stretch inning when the contest was quickly curtailed, Leal's managed to get just as many runs as the opposition and had the satisfaction of seeing a tie pulled off. P. H. S. played erratically in the field, the private school youngsters fielding all around them, and had they been playing the Morris High School contingent, as was originally scheduled, it is probable that the issue would have resulted in a one-sided drubbing in which the P. H. S. team would be the victim.

"HOME RUN" WOLF THE REAL ARTICLE

Pounds the Ball Hard and Wins for the Dunellen Team Over High Bridge.

Dunellen got away to an early start yesterday afternoon at High Bridge in a game with the Highlanders and compelled the lads from up country to accept the stingy end of a 14 to 5 score. Warry, the crafty old war horse, held the home team in the hollow of his hand and only fed them a hit here and there out of pure kind heartedness. As the game grew older the Dunellen pill dispenser became more and more evasive while the hitsmiths from the railroad town fell upon the twisters of Frederickson at will.

There was nothing to it. When Dunellen wanted to score they simply got a man or two on bases, as the result of a base hit or a gift from the Highlanders and then waited patiently for "Home run" Wolf to come to the bat. He would then proceed to clean the bags, and twice he drove to the limit. Then just to show that he could he clouted one out for two bags. It was some bombardment.

Dunellen gathered seventeen healthy swats from the delivery of "Freddy," every member of the team fattening up to the extent of at least one hit, while six of them got two or more. It was a great day for the railroaders and sent them into second place in the league race, as Somerville took the measure of the Plainfield team in their wrangle.

The boys from the hill country were rather wild in their support of Frederickson and contributed to size of the score to the extent of six glaring errors. J. Alberts was responsible for three of them. Dunellen went through the entire game without a slip-up and helped "Warry" out of many a tight hole in the early part of the game. There is no doubt about yesterday being Dunellen's day.

Somerville is the attraction at Dunellen this afternoon when the rooters from the county seat are being met with a brass band and all the accesories that go with a large-sized opening day.

PLAINFIELD RIDERS MADE GOOD SHOWING IN GREAT TWENTY-FIVE MILE ROAD RACE

Pedal pushers of every nationality and representing every cycling club of importance in a country lined up for the starter's pistol on Mountain avenue, yesterday morning, to contest the fifth annual twenty-five-mile road race of the Plainfield Cycling Club, held under the direction of the veteran local promoter, Jack Horner. A field of racers that passed the half century mark were sent under way at different intervals and some sensational sprinting featured the affair during the whole two laps, the course lying between Watchung avenue and Mountain avenue and Mountainside.

Prizes ranging in value from a Pierce racer to motorcycle grips and other accessories of the wheelmen were offered for competition and the rivalry produced was of the keenest sort. The larger clubs of the State and New York were represented by their speediest men who evidently came here to sew up the event for the organization whose colors they sported, but the distribution of prizes was well divided up by the time the first thirty men crossed the tape. Everyone of these first thirty finishers came in for a prize and some got two and three. Four Plainfield wheelmen took the stand for the local club, and the fact that this quartet all finished better than ninth was a triumph in itself for the local enthusiasts.

Natt Gattoff, the speedy racer of the Atlas B. C., was the first man to show up at the finish mark and his handicap of four minutes allowed him to turn in a mark of 1.05.20, or a little less than two minutes better than that of E. Ford, of the Empire City Wheelmen, who did the distance in 1.07.20½, with a six minute handicap. Besides winning the Pierce racer, Gattoff also won the Person's racing saddle, which was offered for the first man to cross the tape. Eddie Simon was the first Plainfield man to put in appearance at the finish and he was leading his brother, George, by nearly a minute. The Simon brothers finished third and four with a handicap of five and six minutes respectively.

A third edition of the Simon family, Willie, the youngest, broke into seventh place, followed by Robert Gullberg, also of this city, nearly a minute later. Simon had an allowance of six minutes as did also Gullberg, three men being sent off at this mark who finished in a bunch.

A spill within 200 feet of the finish marred the chance of Frank Becht, of Brooklyn, to land a victory. Gattoff and Becht were sprinting down the narrow lane of spectators side by side when Gattoff switched in front of Becht. This act caused the latter to lose his head and deliberately fouled Gattoff by grabbing the rider by the shoulders. Becht fell off his wheel with the result that Gattoff crossed the tape a winner with comparative ease.

Becht, when thrown to the ground, quickly recovered himself and ran with his wheel to the tape and was the ninth man to finish. A long-winded wrangle ensued between Gattoff and Becht at the finishing point and resulted in Referee Adee and the judges taking up the counter charges of fouling tactics which were made by both riders. After deliberating for an hour or more at the Somerset Hotel, in which the testimony of the riders were heard, it was unanimously decided that Becht was guilty of foul riding and he was disqualified.

When the foul occurred Becht was forging ahead of Gattoff, who appeared to be "all in," and had not the spill taken place he would have undoubtedly been declared the winner. Although disqualified the judges decided to award Becht for his splendid riding by awarding him a prize, a pair of Goodrich tires, or equivalent to the value of the prize offered for ninth position.

Three limit men, John Becht, of the Empire City Wheelmen; J. Schuster, of the same club, and Gus Wolhrob, the well known Century R. C. A. rider, started off together and this trio produced much excitement by the little contest they pulled off all by themselves. Going neck and neck the whole twenty-five miles, the three started a hair-raising sprint in the final 100 yards in which John Becht managed to nose out J. Schuster by a scant one-fifth of a second and Schuster in turn trimmed the versatile Wahlrob by another one-fifth. Besides his prize for fourteenth position, a New Departure coaster brake, Becht also gets two first time prizes, a Columbia racer and a Person's racing saddle.

A complete list of the first thirty finishers, together with their prizes, handicaps and time and the name of the club they represented is given below;

Monday Begins The GIMBEL Semi-Annual Sale

Of Dress Goods Remnants

A Vast Assemblage of High-grade imported and Domestic Black and Colored Fabrics.

This is the Event that always starts the needles flying.

Although but the fifth of these half yearly events, it has won a fixed place as a Red-letter Day in the economy calendar of thousands of women in and about New York.

And this newest member of the series, which begins tomorrow, will solve multitudes of Summer dressmaking problems—Fall ones, too. For many of the Dress Goods involved, Suitings particularly, are in medium weights, appropriate for cooler weather.

But there are thousands of yards of the thin clinging fabrics that are particularly suited for hottest August days.

More than 50,000 yards compose the Sale—the clean-up of our vast season's business, with recruits in the shape of fine special purchases from importers and American makers.

The Remnants Are Divided Into Five Groups at

48c Yd. Regularly 75c to $1 — Subway Store, Lower Floor

55c Yd. Regularly $1 to $2 — Main and Second Floors

68c Yd. Regularly $1.25 to $2.50 — Main and Second Floors

85c Yd. Regularly $1.50 to $4 — Main and Second Floors

Practically every desirable Summer weave, plain and fancy, and in scores of colors and color-combinations; with plenty of black, navy blue and cream included.

Tweeds	French Serges	Wool Taffetas	Fancy Mohairs	Plaids	Poplins	Eponges
Serges	Veilings	Bordered Suitings	Charmeuse de Laine	Cloakings	Granite Cloths	Tussah Royals
Broadcloths	Hairline Stripes	Prunellas	Silk Voiles	Sicilians	Grenadines	Wool Voiles
Suitings	Novelty Suitings	Diagonals	Panamas	Mohairs	Cheviots	Henriettas
Shepherd Checks	Storm Serges	Bedford Cords	Whipcords	Homespuns	Zibelines	Silk-and-wool Poplins

All are 40 to 54 inches wide, and in lengths for waists, skirts, dresses, coats and tailored suits.

And an always notable feature of these Half-yearly Remnant Sales—

Dress Lengths of Superb Paris Fabrics

At $5 — Usually $8.50 to $10

At $7.50 — Usually $12.50 to $15

At $10 — Usually $18.50 to $35

All-wool and silk-and-wool, in black and colors, and including many of the rarest prizes of the Sale.

Also hundreds of lengths of French Challis in waist and dress lengths, at 38c yard for 65c to 85c qualities.

DEGAMBLEIZED TRACK RACING INAUGURATED

Belmont Park the Scene of Renewed Activity Yesterday Afternoon.

Degambleized horse racing was placed on trial yesterday at Belmont Park, after three years of enforced idleness on the metropolitan tracks. Almost 30,000 spectators participated in the trial, in which they occupied the position of quasi-defendants with the officials of the Westchester Racing Association, who had covenanted to insure a day of clean sport.

Gambling of the sort inhibited by law was absent. There was one arrest for alleged bookmaking, and they were described by District Attorney Charles N. Wysong, of Nassau county, as isolated cases. Layers of odds, veterans in the betting rings of many tracks, were on hand, but not to accept the wagers of Tom, Dick and Harry. In fact, they were attracted to the course more by curiosity than by the hope of plying their calling. The public made no effort to patronize them. Anyway, the racing officials saw to it that patronage was impossible.

The precautions against gambling would have been conspicuous had the crowd been less big. There were 200 Pinkerton detectives on hand, fifteen deputy sheriffs of Nassau county, and the regular police of the park. That combined force was lost to view comparatively in the throngs assembled before the first race was called. The records give Decoration Day of 1906 as the occasion when Belmont Park held 52,000 persons, its heyday attendance. Yesterday was the second largest meeting. The officials had not looked for such a rush of patrons.

CIVIC BALL NINES PREPARE TO FIGHT

"Some Game" Expected When Old Timers Clash This Afternoon.

A great many scalps were no doubt "lifted" in days gone by, and the Watchung Indians undoubtedly did their share of this gruesome work but the real thing in the scalping line takes place.

This has nothingg to do with the "Seven Sisters,'" celebrated remedy, nor any other hair producer, but has much to do with the numerous members of the Netherwood Residents' Assocaition and the West End Civic Association, whose systems seem to be surcharged with baseball fever. To reduce this aggravated case of ball distemper that has proved so infectious amongst their members, Old Doctor Umpire ordered both factions with all their retinue and adherents, with tin horns and otherwise, to repair to the grounds used for that purpose at Leland and South avenues, this afternoon at 3 o'clock sharp, when in stentorian voice he shouted out the familiar cry of, "Play ball."

R. S. ROWLAND WINS SPRING HANDICAPS

The golf course of the Plainfield Country Club was thronged with players yesterday, the events and the perfect weather conditions being a strong attraction, while a large number of members and their guests enjoyed the delightful social feature at the clubhouse, including the dinner-dance, last night, which proved to be as popular as ever. This social function took the place of the one announced for tonight and in consequence there will be no Saturday night dance.

The chief event on the course was the semi-final and final for the Spring Handicap cups, Classes A and B. R. S. Rowland won the Class A competition and C. C. Burke captured the Class B cup. The results.

Class A—semi-final, R. S. Rowland beat S. D. Lounsbury, 2 and 1; H. D. Hibbard beat Frank O. Reinhart, 1 up; final, R. S. Rowland beat H. D. Hibbard, 1 up.

Class B—C. C. Burke beat J. V. Beekman, 3 and 2; L. H. Gates beat G. M. Holstein, 6 and 4; final, C. C. Burke beat L. H. Gates, 6 and 4.

There was also a golf sweepstakes which was won by C. B. Morgan with a score of 81. 7-74. There were twenty entries in this competition. Another interesting event of the day was an elimination contest, which was won by W. L. Alling, he being the only one remaining at the finish.

PRINCETON GAME OFF.

Plainfield High School baseball team's trip to Princeton, carded for this afternoon, was called off yesterday and as a result the P. H. S. boys are idle today. Princeton was beaten by the local contingent earlier in the season and a stiff struggle was anticipated when the Queen City delegation went to the rival aggregation's grounds.

or a loss will naturally be sustained, hence these extraordinary low prices which, in many cases, wouldn't pay the expressage which originally brought them from their birthplace early in the Spring.

This entire stock, remember, has been selling earlier at regular prices. Thousands of blossoms will be the result in many gardens, and you may still have some in YOUR GARDEN this season—the same exactly as have sold for higher prices earlier in the Spring.

These Are All Splendid and Reliable—a Worthy Assemblage of Garden Folk from the Vegetable Kingdom

Those who know by experience the regular prices of such things will appreciate the following quotations. To those who do not, we offer our assurance that the values are extraordinary.

The garden expresses so much, gives such pleasure to so many that one never regrets the expenditure laid out in the Spring, even when one pays a fair price.

TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP AT PARK GOLF CLUB

Mrs. Arthur C. VanArsdale and Harry S. Eddy defeated Miss Elizabeth Nash and Royle T. Phillips in the finals for the Spring tennis tournament, mixed doubles, at the Park Golf Club yesterday, and they will meet the winners of the Fall tournament for the club championship.

In the semi-finals, Mrs. Arthur VanArsdale and Harry S. Eddy defeated Miss Irene Dunham and H. H. Woodland and Miss Elizabeth Nash and Royle T. Phillips defeated Miss Eunice Watson and Clarence Hand.

SAURERS WON.

By rolling up a score of ten against their opponent's two, the Saurer baseball team of the City Baseball League, scored a decisive victory over the First Baptist aggregation of the Sunday-school League on the Probasco field yesterday morning. A feature of the game was the hitting of Johnny Dixon, who clouted the pill for six bingles out of the same number of times at bat.
